But the truly amazing aspect of the '64 Irish success story is that Parseghian has done what the Brennan's, the Kuharich's and the Devore's couldn't do.

Just like actor Pat O'Brien said last week, "To think that all this could have been engineered by a Protestant Armenian. It's fantastic."

It looks like shillelaghes and four-leaf clovers have been replaced by shish kabob and tavley under the Golden Dome.

The game will be played indoors. "Sorry I fumbled that punt, coach, but I lost it in the overhead fluorescents." It's unlikely Corum will take any excuses for 'cold hands' fumbles.

OUCH — School Districts are hitting taxpayers right where it hurts for defeating school bond issues at the polls. Already two schools have dropped sports programs due to lack of operating funds. No pay — no play.

IRONY — All week we heard that Southern Cal would go to the Rose Bowl if they could do the impossible — beat ND. Oregon State is smelling the roses this week and maybe doing the impossible isn't always safe.

Arlington-Whitehall Fray On WMNI-FM

This Friday night (Dec. 4) high school basketball fans will be given the Upper Arlington-Whitehall game on WMNI-FM. This is the third in the station series of picking a Game of the Week for scholastic spotlighting.

The announcers are Bill Davis and Charley Kilkenny, both recent additions to the WMNI staff.

A SPRING PREVIEW OF LAKE CHOCTAW

Join your neighbors and friends in the AMAZING 180 day success story at Lake Choctaw

It's easy for us to tell you the truth about Lake Choctaw . . . over half, to be exact, 531 lots have been sold since the 4th day of June.

This has been a record-breaking year for our company—even though we were hindered to some extent by the longest drought since 1928.

It makes us proud but humble to know that we have achieved this success in a measure of days. By comparison, it has taken others years to fall short of our number of sales. We feel that these are a few of the reasons why our lake development has been so readily accepted:

■ Lake Choctaw is the 40th successful lake constructed under the supervision of American Realty Service Corporation—largest inland lake development company in the country.

■ Lake Choctaw is located between two great cities—Columbus and Springfield. This is a prosperous section known as the "Silver Strip." The growth of this area should continue unchecked. With good industry and a new freeway, (Interstate 70) linking the two cities, real property values should show a steady growth during the years ahead.

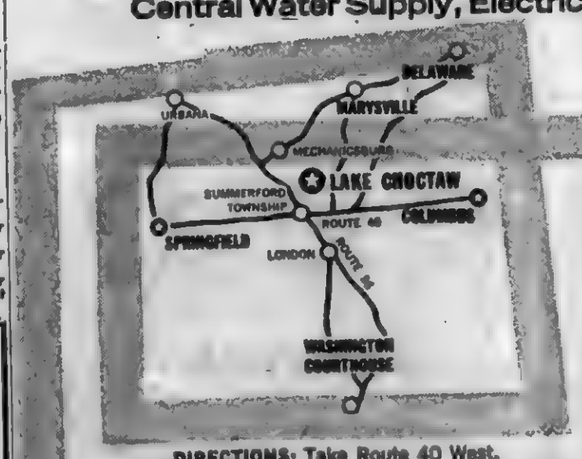
■ There are fewer than 250 feet of public beach in the entire Columbus area. Present city and state facilities will be overcrowded by the expanding population need.

■ The natural desire of most people is to own a hide-away on a beautiful lake. Lake Choctaw offers 275 acres of water with water sports such as skiing, fishing, and swimming. Cottage sites at Lake Choctaw are located on gently rolling ground, suitable for any type building plan.

■ Only Lake Choctaw offers a central water supply system for crystal clear water. You don't have to drill a well at Lake Choctaw.

■ Nearly half of the lot owners at Lake Choctaw will be year 'round residents. This adds permanent value to waterfront property investment.

■ Property owners at Lake Choctaw include people from every walk of life. No one is excluded who meets with the approval of our private property owners association.



■ Lots are easily financed on the spot with up to 4 years payment schedule. There are sensible restrictions that protect your investment from shoddy construction.

It's easy for us to make a prediction of things to come next spring:
WE WILL RUN SHORT OF LOTS DUE TO THE DEMAND FOR PREFERRED WATER FRONT PROPERTY!

Don't-Care Public Casts Shadow Over Police Recruiting

One item in Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's 1965 budget — money to hire 100 new policemen — finds council no less enthusiastic than the administration for its adoption. But recruiting problems cast a dark shadow over this sorely-needed program.

The No. 1 need now, according to the recruiters, is for the public to understand just what type of personnel is sought. The public image of the policeman suffers because of an imposing list of police duties which are not conducive to good public relations.

The public is all too aware of the policeman's role in handing out parking tickets, issuing citations for moving traffic violations, breaking up brawls and answering family trouble calls. A policeman is the one who visits your house when junior has committed some real or imagined wrong against the neighbor's property.

In all of these instances the policeman has a somewhat mechanical duty to perform. He must issue the ticket or make his report in accordance with rigid matters of law and duty. If there is an extenuating circumstance, the courts must decide its validity. If the law is unjust, this is a matter for the legislative branch of government. But the policeman's image suffers, nonetheless, because he is almost always the bearer of bad news.

A policeman also deals with murderers, robbers, muggers, sex criminals, con artists and juvenile delinquents. Nobody put a gun at his back to make him take the job, but there is a gun at his side as a constant reminder that his life can be at stake in even the most routine facet of his duty.

His job is the preservation of the public peace and safety. This includes the protection of life, limb and property — and enforcement of the laws designed to achieve these goals. It takes a special type of "average" man to do the job.

A potential policeman need not show a college degree, be in the upper 10 percent of his high school graduating class or come from an "advantaged" social-economic background. He must, of course, be in excellent physical condition, and show the capacity to be trained for his duties. But the most important element in selecting a potential member of the Police Department is CHARACTER.

If more of the general public could fully realize the severity of the "character" checks directed to police applicants, a new and deserved respect for officers would surely result. Of course, the system is not infallible. And it is a tragic injustice that 99 good police officers must suffer every time one "bad cop" is brought to public exposure.

Recruiting requirements for the Columbus Police Department now are high and inflexible. Some argue that they are more rigid than realistic. (And isn't this a fortunate point of argument — for the welfare of the public — than to worry about loose, inadequate safeguards?) Those who favor maintaining high standards for police applicants say we should step up our efforts in overcoming the most serious deterrent to recruiting — public apathy.

Too many wives and mothers who plead for and demand safe streets will yet discourage their husbands and sons from accepting the challenge of noble public service that is the real purpose of law enforcement. Policemen aren't "items" ordered from a mail order catalogue. They are fellow citizens, neighbors, husbands, fathers and brothers.

In the final analysis, the quality and quantity of police protection given us is decided by the public. An apathetic public must, eventually, produce an apathetic police force — despite efforts of dedicated law enforcement leadership to prevent such a tragedy.

If the Columbus city administration has not answered the challenge of providing adequate police protection, it has at least given ITS answer. And councilmen have indicated endorsement of the plan.

The public now has direct responsibility for the next move — to provide for its own protection within the proposed plan, or to demand an alternate proposal.

Seals Do Important Job

Much has been accomplished over the past two decades in the fight against tuberculosis. But TB has not been eradicated — and the task of control and treatment is both large and expensive.

The Franklin County Tuberculosis Society reminds us that the average hospital stay of a TB patient is 117 days, and the cost for patient care and aid to the family is $15,000 on the average.

The decline in number of patients is attributable to great strides in development of new drugs and treatment methods, and to earlier detection. The free chest x-ray program sponsored by the local TB Society plays no small part in the advances towards a final knockout over this killer disease.

And the thousands of chest x-rays (85,973 in 1963) have also warned many persons of other chest ailments they had not suspected. All of these facts are worth remembering during the Christmas Seal campaign conducted under TB Society sponsorship.

Christmas Seal money serves the double purpose of helping those who are afflicted and protecting the remainder of the population.

Frosting On The Cake

by "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Metropolitan transportation is a constant headache for every city in this country and Columbus is no exception. But, so long as moving people is a "political football" instead of being handled as a scientific engineering process, there appears to be nothing accomplished except confusion more confounded.

The best sets of brains in every city are now at the desperation point and still these able and dedicated men are constantly stymied by selfish minority groups that are not interested in any objective solution. New York was the first city, of course, because moving the increasing millions finally reached the point that complete stagnation forced the elevated railways.

Then these had to come down to make room for the rehabilitation of one slum area after another. Next came the subway evolution and today that entire system is creaking at the seams and helicopters are moving hundreds of people twice daily from outlying parking lots to the roofs of downtown skyscrapers.

Chicago stagnated for 20 years and no politician did anything about it that made sense. Then when moving people reached total frustration, Chicago started to develop its outer drive system and that was followed by the short-line subway at the middle and for the full length of the Loop district. Next came the underground system for trucks and that did manage to get thousands of business vehicles off the surface streets.

All of which shows that no metropolitan city can live and grow on one surface of travel. Columbus can't do it either for much longer.

Columbus needs a complete monorail system that starts at the farthest north point in Worthington and goes clear south to the Great Southern Shopping Center. Ditto from West Jefferson to farthest east, taking in Reynoldsburg. Then have cross-town bus lines only, either as separate companies, or one company that accepts universal transfers.

People are fed up with trying to drive downtown. The Convention Bureau is already bringing enough business to Columbus to utilize every available commercial parking spot and conventions simply won't keep coming to cities that can't take care of such demands.

With a properly constructed and wisely operated monorail system at a decent fare rate, and larger parking lots at all four points of the system N-S-E-W-Columbus can stay alive.

From time to time, in the future as in the past, we hope to mention interesting places in Ohio as compared with others elsewhere. There's nothing wrong about going on jaunts outside of Ohio. But most Ohioans have much yet to see much nearer home. One place to find excellent pictures and descriptions is the annual Year Book of the Ohioana Library Association. Here are a few from the 1964 edition.

Yellow Springs, in Greene County, is named after a boldly flowing mineral water. Its story dates from the Moundbuilders. White people have been there since 1804. Antioch College uses the waters.

The conservatory in Franklin Park, Columbus, houses many tropical plants. Mystery shrouds its past. It was originally built for the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, but no one knows how it got to Columbus. If there ever was a record, it probably was destroyed in the City Hall fire in the 1920s.

The Kingswood Center, Mansfield, formerly was a private estate. It now has a permanent display and programs fostering the arts, nature study, and related subjects.

State parks in Hocking County include Old Man's Cave, Cedar Falls, Rock House, and others, all preserved in natural beauty.

There are literally hundreds of interesting natural and man-made things in Ohio. You can stand on the historic shores of Lake Erie and see the ore boats go by. Or, anywhere below Pittsburgh along the winding and beautiful Ohio River, you can hear the hoarse voices of the mighty diesels as they push their great tows of laden barges up and down the busiest inland waterway on this continent.

It says here . . .

Ohio is a great and beautiful land. Let's open our eyes and see it.

Answers Bluebird Critic

To the Editor:

A letter printed in last week's Spectator, headed "Whose Responsibility?," has prompted me to write a reply.

The writers of that letter openly question the ability of a Bluebird leader who requested a signed permit for any field trips which her group might take during the year. This particular set of parents refused to sign the slip, and certainly they have a right to refuse to sign. But they do not have a right to publicly charge the group leader with lack of responsibility or to question her leadership qualities.

I am the assistant to the leader and I have a daughter in the group. For several weeks I have been a first-hand witness to activities and have been most impressed by the well-planned meetings and the ability and enthusiasm of the leader. There are ten happy girls and ten pairs of satisfied parents, plus a waiting list of girls who would like to become members.

The statement which required parental signature is the same type which school officials send home to be signed before class field trips, and which Girl Scout, Boy Scout, and Camp Fire leaders have routinely issued before taking boys and girls on field trips or campouts. It stated that every precaution would be taken to insure the safety of each child, but that in the event of accident or injury the leaders and/or drivers were not to be held responsible or any claims lodged against them.

I am amazed that any parent could find this difficult or impossible to sign, and I am more amazed that any parent could find it in his heart to hurl a charge of irresponsibility at a leader who required such a signed permit. The irresponsible leader would be the one who failed to take such a precaution.

It is unfortunate that a child was the innocent victim in this case, but the group as a whole is benefited if it can be spared a future encounter with this rare (thank goodness) type of disgruntled parent.

The Other Side of the Story

Liked Dr. Auer's Words

To the Editor:

I surely enjoyed your write-up, "Our Way Of Life In Real Danger . . ." (by Dr. Philip Auer, Editorial Page, Nov. 19). . . Many homes of today do not have prayer and the children of today do not respect their teachers as they should. . . Our religion should come first in our lives.

Elizabeth C. McGuire

To the Editor:

Thank you for printing the speech, "American Arise" by the Kiwanian in the Nov. 19 edition. It should be read by everyone because it certainly contains food for thought.

Takes Issue With Caption

To the Editor:

Yesterday was Thanksgiving and in your newspaper appeared a picture with the caption "A Lot To Be Thankful For" and showed a man's hands carving a turkey. On the slices of meat appeared the words "Peace-Plenty."

Today, Nov. 27, I was watching the television news and they were reporting on the war in Viet Nam, the killings of Americans and Belgians in the Congo, and the trouble about the tin mines in Bolivia. If this is peace let me live in a world of turmoil.

Ann Craigo
309 Broadmeadows-blvd

Edit. Note: Frankly, Ann, the caption bothered us a little too, but we meant it to represent peace in the United States proper, where Thanksgiving is an exclusive celebration.

One Man's OPINION

Several weeks ago we sat in on a school board meeting where an executive head was attempting to defend his policy of discipline.

It was not generally accepted that a teacher or in this particular case, a principal, has any right to corporally punish a child who needs discipline at school.

One woman announced her belief that the students should be treated as adults. Psychiatrists have been playing this record for years now, much to the delight of our juvenile delinquents.

Wittenmeier

Of course, this "adult" tag for the wayward juvenile has a double standard. The first time this juvenile "adult" gets into some kind of trouble, the shocked reaction to appropriate restitution is, "Why, you can't do that — he's only a child."

And if his peers aren't confused enough themselves by this double talk, what of the child himself? One minute he's an "adult," the next he's my little boy or girl.

The school head told his critics that our Western civilization is now facing the first generation of students who have experienced freedom from parental authority.

How well children have been able to cope with "adult" responsibilities is public record in our juvenile courts.

Isn't it time to stop telling our well-trained educators how to run their schools and begin telling our kids how to run their lives? Or is that too old-fashioned?

Discipline used to come on the business end of a stick. But, God forbid, there's always the chance that this can induce cancer! Never mind, cancer of the mind. Worrying about that, like praying in school, is just old-fashioned.

So let's keep dressing them like adults, insisting they act like adults and treating them like adults. But save a little to pay for their confinement when they get the whole thing a little mixed up.

One teacher we know quit the profession because society was making him a strait-jacketed baby sitter. When the teachers can't even stomach it anymore, it's not only time to throw in the towel — it's time to jump in after it. — JACK WITTENMEIER

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica—In the musty little national museum of Nicaragua, amid the pickled snakes and dusty butterflies, there is a piece of rock with the imprint of a running human foot. It is possible that the man was running from the eruption of a volcano, for before the next rains came the ashes fell and preserved the print. That was 2,000, maybe 3,000 years ago.

Jones

The Central American is still running. For one thing, he keeps running from volcanoes. Fiery Irazu this year has laid waste the best of Costa Rica's coffee lands. Sweeping up is the biggest business in San Jose.

The Central American is also running after dreams. The United States government, in boosting the Alliance for Progress, has led him to believe that great things will happen soon. He dreams of new industries and better jobs and more food, of luxuries and comforts which a few years ago were as foreign to the aspirations of the campesino as a Ph.D. degree.

There are, however, two sobering realities.

One is a runaway birthrate which so far has been eating up most of the improvement in the gross national product. The Costa Rican population increase, for example, is perhaps the world's fastest, a staggering 4.5 per cent a year. And a young Managuan newspaperman shook his head sadly and said, "Here it is impolite to speak of birth control."

The second trouble is dishonesty. There is no politer word for it. The political traditions and the power ethics of Central America are terrible. Most of the taxes are imposts on commodities and imports, designed to fall heavily on the poor. In some of the countries there is no land tax at all, and a handful of families own most of the arable acreage. Friends of the ruling regimes are often excused their income taxes. But members of the opposition have to pay.

Most devastating is the flight of wealth to safe haven in New York and Swiss banks. Although in the past 16 years American taxpayers have loaned or given half a billion dollars to Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, in some of these countries the export of profits by the rich has exceeded American aid.

A few years ago I spent an evening with the charming and cultured head of one of El Salvador's "11 families." He was telling me how desperately his country needed additional U. S. money for a fertilizer works. This gentleman had millions in foreign banks and the previous year had paid his country just $8,000 in income taxes. I wondered how much more tax he expected Americans to pay in order to build that factory?

This is the minus side of Central America. There are pluses.

Central Americans appear to be really serious about setting up a customs union among all the republics. No one wants to build a shoe factory or a tractor plant to serve just one of these political units. But if goods could be exchanged duty-free to 11.5 million people the industrial market would be enticing.

So a Central American Bank for Integration has been set up. Common tax laws, a common currency, free interchange of labor are being planned. One-by-one the old barriers are falling. Some idealists are even talking about eliminating the huge national armies which have so burdened these little countries. But since these armies are designed, not to repel foreign invaders, but to help el President stay in el palacio, that happy day will have to wait for greater internal stability.

You might call this gorgeous and charming connecting link between the Americas a "jelly land." Geologically it is unstable. Its green cordilleras represents the fastest-growing mountain range on earth. Two capitals—old Antigua in Guatemala and modern Managua—have been flattened by quakes.

In human history it is quake-prone, too. From the frank pirates of the Spanish Main, through the filibusters of William Walker, up to the more subtle freebooters of modern political power, Central America has echoed to the reports of firing squads and the wails of the opposition from the bulging calabozos.

But good things are stirring. Even the Somoza dictatorship in Nicaragua has mellowed to the point where press freedom is for the moment at least, a reality. And there is more genuine anger than there used to be at leaders who keep the treasuries packed in suitcases and checked at the airport.

Ex-President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica recently made a wry statement to John Scott of Time, Inc.:

The only solution to our problem is economic development. This requires drastic emergency measures. But our people seem to understand realities only in wartime. Thus war is our only hope. Since we are opposed to war, there is no hope."

Of course, there is hope. The grizzled American industrialist, sitting next to me on the plane out of Tegucigalpa said this:

"When I first started coming here 30 years ago there was chronic outrage and utter complacence about it. Now even the crooks are beginning to gripe about the crookedness. That's progress. We're going to put in a plant."

'THE GRIST'

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

CLOVER -
These quotes from Builder LBJ:
"I plan 'The Great Society'
From poverty and ignorance free.
Appalling ignorance I note:
Why, 26 million in USA
Have proved they don't know how to vote!"

CABBAGE—My "Hi, Cabbage! How are you?" brought his unvarying "Oh, I'm well—and happy in my ignorance and poverty."

"Cabbage" was the town's exemplar of private enterprise in the teen years. He painted and paper-hung and handy-manned where he listeth, and "owed not any man." His home, his equipment, rolling stock and Sunday suit, in which he looked more than passing good, were all paid for. He earned that priceless possession that can not be inherited or doled out by a paternalistic government — respect. He would have scorned a Washington handout as he would have a basket from the Lordhelpem society at Christmas time.

In five better-than-average years Cabbage's earnings, might possibly, have reached The Great Society's low-watermark of degradation — $3,000. He did his free moral-agenting in the era of the $10-a-week store clerk, the $900-a-year school superintendent, and the $100-a-month bank president.

He was jovially "happy in his ignorance and poverty" at a time when war was not being waged on such conditions by a super-state.

CRABGRASS—"I fired General MacArthur because he thought he knew more about fighting a war than I did."—H.S.T. It's this kind of "appalling ignorance" The Great Society plans to put a stop to.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it normal for a cat to devour canned peas as if they were going out of style, and to like warm milk fed from an eyedropper? His other passion is corn on the cob, fresh or fresh-frozen. I'm speaking about my two-year-old alley cat, Alex. —M.G.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My shorthaired black cat has a very pronounced craving for hot bread — biscuits, rolls, toast, etc. Whenever she smells it she comes running, her tail high, asking for some.

Since the doctor advised against it I give her only bitty bites and she has had no bad effects. I am wondering why she climbs all over me purring up a storm for a bite of something like a buttered biscuit. —E.A.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Last August a ragged, dirty kitten was thrown from a car near our home. Oliver Twist has grown into a beautiful cat, apparently normal except for his appetite. He eats candy bars, eclairs, cheese, pies and cakes and even potatoes.

Yesterday he did away with two glazed doughnuts inadvertently left in a box in a cupboard — he pried both open. He has two large, well-balanced meals daily plus occasional in-between snacks of raw meat, cat biscuit and milk. Our other three cats are content with a normal diet. Why not Oliver? —H.E.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a cat that is wild about potato chips. Whenever I give him raw meat or liver he will ignore it and beg for potato chips. He will also eat fresh fruit, in season.

He ignores cat food. And likes his potato chips whole. I tried to crumble them so he would not choke but it's got to be a whole chip or nothing. Why does a cat like such crazy food? —M.C.

COMMENT: One of the things that allurophiles (cat loves) find so appealing about the species is that cats refuse to fit into a mold. They are, in most cases, extremely individualistic.

Dietary idiosyncracies are an example of this. A passing passion for peas or other peculiar pistefuls is of little importance — unless it becomes permanent. To cater to a cat's taste for tidbits becomes dangerous if essential foods are ignored.

The fussy feline often suffers from nutritional deficiencies. Symptoms (if any) could include irritability or a poor coat. The most noticeable long-term effects are premature aging and a considerably shortened life span. . .Cats often crave variety, but little snacks should be nutritious or else mixed in with food that is. Cats, like other species, may quickly form undesirable dietary preferences.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a poll-parrot (almost 35 years old now) which we have had about four years. We are all very close and like the bird a lot. Pollyanna stays in our room. A friend said that parrots could cause heart disease. Is this true? —J.N.

DEAR J.N.: No, parrots don't cause heart disease, though some acquire a vocabulary that might aggravate an already existing heart condition. Parrots themselves often become victims of circulatory diseases, especially conditions related to hardening of the arteries.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My pet gartersnake, Vanish, has disappeared again. I can't find him anywhere. Dad says he's holed up somewhere in the basement hibernating. If he is would he be all right there until spring —E.H.

DEAR E.H.: If Vanish has found a cool (40 degrees), chemical-free corner and is protected from drafts, he may sleep very peacefully until spring. Naturally he should have been reasonably well fed before undertaking such slumber. Weak animals seldom survive hibernation.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The wife wants to get a neurotic pedigreed dog and I want to get just a happy mutt. It isn't a matter of expense, I just think the mutt would be a beter dog. Don't you agree? —L.F.

DEAR L.F.: Yes, I agree a happy mutt would be preferable to a neurotic purebred. However, a happy purebred dog would be a far better bet than a neurotic mongrel. (Unstable canines may be found on either side of the fence.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: My son — turned trapper — has captured a rat. We will let him keep it if it is a wood rat but will "do it in" if it's a dirty old house rat. Simeon (the rat) is keeping mum. How can we tell? —L.L.

DEAR L.L.: Many wood rats have a bushy tail. None of them have as bald a tail as the Norway (brown) rat. If Simeon has whitish feet and underparts, then he could be considered potential pet material. The dirty old "brown" rat is actually grayish underneath with matching (gray) feet.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

FARM FORECAST

On a recent camping trek with a young group of potential farmers, it was apparent that many of them were deeply concerned with the dry ponds, dry creeks and shallow rivers. I shared their concern, and we embarked on a special tour of officials and statisticians connected with soil and water reclamation offices, to gain first-hand knowledge.

Though most experts assured us we would regain the normal water-table in Ohio by early winter precipitation, each made remarks relative to the out-of-balance problems confronting the Ohio farmer and pointed out that the past two seasons in particular have created new assessments to be incorporated in planning for the coming years.

This major problem will soon be discussed by 60 nations in an extensive 10-year water research program. Citizens of Ohio and America are very receptive to new water programs. Hydrologists are grateful that this is one problem Mr. Citizen USA is not accepting as just "one for the experts."

People in Ohio should be congratulated for exercising good judgment concerning the late fall drouth and its fire hazards.

Another interesting observation our youngsters disclosed through their farm research was that personal income on the farm equals only about 70 percent of that in the city, but farm families manage to save more per family. This is according to an authoritative economist in Washington, and based on figures from a 1961 consumer survey.

Several weeks from now I would like to review an interesting report and marketing survey by one of our outstanding FFA groups. People who worry about the future of the Ohio farmer should spend some time during slack seasons visiting our young Ohio farmers. It restores one's faith in farming and Ohio youth . . . They're great, our kids! !

Ask 3 dryer owners which kind lasts longer.

2 will say electric.

Electric sets pace as 1,011 women tell why and how they pick and choose dryers

Over 1,000 homemakers in The Electric Company service area recently took part in an independent study of why and what they preferred about certain appliances.

Naturally, automatic clothes dryers were included and compared.

This big cross-section of "experts" left no question about the overwhelming preference in this area for flameless electric dryers.

Area homemakers offer you buying hints for dryers

In fact, if you've never owned an automatic clothes dryer, here's a buying hint for you: 9 out of 10 local women who begin enjoying all the time-and-work-saving convenience of automatic clothes drying start with a flameless electric dryer.

One of the reasons more women prefer electric dryers is their longer life — a built-in feature of electric! Because an electric clothes dryer has fewer moving parts to wear out, it lasts longer, gives you more use over the years — and stretches your investment farther!

And with electric, your investment is lowest from the start!

Flameless electric dryers preferred 9 to 1 for low initial cost!

It's a fact: electric clothes dryers cost less to buy. And most women like that, too!

Nine times out of 10, women surveyed mentioned this money-saving advantage of flameless electric dryers. (There was very little doubt — even among owners of all types of dryers — that electric dryers, feature for feature, cost less to buy).

Prove it to yourself. Visit your favorite appliance dealer and compare dryers. You'll find electric dryers do cost less to buy.

Significantly so.

Women prefer more features of flameless electric dryers

While you're looking, there are some things you won't see — and these unseen features are more of what makes electric dryers most preferred by homemakers in the Columbus and Southern Ohio area.

You see, far more than the low price of an electric dryer appeals to women.

Once you get it home, you continue to save with electric.

Here's why:

There's only one connection to make. Electricity runs the dryer and dries the clothes. Pure radiant electric heat gently dries everything from your daintiest lingerie to Dad's work clothes; and because flameless electric heat is so clean, it protects clothes as it dries them fluffier, brighter and fresher.

You save time and steps because you can put your electric dryer wherever it's most convenient for you — upstairs, downstairs, in the kitchen, even in the garage. Put it any place you can run a wire!

It's easy to see why, in homes that have automatic dryers, you find 7 out of 10 dryers are flameless electric!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday, you will want a new automatic dryer for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

Before you buy, shop around. Compare closely. Check the prices. Then remember that the important advantages of flameless electric dryers don't show up until you get one home.

Those are the benefits that count.

You'll prefer a flameless electric dryer, too.

Even more when you get it home.

Crusaders Look 'Forward' As New Cap Cage Season Opens

In this day and age when even with a program it is hard to tell the forwards from the guards and the guards from the centers, Capital University's Whitey Regan has decided to form the nucleus of the 1964-65 version of Crusader court squad around a "four-forward" attack.

Against Miami tonight and Akron, Dec. 5—the first week of roundball room action — Whitey has made numerous shifts to align the offensive formation.

HE IS taking an all-conference cornerman, Jim DeBerry, and moving him to the post. Slidin in to take Jimbo's place, and becoming a running mate with Co-Captain John Besch, will be Dave Veenendaal, a 6-2 rebounder, shooter and passer deluxe. Co-Captain Veenendaal is a senior and a transfer from Western Michigan.

In the backcourt will be Les Drewes, a 6-1 senior who was a reserve forward last season. Teaming with Drewes and the guy Whitey is hoping will supply the ignition, spark and engineering of the forward phase, is a true guard, Joe Besecker, 5-8 product from Laura, O.

As Whitey points out: "It will be Joe's first starting role and we are also hoping

JOHNSON COULD HELP

Salt, Frasch Key Lion Cage Hopes In CBL

Bexley cage coach Gene Millard, entering his seventh coaching season and third at the Lion helm, has built his '64-'65 roundball squad around four juniors and three seniors this winter after losing four regulars via graduation last June.

Gone from Millard's 8-10 and 5-9 CBL squad last year are leading scorer Jeff Schmidt (Miami University), John Poston (Marietta), Jim Rodenfels, Jay Maupin (Ohio "U"), Mark Lackritz, Rick Harbold and Mike Myers. The first four were starters a year ago.

Junior forward Walt McCloy (6') and 6'6 junior center Dave Johnson are the Lion reserve hopefuls this winter. The latter's height and progress could be a key factor in an improved Lion season.

"We aren't as tall as we were a year ago but if Johnson can work into the lineup we'll be taller; however, Dave needs more aggressiveness in his play in order to start," states the '57 OSU grad.

OFFENSIVELY, Salt (150 points last year) is the main scoring threat. The Lions will use a high post man against a man-to-man defense but expect to see more zone defense this year.

Millard concluded, "We have a better rebounding club than last year and if we can just win some of those close ones we lost last year (lost five by 21 points) then we'll have a good season."

HIGH STEPPER—Using M-F's Steve Jackson (22) as an impromptu stepladder, Eastmoor's Jerry Groves drives for a third period field goal attempt Friday night on the Devil court. Attempt went awry but Groves added pair of foul shots, helping Warriors to 57-46 CL verdict over M-F

W-R, LIONS EYE WINS AS . . .

Hawks, E-M, Rams Aim For Win Skeins

Bill Courtney's Eastmoor five served stiff notice on the rest of the City League last week as the Warriors scalped title-contending Marion-Franklin, 57-46, behind the twin-figure scoring of Gary Cochran (11) and big Steve Howell who pushed in 20 and hauled down 22 caroms.

Play-maker Jerry Groves led the offensive where E-M won the game at the chalk line by hitting 21 of 31 charities and outrebounded tall M-F 48-37.

E-M HOSTS North (1-1) Friday night as big Bob Kanuth (6'4) and company come to town. Saturday the Warriors host tall and scrappy Arlington in a non-leaguer.

Phil Allen's Whitehall quintet rolled over Reynoldsburg, 59-50, behind an aggressive zone press and the scoring of Mark Blackstone (19), center Jim Dildine (18), Gary Beckley and John McQuaid (10 each).

The Rams (1-0) travel to Arlington Friday night in a big CBL fray where the Golden Bears are led by speedy Gus Crim and Jim Schuman.

GEARY BRADLEY'S Hartley Hawks reeled off two wins last week as Watkins Memorial bowed, 74-62, and Springfield Catholic fell by a 54-47 margin.

Tom Schlager's 11 fielders headed the W-M win while mates Dave Thomas (16), guard Steve McGrew (13) and Frank Tafoya (10) also helped out.

Steve McGrew led the Springfield triumph as he fired in 11 buckets and received twin-figure aid from John Barker (13) and Schlager (11).

THE TITLE-THREAT Hawks open CCL play tomorrow night at DeSales (2-0) where the tough Stallions are paced by consistent Tom Such and guard Kevin O'Brien. Hartley entertains Lexington on Saturday evening in a rugged non-league affair.

Phil Hess' Academy club bounced Dublin, 51-45, as Joe Lanman (16), Terry Larrimer (13) and Pete Bigelow (12) paved the way.

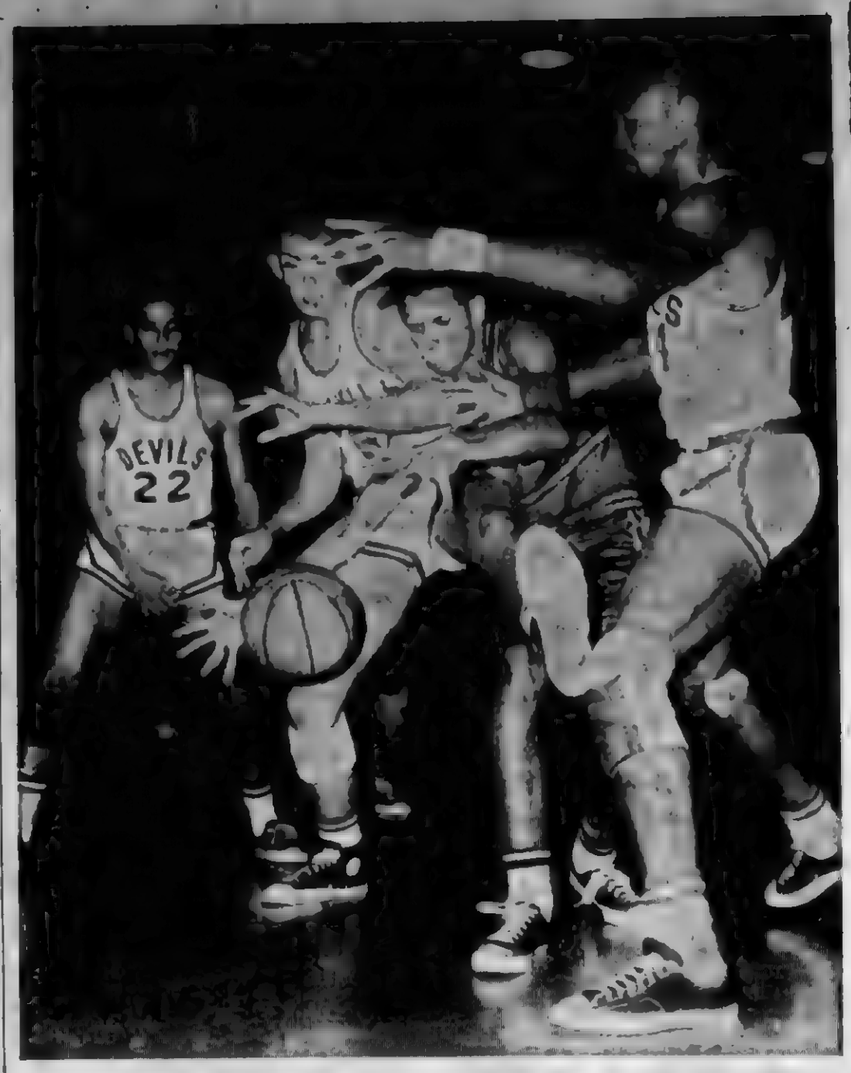
The Vikings open Franklin County League play Friday night at home when impotent Rosary (0-2) and jumpin' Jim Groce comes to the Nelson-rd school.

JACKIE MOORE'S young Walnut Ridge five lost a heart-breaking 56-52 nod to DeSales last week after the hard-working Scots closed the gap at 40-all after three sessions.

Center Pat Beveridge (18), forward Rick Houchen (11) and playmaker Dave Feyh (eight) were strong performers for W-R both ways in the loss.

The Scots were swamped by title-contending South 81-45 as the Rebs jumped off to a 17-6 margin at the contest with a lightning-like fast-break series.

THE 6'5 Beveridge was strong off the boards and added 12 digits while teammate Deryck Barber added 11 to the W-R point total against the Rebs.



Jackie Moore's Highlanders host tall and talented West (2-0) Friday night as junior Jerry Francis (6'2) and rugged Steve Barnard (6'6) move in with the improving Cowboy contingent.

The Scots have the home court advantage and could open some eyes if a conceivable upset could be pulled off against the favored Cowboys.

BOB HART'S East quintet suffered its first City League setback in 21 games last week as the Tigers absorbed a 71-51 loss to talented Linden.

Double digit scoring by veteran Gil Mathews (15) and Chuck Wright (12) couldn't stop the Panthers from winning.

The Hartmen host short but fast Central (1-1) Friday night when Bob Chandler (34 points) and George Trammel (40 points) move in with Leroy Fanning (24) and junior Ernie Walker (27). The Tigers travel to Salem on Saturday night for a game with the always-tough Northerners.

'65 CAP GRID CAPTAINS

THREE CRUSADERS were named to captain Capital University's 1956 football squad next season with all three being local boys. Ron Paxson (left), a junior quarterback from Whitehall, and Jim Makar, a junior fullback from Eastmoor (right), were named as tri-captains, along with Bob Beelman of North after the Crusaders finished their best-ever grid season with a 7-1 mark.

TO APPEAR

HENRY MANCINI and his orchestra make a personal appearance at Mershon Auditorium for two performances at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in a special event program on Friday, Dec. 4.

OPERA SCHEDULED

The New York City Center Opera, which appears at Mershon Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Thursday Dec. 3, is presenting a new version of Strauss' work, "Die Fledermaus." Tickets in a variety of price ranges will be available at the door.

DeBerry will be able to adjust to his new post.

"Denison has a big, agile team. Two guys over 6-6 and both can move. Not only that, but to prepare for our first two games we have had to concentrate on two types of defensive attacks." Denison, he expects, will use a zone defense, while Miami, of the Mid - American conference, plays "a tough-man-to-man."

CAP ALSO has a number of guards available who could move into starting places. Among them are Bob Novinger, a tough, respected five-foot tenner freshman; Gary Walters, a quick-reacting, fine shooting junior; Bob Miller, up from the Jayvee squad, and only a sophomore; and Chuck Gearhiser, a 5-11 soph from Radnor.

"Because of our lack of height (the tallest regular is DeBerry at 6-3) we found it necessary to go with four forwards. Although Beach, Veenendaal and Drewes can play either guard or the forecourt. In addition, comments Whitey, "DeBerry knows the corner, too, and Veenendaal could relieve at the post."

Cap holds a 35-18 edge over Denison's Big Red. In addition, the boys from Granville have won but one of 10 assignments on the Alumni Gym floor. Last year, the Redmen nicked the Purple and White 54-42 on their own court.

AKRON, on the other hand, holds a 7-1 series advantage over the Crusaders, and in Alumni Gym, the Zippers have yet to lose in three tries.

Toe-Curling Is Only One Test When Buying A Rug

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Part of the pride of Columbus as a nice city in which to live lies with its many stores and establishments which, over a span of many years, have gained the respect and confidence of succeeding generations.

One store of this nature is the Rains Carpet and Rug shop at 2504 W. Broad-st.

William (Bill) Rains, who formerly operated his store at the corner of Algonquin and Broad-st, and resides at 3097 Eakin-rd, has carpeted literally thousands of homes in greater Columbus during the last 41 years.

And he is known and respected by these many thousands of people for his expert knowledge of rugs.

When it comes to rugs, there are two ways to measure the value received.

One, is the toe-curling test. You remove shoes and socks, and walk barefooted on the carpet.

If your toes slowly begin to stretch, and there is a luxurious tingle reminiscent of childhood as they curl into the soft nap, it is apparent that here is a nice rug to run barefoot on about the home.

The second method is to make the toe-curling test, if you will, and then explore other qualities of the rug.

If there are children, will it deaden the noise of their busy feet? Will it outwear the price tag? Will it fade? Or show its age too quickly with wear? Does it come in a wide range of unusually appealing colors? Will it clean almost as easily as tile or linoleum?

One such rug which combines all these qualities, and which Bill Rains is now featuring, is Herculon Carpet's new Barwick line.

This award-winning carpet was selected by Parents Magazine for young homemakers with families.

Made from new Herculon olefin fiber, it is exceptionally cleanable, offers high quality at a moderate price, and is available in a wide range of decorator colors. Because of its acoustical insulating qualities it is being featured as a built-in luxury in many of today's unfurnished apartments.

Many other rugs and carpets have many combinations of quality and appeal, but sometimes it is difficult to know exactly what you are buying — or want to buy — unless an expert is available to explain the meaning of all the technical terms which have filtered into carpet ads.

The nice thing about a neighborhood store that has been in business nearly half a century is that you can generally find an expert behind the counter.

Expert advice is important when making a long-term investment in an item like carpeting.

Bill Rains, at 2504 W. Broad-st, has built his business on the expert advice which over the years, has made friends of his many thousands of customers.

BEXLEY LAUNCHES FESTIVE SEASON WITH TREE LIGHTING, VISITS FROM SANTA

VISIONS OF SUGARPLUMS, Christmas toys and holiday joys were in the eyes of Bexley's tiny tots as they waited their turn Sunday to welcome Santa to their city. Enthroned on a platform beside the newly-lighted and decorated tree, he greeted each one and handed out candy canes.

HERE HE COMES! Bexleyites by the hundreds turned out Sunday afternoon for Santa's arrival, via fire engine, and the traditional Christmas tree lighting in the circle, E. Broad-st at Drexel. Mayor William Schneider officiated at the tree lighting, and the Bexley Celebrations Association provided candy treats. A Christmas message by Rev. Charles Lange, and the singing of carols completed the program. (More pictures on page—.)

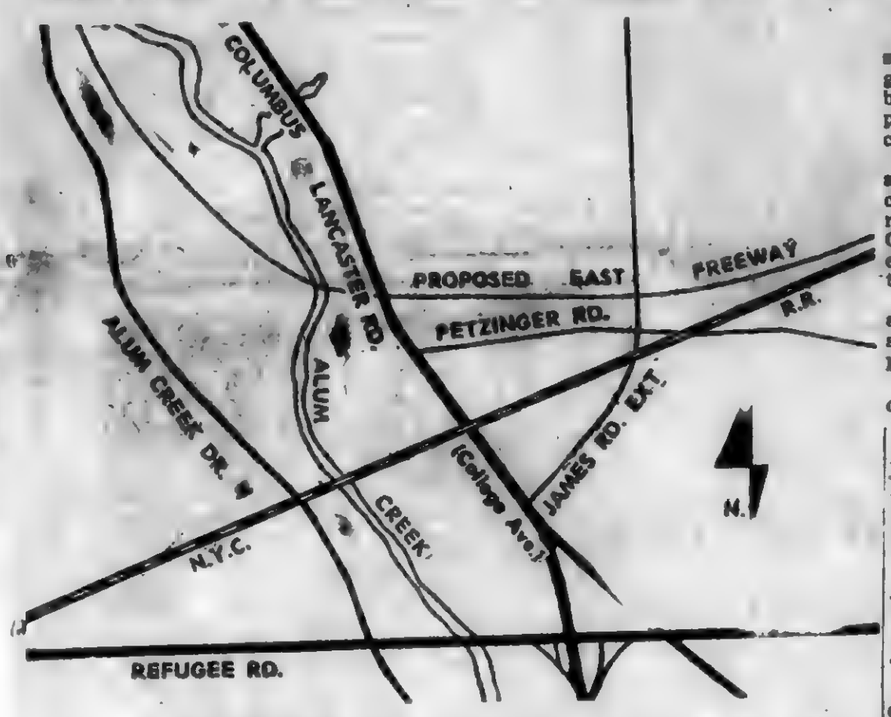
MOLING IS FIRST TO FILE

Former Whitehall mayor Walter B. Moling announced Wednesday that he would file petitions with the Franklin County Board of Elections as a candidate for mayor in the 1965 Republican primary.

The four-term mayor thus becomes the first Whitehall candidate in either party to make official his bid for office. It is expected that he will challenge Mayor Bill Holzhause, who was a 49-vote winner when he ran for the office as an Independent in 1963.

While it is expected that Holzhause will switch to the Republican ticket next year, the incumbent has hinted that he may retain the Independent tag after all. Several other potential Republican candidates have shown interest in the mayor's race.



'Coffee Break' Is Scheduled For Shoppers

Hot coffee and doughnuts, a welcome and warming relief for cold, weary Christmas shoppers, will be served by Whitehall Lions Club during peak shopping hours at Town and Country.

The Lions will "set up shop" in a mobile unit, parked at the curb in a centrally located spot, on Dec. 18, 19, 21, 22 and 23.

Proceeds from the project will be used for charity projects.

'Berwick' Park Land Is Purchased

A NEW CITY PARK will be developed in the 194-acre location in the city's southeast, bounded by Refugee-rd on the south, Columbus Lancaster-rd on the east, the proposed east freeway on the north, and Alum Creek on the west.

The 194-acre tract in the southeast area, at first tagged for a city landfill, will become instead a recreation park for the fast-growing community.

Columbus Council Monday approved the $243,000 purchase of the land, located north of Refugee-rd, west of Columbus Lancaster-rd, east of Alum Creek, and south of the proposed East Freeway.

Emerson Betz, superintendent of the City Park Commission, outlined development plans for the area:

A 28-acre lake will be excavated in the lowlands at the extreme north end of the tract, and the rest of the northern area will be park area.

The southern portion will be developed for active recreation, with the installation of ball diamonds, football fields and tennis courts.

The railroad bisecting the park will be crossed with an overpass and, along the creek, an underpass will be constructed under the bridge.

Development of the land won't be started immediately. "It will be two years before we can take possession of the high ground in the northern portion (of the tract)" Betz explained, "because it now contains evergreens and nursery stock of Berwick Nurseries.

"And we will apply for federal funds to pay for 30 percent of cost, and this takes time," he continued.

A plan to purchase the tract, eyed by the Park Commission for years as being desirable, close in, and badly needed, was abandoned earlier in the year because the price was too high.

After a proposal to buy the land for a landfill was scrapped

REV. FRED V. BROWN poses with a sign announcing a new Evangelical United Brethren Church, with Sunday services being conducted at Courtright Elementary School, 1712 Courtright-rd. The congregation is planning to purchase land farther south on Courtright-rd, for a church edifice.

EUB Church Serving Southeast Community

The Evangelical United Brethren Church, under the direction of conference superintendents Clayton F. Lutz and Harold Dutt, has begun a new church in Courtright-rd area.

The congregation is made up of various interested families including EUB's who have moved into the community.

Rev. Fred V. Brown, pastor of the local congregation, says, "We have realized a need for an EUB church in this rapid growth center for several years."

Brown went on to say, as pastor of the Wagner Memorial Church, I was aware that many of my people were driving from the far southeast

ALL WHITEHALL CITIZENS INVITED

Recreation Center Plans To Be Aired

The dream of a badly needed recreation center in Whitehall will move a step towards reality next Saturday, Dec. 12, as the recreation commission, city officials and councilmen meet with interested citizens to enlist their support of the project.

Everyone in the city, interested in a community facility, is urged to attend the 2 p.m. session at the recreation department, in the basement of the Municipal Building.

There is currently no center for social events and recreation in the community, and the need for such a facility in a city the size of Whitehall has long been apparent.

Citizens' response to the proposal will determine the course plans will take. If residents indicate at Saturday's meeting that they want such a facility, a bond issue for its construction will be placed on the ballot in May, and plans will proceed.

School officials, led by Superintendent Robert Crabbs, and civic, service club, PTA and church leaders have been informed of the meeting by letter from John Bishop, chairman Board of Recreation. Their response has already been enthusiastic, Bishop reported.

Initial, tentative, planning for the center includes an indoor, Olympic-sized pool, two gymnasiums, rooms for meetings and crafts, an indoor running track around the top of one of the gymnasiums, a pistol, rifle and archery range, and facilities for weight lifting and physical conditioning.

The facility, to be centrally located in the city, would serve "all citizens of every age, many groups of young people and adults, would benefit schools and permit expansion of the city's recreation program," Bishop explained.

"The high school is extremely interested in a seven-lane pool that would permit the organization of a school swimming team, gymnasiums available during the day could be used by night workers, po-

Yule Lights To Go On In Whitehall

Whitehall's "municipal strip" on Yearling-rd will take on the appearance of an animated Christmas card this week.

Lights will go on at City Hall, police and fire departments and the Senior Citizens building. And across the street skaters, bundled up against the cold, will glide across ice on the new rink.

The plastic liner for the rink is expected to arrive this week, and the frame was to have been set up Wednesday. Firefighters will fill the rink to a depth of four inches, and

Church Organized By Settlers To Observe 100th Birthday

The Shepard Methodist Church will celebrate its 100th anniversary this Sunday, Dec. 13, in an observance beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Former pastor, Howard Elwood Mumma, now superintendent of the Akron District of the Methodist Church, will speak.

Rev. Leonard A. Donnally of West Milton, also a former pastor, will share in the service.

Following morning worship the church will hold a covered basket luncheon. (Those attending are asked to bring covered dish and table service.)

Ernest Hawbecker will serve as master of ceremonies for the introduction of guests and friends. A large birthday cake will contain 100 candles. It will be cut by Mrs. Mary Price and Mrs. Flora Hetzer, longtime members of the church.

A special pictorial booklet has been prepared which will be available to interested members and friends. In addition picture plates telling the story of the church are also available.

Members of the Shepard Methodist Youth Fellowship, under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Calendar Script, will present a script entitled "Then . . . And Now," telling the history of the church.

Members of the youth fellowship have prepared special costumes and musical arrangements. The youth choir and children's choir will sing, directed by Mrs. John Reichenbach.

Rev. Marvin D. Bean is pastor of the church. Lloyd E. Bilger is lay reader and Russell Witt, chairman of the official board.

Church Organized in 1864

Early settlers along the west bank of Alum Creek (near what is how Holt-rd) met in a log cabin school house for several years. An ancient minute book shows that in the year 1864, Rev. T. W. Stanley of the Worthington Circuit formally organized a board of trustees for the new congregation.

Plans for a structure located on the east side of Sunbury-rd, near the present location of the art building of St. Mary of the Springs began in 1868. The church, known as Mifflin Methodist Episcopal Chapel, was dedicated Nov. 10, 1870. A bell tower was added some years later.

Church Moves to Shepard

In the year 1899 decision was made to move the church to its present location in what was then the village of Shepard. The present structure was dedicated Nov. 10, 1901.

In 1905 Rev. David J. Lemison started a club for boys in Council Proposes Easement For Wall

First readings on ordinances ranging from a resident's brick wall to traffic safety measures were heard by Bexley Council at its Tuesday night meeting.

A measure designed to solve the dilemma of a citizen who found the brick wall he had constructed, as part of the backyard patio he added to his home this summer, extended 18 inches on city property.

Since the wall formed the back of the patio fireplace, it's removal would be troublesome and costly, and Barry Zacks, 2412 Brentwood, asked council for consideration of the matter.

The legislation introduced Tuesday night was for an easement permitting the wall to remain, at a cost to Zacks of $50 a year. The measure will be read at two more meetings before council acts on the matter.

Traffic measures introduced included legislation for a four-way stop sign at Mound and Euclaire. The move was prompted by the recent traffic death at the intersection.

The four-way stop will make seven such intersections

THE PATIO WALL, finishing touch to improvements Barry Zacks made to his home at 2412 Brentwood last summer, became a matter of concern when he discovered that he had inadvertently constructed it on municipal property. He mistakenly believed that his property ended at the line of hedge and fence, and the brick wall, visible behind the house, abutting the sidewalk, extends 18 inches on city property. Council Tuesday night considered legislation granting Zacks an easement, at $50 a year, that would permit the wall to remain.

LOCAL DISCOUNT CENTER EXPANDS

SUN TELEVISION and Appliance Discount Center, located for many years downtown at 10 E. Main-st, has opened a second store in East Columbus at 4825 E. Main. The new store represents the rapid growth of an organization that began selling televisions and radios 15 years ago in a small store at 10 E. Main. The downtown store expanded each year until now it occupies 40,000 square feet of selling and warehouse space, and has a complete selection of televisions, radios, stereos, phonos, tape recorders and appliances. Sun has made it a policy to sell only famous name brands, and Admiral, RCA Victor, Motorola, Zenith, Hotpoint and General Electric are among the famous brands available. The new store at 4825 E. Main has the same quality, the same selection, the same low prices and the same service found at the downtown store. Now during the grand opening there are special sale items at both locations.

CALENDAR CUT-OFF
"I hate looking old," you pout, "but you can't cut off the calendar." Want to bet? "We've done it for hundreds of ladies! No matter how you wear your hair now, we'll bet you could look five years younger. Beauty is our business, age is our enemy. Our specialty is scaring off Old Lady Lines. Aren't you tempted to see how it's done?

MIDDLE-AGE MUDDLE
We know how it is . . . some days you look into your mirror and think . . . "stop trying, it's useless!" But it isn't. As a matter of fact, many a lady never achieves her full charm until her 30th birthday has long gone. Time may etch a few lines but she also sketches in character and personality. Photographers say they like faces that have "lived." But like a skilled retoucher, we have tricks that point up a pretty smile-line, play down squinty eye-lines and puff out a small neckline.

SHAPE-UP SECRET
We carry youth in our hair-shapers . . . isn't it time you asked for some? Last year's hairstyle is like the late-late movie, now that you're older, it's not half as exciting. A touch of today's lines can do wonders for you! We love to watch you walk out feeling lighter, looking brighter. You'll love your beauty visit and we're nice to know, so stop in and see us today.

Open Hearing On Fairway Oaks Scheduled Tuesday In Whitehall

Whitehall Council will hear the public's view on Todd Tibbals' proposed Fairway Oaks project in an open hearing during Tuesday night's session, and then consider legislation permitting development of the 50-acre tract.

Substitution of twin singles for the six four-family apartments along Etna-rd that originally stirred council opposition, and generous lot sizes for the entire development are eyed favorably.

Fairway-blvd residents, meeting Monday night to review the new plan, signified their approval. Only two of the 25 or 30 attending voted against the proposal.

The plan to be presented to council Tuesday night includes about 32 lots of 1500 square feet, with homes required to have 1400 square feet of living area.

The remaining 105 lots are sized at 9100 square feet, for homes having 1100 square feet of living space, with 1400 square feet under roof as with an atached garage or roof.

The Fairway Oaks area is bordered by Etna-rd on the south, houses fronting on Fairway-blvd to the east and north, and a line about 600 feet west of Hamilton-rd.

Entrances will be on Fairway-blvd and on Etna-rd.

The development will mean the land "will raise taxes instead of rabbits and weeds," Tibbals said, "will add nearly 140 badly needed residences of quality to the city, and will be a handsome addition to Whitehall."

Development of the tract will include the installation of streets, curbs, water lines, fire hydrants, sanitary and storm sewers.

Engineering will get under way immediately if council approves the plan.

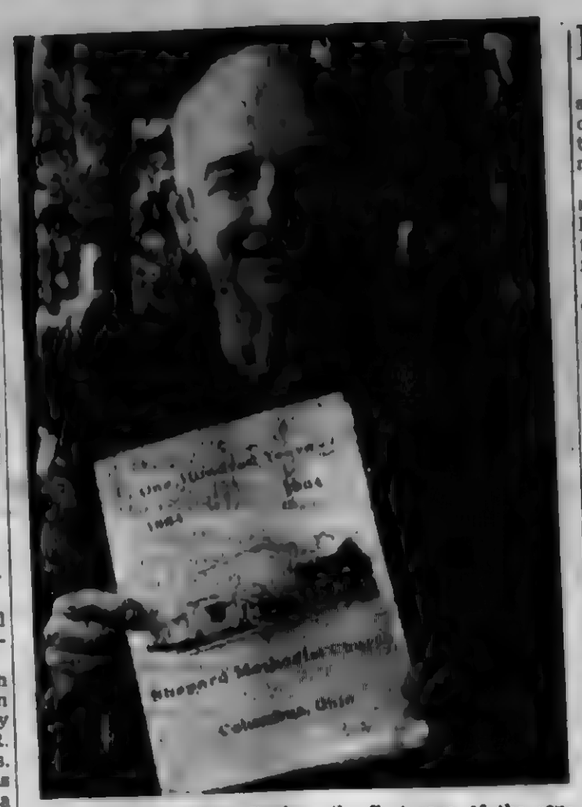
Scottwood Choir Leaders To Sing 'Messiah' Solos

The Chancel Choir of Scottwood Community Church, under the direction of Lawrence J. Gillum, will present the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" during the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday, Dec. 13.

Solos will be sung by the soloist-section leaders of the choir: soprano, Lois Ridenour; contralto, Carole Core; tenor, Paul Roberts and bass, Roger Kellogg. Church organist is T. Betty Gillum.

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM SERVE GRACE UNITED

ES Pg. 1 Opt. Inside must rm



Rev. William H. Banks has been installed as the new minister at Grace United Church of Christ, 1226 Shady Lane-rd. The service of installation was held Nov. 15.

Assisting in the ceremony were Rev. William Barndt, minister of Central Southeast Association of the United Church; Mrs. Virginia Ivens, association moderator; Rev. Roy Kutz, pastor of St John's United Church of Christ; Rev. E. Bruce Jacobs, pastor emeritus and Carl C. Bair, vice-president of Grace United.

Rev. Banks comes to his new pastorate from Zion United Church of Christ, Steubenville, O., where he served for several years. Prior to that, he had several pastorates in Pennsylvania.

Helping him in his pastoral duties is his wife, Mrs. Mary Banks. Mrs. Banks sings in the choir, helps with membership visitations and in general serves in much the same capacity as an associate pastor.

Grace United Church, which has a new church plant on Shady Lane-rd, was formerly the Wilson Avenue E. and R. Church, Wilson at Fair-avs. It now serves very much as a Community Church in a fast-growing suburb.

ped, (under strong protest from Berwick residents) and the price was lowered, the commission decided to try again.

The current project of cleaning Alum Creek, and removing all debris and small islands, will also be beneficial to the new park. The cleaning operation, now north of Refugee-rd, will continue north to Fifth-av.

Council also approved six ordinances dealing with Port Columbus, and recommended for passage by the Airport Committee of council. They included:

Expenditure of $55,000 for lighting of a runway and installation of a field lighting control panel; approval of a one-year contract for calendar 1964 for terminal area window cleaning, ($5,940); modification of a contract covering construction changes on taxiway "S" extension and entrance road:

Confirmed action of the City Board of Purchase in authorizing emergency purchase of power cable ($1,800); authorized spending $21,500 for expansion of facilities, including dining entrance, pier lounge addition and storage room, and approved rental of space on the second floor of the old terminal building at $600 annual rate.

Council—

for Bexley and in each case, according to Mayor William Schneider, the record shows the traffic control measure to be successful.

Council also heard a request from Buckeye Girls' State that E. Mound-st from College-av to Pleasant Ridge be closed to traffic from June 20 to June 26, the week that Girls' State is in session.

The extension of the university facilities across Mound, and the expected 1300 girls crossing the street frequently were given as reasons for the request.

Council indicated that they would not favor closing the important traffic artery for an entire week.

Councilwoman Mrs. Ruth Mann, in discussion of E. Mound-st traffic, renewed her request for at least one crosswalk and perhaps two on Mound, between College-av and Pleasant Ridge.

"The block is very long," she explained, "and I think young people are reasonable enough to use the crosswalks if they are available. It is a long way to the corners from the middle of the block."

CONDITION 'FAIR'

Edward Lilly, Jr., 25, of 853 Exeter-rd, Whitehall, was listed in fair condition Tuesday by Grant Hospital.

He suffered injuries Monday when his car overturned on US Rt. 33 by the Fairfield-Franklin County line near Lancaster.

the church. It was known as the Knights of St. Paul or Kappa Sigma Pi. This boys' group spread to 40 states and seven foreign lands. More than 100,000 boys were involved from the small beginning at Shepard.

Four Churches Result

Across the years four churches have grown from the outgoing interest of the Shepard Methodist Church. Jemison wrote "I went over by the State University and waded around the mud of the new streets; gathered up 159 charger members for the Indianola (Methodist) Church." About the same time he gave assistance to a new church located a mile east. Variously called East Columbus, Sixth Avenue, Rarig Avenue, it is now known as St. Paul Methodist.

In 1951-1952 studies were made in the Amvet Village where 700 homes were being erected. The congregation, now known as Village Park Methodist Church, owes its beginning to the leadership given by the members of Shepard.

More recently leadership was given to the establishment of the Stonybrook Methodist Church in Gahanna. This church was formally organibed in 1961 and now has 400 members.

New Edition Erected

A new education addition to the basic plant of the Shepard Methodist Church was begun in 1956 and finished the following year.

The church also contains windows by the German craftsman Ludwig Von Gerichten made of more than 5000 pieces of imported glass. One window is known as "The Good Shepard."

"We now hold recreation programs for young people and adults in all the city schools," Bishop continued, "but can use these facilities only during limited hours."

Building design and size, and its location on one of several available, centrally located sites are all still tentative. Cost is roughly estimated, at about $600,000 including a site, to be financed through a seven or 10-year bond issue.

"The Recreation Commission is merely serving as an agent," Bishop emphasized, "to determine the interest of residents and convince council of its importance in such a project. Implementing the plan, through legislation, is entirely up to council."

Weather permitting, residents may use the rink this weekend.

The two new 14-foot spruce trees in front of City Hall will be decorated this year, and blue lights will be strung in the six oak trees.

Roping, entwined with lights, will be festooned across the top of City Hall, and Santa with his reindeer will be displayed on the roof.

The congregation, presently meeting in the Courtright Elementary chool, is planning to purchase land in the near future.

RAMS, SCOTS, LIONS SEEK WINS BUT . . .

Hawks, E-M, Tigers Winning and Waiting

Geary Bradley's Hartley five picked up their third and fourth straight wins of the young season last week as the Hawks nicked DeSales, 52-49, and downed Lexington 53-46 behind a 22 of 56 field night.

The Hawks never trailed in the Stallion setto as senior Tom Schlager gunned in 22 points and teammate John Marker added 11. In the Lexington non-leaguer, the Hawks rallied from an early deficit to outscore the visitors 18-7 in the second period and ice the nod.

SCHLAGER'S 20, Parker's 12 and Dave Thomas' rebounding sparked the Hawks who host St. Charles in a CCL match on Friday and entertain City League toughie Linden on Saturday night.

Bob Hart's East five, with a morale boost from the "Fearless Predictor," rambled over two toughies last weekend as Salem (54-52) and Central (71-68) bit the dust.

Tiger sub Vance Carr racked up 31 points and the same number of rebounds over the weekend while vet Gil Mathews canned 35 digits in the two games. Galen Bias (13) was the only other Tiger in twin-figures in the two games.

THE REVAMPED Hartmen (2-1) travel to Marion-Franklin (1-3) tomorrow night for a go at a 6' front line with John Jackson (6'5), Russ Mobley (6'7) and Dale Darnell (6'2) heading the cast along with guards Darrell Jones (6') and Steve Jackson (6'1).

Bill Courtney's front-running City League Warriors added two more coups to their Eastmoor win string last week as North fell 77-61 and Arlington wound up on the short end of a 77-65 tomahawk.

Although seven seemed to be E-M's lucky number last week, the Warriors racked up 23 third-period points to subdue a stubborn North squad behind the prolific scoring of Jerry Groves (18), Steve Howell and Doug Cromer (14 each) and Gary Cochran and Ron Bollie (12 apiece).

THE ARLINGTON triumph was sparked by the playmaking of Jerry Groves and the tallying of Howell (21), Cromer and Cochran (17 each) and Ron Bollie who mixed in 11 more as E-M hit 55 percent from the floor.

The Warriors (3-0) play host to Aquinas (1-2) tomorrow night in a City League contest and journey to Franklin Heights (1-1) on Saturday for a match with hot-shooting forwards Roscoe Walters (6'3 and 16 ppg.) and 6'2 Larry Parrett who each hit 22 last week against Ready.

Dick Geyer's St. Charles quintet divided two sets last week as the Cards dealt Rosary a 42-34 loss and bowed to Watterson 50-38 in a CCL contest.

BIG JOE Van Balen counted 17 and Tim Rooney 14 in the Carolian win while no Card hit double digits against Watterson.

Walnut Ridge dropped a 74-49, decision to visiting West last Friday after trailing by five at intermission. Scot Pat Beveridge (12) and teammates Mike Tanner (14) and guard Dave Feyh (10) stood out in defeat.

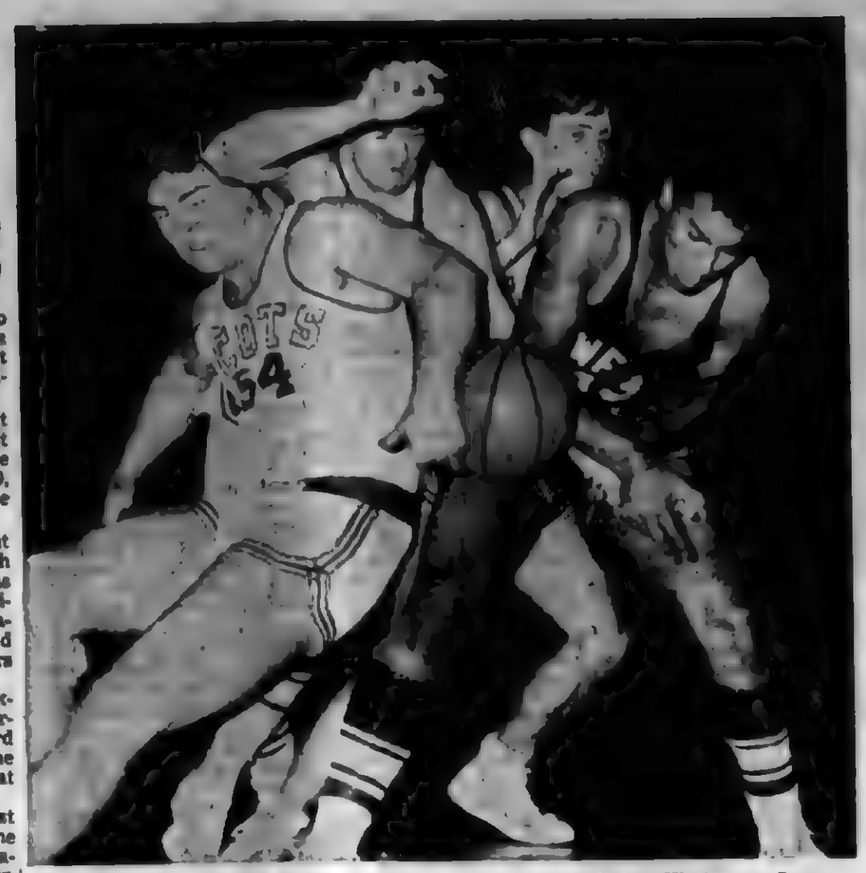
Tanner's fine outside shooting and Beveridge's board work gained the Scots a 16-all tie at the first quarter but West outscored W-R 40-20 after the half to win easily.

JACK MOORE'S five visits Linden (2-0) tomorrow and must stop small but high-scoring Eddie Guice. Sheridan's Golden Hordes (0-3) comes to W-R Saturday night for a non-leaguer. Sheridan's most recent loss was a 70-49 setback to Zanesville.

Whitehall had the hardest luck of any area team last week as the young Rams were nosed out by Arlington, 41-40, in the fading seconds of the game.

Phil Allen's group (1-1) cut Arlington's lead to 41-40 with 19 seconds left in the game as Jeff Barker banged in a fielder, but a last-second desperation shot by John McQuaid went awry and the Bears escaped with the nod.

HARVEY Eader's 12 markers led the Rams who entertain Worthington and Card aces Bruce Baxter and Jaime Foston tomorrow evening at home.



Academy lost one contest over the two-day period as the Vikings were lanced by Rosary, 50-34, in an FCL lidlifter.

Phil Hess' Vikings were sparked in defeat by Terry Larrimer's 11 and Joe Lanman's 10, plus the rebounding of Pete Bigelow. St. Mary (1-2) visits the Vikings on Friday and Ohio Deaf will host Academy on Saturday night.

The Blue Lions' Dave Johnston came of age as he hit 11 points to complement captain Bill Salt's 16.

The Lions are home to Delaware Friday night and take to the road at Brookhaven (2-2) Saturday night.

Panthers, Falcons 'Crack' Mat Schedules With Wins

Pleasant View and Franklin Heights kicked off the '64-'65 high school wrestling season last week by recording wins.

The Panthers nabbed five of their last six matches to spill Circleville, 36-15, while the Falcons pinned Groveport, 29-16.

Six grappers recorded five-pointers for Bob Mowery's matmen as Chuck Driesbach (112), Rick Erbe (120), Darrell Ramey (138), John Barton (145) and Jerry Reibel (165) pinned their opponents to the mat.

F-H Mentor Bob Twiss, shooting for a "comeback" season for his Falcons this year, got pin performances from Jim O'Hara (133) and Sam Blankenship (174) en route to the win over Groveport.

Jeff Nelle (120) and Dave Thompson (hwt) recorded five-pointers for Ralph Nix's Cruisers.

Ten more area mat squads inaugurated new grappling seasons this week with Marion-Franklin and Hamilton Township vieing for an opening victory this afternoon on the Ranger mats.

Tomorrow's action finds Grove City hosting Groveport and Franklin Heights in an evening effort with Jonathan Alder helping Tom Lamb's Hilliard crew open up with a visit to the Wildcat den (4:30 p.m.)

Tuesday, Dec. 15 action finds Hilliard entertaining Groveport and Hamilton Township journeying to Mifflin. Whitehall opens up Wednesday with a long jaunt to Dayton Stebbins.

Five more area squads begin individual mat seasons a week from today as West entertains Walnut Ridge, Central travels to Jonathan Alder, Bexley hosts Hamilton Township and East hits the road to Westerville (4:30 p.m.)

FEYH'S WAY—Walnut Ridge cager Dave Feyh applies a little of his gridiron technique as Scottie quarterback, finding an opening here and driving around West's Overa Miller for a two-pointer in W-R 74-49 loss to the Cowboys Friday night.

Cage Clinic Set At W-R

Veteran Walnut Ridge cage coach Jackie Moore and his staff will conduct an instructional basketball clinic for all future W-R athletes at the high school this Saturday morning from 9:30 until 11 a.m. in the Scottie gym.

Moore is especially interested in the fifth and sixth grade boys in the W-R area to attend the clinic. Boys attending must be accompanied by at least one parent and no equipment will be necessary since no active part will be taken by the audience.

JACKIE'S assistants, Moe Cordle, Dick Guyer and Don Love, will conduct the demonstrations along with members of the varsity squad. The idea behind the clinic is to create more interest in basketball fundamentals and help boost roundball interest in the Walnut Ridge area.

Reliable Five Nipped, 89-85

Reliable Insurance Repair's basketball team, which plays in the Capitol City Independent circuit on Tuesday nights at Johnson Park, traveled to Lancaster last weekend and absorbed an 89-85 setback at the hand of Anchor-Hocking Glass.

Mike Outcalt, a former Capital 'U' cager, canned 22 tallies for Lancaster while Gary Novak (28), Bob Williams (21) and Dick Smith (12) hit double figures for Reliable. Reliable out-goaled Lancaster 40-37 but lost the game at the charity stripe where the winners won out 15-5.

Dick Cassle, Don Poling, Lee Ayotte and Jerry Marvin also saw action for Reliable against Lancaster last week.

Is Trained

A/3C. Eugene R. Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Terrell of 4622 St. Francis-in, has graduated from the training course for U.S. Air Force data processing machine operators at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Airman Terrell, a graduate of Whitehall-Yearling High School, is being reassigned to Langley AFB, Va., for duty in his new specialty.

Hawk Lettermen Load Brightens Mat Picture

Prospects for an improved wrestling season at Hartley High are brighter this season with 11 lettermen included in coach Jeff Cardosi's 23-man squad.

The Hawk grapplers, who closed at 3-8 in dual competition last year, will be without graduated co-captain Dave Erwin, a 133-pounder, who finished fourth in District pairings last year besides being selected "most outstanding" in the Catholic Mat Tourney.

Also departed are Joe Filli-la (138) and Joe Cox (hwt.), key performers for Cardosi last season.

Other returning vets include Jeff Albrecht (senior, 112), Joe Weldon (junior, 120), John Sullivan (junior, 127), Ken Turner (senior, 145), Pat Burkey (senior, 165), Jim Carpenter (senior, 175), Mike Mulligan (senior, 175) and John Bailey (senior, hwt.).

Two top prospects pressing lettermen for starting nods are Pete Bush at 127 and Bill Astley at 175. Likely starters in slots unfilled by vets are junior Pat Erwin, stepping into brother Davey's wrestling shoes at 133, and Mike Newton (138).

The Hawks' 103 spot is still open for grabs. Cardosi, who admits his wrestlers won't be facing any 'breather' opponents this season (Hawks have scheduled Toledo Central and Fremont St. Joseph), lists Arlington and East as teams to beat in the District, with DeSales a frontrunner in CCL competition.

Hartley opens its '64-'65 mat season Friday, Jan. 8 at Walnut Ridge.

'HE' GETS LETTERS

Dear Fearless:

Guess what? Your Indian friends from Canal Winchester haven't forgotten you. THRILL!

As you know, you goofed again. We slightly tromped the Liberty Union Lions by a mere 25 points. That is far from losing!

We've got a real great team and coach and intend to win the league title this year. We also have terrific school spirit which you and your wrong predictions can't touch.

The Hamilton Raiders won't stop us this week so that is one less prediction you have to worry about. It might be a good idea to break in that bullet-proof vest from last year because the Indians' arrows might start flying.

Victoriously yours,
A CWHS Fan.

Dear Fan:

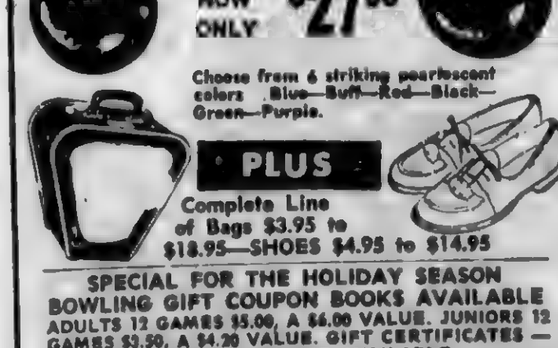
And just when I was about to throw out my "Auld Lang Syne" record! It sounds like you're trying to horn in on the prediction business with one of your own.

Two bits of advice — don't do it (unless you don't have any friends now anyway). Secondly, it's the Rangers, hon—not the Raiders. The Raiders play for Reynoldsburg (and very well I hear).

"Fearless"

PS—Maybe I'm mellowing a bit. I picked the Indians also this week.

Dear Fearless:



I would like to express my appreciation to you for the great morale lift you gave to the East High School basketball team with last week's predictions.

Your selection of Central Salem over East was posted in our locker room. I believe it was a definite factor in our two victories over the weekend. I'm sorry that we hurt your percentage on predictions but . . . thanks.

Sincerely,

Dear Bob:

Wish I could thank you, buddy, but we call them the way we see them. (We don't see so well sometimes). We like your boys in their games this weekend so have them put them through the baskets or my percentage will really be hurting.

Cap 'Forwarding' Address Slated For Berea, Kenyon

That "four-forward" offense that Coach Whitey Regan has whipped up gets another go at it again this week with two road trips. A Tuesday date at Kenyon and a Saturday tangle with Baldwin-Wallace.

Cap holds a 51-16 advantage over Bob Harrison's Kenyoneers during the long series, but is one down (8-9) to the boys from Berea.

REGAN'S CREW is working to tone down its errors and up its field goal percentage. The four forwards and Joe (Besecker) went into high gear against a jittery Denison five in the opener for a 72-53 win by connecting on 44 percent of their shots.

But in the next two encounters, against an overpowering Miami bunch, the Crusaders slipped to 31 percent from the field, threw in 32 turnovers, then were cold again (33 percent) against Akron and committed 19 errors.

Whitey is rightly concerned over the floor shooting. "We're getting the shots, but not making them." As for the overall play, he commented: "This team has its good and bad aspects. On the negative side, it's our shooting.

"Positively, I think we played Akron as well as we planned to play them. We tried to neutralize their board strength, and this we did, but we couldn't hit, and our errors hurt us."

AS FOR the upcoming Kenyon battle, Whitey states, "We take no one for granted in this league, and we're sure that Harrison will go all out against us."

CAPstats: Senior forward Dave Veenendaal has been leading scorer and rebounder in two games . . . 23 points and 17 RB's against Denison, 27 and 15 against Akron . . . he is the leading FG shooter among the regulars with 42.3 percent and is averaging 19 points per game . . . those 108 counters Miami poured through represented the first time in 10 years an opponent hit the century mark . . . it was the first time during Regan's reign . . . Cap managed to outrebound the rangy Zips 57-54 . . . Cap's FT percentage is at a low . . . swishing on only 60 percent of the free ones . . . the Crusaders were second in the conference last year from the foul line, first two years ago.

Enforcement will also be tightened at Livingston and College from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

What do big heating bills, wobbly furniture legs, dying plants and colds have in common?
All of these (and other) problems are often related to ultra-dry air caused by winter heating. Ultra-dry air makes furniture shrink until it splits out of its joints and collapses. It kills fragile plant life. Ultra-dry air makes some people feel cold at 72 degrees and turn up the heat to feel warmer. Some medical authorities state that this condition can lead to colds, sinus and asthmatic attacks. A Walton Humidifier corrects these hazards by restoring vital life-supporting moisture to indoor atmosphere.
Roggedly constructed and tooled to very fine tolerances, every Walton Humidifier is built to provide a lifetime of dependable performance. Designed and made so well, it carries a Double Warranty. Outright replacement of the operating unit if it fails to operate plus a new Double Warranty...plus the usual coverage on parts. It's no wonder why Walton is called the "No. 1 Leader in the Humidification Industry."

'TIS THE SEASON . . .

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

We Lose a Friend

Our deep respects are extended to the family of Warren Insley, for many years editor and publisher of The Worthington News. His death brings a loss not only to his family but to his community as well.

Warren was a public servant in many respects, having been a city official as well as the community newspaper publisher. He had given much of himself to his community.

Digressing

Driving down Broad-st one day this past week the car immediately ahead bore a license indicating it was from Okinawa. Then alongside to the right was one from Alaska. All of which points to Columbus as being a crossroads of the world.

Non-Stop

And then there was the person who was boasting about the fact that now he could travel from Cleveland to Cincinnati without stopping for a traffic light. His friend reminded him: "So could my great grandfather."

Mail 'Em Now

You will help the mailmen by getting your greeting cards in the mailbox soon. These gents should give a special bouquet to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckingham who each year post their greetings on Dec. 1.

Singing Birds

It was Thomas Bailey Aldrich who wrote: "What is more cheerful, now, in the fall of the year than an open wood fire? Do you hear those little chirps and twitters coming out of that piece of apple wood? I have singing birds all the year round."

New Chairman

Congratulations are in order to Harold Templeton, genial manager of the Kroger Co., who has been named chairman of the Human Resources Committee of the Development Committee for Greater Columbus.

The Gay Philosopher says: A really good excuse is one you can use over and over again."

Sorry

We are sorry to announce we did not order small Gay Philosopher calendars this year. The field appeared to be saturated.

On Physical Fitness

Our senior sports editor, Jack Wittenmeier, who has played every sport in the books, was laid low Monday with an injured back—the result not of an extra hard back yard scrimmage or a full quarter of basketball, but by a kiss from the weaker sex. Jack says when he kissed his girl goodnight Sunday evening "somehow" he pulled a back muscle.

Jack immediately made preparations to begin the physical fitness program at the South Side "Y" the same Monday night. We agree, Jack, there's a sport worth getting in shape for.

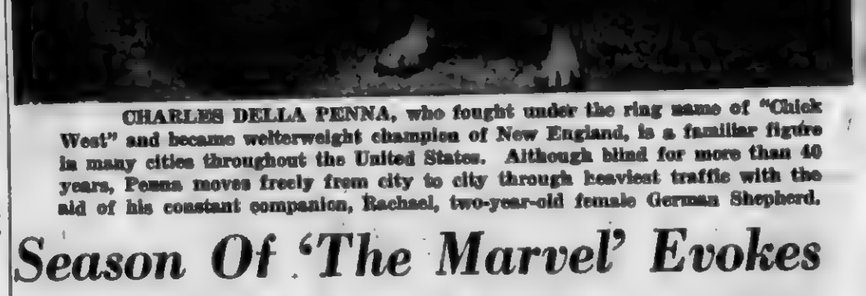
Aid To A Lady



Our gal Jane Robinson reports that while taking some photos on an assignment at Friendship House this past week she was stooped over near the curb adjusting her camera. To a passing motorist it appeared she was in distress and so he stopped in the middle of traffic to offer aid. Proof, again, that Columbusites are gentlemen.

Council-Mayor Rift Widens

By FRANK RYAN

A continuing deterioration of relationships between Columbus City Council and the administration of Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner shows no sign of letup, despite council's relatively kind treatment of the mayor's 1965 budget.

The latest in a series of skirmishes between the Republican - dominated council and the Democratic executive branch involves Council President William R. Fornof and William H. Brooks, the city's utility director. Fornof allegedly engineered a quick-close of last Monday's session to prevent Brooks from answering published criticisms attributed to the council president.

Fornof closed the council meeting without calling for comment from elected city officials and cabinet members—a procedure specifically called for in council rules. The meeting ended with Democrat William Hoermle protesting, while five of the six Republican members emulated track stars in leaving council chambers.

The lone Republican left to face an irate Brooks and about 100 persons who had sat through the three-hour session to hear Brooks' statement was Councilman Harvey Alston. He told questioners that he was unaware that Brooks wanted to address council, and that he knew of no plan to block such an attempt.

Rules Out Applause

Earlier in the evening, Fornof had "gaveled" the audience down after a second burst of applause for Mayor Sensenbrenner, who was engaging in some give-and-take with Councilwoman Mrs. Golda May Edmonston. Fornof termed the applause "demonstrations," and said that he would order the chambers cleared if the audience persisted in "demonstrating."

The Sensenbrenner-Edmonston discussion was over two ordinances introduced by the mayor after Mrs. Edmonston declined to introduce them as the chairman of the service committee. The legislation would require the installation of sidewalks and street lights in all future subdivisions.

Mrs. Edmonston contended she would not introduce the items because she felt that the city should concentrate on sidewalk construction and street lighting in existing areas of the city. Sensenbrenner rebutted by saying that his proposal would have no adverse effect on the city's program in these areas.

The mayor said that if Columbus had effected such legislation 20 or 30 years ago, the city would not now have such problems of providing safety for children (sidewalks) and protection of citizens (street lighting) who travel the streets at night.

Mayor's Veto Next

Discontent between council and the administration shows no sign of improvement for next Monday's council session. The 6-1 Republican council is expected to take up the veto by Sensenbrenner of ordinances dealing with the hiring of a cost accountant.

The measure was billed as the first important step in beginning a cost-of-service study within the city's water division. The ordinance, as proposed by Fornof, calls for the assignment of an accountant but stipulates that the cost accountant position be created in the City Auditor's office.

Sensenbrenner told council that there was no argument over the need for a cost-of-service study within the water division. But that is where agreement ended, as the mayor charged that council's action was an attempt to administer rather than legislate. His veto message said in part:

"This procedure represents another obvious attempt on

Children Threatened By Poison

Mayor H. E. Holroyd, of Valleyview, said this week that the unknown poisoner who has been spreading deadly strychnine poison within the reach of children and pets in the area, has either relented or come to his senses.

"No additional cases of pet poisoning have been reported," he said, "since the danger to children was pointed out in last week's Hilltop Spectator."

Seven family pets, six dogs and a cat, had been reported killed by strychnine poison in a preceding two-week period.

The poisoner, perhaps unaware of the grave threat to small children, had been tossing fresh meat laced with the poison into the yards of pet owners in the vicinity of Burgess and Dibblee-avs.

Some of the poisoned meat had been found in pet dishes immediately outside the home.

Police are still searching for the poisoner.

Neighbors in the area, fearful of their children's lives, plead that he come forward and reveal where he may have placed other poison doses.

His act, they point out, is a misdemeanor punishable by a small fine—of small consequence when measured against the possibility of saving a child's life.

SLATED TO CLOSE its doors the end of the year is Friendship House, 115 W. Main-st. Its beginnings date back to 1909 when the Young People's Society at the Broad Street Presbyterian Church started Sunday School services in an old tin shop at 164 W. Mound. The following year activities other than religious were added and in 1915 ground was broken for the present building known until 1947 as the Main Street Chapel. The name was changed to Calvary Presbyterian Church and when financial assistance was secured for the center from the Community Chest in 1949, the functions were divided. The Sunday operations continuing under the name of the Calvary Chapel and the weekday programs operated as Friendship House.

Doors Closing At Friendship

Friendship House, the neighborhood center at 115 W. Main-st sponsored by the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, will end the services begun over 50 years ago on Dec. 31.

The functions of its branch operations at Riverside Homes (West Side) and at Beck Street Elementary School, as well as the summer camping program, will also terminate on that date.

According to Don Laird, life member of the board of directors of Friendship House and member of the Session, of the sponsoring church, Sunday School services will continue in the Calvary Chapel (housed within the community center) until June 30. On or before that time the needs will be re-evaluated and an appropriate course determined.

Terminal Allotment Made

The closing of the settlement house came after notice was served by the United Community Council (the facility has been jointly supported by the church and United Appeal funds) that the 1964 allocation of UA funds to the agency was the last one.

However, through the intervention of the Columbus Federation of Settlements, a reprieve was given to the organization to permit a gradu-

Season Of 'The Marvel' Evokes Inspiring Story Of Three Men

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

This is the season when an oft-told story is the inspiring one concerning three men who followed a bright star of hope a star of hope, to a place where a marvel occurred, and afterward the world was—in many ways—different and better.

But this is a story of three other men, who groped through darkness, following a start of hope, to a place where near-marvels occur every day in the week.

One of the three men is Charles Della Penna.

Fifty years ago, Penna was a young boxer out of the East, fighting his way up through tank towns and private clubs. His eyes, and his fists, were aimed at the bright light that hovered over the ring at Madison Square Garden, where world championships were won and lost.

Penna, or "Chick West" as

State Builds $6.6-Million Fire Hazard

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Then there's the people doll. You wind it up. . .

And it goofs!

The designers of the new Statehouse Underground Parking Garage happen to be people and they goofed 35 times by providing 35 wrong-size fire protection faucets.

Columbus fire hoses require one-and-a-half inch faucets and the garage had only one-inch outlets.

The mistake discovery caused a shower of activity as officials placed a $450 rush order for brass adapters.

If the salesgirl happens to be slow in making change, don't be flustered. Coin is in scant supply. Biggest shortage is in half dollars and quarters, followed by dimes and nickels.

It may take a while to count out all those pennies.

Carlton Dargusch, Sr., prominent Columbus attorney and Ohio State University trustee, was suspended from the practice of law for an indefinite period by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The action stemmed from Dargusch's handling of trust funds.

Dargusch cannot apply for reinstatement to practice law for two years after the court makes an official entry of the suspension.

Gov. Rhodes, who appoints university trustees, has "the matter under study."

Dargusch was unavailable for comment.

Students Ask Adults To Give 'Gift of Life' At Christmastime

One hundred Bexley High School students will canvass the city Sunday, Dec. 13, asking residents to give the finest gift of all — a gift of life, by donating a pint of blood.

The young people will ask Bexleyites to sign pledge cards to donate blood during December, the month when need is very great and the supply low as people, engrossed in holiday preparations, neglect to give blood.

The entire project is the students' own, and from their efforts to alleviate a critical need has evolved an example of what a small group can do for their immediate community and for the entire Columbus area.

The Red Cross Blood Center, currently conducting a drive to recruit 5,000 pints of blood in December has, in grateful recognition of their help, designated Monday, Dec. 14, as Bexley Day at the center.

Bexley students will work in pairs on Dec. 13, with each pair contacting 20 families. Donors will be asked to sign pledge cards and urged to contribute blood during December, with special emphasis on donating on "their day," Dec. 14.

Other designated days are: Dec. 11, business and labor; Dec. 18, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Dec. 21, city and county government, and Dec. 28, education and professional day.

A 20-foot spruce tree in front of the Blood Center, 821 E. Broad-st, is the focal point of the month-long drive. As the goal is met each week a section of the tree will be lighted, and Red Cross officials are hopeful that the entire tree will be lit by Christmas Eve.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY SLATED IN SCHOOLS

A 12-day Christmas holiday is in store for most Columbus area school children, from Wednesday, Dec. 23, to Monday, Jan. 4. A few schools will close one day earlier, for a 13-day respite from studies.

Students will be dismissed at the end of the school day Tuesday, Dec. 22, in Bexley, Canal Winchester and all schools in the South-Western District.

The holiday will start Dec. 23 in the school systems of Columbus, Whitehall, Catholic Diocese, Upper Arlington, Grandview Heights and Worthington.

Canal Winchester schools are the only ones under Franklin County Board of Education jurisdiction closing Dec. 22.

Those dismissing students on Dec. 23 are, Hamilton Local, Jefferson Local (Gahanna), Madison Local, Mifflin Local, Plain Local, Reynoldsburg, Scioto-Darby and Washington Local (Dublin).

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This may be hopeless. It's Max, my dog. He has suddenly started to bite people. My father says one more bite and he's had it. What can I do to keep him from taking that last bite?
—D.H.

DEAR D.H.: Max should first be checked by the doctor to be sure there isn't a physical cause for his unsociable attitude. If not, take immediate steps to see to it that Max can't get close enough to take that final bite.

Then seek the help of an expert trainer in attempting to set up a two-fold program. First, find and correct the basic problem—there has to be one.

Secondly, reinforce the training by removing all possible satisfaction from any attempt at biting and substitute other behavior that Max will find enjoyable.

One vital point to remember in training a dog is to give him some other choice than the one you disapprove of. An alternative helps prevent frustration and speeds progress. "Hopeless" dogs are rare. "Hopeless" training methods are, unfortunately, all too common.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Weenie is a kitten my daughter brought home in her Halloween trick or treat bag. I understand that this man got rid of six kittens that night and I think it was a dirty trick. But she is a cute kitten and we kept her.

The trouble is that she gets bloated up after every meal and she is skinny though she eats a lot. The neighbor says she was worms. If this is so will garlic cure her and how much? Is there any danger that my daughter could get the kitten's worms?
—C.B.

DEAR C.B.: Garlic is safe to use — except for the overwhelming halitosis produced. The more serious disadvantage in using it is that garlic won't eliminate the worms, if any. For the kitten's welfare (and perhaps for your daughter's) it should be taken to the doctor and wormed there if it proves necessary.

The visit would also give him a chance to check Weenie thoroughly and make recommendations concerning diet, vaccinations, and general care. Roundworms are the most common type in young kittens, and some species of these worms may be transmitted to humans.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Somehow our family has taken to eating a lot of apples lately. (Probably because we were given three boxes!) Our poor Lab, Sandy, has appointed herself apple-core eliminator No. 1. Halfway through the first box she has shown no ill effects so we assume she can have the rest too. Just wanted to be sure though. Okay?
—L.J

Dear L.J.: An occasional apple core would do no harm. However, Sandy could be overdoing it and get in serious trouble as a result. While an apple a day might (help) keep the doctor away, too many cores in a single day could produce an illness no doctor could cure. The seeds of the apple contain a derivative of that very deadly poison, CYANIDE!

DEAR DR. MILLER: We keep our two parakeets, Ringo and George, in a back bedroom because it's the sunniest room in the house. A friend visiting said that it was too cold in there and they would catch pneumonia or something bad. They always look healthy but I thought I'd better find out what kind of temperature parakeets can endure?
—B.A.

DEAR B.A.: Parakeets may not only endure, but actually enjoy brisk temperatures provided they have had an opportunity to gradually acclimate themselves to it. If the birds have been in a room without heat they would have time to accustom themselves to seasonal changes.

In this case there is nothing wrong with a cool room. A bird suddenly shifted from a warm room to an unheated one would have no time to develop a tolerance to cold and would have trouble surviving. Remember drafts can be deadly in any room, regardless of the temperature.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is there a "dangerous age" for the male dog?
—C.

Dear C.: Yes, though it doesn't come in middle life, as with another species. At about nine months the dog becomes aware there is more to the world than home and the fireside. A sudden urge to roam exposes him to contagious diseases, other (jealous) males, and automobiles.

Consequently the mortality rate is highest at this time. (The survivors apparently consider the rightsizing justified . . .)

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Young To Get Masonic 33rd Degree Jewel

Irvin F. Young of 155 S. Stanwood, assistant superintendent of Columbus Schools and former West High principal, will receive his 33rd Degree Masonic Jewel Tuesday, Dec. 15, at a meeting of University Lodge in York Temple, 1276 N. High-st.

The honorary 33rd Degree, Masonry's highest honor, was bestowed upon Young last year, and the jewel is a gift from his school associates.

Young, principal of West High from 1945 to 1955, left the school to become coordinator of teacher personnel for Columbus Schools in '55, and the next year was promoted to his present position as assistant superintendent of teacher personnel.

He also served as principal of Milo, Roosevelt Junior High and East High School, and as teacher at Starling and Central. He joined the Columbus School System in 1930.

Young is a member of University Lodge 63, F&AM, and of Scottish Rite.

DO WE GET LETTERS, AND HOW!

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO a coupon for a chance on three turkeys to be given away at Thanksgiving was run by The Spectator. Proof that the response was overwhelming is shown as Midge DeWitt empties a box of mail on the desk of Virginia Wolf, who had the task of opening 3,500 pieces of mail received. The coupon appeared Nov. 12 and the flow of mail started with 123 received on the next day. On Nov. 14 there were 525 to open and the third day's mail held 785. This continued up through Nov. 25 when the last six coupons arrived. Here is positive proof of readership of The Spectator.

Dave Brockmeyer Inks Grid Pact With Toronto Argonauts

Brockmeyer

Dave Brockmeyer, a former Central High gridder and a recent resident of Hilliard, has signed a one-year contract with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League for a cash bonus.

Brockmeyer, married and the father of a daughter, was named to the All-City squad in '58 at Central and was an honorable mention All-Ohio selection. Dave attended Jones Junior College at Ellisville, Miss., where he played end and caught 78 passes for 1,000 yards and seven scores in two seasons.

BROCKMEYER later enrolled in Louisiana College at Pineville, La., where he played tight end and caught 27 passes while playing both ways. He was named the Most Valuable Lineman in 1963 and lettered two years.

Now a 6'1½ 235-pounder, Dave will report to the Argonaut training camp in Toronto July 1 of 1965. Dave's brother, Chuck, recently led Carroll to its first-ever football title in the Fairfield County League.

HOW COULD HE MISS?

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Teamwork . . .

Buried deep in the details of the annual NFL and AFL college grid drafts last week was the announcement that the Oakland Raiders got off to a brisk start by signing three of their draft choices within a few paltry hours of the pro grab sessions.

This, like blowing a two-foot putt in golf, doesn't just happen. Planning and organization was highly instrumental in the AFL club's "getting there first."

When the lines were clear we contacted Vinney Scully, in charge of Operation Sign for the Raiders this year:

Q — "Your club did a fantastic job of signing prospective players this year in competition with 21 other teams. How did you do it?"

A — Teamwork! Consider our first signing. Team one surrounded and blocked off the prospect's house. In fact, the work of our mobile crew was terrific, closing off the street with their detour signs. And you certainly have to compliment our underground. They have a man who's a wonder with clippers on telephone wires."

Q—"Just how effective was this particular effort?"

A—"Dallas and Vancouver got there four hours and 45 minutes after our signing and as far as we know San Diego is still trying to explain to A T and T why their man was handcuffed all night at a roadside pay phone."

Q—"Could you give us a few more examples of this deft procedure?"

A—"Our prize effort was the signing of our third draft choice. We inked him in the middle of a philosophy mid-term, right between 20-pointers on Spinoza and Descartes.

"But it wouldn't have been

Ice Fishin' . . .

By KEN MACK McCREARY

If you like to catch fish, this is one of the prime times of the year to be wetting a line!

No — I haven't cracked under the strain of holiday shopping — it's ice-fishing time, and during the next few weeks those of us who enjoy this wintertime sport will be landing fish at a faster clip than any other time of the year.

OF COURSE, it depends on where you're ice-fishing and how, but the experts have the figures to prove that the success rate of fish-per-hour taken through the ice is higher than any open water angling — even the spring feeding spree of our finny friends.

CITY INCOME TAX LAWS CHALLENGED...

Time For A Change?

The 1965 session of the Ohio General Assembly will be asked to enact city income tax reform legislation. This problem area deserves the most thoughtful concern of all legislators.

This is a question that demands mediation or arbitration if necessary, from the state level of government. It is abundantly clear that amicable agreements just cannot be reached at the local levels of government.

Columbus collects income tax from all who work in that city. The vast majorities of the work forces of Bexley, Grandview Heights, Gahanna, Grove City, Hilliard, Reynoldsburg, Upper Arlington, Westerville, Whitehall and Worthington pay the Columbus tax. The same is true of those who live in the villages and unincorporated areas, and who work in Columbus.

The "core" city of Columbus and its suburban communities is a typical example of the problems faced by other metropolitan areas throughout the state. Let's examine the relationship between Columbus, Reynoldsburg and Whitehall.

The Columbus city income tax law specifies that all persons who work in Columbus must pay a one percent tax on all income gained in Columbus. While the ordinance does not provide for reciprocity, it does permit a credit of up to one percent for Columbus residents who work in other cities which impose an income tax.

Basically, this means that Columbus residents who work in Whitehall—where a one percent income tax is in effect — pay their tax to Whitehall. Conversely, Whitehall residents who work in Columbus pay their tax in the city of employment.

Despite the fact that most Whitehall residents work in Columbus, Whitehall actually benefits by the lack of reciprocity between the two taxing municipalities. Because part of the Columbus General Depot is located in Whitehall, the suburban community collects more tax money from Columbus residents than the "core" city of Columbus collects from Whitehall residents.

It is not too difficult, therefore, to understand why most Whitehall officials are against any change in present state statutes governing income tax laws.

Reynoldsburg, however, faces a vastly different situation when the same Columbus tax law is applied to its residents. It makes no difference that Reynoldsburg has no income tax law; the situation would be the same in either event.

Virtually the entire Reynoldsburg work force is employed in Columbus. There is little source of employment in that community for its own residents, much less for residents of Columbus. This means that there is no means by which Reynoldsburg can recoup any of the money its residents pay to the city of Columbus.

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford presents what appears to be a compelling argument for tax reform legislation. He says residents of his city pay an annual $250,000 to the city of Columbus — half of what they pay for the suburban city's total operating budget.

Twyford says he does not dispute the Columbus income tax in principle, but that the present system has the effect of pre-empting Reynoldsburg from even considering income tax as a source of revenue. Government leaders in most other Columbus "satellite" communities expressed general agreement that existing city income tax laws penalize the non-industrial suburban communities.

Records in the Columbus city income tax division do not indicate how much of the tax revenue comes from non-residents. It is generally agreed, however, that any plan calling for a "sharing" formula would be a severe jolt to the city's general revenue fund.

Last year's income tax revenue amounted to just over $14 million, with 25 percent of that amount specifically earmarked for the capital improvements fund. The remaining 75 percent represented 51 percent of all general revenue funds collected by the city.

A tax reform bill that calls for the "core" cities to rebate funds or allow credits on the basis of residency of those employed within the taxing district could pose a serious financial dilemma. Obviously, the alternatives would rest between a curtailment of city services, or the institution of new or increased taxes.

It would appear that there is no easy solution. Clearly, the needs of the "core" city should not supersede the rights of the suburban community. Neither should the "core" city be penalized because greater numbers of people are fleeing to the relative quiet of the suburban residential areas.

A continued dodging of this problem could have serious consequences. It could lead to a form of state income tax born of political expediency. This could be the forerunner of "Big Daddy" government at the state level. Our legislators would do much better to work for legislation which will continue the concept of local control of local government problems.

'THE GRIST'

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

THE GRAND OLD FLAG — "From my youth up" I have recited from memory Orator Daniel Webster's apostrophe to "That glorious ensign of the Republic, now known and honored throughout the earth."

Alas! Shingle-shaker Da-NI-el was never forced to eat "that glorious ensign of the Republic" by a mob of Dark Continent insurrectionists. Nor was he ever in a U. S. Embassy during its bombardment by tomatoes.

Oh, for one single day of Teddy Roosevelt!

THUS SAITH THE LORD — In a scene in "The Green Pastures" the Lord ("De Lawd") and Gabriel are in heaven's balcony, overlooking the star-lit world. The Lord muses:

"My people are so strange. There are so many things I want to do for them, but they won't let me. All they take an interest in is what they do for themselves."

"But, Lord," asks Gabriel, "What if they don't do the things You want to do for them?"

Saith the Lord: "I have made no other provision."

Making That For This Christmas Or Next?

Frosting Under Fire

Ever since the last election it has been interesting to reporters of the American scene just to watch the political small fry rush into the aftermath of the Republican debacle.

Congressmen in both houses, be they lame ducks or incumbents, have all tried to jump the gun about the future rebuilding of the Republican Party. Most of these statements have been far too hasty and too many of them have been careless.

No one has seen our level-headed Jimmy Rhodes jumping into the post-election hullabaloo. Jimmy is just too busy tending to his job as governor of Ohio to waste any time and energy in "going off half-cocked" about anything. He realizes that the election is over, period, and now is the time to give all he has to running the state.

Senator Goldwater did make a contribution as a timely poultice to the hectic situation that has existed ever since FDR took office in 1933. Now he is well off and many of us hope he sees that as clearly as he should. Twenty-seven million of us lost a battle, but the war is not lost by any means. More people than ever before do realize that a sane and honest Centrist Position is possible and long overdue.

As of this moment, the Republican Party does not have a candidate for President. Lodge, Scranton, Hatfield, Nixon, Rockefeller all have leaped into it and the people go right along thanking God that we have four years in which to sort the wheat from the chaff of political double-talk and come to a forward-looking decision in 1968. The politicians propose, but the people dispose.

Poisoner Brought Tragedy To Reader

To the Editor:

It saddens me tonight as I read your front page. (Hilltop Edition, Dec. 3, "Dog Poisoner Sought In Valleyview.") It brings back memories of my childhood and I have great fears that the same tragedy could strike a family in our Valleyview area.

I was nine years old and getting ready for school when our puppy became ill. Our little three-year-old brother was crying broken heartedly because his "very own puppy was awfully sick." We walked to school slowly and sadly that day because we loved our puppy very much and our little brother was so sad.

At 11:30 a neighbor came to school and called us from our classroom. Our dog and our brother were both dead. We had a murderous fiend in our neighborhood who disliked dogs so he or she went out throwing strychnine in yards, killing several dogs before they killed our brother.

By touching the dog to comfort him, this little boy got enough poison to kill him immediately when he took a roll from a neighbor who came over to comfort him.

I'm sure the officials of Columbus and the Hilltop area realize how serious this fiend can be. So please, through all the television channels and the newspapers warn all parents in this area not to let their children eat anything without checking it. They should scrub their hands after they touch any suspected foods.

Home Again And Happy

(Editor's Note: Following are excerpts from letters we received from the four fine Suburban Homemaker finalists who were sent to Chicago, Nov. 18-20, as guests of The Spectator to compete for the national title.)

I wonder if you can imagine what the Suburban Homemaker contest recognition means to a winner? Among the cards of good wishes I received was one from my third grade teacher . . . and that was a long time ago. It is a fine thing for a newspaper to honor the homemakers of today. I enjoyed reading the other letters submitted and felt that you had a winner in every one . . . we were four very happy homemakers to be chosen from so many.

Mrs. Robert G. Arnold

The trip to Chicago is one I will never forget. The experience of meeting other homemakers is truly enriching and inspirational . . . I must tell you that I loved my first travel by plane . . . Through you I have returned to my family with increased enthusiasm for my 'job.'

Nancy Morris

The trip was wonderful—you can't imagine what it meant to me! All my work seems easier now. I have received so many nice notes and phone calls from strangers. Even though I didn't win the money I feel I won the "big prize" by just coming in contact with such nice people.

Helen Kumler

I feel that you were more than generous in sending four homemakers. We had a lovely time . . . the plane trips were great and the conference was a grand experience. Thanks also for the lovely luncheon and the gifts. I know this will stand out in my life as a most joyous experience.

Biggest U.S. Charity 'Charming Rathole'

LA PAZ, Bolivia — The bellboy showed me into my room, deposited my bags, and bowed out the door. I turned to the business of unpacking. Suddenly the door to my bathroom opened and a little man in a trenchcoat emerged smiling sheepishly. He murmured something in Spanish about hunting for the maid and scuttled away. I went in and looked behind the shower curtain.

But I found later it was all really quite regular. My visitor was the police. My bathroom looks out upon the back windows of the Paraguayan embassy. Since the Nov. 4 revolution, Col. Claudio San Ramon, head of Internal Security in the deposed Paz regime, has taken refuge in that embassy.

Jones

Col. San Ramon is not popular. When the mob broke into his luxurious home they found two bloody cells in the basement. So, while it is expected that other members of the late government will soon be forgiven, my friend was placed in my bathroom to help make sure that Col. San Ramon will not leave his sanctuary alive.

This business of fleeing to foreign embassies when the world turns is an honored ground rule in Latin America. All the Latin nations signed the treaty of Havana which provided that you can't be tagged out if you can get to first base. First base is any Latin embassy.

Poor Haya de la Torre spent six years in the Uruguayan embassy in Lima, but, mostly, you need only stay until revolutionary tempers cool. People are no longer sleeping on the floor in the Argentine embassy and guests at the Papal Nuncio are down to eight. It was rather a neat little revolution, and only 50 killed.

Bolivia is the biggest American charity, per capita, since our disastrous effort to make friends of the Laotians. In the past 12 years we have poured in $400 millions in U.S. grants and loans. Bolivia's 4.2 million overwhelmingly-Indian-and-mostly-illiterate citizens can certainly use money. The average income of $100 is lower than that of any country south of the border except Haiti.

There is only the nagging question as to whether our money will do lasting good. Bolivia's only export of importance is tin. In 1952 the government seized the big mining companies, the fabulously rich owners of which had paid their labor starvation wages. Immediately, the Communists moved into control of the mine unions and the most outrageous featherbedding got under way, which the government was unable to control.

Three years ago, the cost of producing Bolivian tin reached $2.10 a pound while the world price was $1.20. American taxpayers made up the difference to keep the country alive. Even then the currency was inflated to the point where the Boliviano skidded to eight one-thousandths of a cent. Since then, a new unit, the peso, has been issued, worth 1,000 Bolivianos. This business of ruining the currency, knocking off a few ciphers, and saying, "Look, we have good money again!" is a subtle swindle.

Recently, the tin business has been better. The other big producers — Indonesia, Malaya and the Congo — are all in chaos and the price is up to $1.80 while the Bolivian production cost is down to $1.40, due to the introduction of better machinery. But the best veins are playing out. Production has dropped from 32,000 tons 12 years ago to 25,000 tons this year. No one knows whether rich new reserves can be found.

Oil may be promising. The Gulf company has recently hit enough production near the eastern city of Santa Cruz to justify investment in a pipeline to the sea. There is also a promising new gold strike in the north. But perhaps the real untapped riches of Bolivia lie in the vacant, wet, tropical lands near the Brazilian border. Because the Indians stubbornly prefer to live on the high, dry Altiplano, the Bolivian government recently has admitted small colonies of Japanese and Okinawans which are growing rice like mad. The government is also fearful of their energy and industry. These people may not leave their villages.

Everything is wrong with Bolivia. The water is polluted, the food suspicious. Superstition is rife. Workmen will not start a building unless the good-luck charm of a llama fetus is buried beneath the cornerstone. At least 25 per cent of the imports are smuggled, and a recent minister of interior was reputed the biggest smuggler of them all.

There is no longer any big wealth to confiscate but taxes are still cheerfully and generally avoided. The law imposes taxes only on the "base wage." So the clerk accepts a base wage of $50 a month and happily pockets "bonuses" of $150.

"Students," including some pretty venerable Communist agitators, seem to spend most of their time painting slogans on walls. The streets are lined with exhortations: "Death to ——," "Long live ——," etc. But it can be frustrating, too. Today you may paint, "Vota Communista," but tomorrow your sign will read, "No Vota Communista." There are 19 political parties, not counting a Nazi party, the swastikas of which are everywhere, but which is said to consist of only 10 indefatigable painters.

High (La Paz at 12,500 feet nestles in a magnificent gorge 1,000 feet below the airport), beautiful (your plane skis over the ice-capped cones of 21,000-foot volcanoes), picturesque (the Indian women in their derby hats and colorful shawls are everywhere), and friendly (Bolivians treat tourists well and deserve more of them).

Guest Pulpit . . .

I was in a doctor's office. Waiting! What else does a person do there?

As I leafed through a medical journal, a title caught my eye: "Millions Suffer from Silent Sickness." Maybe that's what I've got. "Do you eat much and often and yet never seem satisfied? Some may suffer lifelong cravings with no idea how to satisfy this hidden hunger for the nutritional balance essential to a healthy body."

Rev. Didier

Hidden hunger! How many a person went away from the Thanksgiving table filled yet empty, well fed but still hungry?

Some crave excitement. They create a merry-go-round existence, always in a whirl, a hurry, charging from ecstasy to fantasy. Could this be symptomatic? No real thrill of life inside?

Some hunger to possess things: a house, a bigger house; a car, a longer car; trinkets and treasures; baubles and bubbles.

Do such obsessive possessors suffer from a sense of being themselves, unpossessed by any compelling purpose? Are they searching ceaselessly through the world's clutter of things in the frantic hope of finding some tag end of meaning, the faint tracery of a pattern, the forgotten route of a lost map that will show them where they have been and where they are going?

Some thirst for social affairs, joining, going, meeting, talking. Could this mean no real conversation with themselves and no meaningful companionship with God?

Some strive to identify themselves with big names and great events. Is the dimension of greatness that only God supplies lacking in their lives?

And what is the heavy drinker running from? Why is he hiding from real life?

We are taking good care of our physical needs. But what are we doing about our hidden hunger? Are we developing anemia or malnutrition of the spirit?

EARLY COLUMBUS

From various histories we learn about what Columbus must have looked like in its very early days.

Lucas Sullivant founded Franklinton, just west of the Scioto, in 1797 as the first permanent white settlement in Franklin County. Later he built the first bridge over the river where Broad-st now is.

John Brickell, at age 16, built and lived in the first cabin east of the Scioto. Others followed and in 1812 the state legislature accepted the offer made by the four original Columbus proprietors of two 10-acre tracts for state buildings. One of these was the present Capitol intersection with High-st.

that became the site of the first penitentiary. Here, incidentally, the first legal hangings took place, one of the prisoners being a woman.

In 1812 Columbus appeared as a broad plain bounded by low, wooded hills. The cabins stood in their clearings at Mound and High. Another was on the incline of a bluff near Front and State-sts. John Brickell's cabin and garden were farther north, in front of the present penitentiary site.

Except for the few clearings, the land was covered by a dense forest, mostly of oak, beech, maple, and walnut, sheltering nesting birds, wild turkeys, squirrels, deer, and a few bears. There was a profusion of wild berries, grapes and other fruits.

High-st was Wolfe Ridge. Springs and frequent torrents flowed into a gulley later to be filled as Spring-st. A broad morass was at Fifth and Broad-sts. Crooked-wood Pond was at Broad and 20th. Haskins Pond was at State and Fourth.

This was Columbus 150 years ago.

It says here . . .

For many years there was neither time nor money to dig stumps out of High-st.

FARM FORECAST

Farm prices dropped slightly nationally during November. In the Buckeye State prices were three percent off November, 1963. At the same time, prices paid by farmers edged up. This accounts for the drop in parity ratio.

The big decline for the most part was hog prices. Fruit prices also dropped. These were partially offset by the higher prices for wholesale milk, tomatoes and potatoes.

Hog prices dropped $1.20 a hundredweight to a national average of $13.90 per hundredweight. Beef cattle were down 20 cents per hundredweight.

Usually, we try to stay with Ohio agriculture, but pass along national and international items of common interest to the Ohio producers. In answer to a question from a farmer in Delaware County, I direct the next paragraph.

U. S. farm produce goes to more than 150 countries around the world, 61 percent of the $6 billion worth of exports in 1963-64 were destined for 10 countries. The top five markets, in order . . . Japan, Canada, United Kingdom, The Netherlands and West Germany.

The government has bought more than 364 million pounds of beef costing more than $202.8 million since the beef purchase program began Mar. 2, this year. The beef has been distributed to the school lunch program, needy persons and welfare institutions.

The insect war continues to provide better pest insecticides for us on the farm as extensive research brings to light better chemical structure and better application methods. Dr. Edward Knipling, director of entomology in the USDA Research Department insists that chemical pesticides still remain the most effective and practical weapons for quality production. He advises that farmers be more selective as well as more informed in latest developments of pesticides.

See Clay Eaver's Farm Forecast weekday mornings, 6:30 to 7 a.m. on TV 4.

Hey Mom — Read This

The Spectator Want Ad Department can't imagine Santa without a red suit. They'd like our boys and girls to color his suit and maybe win a new toy for Christmas.

While the youngsters are busy you can check around the house. Maybe you have some "good as new" toys, trains, bikes, etc., which you would like to sell before Christmas.

Your "don't needs" can be turned into "Christmas Cash" in time if you will call right away:

SPECTATOR WANT ADS

CONGENIAL COLES ROLL OUT CARPET

One who knows Jim and Dorothea Cole and their good taste in everything can well attest to the use of the same quality when they recently went into an expansion and remodeling program for their Cole of Columbus, Inc., at 4560 N. High-st.

The Swedish lodge exterior on the new two-story south wing and the greatly expanded ground floor quarters conform to the original building. Inside, the color decor includes varied tones of wisteria ranging from pastel orchid to jewel-toned lavender.

Deep-piled wisteria carpets with harmonizing walls and highlighted by Pompeian antique green furniture complete the setting. New feather-weight aluminum chairs with hot pink cushions of textured plastic spark the romantic decor.

The second floor of the new wing with 1,500 square feet of added space is devoted to a perfectly appointed bridal salon. Here the bride-to-be has an opportunity to view the gowns in a church and candelabra background where she may also be posed for bridal pictures back of wood soundproofed curtains on switch tracks designed by Mr. Cole. This innovation provides special private rooms for modeling and consultation.

Wendy E. Dobbs presides over the balcony reception headquarters and gives information on catering, photographic services and proper etiquette.

Cole's Beauty Salon has been enlarged to include one-third more space on its first floor location in the new wing. Technicians work under new custom-made lights.

Red-carpeted sidewalk leads customers into the ground floor of the lavish dress shop which has been expanded by more than 1,300 square feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole invite the public to visit their new business home where Mrs. Cole offers petite and popular sizes in the new sportswear department featuring a variety of exclusive and colorful imports.

The exciting new gift boutique with custom-designed pyramid display cases, a large fieldstone fireplace with hammered cone-shaped hood, is headquarters for a dazzling assortment of silver, ceramics, wood and pottery gathered from all over the world.

Traditional ready-to-wear lines of dresses, suits, coats, designer fashioners, millinery, handbags and accessories have been greatly increased, according to Mrs. Cole.

As one steps in the door and is welcomed by the blazing open fireplace, the warmth of the Coles is immediately reflected.

At left is Mrs. Joseph Swingle showing some of the items to Mrs. Jack Storts. Bows, candles, corsages, centerpieces, pecans, cookies may be ordered by calling 263-1423 or 279-6615.

COFFEE BREAK

Honey - Please Don't Forget My Bandaids

By ADELINE DALEY

Whenever I shop for food and sundries, customers behind me in the check-stand line must assume that I'm leaving on a six-months' excursion into Outer Tibet. I've figured that with the time I spend composing grocery lists each week I could be writing the great American novel.

Despite these efforts to assure a well-stocked larder, I am continually out of certain items. Heaven help the day we have to move into a bomb shelter. I'd be sure to forget something vital—like food.

Of course, I've grown accustomed to finding our refrigerator stripped within 20 minutes of a supply of 59-cent-a-pound fruit. Hiding anything from my seven kids is like hoping that an invasion of boll weevils will bypass your cotton plantation.

I've also given up trying to hoard soft drinks. — even the bottle of Coca-Cola I used to hide in the chandelier for myself.

The fastest "disappearing act" of all is Maraschino cherries, with potato chips second and salted nuts third.

What frustrates me most, however, is being out of wrapping paper, Scotch tape and/or ribbon five minutes before one of my children is to leave for a birthday party. I seem to buy gift-wrap by the case lot and ribbon by the mile; but where is it now?

Shoelaces are another article I never seem to have at the right time. And the lace in one of my husband's shoes invariably breaks five minutes before he is to leave for work.

Barbecue lighter fluid is another item on the "missing list." My husband will have the steaks marinated, the briquets laid out in the barbecue pit and then I discover that I have forgotten to buy fluid.

Because I cannot always drive to the supermarket to pick up forgotten items, my usual recourse is to call my husband at work and ask if he'd mind stopping at the store on his way home.

Bread or milk he doesn't sem to mind, but I am given the distinct impression that he is not thrilled to pick up things like a lone bottle of vanilla extract, a jar of mustard or a can of cat food, which are but a few more of the "Forgettables."

The all - time, all - points favorite that I find missing most often is Band-Aids. Again, I purchase enough of them to supply any pro football team but it's impossible to find one when one of the kids comes running into the house bleeding.

I guess I'll just have to learn to live with the situation. Or rather, live without.

The paperback book is being used by students more and more both in and out of schools these days. Students bought 15 to 20 pecent of the 275 million paperbacks sold last year, according to the National Education Association.

Festive Mistletoe Ball Is Event Of This Friday

The Junior Division of the Symphony Club of Central Ohio will hold its 29th annual Mistletoe Ball on Friday, Dec. 11, at the Neil House.

Chuck Selby and his orchestra will play from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m., before a bandstand banked with live evergreens.

Mannequins dressed in old-fashioned clothes will depict caroling and sleigh riding scenes in the ballroom. Frosty white net Christmas trees placed on dark green tablecloths will serve as table decorations. At midnight a festive buffet supper will be served.

Chairman of the 1964 ball is Mrs. Ferd Pickens, II, and co-chairman is Mrs. James E. Elliott. Mrs. Ted N. Cook is ticket chairman. Miss Jan Spohr is co-chairman of publicity.

Proceeds from the ball are a major contribution to the Symphony Club of Central Ohio which brings to Columbus each concert season outstanding orchestras of this country and the world.

IS PRESIDENT

MRS. BERTHA K. Robins, 73 Garden-rd, was recently named president of the 37th Division, Veterans Association, Ladies' Auxiliary. North Residents Invited To Decorate Yule Tree

The Michigan-av section of the Near Northside Neighborhood Council will held a community Christmas party Friday, Dec. 11 at Michigan Avenue School Playground. The tree which will stand throughout the holidays, will be lit at 6:30 p.m.

All residents are requested to bring an ornament to place on the tree. A "carol sing" will be followed by a visit from Santa.

The council also encourages all residents between First and Fifth-avs and Neil-av and the Olentangy River to decorate the outsides of their homes. The displays will be judged on Dec. 16 at 6:30 p.m. and four winners will be chosen. The grand champion will receive a trophy.

SKI CLUB PLANS SNOWFLAKE PARTY

The Columbus Ski Club will hold its Snowflake charity party Friday, Dec. 18, at the Gloria Restaurant, 2195 Riverside-dr, from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

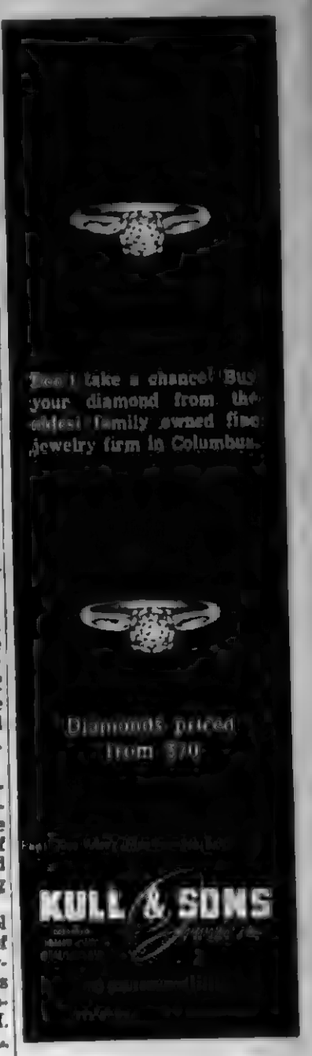
Ludwig Linke of Pataskala, one of the organizing members, will speak on chapter history.



Mrs. Edith McMullen Dines, Mrs. Elizabeth Darragh Petree, Mrs. Dorothy Hayes Linke, Mrs. Flossie Jones McLeskey, Mrs. Blanche Romans McVey, Mrs. Eva Carpenter Morgan, Miss Catherine E. Cromley, Miss Mildred Gilmore Durbin, Miss Mary C. Evans, Mrs. Harriet Cromley Martin, Miss Ann Catherine Hayes and Mrs. Mabel Harris Hayes are all organizing members. Charter members are Mrs. Alice Johnston Sands, Miss Dorothy Josephine Darragh, Mrs. Charlotte Rowe Gamble, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter Herbert and Miss Amanda A. Thomas. Miss Thomas holds the position of state regent, Ohio DAR.

Three of the Ann Simpson Davis chapter members are 90 years of age or older. They are Mrs. Harness Renick of Richards-rd, Miss Cora Jane Harmon of Oakwood-av and Mrs. E. R. Abernathy of N. High-st.

Today there are 187 members participating in 32 different committees. Betty Zane committee is composed of women between ages 17 and 35. Mrs. Homert B. Tussing Jr. is chairman.

The Whetstone High School chorus, under the direction of Miss Ruth Morgan, will entertain. Hostesses will be Miss Bernice Ashbrook, Mrs. Robert Lee Hayes, Mrs. Edith M. Dines and Mrs. Richard L. Schwenke.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Changes In Popular Foods Are Of Interest

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

Fruits—apples (Winesaps and Romes), grapefruit, bananas, chilled fresh orange juice.

Vegetables—Cabbage, turnips, leaf lettuce, carrots, cucumbers, all-purpose potatoes.

Other—mixed nuts, peanut products, dairy products.

Changes are in store for three popular foods that will interest all food shoppers. They are:

Mrs. Franks

• FROZEN JUICES may be more concentrated. The rule-of-thumb of mixing frozen orange juice concentrate — three cans of water for each can of concentrate —may no longer be the general rule.

Effective Oct. 19, manufacturers are permitted to sell more highly concentrated juice under revised U. S. Department of Agriculture standards. This means you can make more juice from the same size can you buy.

The new USDA standards also allow manufacturers to add up to 10 percent of some citrus juices—such as tangerine juice—for better color and more flavor. Sweeteners can be added also if necessary for improved flavor. However, the orange solids content must meet a minimum weight standard regardless of how much sweetener is used.

The above changes are in line with definitions and standards of the Food and Drug Administration.

• PEANUT BUTTER. A revised food standard has been proposed by the Food and Drug Administration to assure consumers of a reasonable and practical amount of peanuts in the peanut butter they buy.

The proposed standard would require that peanut butter contain not less than 90 percent peanuts. The remaining 10 percent of optional ingredients permitted (with proper label declarations) would include salt, nutritive sweeteners, oils and others to make the taste acceptable and to counteract the tendency of peanut butter to stick to the roof of the mouth.

Should the peanut butter be made of unblanched peanuts the label would bear a conspicuous statement such as "Prepared from unblanched peanuts (skins left on)."

• HOW MUCH CHICKEN IN CHICKEN SOUP? After a long controversy as to the amount of chicken that manufacturers must put into soup, the USDA has announced that all ready-to-serve soup labeled "Chicken Soup" must have at least two percent chicken by weight. This standard applies to liquid, dried, or frozen soup, and becomes effective Jan. 1, 1965.

High Choral Festival Set Dec. 13 On Central Stage

The melodious beauty of choral singing will fill Central High School, Sunday, Dec. 13, as the West Side school hosts the annual Christmas Choral Festival at 2:30 p.m.

The program will consist of two presentations each by the senior high choirs from the 11 Columbus Public Schools.

Besides the choral program, there will be an organ interlude and carols by the audience before the festival finale —singing of the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" by the massed choirs of the schools.

The North High orchestra, under the direction of Thomas Dale, will provide accompaniment for the program.

Participating schools and directors include: Whetstone (Ruth Morgan), Central (Carol J. Evans), Broadhaven (Mary F. Winchester), Eastmoor (B. Neil Davis), Linden - McKinley (William Stillings), West (Edith C. White), Walnut Ridge (Jerome C. Maxwell), Marion-Franklin (E. C. Schick), [illegible] (Alma P. Terrell), South (George Steadman) and North (Evelyn L. Ross).

All 11 schools will hold a rehearsal for the Festival tomorrow at Central from 9 till noon.

Season—

he was known in the ring, fought in the days when the giants of fistic legend stalked the canvas trail to the Garden, and often their menacing shadows dimmed the view of his guiding light.

Then he would fight again, and win, and the light over the Garden that drew him along the rough trail would seem a bit brighter.

Penna fought 138 professional fights. He became New England's welterweight champion. Just when the light over the Garden seemed brightest, and closest, it went out.

Penna was blind.

They told him he might see again some day, if he had hope. Or maybe an operation . . .

The second of the three men is Stanley Doran.

Thirty years ago, Doran was a bright 12-year-old pupil who attended school at New Albany.

Doran was drawn by another kind of light, the one that seemed to fill the classroom and his eyes when his teacher revealed the miracle of books and education.

Doran hoped with all his young might that some day he, too, could become a teacher and evoke this beautiful light where there was darkness.

But one day the light blurred, and objects became strangely distorted.

A doctor explained that something had damaged the retinas of his eyes. He told Doran that the retina is a sensitive membrane, connected to the brain by the optic nerve, and receives the image formed by the eye's lens.

Doran would always see life in a blurred fashion, he said. Objects would always appear strangely distorted.

Unless, maybe, an operation . . .

The third man is Arturo Solas F.

Twelve or so years ago, Arturo was a foreman on a large farm in Guatemala where the darkness of communism cloaked the fields and the minds of his people.

One night Arturo, too, saw a light. He followed it and it led him to the city of Guatemala where he met a small group of other people who hated the darkness" of communism. They had formed a resistance movement.

Arturo joined in their secrecy, and worked hard and dangerously on The Plan which one day would allow his people to walk in the light of freedom.

One night Arturo, the 86th member of the Resistance Movement, approached a house where the communists were holding a meeting. He was unaware that he was observed, until the staccato sound of shots ripped the night.

There was a blinding flash of light, then darkness.

Later, when Arturo lay in the hospital, they told him that one of the bullets had struck behind his left eye. That even when the bandages were removed he would never see again unless he went to the United States and saw the great doctors there . . .

This could be the end of the story. The story of three men who, during a great part of their lives, groped through darkness following a bright star of hope.

But it is only the beginning.

Next week we will tell you how their lives crossed here in Columbus and how each came to a place where near-miracles occur.

Bus Bill Backers To 'Walk For Ride'

A group of Gahanna residents will take "A Walk For A Ride" from Dec. 9 through 13. The project title with a twist denotes a campaign to secure passage of a Fair Bus Bill in the 106th Ohio General Assembly.

The legislation, sponsored by Citizens For Educational Freedom, would extend public school bus transportation to children in the elementary grades of private and parochial schools.

The proposal has attracted considerable support outside the CEF organization, but has also been criticized by some who challenge the measure as a violation of the concept of separation of church and state. Prime benefactors of the proposed legislation would be children in the Catholic school system throughout the state.

Supporters of the measure contend that the question of constitutionality, both at the state and national levels, is not at issue. They point to a 1947 U. S. Supreme Court ruling on a New Jersey case in which the court affirmed legality of bus transportation for children in non-public schools.

Ohio Attorney General William Saxbe ruled in 1963 that legislative action would be necessary to permit bus transportation for non-public school children. Saxbe said that the U. S. Supreme Court decision determined that bus transportaiton for non-public school children was an exercise of public welfare for the benefit of the children concerned and does not violate the first and 14th amandments of the U. S. Constitution.

The Gahanna group of 40 to 50 parents of parochial school children will seek support through petitions addressed to Governor James A. Rhodes. They are one of many such groups in operation throughout the area and the state.

Buckeye—

cess is only one of the reasons ice-fishing is rapidly becoming a popular winter recreation . . . even though many folks look at us as though we're fugitives from a mental institution.

The recent development of light, effective thermal clothing and footgear takes away much of the chilly discomfort of standing on ice while a frigid wind whips around you.

ANOTHER DISCOVERY anglers are making is that fish taken through the ice are mighty tasty and provide a welcome change in the menu.

Still another reason for the increasing popularity is that ice-fishing gives you a good reason to get out of the house, avoid cabin-fever, and get some invigorating exercise.

The equipment and technique of fishing through the ice differ greatly from those employed in standard, warm-weather angling. Around these parts, we usually don't bother with the elaborate tip-up rigs, but use tiny rods about three feet long, usually fashioned from the tip section of a broken rod.

ATTACHED TO the rod by a simple line holder which serves as a reel is 15 to 20 feet of monofilament line (I personally prefer six or eight-pound test). To the end of the line is tied a leader of the lightest "mono" you can get away with, preferably only one or two-pound test.

This is a very important part of ice-fishing, because for some reason the fish-catching success is in direct ratio to the lightness of the leader.

To the end of the leader is attached your ice fly, either a "store-bought" type or a home-made one fashioned from a small No. 12 or No. 14 hook with tinsel or feathers tied on to attract the fish.

IN SOME instances, I've found that a small split shot at the eye of the hook will give the needed added weight to the fly. The live bait goes on the point of the hook—most popular around Spectatorland are meal worms, wax worms, or maggots.

In some lakes, if you're aiming for crappies, walleyes or perch, you may want to go to live minnows. We've found meal worms to be very successful and they can easily be raised in your basement. (My current colony runs in the neighborhood of 2000 — and my wife is about to disown me.)

The usual downstate technique of fishing through the ice is to keep chopping holes until you find the critters, which will ordinarily be schooled up. Then, after locating their depth, you're in business. Using the smallest bobber you can get, you jig the line up and down almost constantly.

THE ACTION comes when the bober begins circling and slowly sinks out of sight into the dark depths. The fish bite slowly and gently and it requires a bit of skill to figure just the right time to softly set the hook.

Around Ohio farm ponds are perhaps the best and most popular places to angle through the ice. Also, some larger lakes such as Buckeye attract their share of ice fishermen.

The bulk of your catch will probably be bluegills, with an occasional big-mouth bass adding to the excitement.

NEEDLESS to say, when you venture out, be sure the ice is safe. If you haven't tried ice-fishing, why not give it a go this winter. My bet is you'll join the clan — and enjoy it!

The board, headed by Frank Pace, faced with the resignation of the director Miss Rosemary Lattimer, made the decision last Friday to close at the end of the month. (Miss Lattimer has accepted the position of "director of life and activity" of the residents of Lutheran City, effective Jan. 1.)

Population Shift Cited

Developments which led to the evaluation of Friendship House and its subsequent dissolution are the drastic physical and population changes that have taken place in the area it serves and the shift in concept of the functions of such a center.

Where previously there had been an emphasis on recreation and group work services (usually for children), social authorities (and those footing the bill) generally believe that the need is for family services and development of desirable neighborhoods.

In brief, UCC support was withdrawn because of decreased population and an alleged failure on the part of the agency in keeping up with the developments of the field in which it was operating.

Four Recommendations Made

Four concrete recommendations were made in the extensive study by the Federation. The first was that of the phasing out of present operation with assistance given to families to attain any vital services thus taken from them. The second and third were to completely reconstitute the board in line with accepted standards and practices and to establish a position of executive director in accordance with standards set by the Board of National Missions and National Federation of Settlements.

The final recommendation was the consideration of a new center to serve the area south of the East-West Freeway and east of High-st.

New Center In 1965?

Although no steps have been taken to this end, it has been suggested that such a center, meeting with United Community Council approval and gaining the support of the Presbytery, could be in operation late in 1965.

A problem recognized by those familiar with the Main-st neighborhood is that of what will become of the building if left unattended.

A spokesman stated that previously pride in the house by those using its services has given it "immunity" from extensive vandalism.

However, with the doors closed, it is a moot question whether this loyalty will continue to be a force.

the part of this council to preempt the functions of the executive branch. As was pointed out in previous maneuvers of council to take over administrative controls of the city, such procedure was obviously not encompassed in our charter, the state of Ohio laws or the Federal Constitution. . .

"Better coordination and cooperation would be assured if this (cost-of-service study) were done in a logical manner and the (cost accountant) position put in the division at water where it belongs."

It is expected that council will override the mayor's veto of the plan, despite support for the mayor's position from some of those who had urged the cost-of-service study.

Tree Sale Pays For Kids Fete

All Whitehall youngsters, ten and under, and their parents will be the guests of Whitehall Firemen at their gigantic, annual Christmas party Sunday, Dec. 20, 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Fire Department, 390 S. Yearling-rd.

The firemen expect to entertain about 1000, the number attending in previous years.

Santa Claus will arrive in person and kids will be taken for rides on the city's red firetruck. There will be candy, fruit and popcorn, and movies. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to the adults.

The entire party is free — the firemen's gift to the community. All proceeds from the Christmas tree sale are used to finance the affair.

WITHDRAWS FROM PLANNING COMMISSION

Whitehall Council Weighs Pros, Cons Of Fairway Oaks

Whitehall Council, "in a moment of decision," Tuesday night pondered its responsibility in the development of the city's last area for quality housing, the 50-acre Fairway Oaks Subdivision.

Questions of legality were raised during the public hearing by William P. Lewis, attorney, speaking for himself and for Fairway-blvd residents he represented.

And Council President Walter Siemer stepped down from the chair to protest, as a private citizen, a zoning change that would allow construction of smaller homes as not being in the city's best interest.

The ordinance that would change zoning to permit the development was tabled until the next meeting at the request of James Maxwell, attorney for developer Todd Tibbals.

Maxwell's request was for time to have the lots exactly engineered, after Lewis called attention to incorrect dimensions on the preliminary plat.

Council also passed a resolution to withdraw from membership in the Franklin County Regional Planning Commission, immediately after authorizing the payment of $2,498.16, the city's assessment for 1964.

Lewis, while emphasizing that the area should be developed, expressed disappointment that the present zoning requiring homes to be of 1800 square feet of living space should be changed to allow homes of 1400 and 1100 square feet of living space to be built.

He urged that if council does approve the ordinance, steps should be taken to extend Etna-rd as soon as possible, to allow the proposed exit. And he also suggested that a third entrance, in addition to the one planned on Fairway-blvd, be included.

Lewis also pointed out that the present ordinance varies in several respects to the one originally submitted, and the current measure should be available for the public to examine for 30 days before council acts.

Siemer, admonishing that "council is in a moment of decision," pointed out that the tract between Fairway blvd and Hamilton-rd was the last to be developed in Whitehall.

The area around Country Club Village is still to be built up, but the homes are not of the same building standards as those on Fairway-blvd.

"This area (Fairway Oaks) is partially decided by the homes around it," Siemer continued. "Let's not lower the area. People want bigger homes now, with four bedrooms and at least two baths, and many of them are regretfully moving out of Whitehall because this type housing is not available in the city."

Maxwell countered that the objections voiced by Lewis and by Siemer were protected by Tibbals' continued control of the development. Purchasers of the lots must have Tibbals' approval of plans before they build, in respect to quality of construction and architectural design.

"These will be high priced homes and an asset to the city," Maxwell said.

Tibbals has described the development as "adding nearly 140 residences of quality to the city, and will be a

Purchase Of East Area School Sites Approved

Columbus School Board on Tuesday approved the purchase of sites for an elementary and a junior high school in the city's southeast, and has approved the tentative selection of a location for another elementary in the area.

The 12-acre site of a new junior high is located on the north side of Livingston-av, east of Big Walnut Creek and the proposed outerbelt, and east of Woodcrest Elementary, currently the farthest east building in the Columbus School System.

A new elementary will be constructed on a seven-acre tract on the west side of McNaughten-rd, about two-thirds of a mile north of Livingston-av.

And a location was tentatively designated as the site of a possible future elementary in the area bounded by Petzinger-rd on the north, Courtright-rd on the east, Refugee-rd on the south and U.S. Rt. 33 on the west.

The land purchases will be financed through the sale of $12,650,000 of bonds, approved by the board Tuesday. The sum is more than one-fourth of the $34,650,000 passed by voters in November.

The board also learned that tuition rates for children attending Columbus Schools while living outside the district, would be slightly lower this year.

An increase in payment from the State Public School Fund was cited as a major reason for the reduction.

Kindergarten students paying $13.46 per school month last year will pay only $12.79 in 1965; elementary grades drops from $26.92 to $25.57; junior high from $36.04 to $33.44, and high school, from $44.67 to $46.82.

Most tuition students are kindergarten pupils, school superintendent Dr. Harold Eibling explained.

'Santa Claus' Wears A Fireman's Suit; His Gift Is 'Breath Of Life' For Tiny Tot

By BETTY DAFT

..Nowhere will Christmas be more meaningful—more merrily or more gratefully celebrated this year, than in the home of little Denise Strait, 390 Beaver-av.

Her parents, sister Debbie, and brothers, Russ and Ronnie, and all the folks who love her are prayerfully aware that the holiday would have been tragically different without the precious gift of the "breath of life," bestowed on Denise last August by Whitehall Firerighter Don Harrison.

For long seconds that stretched into three minutes, Harrison literally breathed for the little girl with mouth-to-mouth technique, after she was seriously hurt in a freak accident. An auto rolled backward down a drive, wedging her in its under structure.

This, and his prompt action in skillfully directing her removal from the dangerous position is fully credited with saving Denise's life, and is the basis for Chief Arthur Reddy's application for a national life-saving award for Harrison.

Harrison recalled the situation vividly when he and emergency squadmen Raymond Norwood, now a member of the Columbus Police Department, and James Litton answered the call last Aug. 19.

"There was no pulse, no breathing, and she was blue. Her head was caught in the car's frame in such a way that it was badly twisted and made breathing impossible. And she had a fractured skull and internal injuries."

Anxious neighbors were starting to jack up the car to release her, but this would have wedged her tighter. Harrison and Raymond from their position under the car saw this immediately and ordered, "Lift."

"And hands appeared from everywhere," Harrison said wonderingly, "and the car was lifted enonugh to place Denise on a backboard and slide her out."

Apparatus Useless

Mechanical resuscitation was started immediately, but wouldn't work because of her twisted head and throat. And even as they were lifting her to a cot and hurrying toward the squad car Harrison started mouth-to-mouth technique.

"We were at Barnett and Main when she drew her first breath," Harrison continued. "The time since she had stopped breathing was about three minutes."

"A national award for Don Harrison — wouldn't that be

"WREATHED" IN CHRISTMAS pine and poinsettias, and happy holiday smiles, the faces of three-year-old Denise Strait and Whitehall Firefighter Don Harrison wore far different expressions when they first met. Denise was apparently "dead," with no breathing, no heartbeat, when Harrison removed her from beneath a car last August. His rescue actions are credited with saving her life, and are the basis for an application by Fire Chief Arthur Reddy for a national life-saving award for Harrison.

Whitehall Recreation Center Plans Pursued

Pressures of the season, not lack of interest in the project, was blamed for the disappointingly small crowd that attended the public meeting held Saturday afternoon to discuss plans for a new recreation center in Whitehall.

"Many people had to work because of the Christmas rush, others went shopping—and the Browns scheduled a ball game," John Bishop, Recreation Commission chairman, explained.

A questionnaire, designed to search out citizens' wishes on a recreation center for the community, will be distributed door-to-door, probably about the second or third week of January, Bishop said.

Only about 35, far less than the expected number, attended Saturday's session. But many have expressed an interest in the proposed facility.

The center, to be centrally located in the city, would include an indoor, Olympic-size pool, two gymnasiums, rooms for meetings and crafts, an indoor running track around the top of one of the gymnasiums, a pistol, rifle and archery range, and rooms for weightlifting and physical conditioning.

The recreation facility would benefit everyone in the city, the commission believes. It would serve as a social cen-

WINTER 'WONDER'... WHITEHALL'S ICE (D)RINK

RESIDENTS WONDER WHEN Whitehall's new ice-skating rink, dubbed "winter wading pool" this week, will be ready for use. The plastic liner for the 80 by 100-foot rink was placed last Friday afternoon, and the firemen filled it—and filled it, and filled it—with one eye on the thermometer that stayed stubbornly high, and the other on a leak that repeatedly let water escape before it could freeze. James Polace, service director, advanced the theory that stiff weeds under the liner had punctured the plastic. This, he said, could be repaired if it were drained and dried. But only a few nights of 15 degree temperature, with a daytime reading of 25 to 28 will be enough for solid ice, in the four inches of water, and will solve the problem. Meanwhile, Whitehall residents wistfully shine up their skates, and wait. The rink is on Yearling-rd across from City Hall.

Officials Stress Top-Flight Cage Sportmanship

The attitude of spectators at sports events reflects upon the schools and the community. If we are proud of the schools and of Reynoldsburg then all of us — children and adults — must put "our best foot forward' at ball games.

Most of us enjoy a good basketball game and it is natural to get excited, especially when our boys do well and the game is close. However, let's show our emotions by clapping and cheering instead of booing, name calling, stomping feet, etc. The referees aren't going to reverse decisions because of "boos," if anything it only aggravates them.

CERTAINLY we want our children to display good sportsmanship, but it is difficult for them when they continually see the opposite whenever they turn on television or attend a sports event. Perhaps both parents and teachers need to put more emphasis on proper conduct during competitive sports. If adults insist on good sportsmanship and, most important of all, set a good example, then our youth will realize the importance of this quality.

Remember when you attend these events you are thought of by others as representing a certain school — a certain community. Let's present a good image so Reynoldsburg will be thought of and remembered for the quality of good sportsmanship. (Submitted to the Spectator by the Reynoldsburg Board of Education.)

Fire-Safe Merry Christmas Rules Reviewed By Expert

Christmas trees, lights, decorations and wrappings should always be regarded as potential fire hazards, and care should be taken to keep holitrappings from turning homes into holocausts.

James Soteriades, Whitehall Fire Inspector, advises precautions can be taken against holiday fires.

Trees should be sawed at an angle an inch above the original cut, and kept in water all the time they are in the house. Only trees treated commercially with UL-listed fire retardent compounds are regarded as satisfactory to "flame-proof" a tree.

Care should also be taken not to locate a tree where it might block escape.

Artificial trees should also be selected and handled with care. Plastic and metalized plastic trees can burn, and metal trees, although not a fire hazard may become "charged" and dangerous if lighting strings are placed on them.

Decorating materials of metal, glass and asbestos should be used wherever possible, and combustible materials, such as paper and cotton batting should be flameproofed.

Polystyrene foam should not be used where wax candles are burning.

Gift wrappings should be disposed of promptly in a metal-covered trash container, not in the fireplace.

Only lighting equipment bearing the UL label is recommended for safe use, and all tree or indoor lighting should be turned off before retiring or leaving the house.

Costs of using most pieces of farm machinery decline rapidly until the use exceeds 100 hours a year, say OSU Extension economists.

Individuals and business firms may help by sending a check payable to "Gifts For Yanks" to Bexley Post chairman, Samuel Shenker, 155 S. Broadleigh-rd.

The program finances thousands of tax-free cigarettes, contributions to the six gift shops at VA Hospitals where patients may select gifts to send to their families, and books, as well as between-Christmas activities for veteran patients at VA and state hospitals.

This marks the 12th year the Ohio Legion has pooled its funds from all posts for gifts and activities benefitting 10,000 veterans in the state hospitals, six veterans' hospitals and the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Sandusky.

The late Eddie Cantor sparked the program by giving it its name and wholehearted support during World War II.

wonderful!" said Denise's grateful father, Louis Strait, an electronics technician at North American.

His wife, Peggy, added, "I've never, never been able to thank this man. Or our friends and neighbors — the Gene Shades next door were wonderful, and Dr. Elmer Diltz, and that team of doctors, nurses and interns in Children's Hospital Emergency Room.

"Only in my prayers have I been able to express what I really feel about these people"

Chief Arthur Reddy said quietly, "There are many times when you think you might have saved a life, times when you feel that you probably did — but this time Don Harrison did save this little girl's life. And because he remembered all he had been taught, and did what must be done."

Harrison, of 951 Rose-pl, is the father of six, and has been a member of Whitehall Fire Department for three and a half years.

Harrison himself protests, "Anyone with training could do this thing."

He is right. Many have the knowledge and the skill, and are prepared to act in this prompt, sure way. But only a few, now and then, are selected.

SECOND-GRADERS STAGE YULE PLAY

"FROSTY" starred along with all the other children's Christmas favorites in Beechwold School's play, "The Five Letters of Christmas," which was presented to the PTA and to the community, Dec. 10. The four second grades, including 140 youngsters, appeared in the cast, and the Sixth Grade Chorus sang. Miss Marilyn Obrecht, music teacher, directed the production. Peering wonderingly at classmate Bobby Grover in his Frosty costume are Flynn Finkelstein, at left, and Stella Hiatt. In back are, from left, Jeff Wall, Kris Lyons and Jeffrey Young.

Dedication Set At East Baptist

Christmas Sunday, Dec. 20, will be observed at East Baptist Church with special music at both morning and evening services.

At 7:30 p.m., the choir, directed by Tom Minshall, will present the cantata, "A Song Unending," by John Peterson. The children's choirs will sing at the morning worship hour, 10:45 a.m.

The new chapel and a memorial organ to serve the chapel will also be dedicated by the congregation at the morning worship service.

The installation of streets, curbs, water lines, fire hydrants, sanitary and storm sewers will be included.

Lack of evidence that Whitehall was benefitting from its membership in the Regional Planning Commission was cited as the reason for the city's withdrawal.

Paul Haytcher, city solicitor, said that the city may need to pay six months' membership assessment as liability after its withdrawal. Interpretation of the agreement was confusing, he said.

Rams, Hawks, East, Scots, Cards, Lions Seeking Wins

Eastmoor's steamrolling cage express humbled two more foes last week as the Warriors racked up their fifth straight win. E-M's 81-68 triumph over Aquinas came after rugged Steve Howell (21), Gary Cochran (20) and floorleader Jerry Groves (17) staked the Weyant-av five to a 46-23 intermission lead.

The Warriors waxed Franklin Heights by a 75-53 margin on Saturday behind the 23-point scoring of Howell and an assist from Cochran (16), Ron Bollie (12) and Groves (12).

Bill Courtney's City League front-runners (3-0) visit punchless Brookhaven (2-4) tomorrow night and hope to contain Eric Evans and burly Mike Wogan.

Hartley suffered its first setback in six games last week after topping St. Charles, 65-40, on Friday behind Tom Schlager and Frank Tafoya (18 each) and John Parker's 12.

The Hawks fell to Linden McKinley by a 65-58 count after pulling into a 49-all knot at the outset of the final frame. All five Hawk starters hit double digits led by Tafoya's 14, Parker's 13, Dave Thomas' 11, Steve McGrew's 10 and Schlager's 10.

GEARY BRADLEY'S unit, now 5-1 overall and 2-0 in CCL play, hosts Ready (3-2) tomorrow night. The Knights are led in scoring by 6'2 Mike Horgan and have improved considerably since last playing the Hawks.

Bob Hart's fast-rising East five crushed Marion-Franklin, 76-51, as junior Gil Mathews canned 16 third-period points and took advantage of 11 M-F turnovers in the same frame.

Mathews ended up with 28 markers and had 17-point help from John Lewis and 12-point assistance from junior guard Luther Curry.

The Tigers (3-1) entertain always-tough North (4-1) Friday evening in a City League contest. The Polar Bears are led by 6'4 All-City Bob Kanuth (19 ppg.) and Mike Clifford (13 ppg.) and can spring an upset on any night.

PHIL ALLEN'S Whitehall quint squeezed out a gritty 53-49 verdict over Worthington and pulled the Ram record up to 2-2 on the year.

Senior Jeff Barker won the hero laurels for the Rams against the Cards when he sank a clutch set of free tosses 38 seconds from the end to ice the verdict. Center Jim Dildine's 12, John McQuaid's 11, Beckley and Harvey Eader's nine aided the Ram point total against the Cards, now sporting a 1-1 CBL mark, the same as Whitehall's.

The Rams journey to Urbana (4-0) tomorrow and have to shackle high-scoring Van Evans (24.3 ppg) and sidekicks Don Corfman (6'4) and Dick Bills. On Saturday, DeSales (3-3) moves in on the Ram rectangle along with Stallion aces Kevin O'Brien and Tom Such.

ST. CHARLES fell to a 1-3 log following a tough 54-49 setback at North. Dick Geyer's five got twin-figure scoring from Dennis Craft and Tim Rooney (10 each) and are prepping for Friday's trip to Newark Catholic (1-3).

Bexley split two contests last weekend, bowing to Delaware 42-36 and winning over Brookhaven 44-41 in a thriller.

Delaware sped off to an 18-5 lead and never worried although Lions Robin Wells (11), captain Bill Salt (nine) and Mac Albin (eight) played well.

The Bearcat win was paced by Salt's 18, and Albin's 10. The former pushed in a fielder in the late going to ice the nod for Bexley, now 2-3.

JACK MOORE'S Walnut Ridge squad remained winless with two setbacks last week. Powerful Linden limited the Scots to eight points in the first quarter and coasted home despite eight-point efforts Mike Tanner and Pat Beveridge and Dave Feyh's nine.

The Scots lost a last-second setto to Sheridan by a 53-51 margin as Gary Love of the visitors made two clutch charities and offset a fine 19-point night by Beveridge and nine more by Tanner.

The Scots (0-4) play Central (1-3) Friday at home as speedy George Trammell (18 ppg.) moves in with forward Bob Chandler (11 ppg.) and 6'3 Leroy Fanning (10 ppg.).

Academy divided two contests, yielding to St. Mary, 56-52, after a miserable third-quarter and winning over Ohio Deaf, 44-42.

THE RAM setback offset fine nights by Pete Bigelow (14), Joe Lanman (13) and Terry Larrimer (12). The Deaf win was accomplished when Larrimer hit eight fielders, and Lanman had 11 points.

TIGERS AIM TO 'PALM' CL FOES

EAST'S CITY League cage fortunes this winter will lie directly in the large hands of these five Tiger starters as Bob Hart's Bengals seek another circuit crown with speed and talent. Coach Hart (kneeling) observes the hand artistry of (from left) senior guard Galen Bias (5'10), senior center John Lewis (6'2), junior forward Gil Mathews (6'1), sophomore forward Vance Carr (6'1) and junior guard Luther Curry (6'). Falcons' Holiday Tourney Highlights Thin Mat Slate

Franklin Heights rolled onward to its second consecutive wrestling win of the new season last week while Hilliard and Hamilton Township recorded initial victories.

The Falcon grapplers took their first five matches against Grove City and then closed with three nods in the final four efforts to topple the Greyhounds, 34-9.

Terry Napier (112), Tom Rose (127), Tim Andres (145), Greg Fleming (154) and Pete Miller (175) scored pins for the Wildcats.

Hamilton Township atoned for an earlier 24-23 setback to Jonathan Alder by crumbling Marion-Franklin, 48-3.

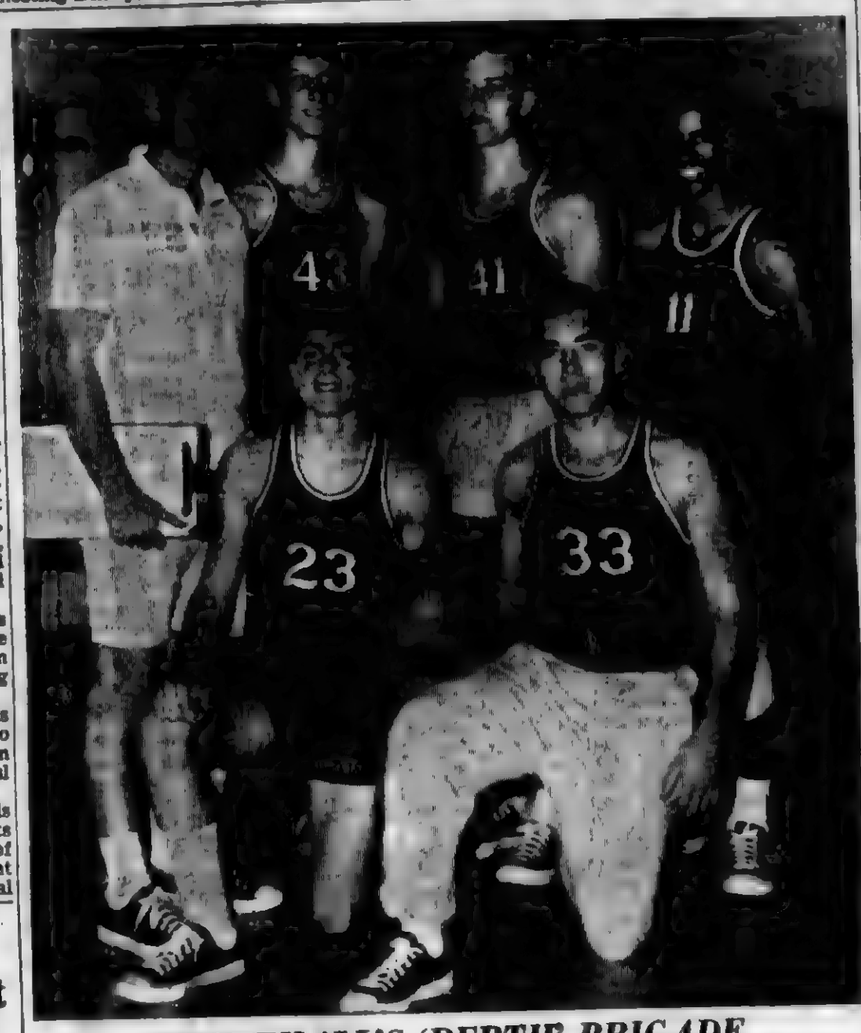
The holiday season curtails most schools' mat schedule but several matches are on the docket for the coming week.

A single meet Friday finds Groveport headed north to face a tough Worthington brothers, Alan (133) and Paul (127).

Top event of the week falls to unbeaten Franklin Heights which will host the likes of West, Hilliard and Pleasant View in the Falcons' annual Holiday Tourney Saturday.



South and Eastmoor close out the pre-Christmas slate next Tuesday — the Bulldogs opening up for the first time at Whetstone, the Warriors hosting Bexley.

Bob Greene Wins Student Press Award

Bob Greene, 2722 Brydenrd, Bexley High student, walked off with first place awards in two categories at the High School Press Press Club of Central Ohio Workshop, held at Ohio State University Saturday.

He was awarded firsts in spot news interview and news feature classes, a second in news story, and an honorable mention in the editorial category.

Other Bexley students winning awards at the event sponsored by OSU School of Journalism were, Carol Lubin of 216 S. Ardmore, second place in features; Jack Roth, 288 S. Ardmore, second in sports and Jon Kaplan, 2625 Powell, honorable mention in the spot news category.

WHITEHALL'S 'DEPTH' BRIGADE

Little Buckeyes Preparing For Florida Bowl Junket

The Little Buckeyes undefeated little league football team has accepted a bid to play in the Christmas Holiday Bowl to be played in Key West, Fla., the evening of Dec. 30.

The Little Bucks will play the Key West All-Stars, a team made up of outstanding boys from the Key West area little league teams.

The Little Buckeyes have had a successful two year record of no defeats while having only two touchdowns scored against them during the two year span.

The Eastside area team is made up of boys 11 to 14 years of age and a weight limit of 115 pounds.

Tom C. Krieger, director of the Little Buckeyes, announced that plans are being made to make the trip for the youngsters a real educational value. The team will leave Dec. 26 via Eastern Airlines for the bowl game trip.

While there the Key West Recreation Department will have educational tours of historic sites and also tour the naval base on the Keys. Various other activities are being planned and it is hoped that the youngsters will be able to take a boat trip and get in some deep sea fishing.

The boys themselves have helped raise funds by selling candy in the Eastside area. Contributions from interested individuals and organizations also helped make the bowl trip possible.

Coach Tom Krieger reports that the boys are working out after school on Wednesdays indoors at Christ the King and on Saturday and Sunday in Hartley High School's gymnasium.

No bells ring to signal class changes at Rocky River, O., Junior High School this year. The quiet is due to a new type of flexible student schedule which permits class periods to vary in time according to ject, and makes the use of bells impossible. The system allows intensive instruction and use of teaching techniques not easily adaptable to shorter periods.

Also, the Student Council has bought and decorated four Christmas trees which have been placed in the library, the cafeteria, the front lobby and the auditorium.

Christmas music by a woodwind ensemble, a brass choir, and the concert band was featured by the instrumental department. The choir sang "Pageant of Carols," "Twas the Night Before Christmas," and other seasonal selections.

The band is under the direction of Lawrence Griffin and the choir is directed by Richard T. Neikirk.

The choir is also making plans for the Christmas assembly which it sponsors each year for the student body. Members will wear the robes bought with the profits from a sale of Christmas cards and wrappings. Officers are Daryl Bojanowski, president; Sharon Pugh, vice-president; Kathy Short and Kathy Sutphen, wardrobe mistresses; Albert Evans, accompanist; John Nimitz, stage manager and Dixie East, secretary-treasurer.

If your garden needs organic material—and most do—you'll find all kinds of leaves, plant residues and other materials around your yard which can be turned under this fall. Better yet, why not start a compost pile? Pile the material to be rotted in alternate layers with garden soil. An application of 20 to 30 pounds of fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of surface area will hasten decay. Be sure to keep the pile moist and turn it over once or twice a season. It should be ready for use in six to nine months.

SHADED AREA SHOWS PROPOSED 77-ACRE CENTER

Huge Commercial Complex Coming To West Columbus

A 77-acre shopping center, commercial, and office building complex will be built on W. Broad-st at Georgesville-rd in Lincoln Village.

The vast new facility will be constructed by Visconsi-Mead-Jacobs Co., developers of Northland, on land adjacent to the Lazarus West store. Target date for opening is 1967.

Richard Jacobs, vice-president of the Cleveland development firm disclosed that negotiations are under way with several major retailing chains and that his firm plans to sign leases for about 60 stores in the huge new center. He said that a mall type concept similar to Northland will be employed and that parking is planned for some 5,000 cars.

The actual location of the center will be on an L-shaped tract of land which fronts Broad-st between Lazarus West and the land owned by the State of Ohio upon which the outerbelt will be constructed. This is at the southeast corner of one of the state's most important interchanges at W. Broad-st and the Columbus Outerbelt. An access for motorists using the outerbelt already has been provided. The site will extend almost 700 feet along Broad-st, and 2,249 feet along the freeway. Along Georgesville-rd it will run south 610 feet from Shoppers Lane to the Lincoln Park West apartment development.

Jacobs said that the land was purchased from the Nationwide Development Co., developers of the 1120-acre Lincoln Village community. The development company is a subsidiary of Nationwide Insurance.

Bowman Doss, Nationwide president, said "The establishment of a complex of this type in Lincoln Village is the fulfillment of a need not only for the citizens of that community but for the entire western section of Columbus and of Franklin County. The know-how and excellent taste of Visconsi-Mead-Jacobs has been proven throughout the United States and we are indeed happy to have them in Lincoln Village."

Edward F. Wagner, vice-president of Nationwide, said that announcement of the new development is expected to further stimulate growth in the Lincoln Village area. He said that hundreds of additional residential units will be built. He also pointed out that the Industrial Mile which Nationwide opened earlier this year is located in the same tract of land farther south off Georgesville-rd.

COLUMBUS POLICE Sergeant Bonnie Hutzell is at the "console," but not for a music recital. Hutzell, range sergeant at the new Police Academy, is demonstrating the latest in pistol range equipment. The console controls all lighting for the indoor range, flashes an outside "firig light" when the facility is in use, and sounds a warning alarm to shooters if any door behind the target area is opened. The mechanism also times the shooting periods and intervals between shots. A later modification will add a public address system and an inter-com to the console.

EXTERIOR VIEW of the new Columbus Police Academy building at 2906 McKinley-av. When the Training Bureau completes its move into the building, it will mark the first time that all training will operate from a single location. The transfer from fourth floor offices in the City Hall Annex was to have been completed today.

RECRUIT CLASS IS GRADUATED TUESDAY

New Police Academy In Operation

This was the week "that was" for the Training Bureau of the Columbus Police Department. It included moving of Police Academy operations to the new facility at 2906 McKinley-av, graduation of a 27-member recruit training class and grading of written examinations for those who hope to become members of the next training class.

The graduating class numbered 28, including a recruit for the Somerset, O., Police Department. Captain William O. Born, who has charge of the Training Bureau, pointed out that the class had no "washouts" from its beginning to Tuesday's graduation day. Actually, "washouts" are rather rare once the training class has started. This, said Born, is due to the quality of standards set for all potential trainees.

The new Columbus policemen have now begun cruiser duty, and for the first 40 days each will work under the direction of a selected "coach". This final phase of recruit training provides the new policemen the opportunity, under guidance, to apply classroom "theories" to actual street experience.

And even while the new policemen are "getting their feet wet" — both figuratively and literally — important steps have been completed in selecting those who will enter the next police training class. A Columbus Civil Service representative reports that written examinations given to potential recruits on Dec. 12 have been graded. The test was taken by 226 of the original 307 applicants.

Those who passed the written examination are to be assigned in the next few days for physical examinations. Those who pass the "physical" will be given agility tests. The final phase of selecting police trainees will include a personal background check.

Center Is Milestone

While the new policemen and the start of the next training class are of immediate importance, opening of the new Police Academy is a "milestone" in department progress. This week marks the beginning of centralized operation for both recruit and in-service training programs. The $300,000, two-story structure will be the schooling place for both male and female trainees.

While the building will permit full training operations for recruit classes of from 30 to 40 members, it will also accommodate simultaneous in-service training programs. As many as 100 persons can use it at any given time. Current plans do not include "living in" for trainees.

Centralization of training should increase efficiency of the six-member Training Bureau staff. The Academy is moving from a space allocation of 1,824 square feet on the fourth floor of the City Annex and a basement police range at Police Headquarters to a total of 13,824 square feet, including two indoor pistol ranges. The total operation is now at one location instead of three.

And there's room for expansion. The dining area, for example, may easily be converted to a classroom. New equipment will include an emphasis on "visual aid" materials for training.

The first floor of the building will house the pistol ranges and range officer quarters. On the second floor will be conference room, assembly room, library, two classrooms, a gun repair room and locker rooms for both male and female trainees.

Outdoor Range Improved

The safety features of the existing outdoor combat range were improved with a new concrete bullet stop and an earthen embankment around it. Additional lanes have been provided as a combat range, with an observation and control tower provided for both the outdoor pistol range and combat range.

The move to the new facility is being undertaken by the Training Bureau staff with the help of eight Workhouse inmates in the labor crew.

Mayors' Council To Air City Income Tax Issue

The Columbus city income tax and its impact on the suburban communities will be a featured discussion at the Jan. 6 luncheon meeting of the Mayors' Council of Franklin County.

Invited guests for the noon meeting at Gus' Fine Foods, 1480 Dublin-rd, include Franklin County State Representative Robert E. Holmes, Representative-Elect Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Mayor Robert Tracy, Loveland, O., and representatives of the Association of Equitable Taxation, Cuyahoga Falls, O.

Council President A. K. Pierce, mayor of Grandview Heights, placed the city tax question on the agenda at the request of Raynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford. A staunch advocate of city income tax reform legislation, Twyford has termed the Columbus-imposed tax "excessive, arbitrary and discriminatory."

In a letter addressed to each mayor in Franklin County, Twyford wrote:

"Consider the income tax an additional 10-mill levy, compare it to your own municipal tax levy, and then consider (that) the original Columbus tax levy was approved by a mere 34,169 voters living in the City of Columbus.

"Add the millions of dollars paid out by suburban residents employed in Columbus these past years, and we indeed have a problem of such serious magnitude that it merits our immediate attention. We now have over 76,000 registered voters in the suburban areas."

Twyford reiterated his charge that most state legislators outside Franklin County ignore the Columbus city tax. He said they "refuse to pay," and that even though they have voted themselves a pay raise, they "are not about to" pay the Columbus income tax. Twyford has also charged that most legislators refuse even to file a tax return with Columbus.

City Attorney John C. Young and tax division officials confirm that few legislators actually pay a city tax

All Buses To Be Diesel Soon

Complete conversion of the Columbus Transit System from trolley buses to diesels, most of them air-conditioned, should be accomplished by next summer.

That was the good news which accompanied a request Tuesday from the transit company president, Edward A. Pellissier, for an increase in the price of strip tickets.

Pellissier reconfirmed that the West Broad Street line will be converted to diesels Jan. 4. The only remaining trolleys — Oak-st, Main and N. High-st lines — should be converted by summer, he said.

Pellissier said that by April the company will have acquired 65 new air-conditioned buses (bringing the total of this type to 110) at a cost of $2,117,000.

To offset this cost, and that of labor and other items, he said Columbus Transit is asking city council to approve a price of $1 for four tickets, instead of $1.15 for five. Single fares would remain at 25 cents; 13 cents for students.

NYC Tank Car Explodes After Wreck

By TED BEARDSHEAR

There was an explosion.

A mushroom cloud billowed skyward.

People were upended like tin soldiers being knocked about by an angry child last Sunday.

Atomic holocaust?

No, it was an explosion of ethylene oxide in a tank car traveling the New York Central Railroad.

The tanker was among 12 cars that derailed because of a burned off journal (axle) near the intersection of Sullivant-av and Georgesville-rd.

Firefighters from Columbus and Franklin Township answered the call — the wreck burst immediately into flames — only to have some 40 of them injured, none seriously, as the tank car of chemical became a fireball of heat. It seared a section of the far West Side of Columbus, and sent up a mushroom cloud that was visible for some five miles.

"I know what nuclear warfare would be like now," said Columbus Fire Chief Walter Strickfaden. He was burned on the hands.

The fire was still smouldering Tuesday, an ominous reminder of something that could have been a tragedy.

Damage to railroad equipment alone was set at $48,000.

"The tumult and the shouting dies."

"The captains and the kings depart."

And the enlisted men too. They're going to the National Guard if Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has anything to say about it.

The 37th Division and the 83rd Infantry Division are to be remade as McNamara revealed plans to consolidate the Army Reserve with the National Guard forces.

Some 20,090 active reservists in Ohio will be affected by the move.

Making books has never been a prime Columbus activity, but bookmaking might be.

Under investigation by a federal grand jury in Cincinnati is alleged widespread bookmaking in Columbus. Some 80 persons, "most of them from Columbus," have been supboenaed in the probe.

Early Sunday morning, a blaze struck the second floor apartment of 39 S. Terrace-av.

Dead on arrival at Mt. Carmel Hospital were Mrs. Janet Allen, 55, and her daughter, Carol, 26, who died of smoke inhalation. Pronounced dead at the scene was Andrew Allen, Jr., 28.

The deaf husband and father of the family, Andrew Allen, Sr., was making Christmas toys in the garage when the fire broke out.

Faulty wiring was suspected as the cause.

The triple fatality occurred early Sunday.

Columbus Jet officials are expected to meet soon to determine if they want to offer to sell Jet Stadium to the city.

Harold Cooper, general manager of the Jets, informally proposed the move.

The 27 acres might be used by the city for a sports arena, it was reported.

GENERAL ALAN 'INSPECTS' WONDERLAND

UNLESS HE found himself locked overnight in a candy store, a four-year-old probably couldn't duplicate the thrill little Alan Held got last week as he took an official inspection tour of the Fairground's Buckeye Building where thousands of "Toys for Tots" were stockpiled. Alan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Held, 4151 Sexton-dr, was one of the thousands of children who provided a toy for a less-fortunate counterpart during the recent collection of new and used toys by local Marine Reservists and Boy Scouts. "General" Alan, touring the building via jeep with Sgt. Jim Buckley, 2219 Marcia-dr, and Paul D. Cavendish, 912 E. 17th-av, found "the Marines had landed and the situation was well in hand." The toys were distributed to the children last weekend, assuring a brighter Christmas for many local youngsters.

Novel Christmas List At Peck O' Wee Ones

There's 25 babies at the Peck O' Wee Ones awaiting Santa Claus.

All but four are bed patients at the home on E. Broad and all have had such serious brain damage that none will ever comprehend what Christmas means.

But those who care for them under the director Otto C. Heinzerling have prepared a Christmas list for them, and it is an odd one.

As year end approaches and the money gets low, there is a need for some very un-Christmasy things — like safety pins and baby oil, rubber pants and diapers, and talcum powder—all the odds and ends without which a nursery becames a nightmare.

This isn't a formidable Christmas list.

Heinzerling hopes that a few people will stop long enough in their hustle of buying the bikes and walking dolls and ice skates which these children will never use to help.

Two aides are also needed, for both daytime and evening shifts. Anyone who loves children to the point that they can see beyond their handicaps is asked to call him at BE. 1-4906.

Zettler Speed To Be Reduced

Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission recommended to City Council that Zettler-rd speed be reduced to 25 mph from Livingston to Petzinger, that Zettler stop for Scotwood and that school authorities have a school patrol at the intersection.

The commission also recommended to City Council that Kenwick-rd, from Livingston-av to E. Main-st be a 25 mph speed zone.

A small boy, puffing on a cigarette behind the garage, was slowly turning green. He turned sadly to his buddy and gestured with the smoke. "Even with 20,000 tiny filters," he told him, "I still get sick."

Sewer(OrParty)Lines?

Columbus City Council and the Sensenbrenner administration will begin the New Year in a position to solve a somewhat old problem — what to do about sewer rates. New Year's Day, by tradition, marks the close of the football season. May it also mark the end of this subject as a political football.

Some meaningful progress should be expected now that Findlay consultant J. S. Sawvel has submitted his sewer rate report. He has recommended a rate increase plan designed to add $1.4 million annually in sewer revenues. The rate schedule includes a 30 percent hike for residential charges and a 35 percent boost for commercial accounts.

Sawvel says adoption of his plan would increase total revenues by 35 percent and would permit a balanced program of both bonding and pay-as-you-go financing. He stressed the point that the "average" residential sewer rental fee would increase by only a penny a day to finance a $50 million program over the next five years. This will be a good point if and when the total Sawvel program is proved sound.

Council President William R. Fornof sees this method of financing as something less than the only reasonable solution. He suggests that the same needs can be met through bond financing, to the exclusion of any rate increases.

It is hardly a secret that key members of the Sensenbrenner administration favor a rate increase as the best means of meeting present and future sewer program needs. They say that use of all currently available revenue sources for bonding would fall short of providing financing for both capital improvements and maintenance-operations costs.

The merits of rate increases versus bond financing should be explored. But there is no reason why proponents of either philosophy should take six months, a year or longer to present their valid arguments.

Unfortunately, the question of who should introduce legislation on the subject of sewer improvement financing currently has the word "stalemate" written in the answer column. Administration members say that financing of programs approved by council is the responsibility of council. Council members say the administration should take the initiative in advocating methods of financing a program it will administer.

Closer to the truth is the thought that neither the council nor the administration wants to carry the ball when the "play" calls for a "score" against the taxpayers' wallet. It will be interesting to see which of the two branches of government is first to subvert petty politics to good government.

Bus Issue Tough One

Legislation seeking tax-supported bus transportation for children in the elementary grades of private and parochial schools (Fair Bus Bill) will be introduced in the 1965 session of the Ohio General Assembly.

Both proponents and opponents of the measure offer compelling reasons for their respective points of view. In the broadest and most general terms, the opposing contentions are essentially as follows:

Proponents term the issue one of safety and welfare of the children affected. They point to a U.S. Supreme Court decision affirming the constitutionality of a similar practice in New Jersey, and to the existence of similar legislation in 20 states. They cite Ohio Attorney General William Saxbe's opinion that neither the Ohio or U.S. Constitution prohibits the legislature from making legal such bus service.

Opponents of the proposal say its passage would violate the concept of separation of church and state. They term bus transportation an integral part of the cost of education. They say it is a means of bringing teacher and student together in a more centralized location and is not primarily a matter of welfare and safety. And they view the proposed bill as an initial step in a planned campaign to secure public tax support for a variety of costs incidental to religious-oriented educational systems.

Legislators will have the serious responsibility to base their decision on matters of law, fact and common sense. Backers and dissenters, alike, should confine their arguments to valid and pertinent points, and "cooler heads" should resist the heat of emotion.

Because the matter is of great concern to many people, we will seek and accept responsible comment from both sides. Any further editorial comment by us will be withheld until the "generalities" become "specifics."

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

TWO OHIOANS

Many history students, even some Ohioans, confuse the names of two Civil War officers—one a native of Ohio, the other an adopted son, both among those representing Ohio in the great conflict. Both were West Pointers.

Philip Henry Sheridan was born in Albany, New York in 1831, but was brought to Ohio. He was raised in Somerset and died there in 1888.

William Tecumseh Sherman was born in Lancaster, in 1820 and died there in 1891. His brother John, born in 1823, became a United States senator and secretary of state.

Two markers identify the house, now a museum, where the Shermans were born. One was put up by the GAR and allied organizations; the other by the Ohio Historical Society.

The house stands on a high hill near the Fairfield County court house on E. Main-st near S. High, also near the intersections of Ohio Routes 22, 158, and 188.

The front part of the house is brick; the rear, frame. There is a stone wall, also an iron fence. Double front doors are painted white, and there are "gingerbread" ornaments about the eves, stylish when the house was built.

"Cump" Sherman's father was an attorney and judge. After his death, Thomas Ewing made the boy his protege and eventually gave his daughter Eleanor (Ellen) in marriage.

In 1880, General Sherman, speaking in the old state fair ground, now Franklin Park, Columbus, made the famous statement, "War . . . it is all hell." A stone marks the spot.

It says here . . .

Ohio is still producing worthy sons and daughters.

'THE GRIST'
Ground Out by Dusty Miller

I HOPE everybody gets for Christmas what's coming to him.

* * *

LONG AGO, in Palestine, a Man went about doing good, devoting His life to seeing that everybody got what was coming to him — love and understanding.

Dusty

The good and faithful servant was promoted. Zac, in a tree, and Nic, by night, got new concepts — one on living, the other on birth. The penitence of a thief won him the promise of Paradise.

"Neither do I condemn thee" gave a woman of the street what was coming to her — an opportunity to "go and sin no more."

He looked into the flashing eyes of the spoiled daughter of a rich boat-builder, and she forgot her frivolities and followed Him to Golgotha; and at the tomb of Joseph of Arimathaea was the first witness to the Great Event.

At a well, a loose-living woman, by a series of three astonishments — that One from an unneighborly country would talk to her, that He knew all about her and who, when she said a Messiah was to come, said "I am He." — got what was coming to her — a new dimension in life.

RECENTLY, in India, a man went about doing good. Millions crowded his path, hoping to touch his garment, and got what was coming to them — the understanding that the Faith, Hope and Love the man's crusading namesake preached centuries earlier are not merely verities, but realities.

THE TRAIN at Christmas time was crowded. Across from me sat a man and woman and a little girl. Overhearing their low voices I found my ears are retaining my college-learned German better than my lips are. Playing in the aisle, another little girl was singing "Silent Night." Mine were not the only misty eyes, when the German girl stood beside the American girl, singing "Stille Nacht." We got what was coming to us — a lesson in the universality of harmony to which language is no barrier.

Frosting on the Cake
BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Ever since 1900 there has been a growing interest in public health education in this country. Medical research has accomplished more in the last half century than in the preceding 500 years. People are living longer and retaining youthful functional capacity longer than ever before, both mentally and physically.

The licensed physician of today is better trained and has a wider grasp of the eternal fundamentals of good health than ever before. It is time for the uneducated to wake up and have some honest self-interest about how to live longer and happier and enjoy all of the other advancements of the last half century.

The science of healthful diet and a truly balanced food input is gaining ground at an amazing rate. The food faddists are still with us and getting rich with bigoted and fanatical "special diets" to be sure, but wise adults are going back to the good old fashioned general practitioner and taking the time and trouble to work with such dedicated and able men.

Television and radio are still making millions of dollars by exploiting this newly alert interest. More's the pity, because people are now swallowing gallons of nostrums and downing bushels of pills just because some charlatan has great acting ability and a magical voice.

The tragedy of all this hoop-la is that many people, who are really ill, are making it harder for the physician to find out the trouble in time. If you are sick, for the love of heaven have good sense enough to get a personal physician and then do as he tells you.

We seem to have mastered many of the devastating ailments of former years by immunization. The next great advance is going to be in the realm of psychosomatic medicine where people are aided in learning the truth about "what's eating 'em anyway?"

Senators and representatives generally have one thing in common — none likes to stick his neck out.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird did recently when he loudly criticized the U.S. Postal Department for its selection of designs on current Christmas stamps.

Not one of the stamps depicted in any manner the Birth of Christ, one of those old-fashioned facets of Dec. 25 Wittenmeier that most people used to associate with Christmas.

This, of course, came way before the ho-ho—ho's and office parties.

Mr. Laird argued that this was not a matter of that nasty mixture of church and state (You remember that—that's when the kids used to pray in school).

Even those who don't recognize Christ as the Son of God accord Him the recognition of a great historical figure, Laird went on to say.

But the Post Office Department reminded us that a Nativity scene would commemorate a religious holiday. How stupid of us! All these 27 years we were conned into believing this is what it was all about.

As far as we're concerned, another popular Christmas figure had the best reply for that Post Office hogwash. Scrooge said, "Humbug,"

But maybe I'm wrong. Maybe I'm wrong when I wonder when the whole concept of subjecting the majority to the will of the minority got started.

Maybe I'm wrong about Christmas. Does anybody else still remember?—

Angles Promised A 'Personal' Peace

On that great night long ago it was said the angels sang, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased."

Two thousand years have come and gone and still the world yearns for, more than anything else, the answer to the Announcement in the angels' song, ". . . on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased."

I like to think some of this grand prediction has come during these 2,000 years. I am not one of those who feel the world has grown immeasurably better since Jesus has come.

Many of the blessings of the world that began with the Gospel as mediated through the Church have now been taken over by governments. The whole system and program of education, for example, is one of the great indications of this. Education began with the Church and the enlightenment that came into the world when Jesus came. Welfare work and endeavoring to relieve the sick and the poor, the maimed and the blind all came about because of the gospel of love and peace and good will to all was preached and believed by those who were followers of Christ.

Rev. Buckley

In this day so often we do not think of this when we are beneficiaries of so many of the good things of our day. But it was all made possible because of the change in men's thinking and the attitude of good will, of forgiveness of love, and doing good to one's neighbor that came about through the teaching and preaching of Jesus. Sometimes we feel the Church and its message is not needed so much today. That we have advanced so much that other agencies have taken over its functions. But if the preaching and teaching and witnessing of the love of Christ and the living out of good will to all men were let go for even one generation the world would begin to revert to paganism and darkness once more.

So, we need to be reminded today that if peace continues and grows so that everyone in our country and everyone over the whole world is able to benefit, the Church must continue to bear its witness. And its basic message is to the individual. To paraphrase — "It's not my brother nor my sister, but it's me, O Lord, standin' in the need of Christ's message of peace."

Romans 5:1 says, "Therefore, since we are justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." This is the No. 1 way to have peace in this world today and for it to continue. By making peace with our God and coming to right terms with Him, by taking Christ as our Savior and the One who makes peace in my own soul possible first of all, then will result peace in my family, peace in the Church and peace among the churches and peace throughout the world. Then we shall take a big step forward to bring peace in this world and to answer the announcement of the angels on that first Christmas.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Listen To What The Dead City Says!

CUZCO, Peru — The rapid beating of the great bronze bells in the tall towers of Cuzco's ancient churches heralds the Sunday morning, and soon thereafter the little diesel railcar, jammed with tourists speaking half a dozen languages, climbs a series of dizzying switchbacks to the 12,000-foot pass.

Jones

The mountains fall back to make a broad, rich valley, which first felt the blow of the stone hoe and the bronze mattock thousands of years ago. The hillsides are scarred with ruined terraces. Ancient trails, made useless by long-forgotten earthquakes, still climb along the ridges. Here and there stand the carefully-laid foundation stones of the great house of some Indian noble who flourished, perhaps, when Rome was new.

Then, beneath snow-covered peaks, each higher than Alaska's Mt. McKinley, the cliffs close in and the twisting track descends swiftly to match the fall of the boiling Urubamba River, hurrying toward the jungles and the Amazon.

Three hours have passed. The gorge is continuous, now—vertical granite cliffs half a mile high. Yet in the narrow roadway between the rock and the river there is a tangle of vines and the color splash of exotic flowers. Where the railcar stops the altitude is still 6,500 feet. But the air is hot. The jungle climbs high only 13 degrees below the Equator.

Tiny buses carry you across the river on a spindly bridge, then straight up the 1,500-foot cliff wall in a succession of flesh-crawling hairpin turns. And at the top is Machu Picchu, the last capital of the Incas, the fabled Vilcabamba.

The Spaniards searched for it and never found it. Later explorers gave the name to a lesser ruin, imagining that the great story was mostly legend. Not until 1911 did Yale archaeologist Hiram Bingham, later governor of Connecticut and U.S. Senator, clamber up the precipice and stand amazed before its thousand terraces and roofless temples. Machu Picchu and Tutankhamen's tomb are two great archaeological triumphs of the 20th Century.

Its story has been told by experts, including Bingham, himself, in his brilliant "Lost City of the Incas." The huge stones, so carefully laid that you cannot put a razor blade between them, the House of the Virgins, the high altar where the priests "tied the sun" at the winter solstice. The stairways, the moats, the signal tower on a peak 1,000 feet above the city—all these are Machu Picchu.

But what the camera-swinging tourist barely sees, and what he should contemplate most, are the stone troughs that carried the precious water from the small mountain springs down to the houses. For the experts now believe that when the last Inca chieftain, Tupac Amaru, left his mountain hideaway and came to Cuzco in 1572 is was not because he trusted the Spaniards (they mangled his wife before his eyes and then cut off his head). It was because Machu Picchu was out of water.

The Incas had felled the trees on their secret crag faster than nature could grow them. Without forest cover the springs had dried. And with the springs went the last of America's greatest Indian empire.

Wood, water and land. Man's abuse of them has written history.

You take a rickety C-46 out of Guatemala City these days and an hour later as you look down on the flat jungle you think you see thin peaks. These are not peaks. They are the tree-covered temples of Tikal. The plane lands amid mahogany trees. You walk a wilderness path up to a low plateau. But it isn't a plateau. Beneath the turf is a paved square around which 100,000 people once lived.

What happened to Tikal? Each year the Mayas burnt the fields to keep back the jungle, until the fields were so sour the city could not continue.

The story is the same at fabulous Chichen Itza and Uxmal in Yucatan. Greek legends tell of haunted groves peopled with nymphs and satyrs. You look at the bleak, bare hills of Attica today and wonder where the groves went. They went for firewood and Greece is Europe's poorhouse.

Half an hour before your plane reaches the Tigris and Euphrates, the bare Syrian desert shows the faint outline of what were once elaborate irrigation systems and rich fields. On the Baluchistan wasteland west of half-starved Karachi, there are the remains of terraces that were green when Alexander reached the Indus.

The lumber hogs logged off the noble pines of northern Wisconsin with no thought of replanting, and now worthless beech and birch cover the sandy land. Mine dumps have ruined half of Colorado's trout streams. Southern farmers ran their furrows up and downhill, got "gullied out" and moved west. But there is no more empty West.

Even today cities drag their feet on sewage disposal plants. Factories buck anti-pollution laws by threatening to move out of the state. Frightened chambers of commerce pass the word to the legislatures to go slow about cleaning up America.

It's a good time to visit Machu Picchu. It's a good time to listen to the dead cities. The wind in the ruined doorways whispers:

"Abuse the water and your children will wander.
"Destroy the woods and your works are nothing.
"Sour the soil and you die."

Shocked By Children

To the Editor:

Father Beckert, a Maryknoll priest, in his explanation of life in Red China, shows how children are conditioned to sadistic torture, so that they actually enjoy watching an execution by decapitation.

Today I was shocked to see the results of a form of this same conditioning.

While watching the climax of a movie, "The Life of St. Maria Goretti," now being shown at a local theatre in Columbus, hundreds of children present at the matinee shrieked, hollered and clapped their hands with approval as a young punk stabbed Maria repeatedly with a hunting knife.

What has happened to our moral sense of values? When supposedly innocent children sadistically enjoy a brutal murder, it is time for drastic reappraisal of our environment and home training. It may be too late to do anything about it. God help us if this is true.

Liked Tax Reform Story

To the Editor:

The article by Frank Ryan explaining the campaign of Mayor Twyford of Reynoldsburg (Dec. 3: reforms in city income tax laws) was very well written and deserves the consideration of all who believe that "we should not be taxed unless we have a choice in the election of those who are enacting the tax laws." Keep up the good work on this. . .

Gets 'Garbage' In Mail

To the Editor:

I was a little disturbed to receive some ads through the mail about some of the apparently most disgusting and objectionable books about sex and religion.

They proudly or arrogantly proclaim that nothing is sacred and are charging outlandish prices. These come in a sealed envelope with a business reply envelope.

I suggest that decent people deal with this garbage as I did—tear it up so they can't use it again and mail it back to them in the postage-paid envelope they have provided.

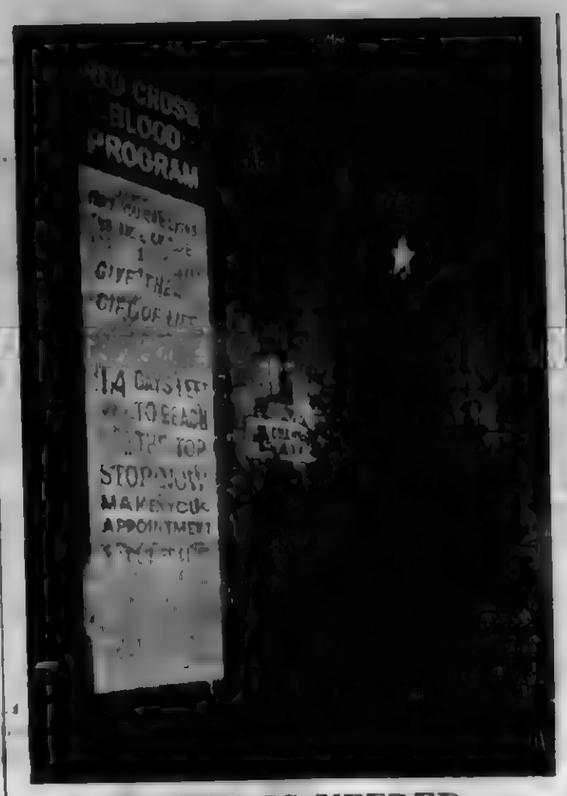
Highway Patrol Wants Safety For Christmas



Sgt. Maple, commander of the London Highway Patrol Post, reviewed the patrol policy on acceptance of Christmas gifts from well-meaning persons and agencies.

The sergeant indicated that he and his men will strictly observe regulations which prohibit state employes from accepting gifts in any form from individuals or firms doing business with the state.

"All we want for Christmas is safety on our highways," the sergeant said.

Jaycees Search For Outstanding Young Men Here

They will be honored during the annual Jaycee Distinguished Services Award Banquet the evening of Jan. 23 at the Neil House Hotel.

Nominations from industry, business, organizations, and the public are invited. Qualifications are based upon contributions to the community, to the government, and leadership in a field of work during 1964, and nominees must be between the ages of 21 and 36.

A panel of community leaders will screen all nominations and select the ten top men. From the ten, one will be selected as the most outstanding.

Nomination blanks can be obtained by calling or writing the Junior Chamber office. Deadline is Jan. 7.

MEET SCHEDULED

The Pennsylvania Railroad Honor Roll Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Jan. 6, 1965, at the American Legion Hall, 2682 Cleveland-av, with a luncheon at 12 noon.

FARM FORECAST

Artificial insemination in hogs, and chemicals which will help regulate the reproductive cycle seems to head livestock research plans for the year of 1965, as USDA announces the chemical control of the cycle is near on a practical basis.

Enforcement of pesticide safety rules has been tightened at all levels of government, as the Agriculture Department withdrew its approval of two chemicals formerly used on alfalfa and clover. Congress increased research budgets in this field by nearly one-third this year.

In Ohio and across America, the school lunchroom has become big business. Food sales in public and private school lunchrooms now amount to about one billion dollars a year or more, most of this in public schools.

Some pupils from low-income families get school lunches free or at reduced prices. The average child pays 15 to 45 cents a day for school lunches, but these rates do not cover the cost of the food. [illegible] gap is filled by contributions from local, state and federal agencies.

We hear little of the agriculture groups that display generous, good and charitable habits of treating the poor on numerous occasions on a local level. But . . . it again is the story of hard, concentrated work that is seldom brought to light, but exists in broad proportion.

I know all join me in saying thanks to such groups.

As Christmas spirit envelopes the community in which you live, we can all exercise good judgment and help a neighbor. It takes so little to help so many by a food or other material gift, and it makes the real Christmas spirit grow in us. Help a needy person this year! !

Sewer(OrParty)Lines?

Columbus City Council and the Sensenbrenner administration will begin the New Year in a position to solve a somewhat old problem — what to do about sewer rates. New Year's Day, by tradition, marks the close of the football season. May it also mark the end of this subject as a political football.

Some meaningful progress should be expected now that Findlay consultant J. S. Sawvel has submitted his sewer rate report. He has recommended a rate increase plan designed to add $1.4 million annually in sewer revenues. The rate schedule includes a 30 percent hike for residential charges and a 35 percent boost for commercial accounts.

Sawvel says adoption of his plan would increase total revenues by 35 percent and would permit a balanced program of both bonding and pay-as-you-go financing. He stressed the point that the "average" residential sewer rental fee would increase by only a penny a day to finance a $50 million program over the next five years. This will be a good point if and when the total Sawvel program is proved sound.

Council President William R. Fornof sees this method of financing as something less than the only reasonable solution. He suggests that the same needs can be met through bond financing, to the exclusion of any rate increases.

It is hardly a secret that key members of the Sensenbrenner administration favor a rate increase as the best means of meeting present and future sewer program needs. They say that use of all currently available revenue sources for bonding would fall short of providing financing for both capital improvements and maintenance-operations costs.

The merits of rate increases versus bond financing should be explored. But there is no reason why proponents of either philosophy should take six months, a year or longer to present their valid arguments.

Unfortunately, the question of who should introduce legislation on the subject of sewer improvement financing currently has the word "stalemate" written in the answer column. Administration members say that financing of programs approved by council is the responsibility of council. Council members say the administration should take the initiative in advocating methods of financing a program it will administer.

Closer to the truth is the thought that neither the council nor the administration wants to carry the ball when the "play" calls for a "score" against the taxpayers' wallet. It will be interesting to see which of the two branches of government is first to subvert petty politics to good government.

Bus Issue Tough One

Legislation seeking tax-supported bus transportation for children in the elementary grades of private and parochial schools (Fair Bus Bill) will be introduced in the 1965 session of the Ohio General Assembly.

Both proponents and opponents of the measure offer compelling reasons for their respective points of view. In the broadest and most general terms, the opposing contentions are essentially as follows:

Proponents term the issue one of safety and welfare of the children affected. They point to a U.S. Supreme Court decision affirming the constitutionality of a similar practice in New Jersey, and to the existence of similar legislation in 20 states. They cite Ohio Attorney General William Saxbe's opinion that neither the Ohio or U.S. Constitution prohibits the legislature from making legal such bus service.

Opponents of the proposal say its passage would violate the concept of separation of church and state. They term bus transportation an integral part of the cost of education. They say it is a means of bringing teacher and student together in a more centralized location and is not primarily a matter of welfare and safety. And they view the proposed bill as an initial step in a planned campaign to secure public tax support for a variety of costs incidental to religious-oriented educational systems.

Legislators will have the serious responsibility to base their decision on matters of law, fact and common sense. Backers and dissenters, alike, should confine their arguments to valid and pertinent points, and "cooler heads" should resist the heat of emotion.

Because the matter is of great concern to many people, we will seek and accept responsible comment from both sides. Any further editorial comment by us will be withheld until the "generalities" become "specifics."

TWO OHIOANS

Many history students, even some Ohioans, confuse the names of two Civil War officers—one a native of Ohio, the other an adopted son, both among those representing Ohio in the great conflict. Both were West Pointers.

Philip Henry Sheridan was born in Albany, New York in 1831, but was brought to Ohio. He was raised in Somerset and died there in 1888.

William Tecumseh Sherman was born in Lancaster, in 1820 and died there in 1891. His brother John, born in 1823, became a United States senator and secretary of state.

Two markers identify the house, now a museum, where the Shermans were born. One was put up by the GAR and allied organizations; the other by the Ohio Historical Society.

The house stands on a high hill near the Fairfield County court house on E. Main-st near S. High, also near the intersections of Ohio Routes 22, 158, and 188.

The front part of the house is brick; the rear, frame. There is a stone wall, also an iron fence. Double front doors are painted white, and there are "gingerbread" ornaments about the eves, stylish when the house was built.

"Cump" Sherman's father was an attorney and judge. After his death, Thomas Ewing made the boy his protege and eventually gave his daughter Eleanor (Ellen) in marriage.

In 1880, General Sherman, speaking in the old state fair ground, now Franklin Park, Columbus, made the famous statement, "War . . . it is all hell." A stone marks the spot.

It says here . . .

Ohio is still producing worthy sons and daughters.

'THE GRIST' Ground Out by Dusty Miller

I HOPE everybody gets for Christmas what's coming to him.

LONG AGO, in Palestine, a Man went about doing good, devoting His life to seeing that everybody got what was coming to him — love and understanding.

Dusty

The good and faithful servant was promoted. Zac, in a tree, and Nic, by night, got new concepts — one on living, the other on birth. The penitence of a thief won him the promise of Paradise.

"Neither do I condemn thee" gave a woman of the street what was coming to her — an opportunity to "go and sin no more."

He looked into the flashing eyes of the spoiled daughter of a rich boat-builder, and she forgot her frivolities and followed Him to Golgotha; and at the tomb of Joseph of Arimathaea was the first witness to the Great Event.

At a well, a loose-living woman, by a series of three astonishments — that One from an unneighborly country would talk to her, that He knew all about her and who, when she said a Messiah was to come, said "I am He." — got what was coming to her — a new dimension in life.

RECENTLY, in India, a man went about doing good. Millions crowded his path, hoping to touch his garment, and got what was coming to them — the understanding that the Faith, Hope and Love the man's crusading namesake preached centuries earlier are not merely verities, but realities.

THE TRAIN at Christmas time was crowded. Across from me sat a man and woman and a little girl. Overhearing their low voices I found my ears are retaining my college-learned German better than my lips are. Playing in the aisle, another little girl was singing "Silent Night." Mine were not the only misty eyes, when the German girl stood beside the American girl, singing "Stille Nacht." We got what was coming to us — a lesson in the universality of harmony to which language is no barrier.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Ever since 1900 there has been a growing interest in public health education in this country. Medical research has accomplished more in the last half century than in the preceding 500 years. People are living longer and retaining youthful functional capacity longer than ever before, both mentally and physically.

The licensed physician of today is better trained and has a wider grasp of the eternal fundamentals of good health than ever before. It is time for the uneducated to wake up and have some honest self-interest about how to live longer and happier and enjoy all of the other advancements of the last half century.

The science of healthful diet and a truly balanced food input is gaining ground at an amazing rate. The food faddists are still with us and getting rich with bigoted and fanatical "special diets" to be sure, but wise adults are going back to the good old fashioned general practitioner and taking the time and trouble to work with such dedicated and able men.

Television and radio are still making millions of dollars by exploiting this newly alert interest. More's the pity, because people are now swallowing gallons of nostrums and downing bushels of pills just because some charlatan has great acting ability and a magical voice.

The tragedy of all this hoop-la is that many people, who are really ill, are making it harder for the physician to find out the trouble in time. If you are sick, for the love of heaven have good sense enough to get a personal physician and then do as he tells you.

We seem to have mastered many of the devastating ailments of former years by immunization. The next great advance is going to be in the realm of psychosomatic medicine where people are aided in learning the truth about "what's eating 'em anyway?"

ONE MAN'S Opinion . . .

Senators and representatives generally have one thing in common — none likes to stick his neck out.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird did recently when he loudly criticized the U.S. Postal Department for its selection of designs on current Christmas stamps.

Wittenmeier

Not one of the stamps depicted in any manner the Birth of Christ, one of those old-fashioned facets of Dec. 25 that most people used to associate with Christmas.

This, of course, came way before the ho-ho—ho's and office parties.

Mr. Laird argued that this was not a matter of that nasty mixture of church and state (You remember that —that's when the kids used to pray in school).

Even those who don't recognize Christ as the Son of God accord Him the recognition of a great historical figure, Laird went on to say.

But the Post Office Department reminded us that a Nativity scene would commemorate a religious holiday. How stupid of us! All these 27 years we were conned into believing this is what it was all about.

As far as we're concerned, another popular Christmas figure had the best reply for that Post Office hogwash. Scrooge said, "Humbug."

But maybe I'm wrong. Maybe I'm wrong when I wonder when the whole concept of subjecting the majority to the will of the minority got started.

Maybe I'm wrong about Christmas. Does anybody else still remember?—

Angles Promised A 'Personal' Peace

On that great night long ago it was said the angels sang, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased."

Two thousand years have come and gone and still the world yearns for, more than anything else, the answer to the Announcement in the angels' song, ". . . on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased."

I like to think some of this grand prediction has come during these 2,000 years. I am not one of those who feel the world has grown immeasurably better since Jesus has come.

Many of the blessings of the world that began with the Gospel as mediated through the Church have now been taken over by governments. The whole system and program of education, for example, is one of the great indications of this. Education began with the Church and the enlightenment that came into the world when Jesus came. Welfare work and endeavoring to relieve the sick and the poor, the maimed and the blind all came about because of the gospel of love and peace and good will to all was preached and believed by those who were followers of Christ.

Rev. Buckley

In this day so often we do not think of this when we are beneficiaries of so many of the good things of our day. But it was all made possible because of the change in men's thinking and the attitude of good will, of forgiveness of love, and doing good to one's neighbor that came about through the teaching and preaching of Jesus. Sometimes we feel the Church and its message is not needed so much today. That we have advanced so much that other agencies have taken over its functions. But if the preaching and teaching and witnessing of the love of Christ and the living out of good will to all men were let go for even one generation the world would begin to revert to paganism and darkness once more.

So, we need to be reminded today that if peace continues and grows so that everyone in our country and everyone over the whole world is able to benefit, the Church must continue to bear its witness. And its basic message is to the individual. To paraphrase — "It's not my brother nor my sister, but it's me, O Lord, standin' in the need of Christ's message of peace."

Romans 5:1 says, "Therefore, since we are justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." This is the No. 1 way to have peace in this world today and for it to continue. By making peace with our God and coming to right terms with Him, by taking Christ as our Savior and the One who makes peace in my own soul possible first of all, then will result peace in my family, peace in the Church and peace among the churches and peace throughout the world. Then we shall take a big step forward to bring peace in this world and to answer the announcement of the angels on that first Christmas.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Listen To What The Dead City Says!

CUZCO, Peru — The rapid beating of the great bronze bells in the tall towers of Cuzco's ancient churches heralds the Sunday morning, and soon thereafter the little diesel railcar, jammed with tourists speaking half a dozen languages, climbs a series of dizzying switchbacks to the 12,000-foot pass.

Jones

The mountains fall back to make a broad, rich valley, which first felt the blow of the stone hoe and the bronze mattock thousands of years ago. The hillsides are scarred with ruined terraces. Ancient trails, made useless by long-forgotten earthquakes, still climb along the ridges. Here and there stand the carefully-laid foundation stones of the great house of some Indian noble who flourished, perhaps, when Rome was new.

Then, beneath snow-covered peaks, each higher than Alaska's Mt. McKinley, the cliffs close in and the twisting track descends swiftly to match the fall of the boiling Urubamba River, hurrying toward the jungles and the Amazon.

Three hours have passed. The gorge is continuous, now—vertical granite cliffs half a mile high. Yet in the narrow roadway between the rock and the river there is a tangle of vines and the color splash of exotic flowers. Where the railcar stops the altitude is still 6,500 feet. But the air is hot. The jungle climbs high only 13 degrees below the Equator.

Tiny buses carry you across the river on a spindly bridge, then straight up the 1,500-foot cliff wall in a succession of flesh-crawling hairpin turns. And at the top is Machu Picchu, the last capital of the Incas, the fabled Vilcabamba.

The Spaniards searched for it and never found it. Later explorers gave the name to a lesser ruin, imagining that the great story was mostly legend. Not until 1911 did Yale archaeologist Hiram Bingham, later governor of Connecticut and U.S. Senator, clamber up the precipice and stand amazed before its thousand terraces and roofless temples. Machu Picchu and Tutankhamen's tomb are two great archaeological triumphs of the 20th Century.

Its story has been told by experts, including Bingham, himself, in his brilliant "Lost City of the Incas." The huge stones, so carefully laid that you cannot put a razor blade between them, the House of the Virgins, the high altar where the priests "tied the sun" at the winter solstice. The stairways, the moats, the signal tower on a peak 1,000 feet above the city—all these are Machu Picchu.

But what the camera-swinging tourist barely sees, and what he should contemplate most, are the stone troughs that carried the precious water from the small mountain springs down to the houses. For the experts now believe that when the last Incs chieftain, Tupac Amaru, left his mountain hideaway and came to Cuzco in 1572 is was not because he trusted the Spaniards (they mangled his wife before his eyes and then cut off his head). It was because Machu Picchu was out of water.

The Incas had felled the trees on their secret crag faster than nature could grow them. Without forest cover the springs had dried. And with the springs went the last of America's greatest Indian empire.

Wood, water and land. Man's abuse of them has written history.

You take a rickety C-46 out of Guatemala City these days and an hour later as you look down on the flat jungle you think you see thin peaks. These are not peaks. They are the tree-covered temples of Tikal. The plane lands amid mahogany trees. You walk a wilderness path up to a low plateau. But it isn't a plateau. Beneath the turf is a paved square around which 100,000 people once lived.

What happened to Tikal? Each year the Mayas burnt the fields to keep back the jungle, until the fields were so sour the city could not continue.

The story is the same at fabulous Chichen Itza and Uxmal in Yucatan. Greek legends tell of haunted groves peopled with nymphs and satyrs. You look at the bleak, bare hills of Attica today and wonder where the groves went. They went for firewood and Greece is Europe's poorhouse.

Half an hour before your plane reaches the Tigris and Euphrates, the bare Syrian desert shows the faint outline of what were once elaborate irrigation systems and rich fields. On the Baluchistan wasteland west of half-starved Karachi, there are the remains of terraces that were green when Alexander reached the Indus.

The lumber hogs logged off the noble pines of northern Wisconsin with no thought of replanting, and now worthless beech and birch cover the sandy land. Mine dumps have ruined half of Colorado's trout streams. Southern farmers ran their furrows up and downhill, got "gullied out" and moved west. But there is no more empty West.

Even today cities drag their feet on sewage disposal plants. Factories buck anti-pollution laws by threatening to move out of the state. Frightened chambers of commerce pass the word to the legislatures to go slow about cleaning up America.

It's a good time to visit Machu Picchu. It's a good time to listen to the dead cities. The wind in the ruined doorways whispers:

"Abuse the water and your children will wander.

"Destroy the woods and your works are nothing.

"Sour the soil and you die."

Shocked By Children

To the Editor:

Father Beckert, a Maryknoll priest, in his explanation of life in Red China, shows how children are conditioned to sadistic torture, so that they actually enjoy watching an execution by decapitation.

Today I was shocked to see the results of a form of this same conditioning.

While watching the climax of a movie, "The Life of St. Maria Gorettti," now being shown at a local theatre in Columbus, hundreds of children present at the matinee shrieked, hollered and clapped their hands with approval as a young punk stabbed Maria repeatedly with a hunting knife.

What has happened to our moral sense of values? When supposedly innocent children sadistically enjoy a brutal murder, it is time for drastic reappraisal of our environment and home training. It may be too late to do anything about it. God help us if this is true.

Liked Tax Reform Story

To the Editor:

The article by Frank Ryan explaining the campaign of Mayor Twyford of Reynoldsburg (Dec. 3: reforms in city income tax laws) was very well written and deserves the consideration of all who believe that "we should not be taxed unless we have a choice in the election of those who are enacting the tax laws." Keep up the good work on this. . .

Gets 'Garbage' In Mail

To the Editor:

I was a little disturbed to receive some ads through the mail about some of the apparently most disgusting and objectionable books about sex and religion.

They proudly or arrogantly proclaim that nothing is sacred and are charging outlandish prices. These come in a sealed envelope with a business reply envelope.

I suggest that decent people deal with this garbage as I did—tear it up so they can't use it again and mail it back to them in the postage-paid envelope they have provided.

Enough vigorous action in this direction might help them keep their filth in California.

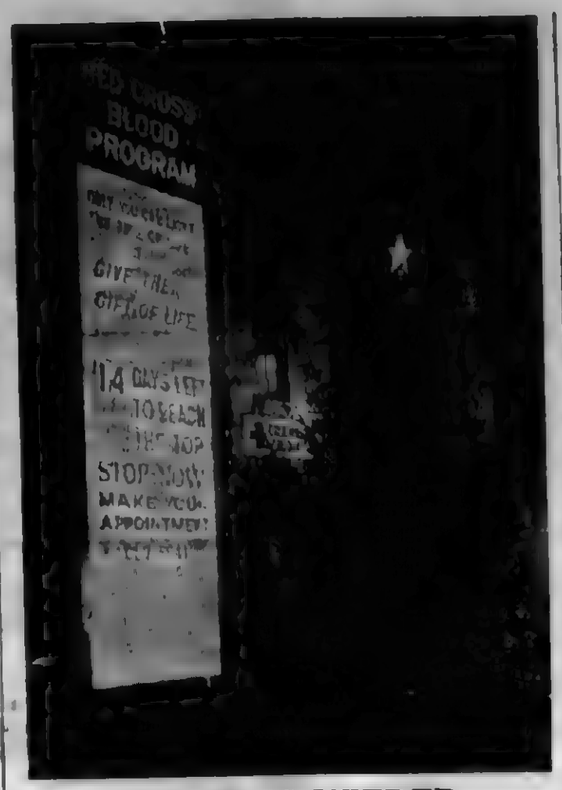
Highway Patrol Wants Safety For Christmas



Sgt. Maple, commander of the London Highway Patrol Post, reviewed the patrol policy on acceptance of Christmas gifts from well-meaning persons and agencies.

The sergeant indicated that he and his men will strictly observe regulations which prohibit state employes from accepting gifts in any form from individuals or firms doing business with the state.

"All we want for Christmas is safety on our highways," the sergeant said.

TV-4 BILLS SPOOK

Spook Beckman, Columbus and Central Ohio entertainment personality, will bring his "Coffee Club" to TV 4, WLW-C, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. weekdays, beginning Jan. 4, Richard E. Reed, WLW-C general manager, reported in announcing plans for the morning time period.

BLOOD IS NEEDED

"SAVE A LIFE SUNDAY" at the Red Cross Blood Center, 812 E. Broad-st will be Dec. 20. Residents of Columbus are asked to visit the center that day between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. to donate a pint of blood. The blood donation, in addition to helping save a life, will also be represented by lights on the tree above. Help light the tree of life by giving blood on "Save A Life Sunday."

FARM FORECAST

Artificial insemination in hogs, and chemicals which will help regulate the reproductive cycle seems to head livestock research plans for the year of 1965, as USDA announces the chemical control of the cycle is near on a practical basis.

Enforcement of pesticide safety rules has been tightened at all levels of government, as the Agriculture Department withdrew its approval of two chemicals formerly used on alfalfa and clover. Congress increased research budgets in this field by nearly one-third this year.

In Ohio and across America, the school lunchroom has become big business. Food sales in public and private school lunchrooms now amount to about one billion dollars a year or more, most of this in public schools.

Some pupils from low-income families get school lunches free or at reduced prices. The average child pays 15 to 45 cents a day for school lunches, but these rates do not cover the cost of the food. ... gap is filled by contributions from local, state and federal agencies.

We hear little of the agriculture groups that display generous, good and charitable habits of treating the poor on numerous occasions on a local level. But . . . it again is the story of hard, concentrated work that is seldom brought to light, but exists in broad proportion.

I know all join me in saying thanks to such groups.

As Christmas spirit envelopes the community in which you live, we can all exercise good judgment and help a neighbor. It takes so little to help so many by a food or other material gift, and it makes the real Christmas spirit grow in us. Help a needy person this year!

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

TINSEL TERRORS

This gay and glittering season brings with it bright and shining hazards for the older animal members of the family. It may also be a perilous time for the young in mind and body among the household menagerie. For example, broken Christmas tree ornaments may cause considerable irritation if consumed.

Smaller, intact ornaments and little rubber balls may be just the right size to swallow and to block the intestional tract. Sprays used for decoration may be toxic to fish, fowl, or feline.

Crumpled collophane, glistening tinsel or gay ribbons may all be attacked, and devoured, often with dire consequences. (Cats, especially, are prone to swallow objects they start chewing on, because their rough tongue makes it easier to swallow something than to spit it out.)

Other hazards range from too much handling of the brand new puppy to acute indigestion suffered by the older dog who gets more than his share of the Christmas fowl. If you are determined to give your dog the bird, please exclude the bones. Only the disposal is equipped to handle bird bones safely, every time.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When our cat, Miss Fit, showup with two healthy kittens the other morning, we couldn't believe our eyes. She is eight years old and hasn't had any kittens for four years. Could it be that she adopted some other cat's kittens? —L.M.

DEAR L.M.: While adoption is a remote possibility, chances are that these kittens have been Miss Fit's responsibility from the time of their conception. A four-year moratorium in the world of feline romance is unusual. However, it would be even more unusual for Fit to be able to carry off a "kit-napping" successfully.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I was given a pair of leeches for my birthday by a friend (?). How often do they need to be fed? Do they hibernate? —M.M.

DEAR M.M.: Macrobdella decora, the bloodsucker, has a sluggish digestive system. Blood may remain undigested in the crop for months. They may go half a year, or even longer without food, if necessary. Leeches will hibernate if the water temperature drops to 40 or below. On the other hand, they become uncomfortable if the water temperature soars over 60 degrees.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have not a problem, at least not any more. I did have an awful problem with my four-year-old cocker, Buffy. She had a bad skin condition that was very hard to clear up. Now she is all cured and the doctor says it was basically due to a thyroid condition. She is still on thyroid and that was what I wanted to comment on.

About a month after she started taking thyroid, she became less crabby and nervous. Now she is a sweeter dog than she has been in all her life. She wasn't this nice a dog (but we loved her just the same) even before she had a bad skin.

Can this happy disposition be due to the thyroid? If it is, I'm going to throw away my husband's tranquilizer pills and give him the dog's thyroid pills instead. —L.R.

DEAR L.R: Animals — (any species) — who suffer from inadequate thyroid hormones in the system will tend to be somewhat unstable emotionally. In fact, the victim may actually appear to be a neurotic.

In these cases, the addition of thyroid may definitely prove to be a disposition sweetener. This could account for Buffy's currently sunny outlook. (Because there are countless causes for a snappish disposition, thyroid might be useless — or even dangerous — for the other species mentioned.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have read your column for some time and have decided to buy a dog for my husband and myself. You have warned about getting a dog with a good disposition. I will be sure to do that. You have said it is important to train the dog. I will do that, too.

My husband has always been afraid of dogs and he is not sure that I will be able to handle one if it ever turns on him. He wants to know how I can be 100 percent sure that he will never, under any circumstances, receive a dog bite. Is there any way I can guarantee that this will never happen? —W.C.

DEAR W.C.: Yes, buy a cat instead.

Trustees Get Pay Increase

Separate acts increasing the pay of township clerks and trustees were signed into law last week by Governor Rhodes.

One act increases maximum pay of township clerks from $2400 to $3600 a year. The other boosts pay of trustees from $6 to $8 a day.

Although the law is effective in 90 days, a stipulation provides that the salary hikes are not effective until the start of new terms.

Major Shakeups Overdue In Many Area Loop Alignments

(Edit. note—This is the first part of a three-part series dealing with a look at the seven athletic leagues in the Spectator circulation area, their problems and possible solutions).

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Professor Harold Hill might have thought there was trouble in River City over the presence of a pool table but the Music Man charlatan couldn't hold a trombone to the problems now facing five of seven athletic leagues.

Wittenmeier

This cold, hard fact of life blossomed into reality last week when the Central Buckeye League ended several smouldering years of discontent with an open split right down the middle of its ranks.

But, like an iceberg, the CBL rupture is the only part of the mountain of unrest which floats on the surface. Below lurks a larger chunk of anxiousness which promises a major shakeup of most athletic leagues within the next three years.

After talks with a number of school administrators, athletic directors and coaches last week only two leagues seem solid enough to withstand the forces of unrest.

Tightest knit of the six loops (City, Franklin County, Mid-Eight, South Suburban, Central Catholic, "old" CBL and "new" CBL) is the City circuit.

Efforts to break into the lineup have proven fruitless by "outsiders" in the past and there is no reason to believe future efforts will be any more successful.

The City League, with its member aligned with the Columbus Public School system, has, in fact, strengthened its position while most other loops have grown steadily weaker.

Even the newest members (Brookhaven, Whetstone and Walnut Ridge) have shown decided ability to compete with long-standing members athletically. And one team—Marion-Franklin — long considered a weak link, proved this year its ability to take on all comers.

The two primary considerations — balance and gate — are strong in the City League. With the departure of its eleventh member (Aquinas) this year, scheduling should be easier.

The second strong lineup can be found in the Mid-Eight League.

The league provided a vote of solidarity at its recent November meeting with member schools voting unanimously to stay with loop scheduling guaranteed for at least two seasons.

A Mid-Eight spokesman admitted that feelers had been sent via the 'new' CBL to London and Marysville but both teams expressed no interest unless Hilliard was included in the package.

The only visible crack in the Mid-Eight structure came to light at the November meeting when one school admitted it wouldn't make any long-range decision until the spring.

Talk was introduced on a consideration to expand to a 10 team loop but this got no farther than a speculative gesture.

The CBL split, although basically correcting rumblings of imbalance, creates another new set of problems.

Under Buckeye Skies

By Ken Mack McCreary

For most Buckeye country nimrods the hunting seasons on ring-necked pheasant and quail are ambling down the home stretch. And when they cross the finish line on private lands Saturday at 5 p.m. neither will be considered winner's circle material.

Both seasons continue through Jan. 30 on the state's public hunting areas, but aren't expected to attract any large numbers of hunters.

THE PHEASANT hunting this fall has been mostly mediocre, and the wildlife experts are the first to admit it. About the only shining area of success has been the Fayettee county-western Pickaway county — southern Madison county shooting grounds.

Ken McCreary

And, Ohio isn't the only state to be hurting — it's about the same sorry situation across all the pheasant range of the Midwest.

The wildlife management men attribute the poor showing of the showy ringneck this year and the past few seasons to the weather—the dry, drought-parched summers and cold, wet winters. This, they say, results in a poor corn crop and a "down" pheasant population.

THE "CHINK" season isn't the only one to leave Spectatorland hunters mumbling in their beards. As you've probably heard, the two-day shotgun season for whitetailed deer yielded only 1287 deer, 730 less than last year.

Once again the counties of Spectatorland furnished far down the list — 18 in Licking, 12 in Knox and Fairfield, two each in Delaware and Franklin, and a big "goose egg" in Madison, Union and Pickaway. (Looks like our 'tongue-in-cheek' deer guide of two weeks ago didn't do much good!)

Old man weather again gets blamed for the slim showing of the deer — fog, rain and lack of tracking snow over most of the state made conditions miserable.

INCIDENTALLY, the deer shot here in Franklin County were taken by Ross L. McClain of 58 Midcliff dr. who bagged a doe near Reynoldsburg; and Clyde Mansfield, Jr., of Kirkersville, who nailed a buck in Mifflin Township.

Wildlife division officials aren't the least unhappy over the low deer harvest. Chief Dale Whitesell, crimson under the collar about a column in a Columbus daily paper this past Sunday which blamed the division for the lack of success, says that the slim results this season could mean better hunting in the long run by building the size of the deer population.

Soap Box Derby Planned For '65

The 1965 Columbus Soap Box Derby plannin⁻ has begun with the announcement that the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Columbus Area Chevrolet Dealers and WLW-C, TV-4, will co-sponsor the event for the fourth successive year.

The 11 through 15-year-old coasting car builder-drivers in the Columbus race will vie for a $500 savings bond, handsome trophies, and an all-expense-paid trip to Akron to compete in the All-American. The Akron winner receives a $7,500 college scholarship.

THE AKRON finals are set for Saturday, Aug. 7, and the Columbus race will be announced for a Saturday a few weeks prior to the national competition.

Parents and guardians of boys interested in competing this year should register them at a Columbus Area Chevrolet dealer and pick up the official rule book and an official wheel kit on which to build a racer.

Boys living in Pickaway, Madison, Union and Delaware Counties are also eligible to enter the Columbus Derby.

However, schools which might be interested in the remaining CBL quartet cringe at the thought of scheduling relatively equal enrollment goes way above the 1000 breakoff.

The deal prospective applicants to the new CBL setup appears even more unattractive with a maximum enrollment clause tossed in with an applicant's acceptance.

One spokesman, whose school is presently satisfied in its own league commented that he didn't think the new CBL teams would be able to find schools their own size interested unless they changed what the spokesman described as "their attitude."

The remaining CBL alignment seems no more secure since Mt. Vernon has received feelers from a league in their area and some people believe it wouldn't take much goading for Arlington to go independent.

For many teams who are anxious to make the big jump to another league, it's a matter of "watch and wait." Many are interested to see if both elements of the divided CBL can fill their '65 schedules with separated league mates.

This situation was born after the separating CBL quartets agreed that each could fill their '65 grid schedules with other opponents on dates now filled by a departing league member.

This will be done by mutual agreement inside a time limit not yet determined. (Eg. — Worthington wishes to schedule Newark on a date now filled bp Bexley. Worthing calls Bexley and asks to be relieved of the arrangement).

How mutual the agreement will be might be the fly in the ointment. As one member of the remaining CBL lineup put it: "We're looking for replacements now. Our present opponent will have a hard time holding us to a contract. After all, they wanted to split it up (the CBL) not us."

And so it goes, with solutions running thin and time running out. Some schools can still 'bide their time.' Others are not so fortunate. They cannot wait much longer.

good deer management — that's why the short two-day gun season was set in early December, when the odds were against a good tracking snow.

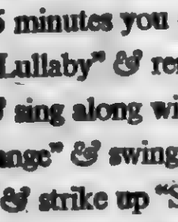
THIS IS also the reasoning behind setting the season in mid-week, excluding a Saturday. The wildlife boss states that during the past few years enough deer were harvested that the deer "herd" wasn't expanding much.

Another factor which is hurting the sportsman is the poacher. It's estimated that these meat-hunters kill more deer than legal hunters do.

Currently,. wildlife agents are cracking down on poachers, with 45 cases this year compared with only eight at this time last year. Add to the poachers the number of deer killed by autos and predators, and life gets mighty rugged for the white-tail and the hunter.

SPEAKING of deer season, Howard Specht of 2337 Ashley-dr, Columbus, did not get his while hunting down along the Muskingum River — but he did come back with a pretty unusual report.

Specht, who's a city fire department dispatcher, reports seeing the tracks of what appeared to be a mountain lion or wildcat, south of Malta, in Morgan county.



Knowing what most people would say, the veteran hunter took pictures of the prints, which were four inches long, 3¾ inches wide, and with four large claws. We'll print them, IF they turn out.

THE "LAME DUCK" session of the state legislature is all but in the history books. Among the items approved are two of interest to the outdoor-minded. Included in the 290-million dollar bond issue to be voted on next year is $25 million for improving and acquiring park and recreational areas, plus $5 million for building and improving roads in park areas.

This combination is expected to result in stricter enforcement of strip mine reclamation laws, and well might be the first step in a sweeping reorganization of the entire department.

Columbus officials also say that a crackdown on legislators who refuse to file tax returns (a legal requirement whether or not payment is due) would be financially impractical for the city. Young indicated, however, that the added $3,000 annual pay hike the lawmakers voted for themselves might make an enforcement program worthwhile.

Ever Hear of FLAME GEOMETRY?
Look at one of your drinking glasses and notice how the lip, in most instances, is rounded to a smooth, safe surface. It has been made that way by using natural gas as a basic fuel in a delicate finishing process that involves industrial "flame geometry". ■ "Flame geometry" is regulating the size, shape, and stability of gas flames to perform exacting heating operations. ■ When drinking glasses are heated by gas to the proper temperature the sharp edges flow into curved surfaces, and are set to a high polish ... with rounded safe surfaces. ■ Because gas is versatile, because it is controllable, there is virtually no limit to its industrial adaptability. Natural gas is now used for 26,000 separate industrial applications as a fuel, tool, and as a chemical raw material.

Ken McCreary

And, Ohio isn't the only state to be hurting — it's about the same sorry situation across all the pheasant range of the Midwest.

The wildlife management men attribute the poor showing of the showy ringneck this year and the past few seasons to the weather—the dry, drought-parched summers and cold, wet winters. This, they say, results in a poor corn crop and a "down" pheasant population.

THE "OHINK" season isn't the only one to leave Spectatorland hunters mumbling in their beards. As you've probably heard, the two-day shotgun season for whitetailed deer yielded only 1287 deer, 730 less than last year.

Once again the counties of Spectatorland furnished far down the list — 18 in Licking, 12 in Knox and Fairfield, two each in Delaware and Franklin, and a big "goose egg" in Madison, Union and Pickaway. (Looks like our 'tongue-in-cheek' deer guide of two weeks ago didn't do much good!)

Old man weather again gets blamed for the slim showing of the deer — fog, rain and lack of tracking snow over most of the state made conditions miserable.

INCIDENTALLY, the deer shot here in Franklin County were taken by Ross L. McClain of 58 Midcliff-dr, who bagged a doe near Reynoldsburg; and Clyde Mansfield, Jr., of Kirkersville, who nailed a buck in Mifflin Township.

Wildlife division officials aren't the least unhappy over the low deer harvest. Chief Dale Whitesell, crimson under the collar about a column in a Columbus daily paper this past Sunday which blamed the division for the lack of success, says that the slim results this season could mean better hunting in the long run by building the size of the deer population.

Soap Box Derby Planned For '65

The 1965 Columbus Soap Box Derby planning has begun with the announcement that the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Columbus Area Chevrolet Dealers and WLW-C, TV-4, will cosponsor the event for the fourth successive year.

The 11 through 15-year-old coasting car builder-drivers in the Columbus race will vie for a $500 savings bond, handsome trophies, and an all-expense-paid trip to Akron to compete in the All-American. The Akron winner receives a $7,500 college scholarship.

THE AKRON finals are set for Saturday, Aug. 7, and the Columbus race will be announced for a Saturday a few weeks prior to the national competition.

Parents and guardians of boys interested in competing this year should register them at a Columbus Area Chevrolet dealer and pick up the official rule book and an official wheel kit on which to build a racer.

Boys living in Pickaway, Madison, Union and Delaware Counties are also eligible to enter the Columbus Derby.

However, schools which might be interested in the remaining CBL quartet cringe at the thought of scheduling relatively equal enrollment goes way above the 1000 breakoff.

The deal prospective applicants to the new CBL setup appears even more unattractive with a maximum enrollment clause tossed in with an applicant's acceptance.

One spokesman, whose school is presently satisfied in its own league commented that he didn't think the new CBL teams would be able to find schools their own size interested unless they changed what the spokesman described as "their attitude."

The remaining CBL alignment seems no more secure since Mt. Vernon has received feelers from a league in their area and some people believe it wouldn't take much goading for Arlington to go independent.

For many teams who are anxious to make the big jump to another league, it's a matter of "watch and wait." Many are interested to see if both elements of the divided CBL can fill their '65 schedules with separated league mates.

This situation was born after the separating CBL quartets agreed that each could fill their '65 grid schedules with other opponents on dates now filled by a departing league member.

This will be done by mutual agreement inside a time limit not yet determined. (Eg. — Worthington wishes to schedule Newark on a date now filled bp Bexley. Worthing calls Bexley and asks to be relieved of the arrangement).

How mutual the agreement will be might be the fly in the ointment. As one member of the remaining CBL lineup put it: "We're looking for replacements now. Our present opponent will have a hard time holding us to a contract. After all, they wanted to split it up (the CBL) not us."

And so it goes, with solutions running thin and time running out. Some schools can still 'bide their time.' Others are not so fortunate. They cannot wait much longer.

good deer management — that's why the short two-day gun season was set in early December, when the odds were against a good tracking snow.

THIS IS also the reasoning behind setting the season in mid-week, excluding a Saturday. The wildlife boss states that during the past few years enough deer were harvested that the deer "herd" wasn't expanding much.

Another factor which is hurting the sportsman is the poacher. It's estimated that these meat-hunters kill more deer than legal hunters do.

Currently,. wildlife agents are cracking down on poachers, with 45 cases this year compared with only eight at this time last year. Add to the poachers the number of deer killed by autos and predators, and life gets mighty rugged for the white-tail and the hunter.

SPEAKING of deer season, Howard Specht of 2337 Ashley-dr, Columbus, did not get his while hunting down along the Muskingum River — but he did come back with a pretty unusual report.

Specht, who's a city fire department dispatcher, reports seeing the tracks of what appeared to be a mountain lion or wildcat, south of Malta, in Morgan county.

Knowing what most people would say, the veteran hunter took pictures of the prints, which were four inches long, 3¾ inches wide, and with four large claws. We'll print them, IF they turn out.

THE "LAME DUCK" session of the state legislature is all but in the history books. Among the items approved are two of interest to the outdoor-minded. Included in the 290-million dollar bond issue to be voted on next year is $25 million for improving and acquiring park and recreational areas, plus $5 million for building and improving roads in park areas.

Another bill combines the Forestry and Reclamation divisions of the Natural Resources department.

This combination is expected to result in stricter enforcement of strip mine reclamation laws, and well might be the first step in a sweeping reorganization of the entire department.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's committee to save Ft. Hayes had the rug pulled out from under it by the recent defense secretary's plan to "merge" Army and Air Force units with National Guard units.

The committee's main argument has been if the old fort were closed, other office space would have to be found for the 20th Army Corps Headquarters, along with reserve and National Guard units stationed there.

After all, if the 83rd Army Reserve Division and the 20th Army Corps headquarters are abolished, what need is there for office space?

to Columbus. This is true, they say, because expenses incurred by the state lawmakers more than offsets their salaries paid locally.

Columbus officials also say that a crackdown on legislators who refuse to file tax returns (a legal requirement whether or not payment is due) would be financially impractical for the city. Young indicated, however, that the added $3,000 annual pay hike the lawmakers voted for themselves might make an enforcement program worthwhile.

Twyford is hopeful that the Jan. 6 Mayors' Council meeting will win substantial local support for city income tax reform legislation. He favors a plan which would make reciprocity between cities mandatory, or some form of tax-sharing between the taxing district and the community of residence.

Ever Hear of FLAME GEOMETRY?
Look at one of your drinking glasses and notice how the lip, in most instances, is rounded to a smooth, safe surface. It has been made that way by using natural gas as a basic fuel in a delicate finishing process that involves industrial "flame geometry". ■ "Flame geometry" is regulating the size, shape, and stability of gas flames to perform exacting heating operations. ■ When drinking glasses are heated by gas to the proper temperature the sharp edges flow into curved surfaces, and are set to a high polish ... with rounded safe surfaces. ■ Because gas is versatile, because it is controllable, there is virtually no limit to its industrial adaptability. Natural gas is now used for 26,000 separate industrial applications as a fuel, tool, and as a chemical raw material.

Merry Christmas

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

One Solitary Life

Just in case you may have missed it, we reprint below an inspiring anonymous tribute as a message of good will at this season.

Here is a young man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher.

He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to a college. He never put his foot inside a big city. He never traveled 200 miles from the place where he was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness.

He had no credentials but himself. While he was still a young man the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away. He was turned over to his enemies.

He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth, and that was his coat.

When he was dead he was laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race and the leader of the column of progress.

I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever sailed, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have not affected the life of man upon this earth as has that one solitary life.

Ho, Ho, Ho Notes: Ed Johnson's gift to Charlton Myers was a baby aquarium type fish, named Duffiebag Dick . . . A friend tells how he had to take his $1.50 pet hamster to the vet recently and paid $5 for an abdominal operation. Now he wonders if he can get major medical on the pet . . . It will soon be inventory time and two friends who have ten youngsters should look about, since they had only nine of them listed on their greeting card . . . A young lady recently applied at the Hilltop Branch Library for a card: Her name is Mary Christmas Trees . . . Ed and Rosie Ferguson brought us a copy of the Daily Worker printed in English but distributed behind the Iron Curtain and after reading a few stories we hope the time will come when Russians will be able to partake of the joys of Christmas too.

For Old Times' Sake

In a Saturday evening party it was interesting to hear old timers recall their early Christmases and how the treat consisted of an orange, a few nuts and a 25 cent horn.

Charlie Wood of No. 15 Engine House tells how when he was a kid in Jackson, Ohio, their entertainment on Saturday night

'SANTA LOVES YOU, TOO'

A HUG FROM SANTA is frosting on the cake for one of the younger members of his fan club, and mutual delight is mirrored in both faces. Little Brian Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nolan, 326 Pineview-dr, is one of more than 1000 who visited Santa at Whitehall Fire Department Sunday, transformed for the occasion with a ceiling-tall, decorated tree and a pseudo-fireplace beside Santa's big red leather chair. Way Clear For Theater

Construction of Whitehall's new luxury motion picture house on the south side of Broad-st, just east of Beechwood, is expected to get under way almost immediately, and will proceed as fast as weather will permit.

Permission to install a septic tank as an emergency measure, until the Collingwood relief sewer is constructed, removed the last obstacle in the theater's path. A building permit was issued this week to developer Charles Sugarman.

The $130,000 sewer will serve the north and south side of Broad-st between Yearling-rd west, and will allow further development of Broad-st property.

The flooding of English Village basements during heavy rains will also be alleviated, as the relief sewer will take Broad-st property off the existing service.

About 1,000 homes in English Village are now tapped into the overloaded sewer, and the line is incapable of accommodating an additional tap for the new theater.

The septic tank will not be installed until the theater is near completion, an estimated six months, and will be removed as soon as the relief sewer is added.

The installation is on council's top priority list, and will be constructed as soon as financing is found.

LITTLE BUCKEYES FLORIDA-BOUND

Bexley Boy Among Top 25 In State

Joel Seiferas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Seiferas of 65 N. Gould-rd, a student at Bexley High, placed among the top 25 in the state in the annual General Scholarship Test of the Ohio Department of Education.

A total of 18,218 seniors took the test covering mathematics, English, history, science, reading and vocabulary.

Joel ranked 24th among the boys with a score of 791.

Other high ranking students in Eastern area high schools are:

At Bexley, Robert S. Schwartz, Jonathan Kaplan, James W. Davis, James N. Nowacki, Seth A. Hock, Lynne E. Skilken, Carl Japikse, William B. Salt, Mark A. Bookspan, Maury K. Topolosky, William M. Caplan, Irene M.

Officials Try To Locate Baby's Mom

Juvenile officers Tuesday were still searching for the mother of an infant baby boy, found abandoned Saturday in the basement of an apartment house on Virginia Lee-rd.

Placed in an incubator at Children's Hospital at first to combat effects of exposure to the cold, the baby was ready to be transferred to Franklin Village or to a foster home.

The baby was about four hours old when found. A woman called a telephone operator and reported where he could be found.

FOR REAL ESTATE OFFICE

Livingston Av. Zone Change Is Advised

Columbus City Council will be asked to approve a C-2 Commercial zoning at 4343 E. Livingston-av to permit continued operation of a real estate office. The request for the change from the existing suburban residential zoning was approved by the City Planning and Zoning Commission at the Dec. 16 meeting.

Petitioner is Mrs. Marjorie E. Stewart, 1299 Pierce-av. Her husband, Gene Stewart, operates real estate offices from both addresses.

The Stewart request was backed for city council approval by the planning group in a 4-1 vote, despite a recommendation by the commission's staff that the petition be denied. The staff report pointed out that property to the north and east of the Stewart property is zoned commercial, and that area to the south and west is suburban residential.

The staff report called for denial of the request on the grounds that it "could tend to encourage strip zoning along Livingston-av."

Contrary to a report published in the Columbus Dispatch, the Stewart petition had not been rejected by Columbus City Council last summer. The Dec. 16 planning commission approval was the first official action taken on the rezoning petition, and it will go to city council for the first time early in 1965.

The Stewart request has some similarities to one involving property at 4360 E. Livingston-av, a petition which has been denied at various times by the Planning Commission, the Board of Zoning Adjustments and city council. Petitioner in that case was Francis E. Smyser.

Smyser wanted to remove two homes at the northwest corner of Harlow-rd and Livingston-av and replace them with a building to house his real estate office. His last "turndown" by the City Planning Commission was in May, 1964, when he requested an AR-O zoning to replace the existing suburban residential classification. He has since discontinued the real estate operation from the 4360 E. Livingston-av location.

Stewart maintains that his wife's petition merits support in that lots of the north and east of the property already have the same commercial zoning designation being requested. He also points out that there will be no structural changes to the existing residence, and that the area now serving as the "back yard" will be converted to an eight-car parking area.

Stewart contrasted his park-

RIDES ON RED FIRE TRUCKS TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR WHITEHALL CHILDREN

EVERY CHILD'S DREAM of a ride on a fire engine came true Sunday for more than 1000 Whitehall youngsters, guests of the city firefighters at their annual Christmas party. The Firemen's Association this year purchased a second vintage fire engine — a 1930 Ford Model A, and the two engines were busy all afternoon. In addition to more than 1000 tots ten and under, tallied by the number of treats Santa passed out, there were hundreds of older children and parents. The grownups were treated to coffee and doughnuts, and there were free movies for all. This is the 14th year the firemen have staged their gigantic community Christmas party. "And many of those who came to the first party are now grown up, married, and bringing their own little ones," the firemen observed happily. Proceeds from their Christmas tree sale are used to finance the party, sponsored by the Firemen's Association.

Scouts Trim 'Mitten Tree'

Senior Girl Scout Troop 406 of Shady Lane neighborhood will provide the children of Franklin Village with mittens.

The "Mitten Tree," annual Christmas service project, was decorated with mittens which will soon be delivered to the village.

The girls are now maintaining the tree as a bird feeding station.

The Hessian fly reached the U.S. during the Revolutionary War, coming to Long Island in straw the Hessian soldier brought for bedding.

Girls Save Boy's Life

Two girls, ages 12 and 11, rescued a nine-year-old boy from the icy waters of Alum Creek Sunday.

Perry Jarvis 9, was attempting to help his brother, Dan, 7, who had fallen through the ice. In so doing, he fell in himself. Dan was able to crawl onto the ice but Perry was too heavy.

Kathy and Patty Woods, seeing his plight, retrieved a rope from an unidentified bystander, and pulled the boy to safety.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Woods of 2559 E. Fifth-av.

Perry and Dan Jarvis are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jarvis of 2621 Avalon-pl.

A PRAYER IS ANSWERED

JUST TWO MONTHS ago, when the congregation of Walnut Heights Baptist Church broke ground for a new building, the prayers were "May our church be completed in time to hold our first services on Christmas Eve." The answer will be evident when worshippers gather for the first time at the new unit located at 1660 Lattimer-dr . . . on Christmas Eve. The artist's sketch shows the first of a three unit edifice where Rev. Jerry DeBell will preach tonight, Dec. 24, at 7 p.m. Harold L. Schofield designed the $25,000 unit which was built by G and L Construction Co.

Back From The West

Jerry Spears, Jr., wife Gracie and daughter Stephanie, are back from an interesting sojourn to the West.

They spent three days in San Diego where 800 people from every state gathered to learn the latest about the National Foundation's battle against birth defects. Jerry is Franklin county board vice-chairman and also chairman of the board of advisors for the Mothers' March (March of Dimes) to be held here Jan. 28 and 27. Roger Dreyer, president of the board, also attended.

At the Dr. Salk Institute in La Jolla, Stephanie had the opportunity to chat with the famous discoverer of the polio vaccine.

On the way home the Spearses visited son Jerry III and his wife in Lincoln, Neb., and saw him help Nebraska beat Michigan in basketball.

Police, FBI Search For Bank Bandits

Whitehall Police and the FBI late Tuesday were continuing to check out "everything we can get" in their search for three gunmen who held up the Ohio State Bank at Great Eastern Monday.

More than $13,000 was taken, including $852 from one of the six customers in the bank at the time. They and six employes were herded into restrooms by the bandits who then took the cash from tellers' cages and a drive-in window.

Authorities theorize they may have had two accomplices waiting. A 1959 green Chevrolet with five men answering the robbers' descriptions was seen going north on Hamilton-rd.

The robbery was witnessed by Mrs. Dwight Keller of 6730 Red Fox-rd, when she stopped at the drive-in window of the bank. She tried to stop their escape by blocking their car with her own, but moved when she was threatened.

The gang left the bank in a stolen car, later found in another section of the shopping center.

WE ARE CALLED TO THE MANGER

It is Christmas Eve — the night of the promise fulfilled.

The greatest politician who ever lived, the best of the artful con men, the most ardent lover in history; none of these has matched the promise made to simple shepherds by an angel of God. "For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

And 2,000 years later the world is different. We are not called from the fields where we tend our sheep, but from the asphalt jungle; from the frivolous gaiety of the commercial display windows; from the false security of our counting houses, and from the deepest sorrow of our trials and afflictions. But the message is the same.

We are called to the Holy Infant in the manger. Will we but stop awhile and rock Him lovingly in our heart? If we do, this time He may stay with us.

Bethlehem

The world is full of winding roads
That wander up and down,
And circle mountain, marsh, and woods
To end at the same town.
The world is full of travelers
Who journey fast and fleet,
The world is full of wayfarers
Who never hope to meet.
Some on the low road, some the high,
Some on the middle track,
But every road men journey by
Will one day circle back.
For life is like a ring of light
Where love leads on afar,
And all men journey day and night
To meet beneath a star.

CHRISTMAS . . .

"Wishing you the best Christmas you ever had," the cards say. It will be. Many others have gone; any others haven't come. I have this one.

"What do you like best about Christmas?" I asked a roomful of second graders. One little look-mom-no-front-teeth sweeter said: "What I like about Christmas is that everybody likes everybody then."

The saga of the sled began when grandfather made a sled for his little boy's Christmas present and let the little boy help him. Four generations have kept the family tradition — each father, in turn, making his little boy a sled for Christmas and having the little boy help. Ask any participant in the progressive program what Christmas he remembers best and he will say: "The one when dad and I made the sled."

The practice of having notes fall due on Christmas was abandoned when it was found that peace on earth to men of good will was not being promoted by it. One of my grandmother's kissin' cousins snuck up at midnight to his banker's bedroom window and whimpered: "Mine note is due on Christmas and I can't pay him and I can't sleep." Slamming der vinder down, the irate money-man exploded: "Vy you come to vake me up to tell me dot. Now I can't sleep yet."

Scores of permanent patients in institutions are whispering to themselves or speaking in a soft voice to someone near: "She is coming." Bearing gifts she has made with her own busy hands, she will come to visit with the unfortunates, many of whom she knows. All her winnings in international bridge tournaments go to such causes. There is a long waiting list of young and old for her two dancing classes. She is in her late 80's. She is a Jewess.

A CHRISTMAS WISH

While angels sing and kings their gifts convey,
While humble shepherds wonder and adore,
To you and yours we send our wish this day:
May faith be yours, and peace forevermore.

Mid-winter festivals of various kinds have been observed in northern latitudes since prehistoric times. The early barbarians noticed that the sun seemed to go farther away once a year, then returned with its heat and light to create conditions for another time of renewal and growth. Not knowing of the one true God, the people acted to praise or propitiate their many gods in the only way they knew.

It so happened that the birth of the Son of God took place in mid-winter. No one can be sure of the exact date because of the use of different calendars and other factors. Most of the Christian world celebrates Dec. 25 of the new calendar adopted in the 18th Century.

During the Middle Ages some of the pagan customs, particularly those of the Roman Saturnalia, were absorbed into the Christian observance without any violation of doctrine or tradition.

National traditions have been absorbed and modified. The central theme and purpose of the observance remains the same, but there is a rich variety in different lands.

People can and do rejoice in any language, in any land. Despite all the forces of evil still strong on earth, Christians everywhere wish everyone the best of the good. And no one has ever been able to improve on the old, simple greetings.

It says here. . . .

The seeds of Christmas never die.

Christmas Heralds God's Gift To Man

You have seen the eyes of children light up with wonder on Christmas morning upon beholding the Christmas tree, the gifts, the lights and decorations, and all the other things that go on on Christmas Day.

Now we who are older — do our eyes still shine with the wonder of Christmas? And if they do, is their shining only the reflection of the light from the eyes of the children? Are we happy only because they are happy? Is this the only wonder of Christmas? If it is, each succeeding Christmas will see a little less of this brightness. The light in our eyes and the eyes of the children will be a fading light.

Rev. Bishop

There is something greater in Christmas than this. The light does not fade from our eyes as the years go by, but an everlasting light keeps shining more and more when we have the real Christmas.

The wonder and mystery of Christmas will grow upon us as we turn our eyes and our attention upon the essential, eternal message of God to man in Christ, His only Begotten Son.

When we contemplate the greatness of God's gift in Christ our eyes will never cease to shine with wonder, and our hearts will never cease to beat with joy at this holy season. Instead we can say with St. Paul, (I Tim. 3:16) "Great, indeed, we confess, is the mystery of our religion:

> He was manifested in the flesh, vindicated in the spirit, seen by angels, preached among the nations, believed in the world, taken up in glory."

Who among us has fathomed the mystery of the words of John's Gospel, (1:14, 18) "And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth; we have beheld His glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father. . . No one has ever seen God; the only Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, He has made Him known."

It is written of Mary, Jesus' mother (Luke 2:51) that she "kept all these things in her heart." That is, all the words spoken and the events that occurred, were treasured up by her in memory as she sought to take in the mystery of all that was said and done in connection with the birth and manifestation of her son, Jesus. The wonder and mystery never ceased.

The wonder and mystery will never cease for us if we will take time and thought to seriously consider the essential fact of Christmas. The joy and wonder will grow and increase through the years.

May you know this joy, and experience anew this wonder and contemplate this holy mystery as you worship with all God's people, and with the angels and the shepherds of old, and as you give thanks to God for His gift to you in Christ.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
'Aided' Little Man Is Inflation's Victim

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Take a beautiful land 2,000 miles long stretching from the Gran Chaco to the Antarctic Ocean. Endow it with an agricultural heartland with the deepest top soil in the world and equal in area to the American Midwest from Pennsylvania to the Dakotas. Fill it with a literate population, all European in origin.

And then bust it.

The trick has been done in Argentina.

Dictator Juan Peron and his evil Eva came to power in Argentina after World War II when the country had gold reserves of $1.6 billion. Nine years later the surplus was gone and Argentina had $700 million in short-term debt.

Jones

Peron wooed the mob with promises of huge social benefits and decrees in favor of high minimum wages totally unrelated to productivity. The peso slipped and fell. Foreign investment stopped and foreign-owned companies tried to liquidate and get their money out. Rich Argentines converted pesos to dollars or Swiss francs. The country began to live on inventory. Factories, roads, buildings slowly deteriorated.

Juan Peron bought the railroads, owned by a British company which had always made money, and immediately fantastic feather-bedding got under way. Railroad employment shot up from 140,000 to 220,000 and some workers were putting in a two or three-hour day. One "social benefit" was low fares — $2 for 200 miles — and in spite of a few recent economies Argentine railroads are losing close to a million dollars every 24 hours.

After a period of revolutionary government following Peron's overthrow in September, 1955, the Frondizi regime brought in an engineer, Alvaro C. Alsogaray, who had permission to eliminate controls that weren't working and benefits that couldn't be afforded and to return to a free, private enterprise economy. The result was spectacular — an increase of half a billion dollars in gold reserves in 22 months.

But deflation is never politically popular and Frondizi fired Alsogaray. Argentina returned to centralized planning, unrealistic social outlays and efforts to control the value of its money by decree. The peso used to be worth 25 cents American. The Argentine government now claims it's worth 140 to the dollar. But your hotel will give you 162 and on the street you can get 172. The bogus "official rate" means that Argentine farmers are having increased difficulty selling their wheat on the world market.

A former Argentine diplomat told me with wry sadness: "The trick now is to be a creditor in dollars and a debtor in pesos."

Naturally, it's smart to borrow baloney money if you're pretty sure that in a few years you can pay back baloney-skin money. And the lenders know it. So the rate for commercial loans runs between two and five percent a month. No business can float a bond issue. You must either raise your money by selling common stock or borrow it at shylock rates. No wonder new investment staggers.

Buenos Aires is full of skyscrapers being slowly and painfully completed from the ground up. You build the concrete skeleton. By this time, inflation has taken your capital and you're broke. You scrounge around for enough money to complete the ground floor. You rent it. After a while, maybe, you'll have money enough to complete the second floor. Then the first two floors will help you finish the third, etc.

Argentina has 175,000 men in the armed forces. It has an aircraft carrier for no better reason than the fact that Brazil has one for no reason at all. The Argentine air force is so independent of the government that it even owns shares in the Fiat factory. No one dares count the number of generals who have retired on full pay.

The new president, Dr. Arturo Illia, is described as a personally honest and sincere man, but his government is floundering. A leader of the opposition swore to me that some of the president's top advisors are secret Communists. This is unprovable, but it is certainly the Communist technique to try to ruin the economy of a basically-healthy nation in order to create sufficient confusion, paralysis and dissent to permit a Communist takeover.

Into this mess the United States has poured $1.5 billion in grants and loans in the past 10 years. During the same period, wise, if unpatriotic, Argentines have shipped a billion dollars out of the country.

Here's a lesson for America. Some of our popular writers on economics are talking rhapsodically of the benefits of "controlled inflation." It is no longer considered sophisticated to worry about annual deficits. You print money against a rising debt. Everybody has money. There is full employment. Debt scares no one. You build gingerbread houses of social goodies. You point to New Frontiers and Great Societies.

But gold and silver reserves diminish in terms of money supply. Then foreign creditors get nervous and start a run on your gold. You find your money backed by nothing but promises. Prices go up faster than wages. Interest rates soar and investment drops. Pretty soon everybody is in a jam and the worst hit is the little guy who thought inflation was his friend.

It would be worth the money to send the whole U.S. Congress on a junket to Argentina.

What a joy it is, now and then, just to watch individuals work and notice instantly that they know exactly what they are doing!

Whether it be a skilled surgeon operating on heroic emergency cases, or seeing a skilled dentist trying to save badly loosened teeth from an accident. Or watching some skilled craftsman who is both artist and technician. The skills in his hands, working with his eyes, but also pouring some soul sweat into the task.

Nor is this greatest of all talents, creativity, confined to humans alone. All of my life I have thrilled at the amazing performances of highly trained, natively intelligent animals, doing tricks that almost defy belief.

Dogs, horses, elephants, otters, monkeys, birds and even sea lions that knew and could play a tune on a full octave set of pipes or horns. Many years ago a famous big-time vaudeville act that was in the circuit the same time I was with my balancing and juggling act and high-wire act, was a bunch of 11 pigs from little midgets up to enormous full grown hogs. That gawky farmer-boy who developed the act of trained swine had something that is important in all education.

Habit, routine, endless repetition, reward of some favorite tid-bit; then when some one tried to change the routine or the signal cues, all of these performing animals would balk for an instant, then go right ahead of the regular routine.

Great musical artists, voice or instrumental, know that countless hours go into any top-rated performance—practice, practice, practice.

The ideal of excellence is still the prescription for happiness, success, health of one's soul and peace of mind. It is a combination of native endowment and tremendous inspiration. It's learning how to SEE when one looks; how to HEAR when listens; how to FEEL when one touches, and above all else, how to think positively, never being guilty of psychological mal-practice against one's self.

Canteen Cheers For Jane

To the Editor:

Mrs. Jane Robinson—a mother and housewife in addition to being a newspaperwoman—has no time to hear the praises of her good work and the help she has given so many people . . . Our school activities, our beauty parade, and our Teen Canteen would go almost unnoticed without her kind attention and interest. . . . Everyone knows of her ability to turn a small item of interest into front page news, which is easy to read and can produce a smile or soft heart, as needed. The Teen Canteen of Canal Winchester would like to thank Jane for her help in our success.

Don't Leave Her On A Limb!

To the Editor:

(Regarding letters appearing in this column, Nov. 25, Dec. 3 debating the policy of youth organization leaders who require parents to sign a "release of responsibility" statement before children are taken on field trips.)

I have never been a Bluebird leader but I read "Other Side of the Story" and would like to give a sideline opinion for what it is worth.

How can one (leader) say she has 10 happy girls and 10 satisfied parents? This is contrary to human nature and human endeavor. It all sounds too cozy for words.

It would seem that "Other Side of the Story" could make amends and approach the parents of the Bluebird now sitting lone and lost, out on a limb — leaderless and apparently less adored.

No doubt it was easier to have an academic powwow and write a letter which would exemplify and exonerate this group of any wrong-doing.

I wonder which one feels less of a Christian on Sunday.

I say to you, little Bluebird, out on a limb, don't be embarrassed by all this controversy. You are a mighty lucky girl to have parents who are not afraid to express themselves. Unfortunately, little Bluebird, these small voices are subject to reprimand and ridicule. People lick their chops on this kort of thing.

Remember the words of Oscar Wilde: "There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about."

WIT 'N' WISDOM

FCL Finds Days Numbered; 'Catholic Block' Future Is ??

(Second in a three-part series dealing with a look at the seven athletic leagues in The Spectator circulation area, their problems and possible solutions).

By Jack Wittenmeier

With the split of the Central Buckeye League, the unfortunate nod of "who's next in line" falls directly to the Franklin County League.

Wittenmeier

With only two of its nine-team composition indicating satisfaction in the present alignment, the end is imminent.

One athletic director gives the FCL one more year of existence another speculates "possibly two years."

Rumblings inside the County circuit came to light as early as pre-grid season, 1962. At that time this column (Wit 'N Wisdom, Sept. 20, '62) reported that three members (New Albany, University and Dublin) were not happy.

Shortly later, West Jefferson replaced University in the lineup while New Albany and Dublin agreed to go along with the league, encouraged that Canal Winchester (which was a member but didn't participate in FCL football) would rejoin its mates on the football field.

But discontent spread until New Albany finally made its open break following this past grid season. A drop in enrollment at Rosary brought the announcement that another member would not compete, football-wise, in '65.

This would normally leave a six-team alignment with three others competing in all sports but football. However, four other members do not intend standing pat for long.

Canal Winchester, Dublin and Academy, not large schools, are reportedly "looking around" for replacement elsewhere. The third—Reynoldsburg—has a long-standing application in the Mid-Eight office.

This leaves only West Jefferson and St. Mary as satisfied customers — hardly enough to hold together an athletic league.

The problems facing the FCL — finances and imbalance — are not uncommon. New Albany's complaint that it could no longer compete, size-wise — with teams like West Jeff and Reynoldsburg pretty well speaks for other disgruntled members.

In fact, New Albany said it would remain in the FCL if it didn't have to schedule the two larger members. The proposed compromise was rejected.

Reynoldsburg's situation perhaps best exemplifies the type of situation now faced by many schools. The school, in a growing community, has, in fact, outgrown the competition most other member schools are able to provide.

Before its departure to the South Suburban League, Hamilton Township had much the same problem. It was no secret that both Hamilton and Reynoldsburg were no longer welcome members of the FCL as far back as two years ago.

Reynoldsburg, now finding its league crumbling around it, can't wait much longer. But where is there to go?

Ideally, the answer would be the Mid-Eight League but unless the loop decides to expand to 10 teams, this is no solution with league solidarity promised for two more seasons. It's doubtful if Reynoldsburg can wait this long.

The apparent instability of the remaining CBL and the enrollment limit clause of the renegade CBL make moves here undesirable.

The school shunned flirtations of a forming South Suburban League two years ago, fearing that the loop might wind up as a composition of dissatisfied teams looking for a common roosting place.

Reynoldsburg knows it doesn't want to go independent. The "outsider" can never really feel secure at the gate and scheduling, at least areawise, is a nightmare.

So now, Reynoldsburg joins the long line of those "watching and waiting," knowing it must act soon or be left out in the cold.

Also anxiously waiting in line to jump is the Catholic block—the cities' four central parochial schools (Watterson, Hartley, DeSales and Ready).

Now members of a shaky Central Catholic League, several of the four have made effects to crack the City League alignment, each time with no success.

With the departure of St. Charles from the CCL grouping and members Springfield Catholic and Newark Catholic slipping way behind in enrollment, the four must pretty well determine their own destiny.

A solution for the Catholic block is perhaps more frustrating than that of other leagues.

The four would like to make a move retaining their block status. However, it's almost certain that, should the opportunity arise, each would go his own separate way.

The biggest obstacle the group will have to overcome is the fear by many schools that the Catholic teams cannot carry a bountiful gate.

This fear is highly unrealistic in the cases of the local central parochial schools who have shown their ability in the past several seasons to do well financially, thanks basically to high enrollment.

Some leagues have reported interest in members of the Catholic block as league mates but only on an individual basis.

It seems more than likely that the Catholic block might have to follow the example of Cleveland and Cincinnati teams which have stayed together to form annually one of the strongest loops in the city.

This would be more realistic if the four can wait for two more proposed central parochial high schools to come into being—one located south, the other in the northwest section of the area.

Under Buckeye Skies

'Tis the day before Christmas, and throughout all the stores
Frantic eleventh-hour shoppers are panicking by the scores."

Chances are that if you're among those who have procrastinated yourself into shopping trouble, you won't get a chance to read this. But in case you still have a sportsman or two to buy for, let me pass on some good advice.

Ben McCreary

Fishermen, hunters, campers and other outdoors-types are mighty hard to shop for—they have rather exacting choices of equipment and gear. But don't worry much about getting exactly what he wants—just have an understanding that nobody gets upset if he wants to take it back to exchange for the exact type, size or kind which meets his individual needs.

After tomorrow marks the finale of the hectic hassle of the Christmas-time shopping, decorating and rushing about many of us will want to fall back and get in a few enjoyable, relaxing hours of hunting. The tail-wagging five-day season of Ohio's split waterfowl season arrives next Tuesday and many of us will be heading for open-water areas such as the Scioto River for a final fling at the ducks. It's also an ideal time to tromp afield after the cotton-tail rabbit, which is providing some abundant shooting sport this season. If you don't hunt, ice-fishing is finally coming on — and if that's not your cup of tea, the crisp time of winter is thoroughly enjoyable for just getting out and hiking through the snowy Ohio countryside.

There are over a dozen northeastern Ohio residents who aren't having a very happy holiday season. They are allegedly members of what wildlife officials term a "large-scale poaching ring." After a year-long investigation, wildlife enforcement men lowered the boom on the ring late last week. According to wildlife chief Dale Whitesell, the ring, operating in the Mosquito Lake section of Trumbull County, had been literally slaughtering deer as well as pheasants, racoon and beaver. Their arrests mark the latest apprehensions in a concentrated crackdown on poachers, who, Whitesell says, kill more than legal hunters do.

Area Gridders Cop 'O' Stripes

Otterbein honored its footballers recently and Jim Wacker, a former Bexley High and Toledo Scott standout, was named most valuable player for the past season and was also tapped as honorary co-captain of the Otter squad for the '64 campaign.

Mike Welling, freshman halfback from Aquinas, was named the most valuable freshman and Rick Mauger, 185-pound soph fullback from Bexley was awarded a trophy for being the squad's most improved player.

Other area boys who received letters at the Otter grid fete included Dick Morrow and Rick Mauger of Bexley; Welling and Paul Reiner of Aquinas; Ken Ash of Central; Dennie Ferrell of South; Roger Nisely of Marion-Franklin; Dale Foor of Watkins Memorial (Pataskala) and Mike Green of Groveport.

Ribbons of good wishes and bows of thanks to all of those we have had the privilege of serving throughout the year.

Eastern Quintets 'Vacation' While Vikings Meet Rams

Hartley and Eastmoor maintained their title-tempos last weekend, each winning important circuit contests handily.

Geary Bradley's Hawks kept pace with co-leader Watterson, also 3-0 in CCL play, by subduing Ready 84-65 behind a blistering offensive that saw Hartley (6-1) hit 40 of 83 fielders (48 percent) and outrebound the Knights 40-22.

ALL FIVE starters hit the twin figures as Doug Parker's 26, Les Thomas' 24, Steve McGrew's 12 and Frank Tafoya and Tom Schlager (10 each) led the way.

Eastmoor moved on to a 6-0 slate after counting a 66-57 win over Brookhaven, sparked by the point performances of center Steve Howell (25) and playmaker Jerry Groves (14). E-M now shares the CL's top spot with Linden and West at 4-0.

Bob Hart's fast-rising East quint (4-1) clubbed North unmercifully after a 26-point second period and went on to an easy 83-51 win. Junior Gil Mathews now has 80 points in his last three contests after a 26-point effort Friday. John Lewis (16) and Galen Bias (14) aided Mathews.

WALNUT RIDGE trailed from the outset as Central escaped with a 58-40 verdict on the Scot rectangle. Center Pat Beveridge's 13 and Dick Wollett's nine couldn't save Jackie Moore's Scots, now 0-6 over-all.

Phil Allen's improving Whitehall squad split a pair of contests last weekend, bowing to CBL league-leader Urbana, 81-46, and winning over visiting DeSales 58-48.

The Urbana setback resulted from a 23-11 first-period bulge compiled by the Hillclimbers. Thirteen mariners by Gary Beckley and seven each by John McQuaid and Harv Eader were lost in the shuffle.

THE DeSALES triumph was spearheaded by the point-making of Beckley (17) and sidekick Gary Blackstone (14) as the Rams now stand 3-3 on the season.

Dick Geyer saw his St. Charles crew divide two sets as the Carolians fell to Newark Catholic by a 51-44 count and won over arch-rival Aquinas 60-58.

Denny Craft's 13 went for naught at Newark while the Franklin Heights, shooting for reclamation of its position as a perennial local mat power, nabbed win number three against no losses last week by capturing its own Holiday Invitational Tournament.

Other pre season favorites — Arlington, Worthington and East — were not as impressive, the former pair suffering setbacks, the latter slipping past Westerville, 25-18.

Groveport pulled the new season's first mild upset, cancelling out wins by Alan and Paul Mitchell to win over Worthington, 24-18.

Jeff Nelle (120), Jim Dill (154) and Dave Thompson (hwt.) nabbed pins for the winners.

Forfeit wins by John Cruse and Chris Geer wiped out a slim West lead as Walnut Ridge opened with a 27-21 decision over the Cowboys.

Steve Roberts (127) got a five-pointer for the Scotties while Mike Baker (145) and Harry Radeuge (hwt.) secured pins for West.

Defending District champ East won six of its first eight decisions and then hung on for a 25-18 verdict over Westerville. Ron Peaks (112) and co-captain Gary Rispress got pin wins for the Tigers.

Dayton Stebbins whisked from behind, wiping out a 19-6 deficit by nailing down four pins in the last four matches, to topple visiting Whitehall, 26-19.

Mike Decker (103) and Wes Seymour (145) got pins for the Rams while Steve Berry, Randy Nichols and Randy Catalina gained the other Whitehall points via decisions.

Pins by Dave Sherman (103), Harold Frasure (127) and Benny Bowman (165) paced Central to a lopsided opening 35-8 win over Jonathan Alder.

Coach Roger Dumaree reports that Frasure and Steve Howard (120) looked particularly impressive for the Pirates who were never headed in the meet.

Hamilton Township brought its mat mark to 3-1 with wins over Bexley (32-9) and Mifflin (30-17).

Against Bexley, the Rangers took eight of 11 verdicts which included pins by Jim Smales (112), Ken Cornwall (127) and Paul Keller (165).

Keller, who has four pins in four matches to his credit already this season, helped pace the Mifflin win along with Mike Blansett (133) who also won via a pin.

Bob Twiss' F-H Falcons led all the way in copping their Holiday tourney. Franklin Heights compiled 102 points to outdistance runner-up Arlington (61).

Other finishers included: Pleasant View (57), Jonathan Alder (38), Grandview (37), University (32), West (30) and Hilliard (8).

The Falcons, paced by finals wins by two sophs — Dick Grambo (112) and Dick Kesselring (120) — and senior Mike Long (175), carried seven entries into the finals and three into the consolations.

Grambo was voted the tourney's outstanding wrestler. Here is a rundown on the finals:

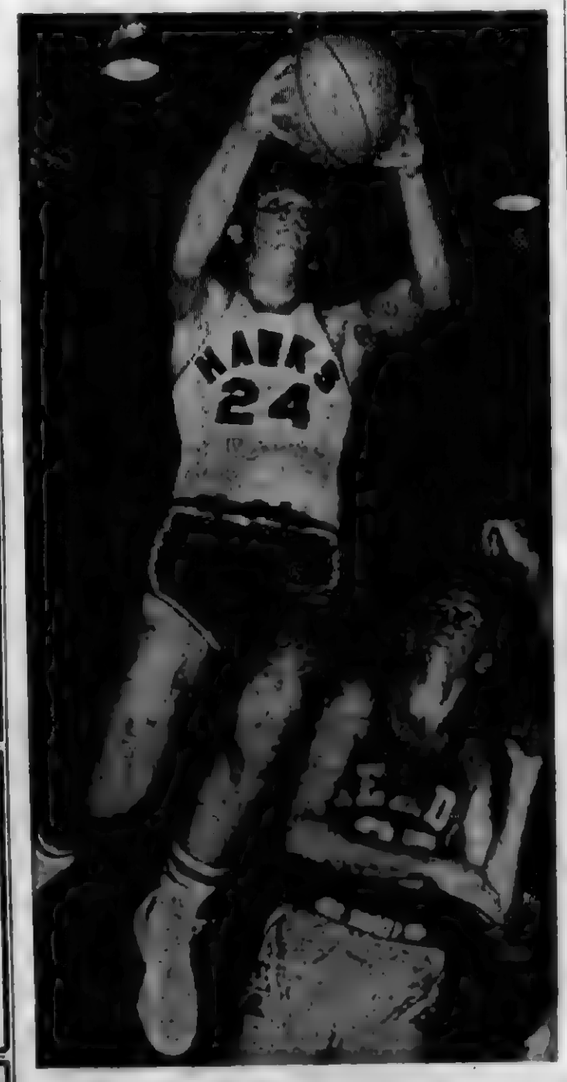
103 — Hartman (UA) over Vance (F-H); 112 — Grambo (F-H) over Driesbach (P-V); 120 — Erbe (P-V) over DeWitt (UA); 127—Kesselring (F-H) over Hartman (UA); 133 — O'Keefe (G) over O'Hara (F-H); 138 — Young (J-A) over Farbach (UA); 145 — Saunders (UA) over Baker (W); 154 — King (W) over Scoleri (F-H); 165 — Riebel (P-V) over Blankenship (F-H); 175 — Long (F-H) over Baker (P-V); hwt. — Foster (U) over Mabry (J-A).

Ronnie Reid's pin win started Eastmoor on a drive that notched six of the seven last matches in the Warriors' 38-9 verdict over Bexley Tuesday.

Roy Leonard (112), Pete Johnson (138), Dan Goldberg (165), Tom Findley (103) and Steve Gutridge (hwt) also gained pins for the winners.

Sideliner Club Will Honor Aurealius Thomas, Feb. 27

Aurealius Thomas, head coach of East's unbeaten '64 City League grid champs, will be officially honored as Central Ohio's "Coach of the Year" by the Sideliner Club, Saturday, Feb. 27, at 6:30 p.m. at the Columbus Plaza.



The Sideliner Club was organized three months ago to help Central Ohio athletes attend college.

Club president Bill Cummings has announced an impressive guest list which will include Baltimore pro star Jim Parker, LA Dodger catcher John Roseboro (and possibly Maury Wills), ex-Buckeye Don Clark and Dan Sheatsley of the City Public School system.

Woody Hayes will be the guest speaker. Tickets can be obtained now by contacting Lee Williams at East High School (CL. 3-7456).

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Help! Help save our Christmas tree, doctor! We can't keep our cat, Geronimo, out of that room and there is no way to tie the tree down. Last year, he was afraid of the tree at first. Then he started to climb it.

We hauled him out of the tree twice as it was teetering precariously. His expeditions cost us dearly in ornaments. Every morning we expected to see the tree in a heap on the floor. Repellent sprays didn't work. Is there any way we can keep him out of it this year? Help, quick! — S.S.

DEAR S.S.: (copy of earlier reply) First, have Geronimo's front nails clipped. (Or, do it yourself, IF you know how and Geronimo will go along with it.) Then coat the middle third of the tree trunk—plus the large branches where they join it — with white petrolatum. While Geronimo COULD still climb the tree if his life depended on it, it's likely he will now give up the struggle rather than get all gummed up in the process.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My book says you can take a cat's temperature in one minute. I thought you had to leave the thermometer in longer. I hate to drag the process out longer than is necessary. So does Tom Cat. Will one minute do it? — C.R.

DEAR C.R.: Your interest in expediting this procedure is understandable. Unfortunately, you are right. Most thermometers require almost three minutes to record the temperature accurately.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We are planning on going to England for two years but understand our dog will have trouble getting in with us. What is required? For Bobo, I mean. — V.R.

DEAR V.R.: To get Bobo there requires a Shippers Export Declaration plus Invoice and Proof of Origin sheets. Also required is a health certificate, and a rabies vaccination one to six months prior to shipping. Plus, an import license. Then, upon his arrival, he will be stuck in quarantine for six months. From Bobo's standpoint, Merrie Olde England is a tough nut to crack.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Something happened to my pet cockroach, Fastback. Before, my Dad said he was going to step on him. When I asked if that was what happened, he said no, not yet, that he hadn't seen him.

Now he says I had better find him before he finds a girl friend. Mother says she thinks he went outside and got lost in the woodpile. If he did, he might have to stay there till spring. How would that be? Would he find a girl friend out there? — J.A.

DEAR J.A.: If Fastback did find a coy cockroach in the woodpile it's unlikely anything will come of it. In most parts of the country, a woodpile becomes too frosty for survival, let alone romance.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have some questions about a salt water aquarium that I would like to set up. (1) Should the density of the water be 1.010 or 1.020? (2) What is the best average temperature? (3) Please name a good scavenger for the tank. (4) Can I get by without having to set up a filter? Thanks for your help. — J.J.

DEAR J.J.: (1) Water density should be 1.020. (2) Best temperature, 72 degrees. (3) The Hermit Crab will do a good job on any food surplus. (4) A filter is vital in a salt water tank. It should be of the fast-flowing variety, one that will move a gallon of water a minute.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of this newspaper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Parking Garage Averaging 1000 Cars Per Day

The new Statehouse Underground Parking Garage has found wide acceptance with Columbus parkers, according to the management. The facility reached a new high of 1,750 cars on Saturday, Dec. 12.

General manager Dwight Dixon said that the facility is averaging better than 1,000 cars each day, very close to its 1,205-car capacity. Dixon also stated that the daily parking average is twice as many as he thought would use the garage during its first month of operation. He added that this average also included Sunday, which is usually a slow day for downtown parking facilities.

The modern three-level underground garage, beneath the Ohio Statehouse grounds, offers safe and convenient parking conditions for visitors to downtown Columbus.

Markets for farm products will continue to expand in 1965, predict OSU Extension economists.

Season Of 'Marvel' Evokes An Inspiring Story Of Three Men

PART TWO

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Part One (Dec. 10 col.) told the beginning of a modern-day story of three men who groped through darkness, following a bright star of hope, to a place where near-miracles occur every day in the week. This is the concluding part.

The night the lights in the ring dimmed for Charles "Chick West" Penna, New England's popular welterweight champion, he knew instinctively he would never again see the bright lights over the ring at Madison Square Garden, where world boxing championships are won and lost.

But there was this earlier ambition to travel. Penna had always wanted to travel, even more than he wanted the cheers and the heavy crown of the world championship.

When they told about a doctor, and a certain operation, a bright star of hope blazed in the darkness.

Then it dimmed.

The operation had gone wrong. There was a question over whether a blood clot or something else had caused his blindness.

The controversy was in court for 13 years while Penna sat in darkness where the only light was a strange star of hope that glimmered in his mind. In his mind it lighted scenes of far cities and he knew that someday, somehow, it would lead him through darkness to where a near-miracle would occur.

Penna's vision of travel, his lifelong ambition, was not dimmed when the court exonerated the surgeon. It did not dim when later examinations confirmed that he would never see again.

He knew that someday, if he followed that star of hope . . .

While he lay in darkness in a hospital in the city of Guatemala, Arturo Solas F. heard good news about his friend, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, who was helping the Resistance Movement dispel the darkness of Communism which cloaked all of Guatemala.

Arturo was happy despite the darkness which had descended upon him after a Communist's bullet had shattered his sight. For through this darkness he glimpsed a bright star of hope.

He knew this would guide his people, and Col. Armas, to victory over the Communists.

Later, he knew, it would guide him to the great United States, and the great doctors there — to a place where a miracle would occur.

Three months later a miracle occurred in Guatemala. The revolution succeeded and Arturo's country became the first ever to oust a Communist - dominated government.

Arturo's good friend, Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, became Guatemala's new president.

Now President Armas was one who also had good cause to believe in miracles. And he did not forget his gallant friend who, despite the great victory, still walked in darkness.

So Arturo came to the United States, and to the great doctors here.

When they told him that the Communist's bullet had severed the optic nerve, that he would never see again, Arturo could not believe them.

If he believed them, how could he satisfy the ambition that had burned in him these many years — the desire to walk in the streets of his beloved Guatemala without fear, safe from the Communists who still lurked vindictively in the shadows.

At the hospital in Boston they stared wonderingly as Arturo smiled, thanked them, and walked out.

How could they know that through the great darkness that surrounded him blazed a bright star of hope . . .

Every day when he opened his school books and saw the wonders of education, Stanley Doran knew that someday he would be a teacher and reveal this miracle to others.

Even that day in a New Albany classroom when the books blurred, when a doctor explained to Doran that the retinas of his eyes had been damaged and life would always appear distorted, he knew the doctor was wrong.

There was this object which was not dim, which was not distorted. It was a bright star of hope and Doran knew that, somehow, it would lead him to a place where a miracle would occur.

Doran followed this star of hope.

It led him to Detroit, to another kind of school, where he learned that the blind might walk safely through danger with the aid of other eyes. The eyes of a dog.

Doran knew then that a near-miracle had occurred. He had found a way to teach.

Stanley Doran rode with his father, who was a mail carrier on a rural route in New Albany, while he trained the first of many dogs which have gained international fame.

Later, with the aid of Everett Steece, chief of service for the blind, and the late C. W. Medick, of Medick Ford, Doran founded Pilot Dogs, Inc., now located at 625 W. Town-st.

It was to this address that a bright star of hope led Charles "Chick West" Penna 12 years ago. And here, a near-miracle occurred, said Penna, when he was interviewed several weeks ago.

Penna, who each year attends the annual convention at Pilot Dogs, Inc., returned this year for a new dog and new training.

Prior to this, at 72 years of age, Penna and his first Pilot Dog were the oldest working team in the United States, perhaps the world, according to Stanley Doran.

"My star of hope led me here," said Penna. "I always knew, somehow, that someday I could travel safely — realize my life-long ambition. If you trust in God, and follow that star of hope, it will surely lead you to a miracle."

Strangely, the star of hope that Arturo Solas F. followed unfalteringly in his blindness led him across the path of Charles Penna in Boston, and Stanley Doran in Columbus.

Was it the same star that these three men followed, and caused their path to cross in Columbus?

In Guatemala, where Arturo now walks in safety in his beloved city, many believe so.

For Arturo, too, came to Pilot Dogs, recommended by his good friend, President Armas. Here he trained with a faithful dog, then returned to Guatemala.

In the passing years, President Armas was assassinated by the Communists who still lurk there. Arturo, himself, has been viciously attacked on three occasions.

On each occasion his faithful dog has saved his life.

There is a strange parallel to an older story of three men who followed a star through the night to a place where a marvelous thing occured nearly 2,000 years ago.

There is also an obvious message — one that speaks of faith . . . and the wonders that it performs.

ARTURO SOLAS F.

Bexley Council Sets Meet

Bexley Council, meeting in special, early session Tuesday night, to pass legislation necessary before the end of the year, was unable to act because of lack of a quorum, and called another special meeting for next Monday, 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ruth Mann, Doyt Bell and W. O. Schoedinger heard second readings of the measures, but were unable to pass them as emergency legislation without the presence of a quorum.

Council customarily approves a revision of the tax budget, and transfers funds from one division to another within the general fund before the close of the year.

Also up for action at next Monday's meeting will be an ordinance banning parking on Mound-st between Euclaire and Pleasant Ridge.

A measure providing an easement at $50 annually for a brick patio wall a resident inadvertently constructed on city propery, will also be up for consideration.

We hope that all our friends may share in the joys and blessings of this wonderful day.

GENE MILLARD'S young Bexley Lions (2-4) fell behind 20-9 at the first quarter and never recovered against Grandview as the Bobcats pulled out a 63-42 nod despite 13-point performances by Rob Wells and captain Bill Salt.

Columbus Academy is now 3-2 after last week's 64-53 win over Canal Winchester, a vredict that was helped along by the scoring of Terry Larrimer (18), Pete Bigelow (15), Joe Lanman (13) and George Fulford (12).

The Vikings play the first game Tuesday night (7:15) against the host St. Mary Rams (2-4) in the Ramblers' holiday basketball festival. If the Nelson-rd five wins, they'll face the winner of the West Jefferson-Rosary contest in a 9 p.m. fray Wednesday night following a 7:15 consolation round.

At the 11 a.m. Saturday service, Rabbi Stephen A. Arnold will preach on, "Grow, Man, Grow!" A luncheon for the homecomers served by the Sisterhood and an open discussion conducted by the Rabbis will follow.

ing area plan with parking space provided for the Walnut Ridge Medical Center immediately behind his property. He said the center has 17 offices and parking area for only 15 cars.

It is expected that city council will be presented with petitions both for and against the change in zoning. If councilmen scan the petitions carefully, they may find that some people have "signed on" for both sides of the question. A City Planning Commission source indicated that such occurances are not rare in the case of controversial zoning issues.

Winter Woes In Whitehall: Leaks In The City Ice Rink

Holland has its fabled leaky dike . . . and in Whitehall there's a leaky skating rink.

Sand bags, 100 of them, are the latest resort of Mayor William Holzhause and Service Director James Polser to plug rips and holes in the huge 80 by 200-foot plastic liner for the city's ice rink, and to force it to lie flat.

The liner, purchased for $325, was placed in a frame on the graded, leveled tract two weeks ago.

First leaks in the liner, laid out on Yearling-rd across from city hall, were attributed to stiff weeds that punctured the material, and firemen filled the rink to its four-inch depth three times, until the weather was cold enough to freeze the water before it escaped.

Sunday the rink was finally frozen over tight, and about 100 youngsters enjoyed the skating.

But then came the thaw — water leaked out the bottom and got under the lining, forcing the plastic sheet to the surface in spots where it was badly cut by skates.

Theorizing that sand bags along the western edge, the portion where damage is worse, will keep the lining flat and retain the water until it freezes, officials hopefully eye the thermometer. A drop in temperature for a few days should put the rink back in operation.

Marine Honored As Japanese Interpreter

Outstanding performance as a Japanese interpreter recently earned for Marine S/Sgt. Samuel S. Michaels, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Michaels, 1406 Benson-dr, a letter of appreciation from his commanding general.

Michaels was commended for his service as interpreter for Japanese newspaper boys during their tour of the Marine Corps Air Station at Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii.

Michaels is serving there as as radio specialist with the First Radio Battalion.

Before entering the Marines in March, 1954, Sgt. Michaels attended the Chamberlain Hunt Military Academy at Port Gibson, Miss.

He took top academic honors in a class of more than 200 servicemen when he was graduated from the Defense Language Institute at the Presidio onf Monterey.

Michaels, who completed studies of Japanese, was presented the Maxwell D. Taylor Award and praised by Col. Richard J. Long, post commandant.

FARM FORECAST

Christmas is a wonderful time of the year, a time that seems to draw out the good in all men.

As industry slows for the holiday, so goes agriculture. The farmer's work is never done, but he, like others, grants special privileges to help, family and associates.

In observance of the market slow-down, and general holiday hustle, I would like to brief my column this week and pass along a poem called:

Back Home Where I Come From

Back home where I come from, it wasn't much of a place . . .
We didn't have a fancy lot, trimmed with frill and lace.
But when Christmas arrived, you could bet your boots . . .
That the table would be almost full;
Of goodies and eats, and Christmas Cheer . . .
Even oats for our tired old mule.

Mom would read the good book, and Dad would say a prayer . . .
And all of the kinfolk gathered at home, would all the turkey share.
Gee I'd like to do it again, I'd give everything under the sun . . .
To travel back to that little farm, BACK HOME WHERE I COME FROM.

. . . anonymous

Next week we'll take a look at agriculture for 1965 and the FUTURE IN FARMING. See Clay Eager's Farm Forecast, weekday mornings at 6:30 a.m. on TV-4.

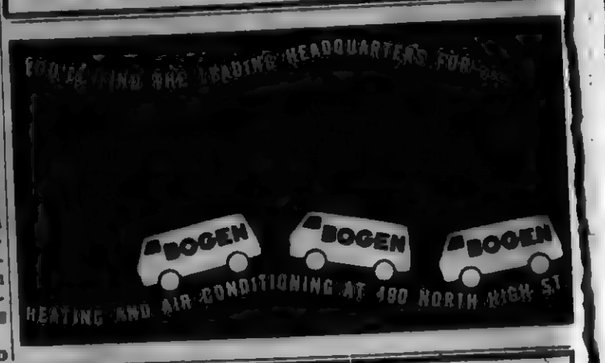
Senior Citizens Center

One of the very important committees at the Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, is the Friendly Visiting Committee, whose purpose is to keep in touch with members who are not well. The committee is represented on the senior council by Ed Moone, chairman, who also hand-paints the cards which are sent out to center members who are ill. These cards are signed by those coming to the center, and have as many as 125 signatures when mailed. The committee sends out an average of 10 get-well greetings a month. Responsible for the mailing of the cards is Mrs. Edna Moone, who also assigns telephone follow-ups to committee members Mrs. Clara Dover, Mrs. Lourie Stubbs and Mrs. Elda Turvey. Following the telephone contact, friendly visiting members go to visit in the homes or hospitals. Responsible for the visiting is Mrs. Clara Shepherd.



Members are encouraged to call the center at 221-6090 when hearing of a member who is ill. This information is posted on the bulletin board at the center where all can share the news. Mrs. Ardath Lynch, recreation leader, is also related to this committee.

BARNETT READY FOR STUDENTS

Barnett Elementary, finally ready for occupancy after delays that have postponed opening from September until now, will admit its first students Monday, Jan. 4.

The $400,000 community recreation center, adjoining the school to the south, is still under construction and slated for completion next fall.

When finished, the two will share certain facilities. The center's gym will be available to school children during the day, and the school's multi-purpose room will be used for evening recreation events as well as certain classrooms for craft work.

A school and recreation center, sharing the same site and some facilities, is believed to be the first in central Ohio, according to Cleo Dumaree, assistant superintendent of schools.

School and recreation officials believe the plan will extend the effectiveness of both buildings.

Workmen are busy this week completing odds and ends of interior work at the school. Grading and landscaping must wait until spring.

The school's enrollment of 210 first through sixth graders and 44 kindergarten pupils have been housed at

A workable plan for a public transportation system for the city and county, one that will have the enthusiastic backing of the public and cause more people to leave their cars at home.

Development of some kind of control that will eliminate the waste evergreens cut for Christmas trees that remain unsold after Christmas.

More club and organization chairmen who will start meetings on time and close them on time.

'AS I GAZE INTO MY CRYSTAL BALL . . .'

"I SEE DIAPERS, baby bottles and all sorts of playthings for the first baby born on the East Side on Jan. 1, 1965." So predicts Diane Leslie Ferguson, last year's winner of The Spectator Stork Derby. Little Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ferguson, 1730 Burlington-av, is about ready to give up her title. Sometime after midnight tonight, a child will be born and destined to reign for 1965. Diane doesn't mind, she's had a good year and her crystal ball tells her there are many more to come.

The old adage "good things come in small packages" will prove itself when a local couple welcomes the first baby to be born in 1965.

Heralding in the new year, "Little 1965" and his or her parents will be surrounded with presents from area merchants, all listed inside this newspaper.

Expectant mothers, proud grandparents-to-be and well wishing friends and relatives are invited to follow the rules of the Spectator Stork Derby that will enable the little newcomer to be eligible in the contest.

Haytcher, Toomey May Top Democratic Ticket

By FRANK RYAN

None of the named participants is talking for the record, but the promised "surprise package" of 1965 Democratic candidates for Whitehall city offices is beginning to show through its wrappings.

Remembering that an "informed Democratic source" is anyone who either holds office or has a paid-up membership in the Whitehall Democratic Club, here is how the "package" will look when the lid is lifted:

City Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher will be the Democratic candidate for mayor and Third Ward Councilman James M. Toomey will seek Haytcher's post. Those are the two top surprises, the "informed sources" say.

Other Democrats given prominent mention for the mayor's race include Fourth Ward Councilman Gil O'Shaughnessy and At-Large Councilman Marvin H. Levine. O'Shaughnessy is seen as a sure contender if the "draft Haytcher" move proves abortive. But even if Haytcher backs off from the mayor's race, Toomey is not expected to seek a third term for his present seat on council.

The "word" is that the popular Third Ward representative feels that he should either drop from contention or move to a race of wider voter participation. Democratic leadership wants no part of a "Toomey-less" ticket, and he is being urged to run for an at-large council seat if he declines entry into the solicitor's race.

O'Shaughnessy is another "name" Democrat who may be asked to move up to the at-large race. It is no secret that the popular Irishman — who has proved his vote-getting strength in the Fourth Ward —would like to make the run for the top office. But his past record, the "informed sources" say, indicates that he would subjugate his personal desires to the building of the strongest possible Democratic slate of candidates.

Levine, who has garnered a reputation for fiscal firmness in his freshman year on council, admits to "some encouragement" to enter the mayor's race. But he leaves

Extension Of E. Main Bus Line Sought

Whitehall Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher has asked the Columbus Transit Co., to consider extension of E. Main st bus service to provide service for city residents on Maplewood, Collingwood, Robinwood and Beechwood-avs.

In a letter to CTC President E. A. Pellissier, Haytcher suggested that the line extension be put into effect when the company replaces present electric trolley service on Main-st with motorized buses. Haytcher's letter said in part:

"Now that the decision has been made to use motorized

BEXLEY COUNCIL 'BLOWS HORN'

Brick Patio Wall To 'Tumble Down'

Bexley Council, meeting in special session Monday, ruled that a brick patio wall, inadvertently built by a resident to extend 18 inches on city property, must come down.

Members voted four to two against granting an easement at $50 a year to Barry Zacks, Jr., 2412 Brentwood.

Council also approved the appointment of a street superintendent, a number of traffic and parking ordinances, and a measure transferring funds from one division to another within the general fund.

Zacks was to be informed of Council's decision that the wall must be removed because of its encroachment on municipal property. If the order is not compiled with in a reasonable time the city will tear it down and Zacks will be billed for the cost.

Since the wall formed the back of a patio fireplace Zacks had constructed this summer, its removal would be costly, and he had asked council for consideration of ways to allow it to remain.

But the general feeling of many members was that if it were permitted to stand it would set a precedence, and other Bexley residents would feel that, under similar circumstances, they would also have a right to leninecy.

Civil Service, Council Hold Youth Corps Key

City school officials and members of the administration of Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner have high hopes that the Neighborhood Youth Corps program, submitted for federal approval on Christmas Eve, will get underway here about Feb. 1, and eventually give more than 1000 boys and girls now in danger of dropping out of high school a chance to complete their secondary education.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps, the first of the federal Anti-Poverty programs to begin rolling in the city, is scheduled to get the official blessing of the parent Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO) Thursday, Jan. 7, when the body meets at city hall to name permanent officers.

Monday, Jan. 11, the Neighborhood Youth Corps is tentatively slated to go before council for the official blessing of city fathers.

Both the CMACAO and council endorsements of the program are needed on the official application for the program which the U. S. Department of Labor is now reviewing.

One final obstacle to be hurdled is the blessing of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, which City Attorney John Young ruled last Monday would set ground rules governing the proposed 750 jobs in 16 divisions of city government that members of

Development In This Area Continues During 1964

Well, that's it—A.D. 1964—the year that was!

Most will agree it was a dilly. A year of challenge, of chance, and of change. Among other things we saw: more of the moon, and less of the dollar, Krush crumble and the space men rise, the farmers get poorer and the Beatles prosper. The Big Three went out on strikes while the Cardinals didn't. And we learned one formula that wouldn't work — AuH2O didn't dissolve LBJ.

Those were some of the bigger stories. But little things mean a lot, too—the things that happen in our hometown, our neighborhood, the schools, the clubs and churches, homes and lodges, factories and farms. Through the eyes of Mr. Average Citizen these "little things" ARE the big things in life. And in the eyes (or pages, if you will) of The Spectator these things so near and important have been dutifully observed and recorded.

Before we start a new page, let's recall what made the local headlines in 1964.

JANUARY

9—First baby of the new year in the area and winner of the Eastern Spectator's 1964 Stork Derby was Diane Leslie Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ferguson, 1730 Burlington-av. She was born Jan. 1, 6:23 a.m. at St. Ann's Hospital . . . Bexley Mayor William Schneider started his 29th year as mayor with his inauguration Jan. 6. Harley F. Peters, former city solicitor who administered Schneider's first oath of office, returned for the ceremony.

16—David Manson, 27 of 4661 E. Broad-st, and Martin Behnke, 24, 4267 E. 17th-av, lost their lives Jan. 15 when their single-engined Cessna crashed in a landing approach to Port Columbus.

23—Dr. John Lewis was named president of the Bexley School Board and Mrs. Dan Williamson, vice-president. The board also approved the appointment of Donald DeJong as head football coach at its Jan. 16 meeting.

30—Walter Stotz was installed as president of the East Side Business Association . . . Dr. Donald Plotnick was named "Man of the Year" by Eastern Jaycees and honored at the club's Distinguished Service Awards banquet Jan. 25 at Lockbourne AFB. Also honored for service to the community were Dr. A. J. Weiner, James C. Mayo, Edward Lucas and Chadwick D. Brubaker.

FEBRUARY

6—Whitehall Council learned Tuesday night that the city must borrow funds to meet its $138,666 share of the planned Hamilton-rd improvement project, due Mar. 17.

12—Whitehall Senior Citizens moved into their own building, the remodried house next to City Hall, formerly used as a municipal building . . . A group of North Bexley residents confronted city council Tuesday night with demands for answers and action on the burglar who has been entering homes in the area.

20—Proposed plans for the new Barnett Elementary School and Recreation Center, to be built on Barnett-rd just north of Livingston-av, were approved by the school board, and are slated for consideration by the Recreation Commission.

27 — Capital University's Political Science Club announced that John Glenn, Jr., and Robert Taft, Jr., would deliver the keynote addresses to respective Democratic and Republican Mock Conventions planned in April on the campus.

MARCH

5—Dr. Ellis E. Snyder completed 35 years of directing Capital University's Chapel Choir . . . Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) announced its intention to closely scrutinize Columbus Schools' progress in integrating education.

11—The name is new—All seven Hartley Newspapers, including the Eastern Review, changed their names to The Spectator. And a new news[illegible] the Metropolitan Edition, joined the Hartley "family" . . . Otto C. Heinzerling, founder of the Peck O' Wee Ones, home for severly handicapped children, was elected 1964 winner of the Sertoma International Service To Mankind Award.

19—Dr. Donald L. Plotnick, Eastern Jaycees' Man of the Year, was named one of the five "Outstanding Young Men in Ohio" by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce . . . Piloting a single engine Cessna, Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Bexley took off this morning (Mar. 19) for Bermuda, first stop on her around-the-world flight.

Bob Greene, senior and co-editor of the school newspaper, the Torch, won two first-place awards, a second place, and an honorable mention at the High School Press Club Conference. Bob received first-place keys for a feature and an on-the-spot news story, second place award for a news story, and an honorable mention rating for an editorial.

Other winners were Carol Lubin, second place for a feature; Jack Roth, second place for a sports story and John Kaplan, honorable mention for an on-the-spot news story.

Congratulations to Carl Japikse, Jayne Dinkelaker, Beth Cooper, Judy Hagler, Diana Harnett, and Ellen Berliner who are the winners of the Bexley Tuberculosis Press Project.

Their winning essays about Tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases will be printed in the Torch and will compete in the Franklin County essay contest. From there, they may go on to state-wide or national competitions.

Last year, Joe Lassem, class of '64, won the first place award for Ohio.

The juniors have received their preliminary scholastic aptitude test scores for the October tests, and seniors been given the scores of their American College Test taken in November.

Art Club sponsored a "Winter-Wonderland" dance, with two live puppies given as door prizes. Recipients of the pups were Jessie Davidson, freshman, and Barbara Birch, sophomore.

Pam Nichols is president of Art Club; Dave Cooke, vice-president and Susan Brock, secretary-treasurer.

"An Arizona Landscape" is the new painting exhibited in the lounge by Art Club. William B. Schimmel, a well-known water-color painter, is the artist. The painting, which originally sold for $500, was chosen by Marcia Hallett and Debby Sapp.

Due to the lengthened periods at Bexley High, the amount of credits which band and choir members receive at the end of the year has been changed.

Band members now receive one credit per year instead of last year's one-half credit. Choir members will receive one-fourth credit (cut from one-half) because the choir meets three times a week this year instead of every day as in the past.

Ensemble members, who meet five times a week instead of every day as in the past, will receive the customary one-half credit.

Y-Teen members went to the Isabelle Ridgeway Rest Home recently to present the Christmas gifts they made at a previous meeting.

Better Living Series And Winter Classes Set At 'Y'

Concerned by the breakdown in family life and the sexual revolution, the Ohio Mother's Committee is sponsoring a series of meetings on "Better Family Living," according to Mrs. Ray Cave, chairman.

The beginning of the project will be a luncheon meeting at the YWCA at noon, Wednesday, Jan. 6, that will feature an address by Dr. David Mace, president of the American Association of Marriage Counsellors, and author of the series of marriage articles that ran in the Ladies Home Journal.

Reservations for the luncheon can be made at the YWCA — CA. 4-9121.

WINTER CLASSES

Mrs. John Omerod will give a sample organ lesson as a feature of the "YW Is Showing" program at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 7 at the YMCA, 65 S. Fourth-st.

The program is a preview of the activities and classes that will be offered at the YWCA during the winter term.

Featured will be a film on skiing, a demonstration of drown-proofing and synchronized swimming, talk on the YW bike hike, and exhibits from home-craft classes, including furniture antiquing, knitting, weaving, upholstering, cake decorating, hat-making, sewing, dress-making, and interior decorating.

In addition to the above, there will be classes in swimming, golf, tennis, slim and trim, judo, fitness and fashion, and sports, language classes, including French, Spanish, German, English, and Russian, a discussion group in current events, modern math for parents, art appreciation and investments.

Registration for any of the above classes may be made at the YWCA, or brochures describing the classes and activities in detail will be mailed on request.

Services Slated

Sabbath services at Temple Tifereth Israel will be held Friday, Jan. 1, 8 p.m. with Rabbi Nathan Zelizer conducting the service and Cantor Stanley Burstein chanting the traditional liturgy. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "The Source of Freedom." An Oneg Shabbat (Sabbath Tea) in the social hall will follow.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Robbi Zelizer will speak on "Looking Back on Ahead," a New Year's sermon.

Temple Emphasizes Values Of Marriage

The seventh annual marriage reconsecration service will be held at Temple Israel Friday, Jan. 8, 8 p.m. Guests of honor will be members of the congregation who have celebrated quinquennial wedding anniversaries during 1964. Dr. Folkman will preach on "Now That the Honeymoon is Over."

Eight years ago, Dr. and Mrs. Folkman participated in a similar service at Temple Israel in Minneapolis, Minn., at the invitation of Rabbi Albert Minda. Dr. Minda devised this service because he believed that there was a need for emphasis on the positive values of marriage. Dr. and Mrs. Folkman agreed; they were much impressed by the service in Minneapolis at which Dr. Folkman delivered the sermon and Mrs. Folkman kindled the Sabbath candles.

They instituted this service here at Temple Israel seven years ago and it has now become a tradition of the congregation.

As part of the regular Sabbath service, the guests of honor are invited to join in a ceremony of mutual reconsecration to their original marriage vows.

"I believe that it is extremely important for the congregation, and, especially for its young people, to participate in this recognition of the happy marriages that are so often unnoticed in the community. Publicity is often given to marriage problems and divorce but the positive emphasis is too frequently neglected. This service provides an opportunity for our congregation and especially for young people and children to note that happy and successful marriage is far more frequent than the contrary," said Dr. Folkman.

Tape Honors Memory Of Mrs. Williams

A memorial tape-recording honoring the late Mrs. Mary J. Williams will be heard in Columbus Wednesday, Jan. 6, 10:15 p.m. over the powerful shortwave radio station HCJB at Quito, Ecuador.

Mrs. Williams, widow of attorney William K. Williams, died Nov. 14 at the age of 94 at the home of her son, Rev. Samuel J. Williams, 2465 E. Broad-st.

Last summer she was heard on a broadcast from the American missionary station at Quito in a special message to a group of Christians on the Island of St. Andrew off the coast of Colombia.

On this tape, to be broadcast Jan. 6, Rev. Williams will present highlights in his mother's life as well as Mrs. Williams' voice in song, sermon and prayer.

For 70 years she was a member of Broad Street Methodist Church, and at one time had taught a class of 60 boys at that church.

In 1926 she founded a camp meeting in her childhood community in Champaign County where she had been licensed to preach in the United Brethren Church in 1890.

Besides filling pulpits in Columbus, Mrs. Williams had preached at New Albany, Plain City, Lancaster, Mechanicsburg, Xenia, Bridgeport, Steubenville and many other places.

The broadcast will be heard in more than 100 countries on the shortwave band at 9.7 and 11.9 megacycles.

Fifteen years ago at the Trinity Methodist Church, Mechanicsburg, Mrs. Williams declared from the pulpit, "I wish I could preach so as to be heard around the world."

Part of this very message will actually be broadcast world-wide.

Rabbi To Select 'Man Of Year'

In accordance with his annual custom, Dr. Jerome D. Folkman will announce and explain his selection of "The Jewish Man of the Year — 1964," Friday, Jan. 1, 8 p.m., at Temple Israel.

Ever since Thanksgiving, Dr. Folkman has been receiving suggestions from members of the congregation. In his pulpit discourse, he will analyze these nominations and explain the basis of his selection.

The Saturday service will begin at 11 am. Rabbi Stephen A. Arnold will preach.

Scottwood Lists Second Service

Beginning Sunday, Jan. 3, two Sunday morning worship services will be held at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd. The first service, which starts at 9:30 a.m., corresponds with the Church School classes, and will last until 10:15 a.m. The second service begins at 10:45 a.m.

Rev. William E. Griffiths, in announcing the new schedule, stated that Communion will be offered at the 9:30 a.m. service each week, with the exception of the first Sunday of each month.

Happy New Year To You!

Life's race is seldom won or lost in the space of time we measure as a year. The advent of each "New Year," however, affords us the opportunity to dwell on the three R's of life's maturing process — reminiscence, resolution and re-affirmation.

It is wishful thinking to consider the New Year a fresh and clean slate upon which we write our destiny. Though we have not yet written on the "new page," there are already impressions there from what we have written on the preceding page.

Our "reminiscence," therefore, should be in the form of a searching and fearless self-inventory; neither to condemn nor to praise, but only to render an honest accounting to our Creator of how we have spent the precious time of life He has entrusted to our care.

It is important to make "resolutions," for they are the road signs that give direction and purpose to our journey. But, of course, we must know in advance our destination, and our resolutions must be worthy enough to inspire determination.

Perhaps the most essential of our three New Year's "R's" is "re-affirmation." Primarily, we deal here with the element of faith; faith, first in the God who created us. Equally important, we must re-affirm faith in ourselves—collectively and personally.

If this seems like strident forethought to take to tonight's New Year's Eve party, don't let it spoil your fun. But after the hangover, the football games and inevitable indigestion, read this again. You will find that we are wishing you truly —

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

S. A. Victim Of 'Snake Oil Philosophy

BRASILIA, Brazil — Something for nothing. It's South America's most tragic delusion.

Latins want more food, but they are too often content to plow the dry and sterile altiplano behind an ox instead of clearing jungles from new land of incredible richness.

They want creature comforts, but they see nothing wrong with spending a whole day squatting in a marketplace, presiding over a dollar's worth of beans and bananas.

Jones

They want industrial payrolls, but their governments sometimes frighten away foreign capital by demagogic threats of expropriation "for the benefit of the people," and their own rich citizens squirrel hard money away in foreign banks instead of reinvesting in the local economy.

And because all these wants and methods are contradictory, South Americans try to get prosperous by printing money.

Take the case of Uruguay, smallest of the republics, the lovely capital of which, Montevideo, is beginning to look just a little shabby as the nation eats up its inventory.

In 1938 the Uruguayan peso was worth $1.05. Today the official rate is about 18½ pesos to the dollar. What happened was simple — and distressingly human. Uruguayans wanted a welfare state. They wanted to insure themselves against want in old age. So they passed a law that any man can retire at 50 on full salary. Everybody does, because you can always make a little extra on the side.

Because of the enormous taxes necessary to finance this program, cost of production zoomed and Uruguay began pricing itself out of world markets. But Uruguayans still want imports. So now the Central Bank subsidizes imports by giving importers a U.S. dollar for only 16.5 pesos — two pesos below the official rate. The difference is added to the national debt.

To meet the inflation, wages are going up 40 to 50 percent a year. The prime interest rate is two percent a month and nobody saves cash or invests in bonds. Everybody in Uruguay would like to be bailed out by the American taxpayer, who, of course, can't retire at 50 or anything like it.

Look at Brazil, a land larger than the continental U.S. and containing the richest undeveloped resources in the world. Brazil imports $100 million worth of wheat a year. It has 10,000,000 children who have no schools.

Yet Jucelino Kubitchek was determined to build a new capital on virgin land 600 miles north of Rio de Janeiro. In his five years as president (1955-60) he intended to spend enough on Brasilia so that no subsequent administration would dare take the capital back to Rio. He did. Because there were no roads or railroads to Brasilia materials for the first government buildings were flown in. Labor got double wages and worked around the clock. Kubitchek blew a billion dollars on Brasilia.

The concept of Brasilia was by no means crazy. There was reason to move the capital away from the hot, Carioca atmosphere of Rio to the high, rich plains. Even today with the dust of bulldozers clouding the atmosphere and with half of Brasilia's population still living in shanties because the housing is incomplete, it is one of the most beautiful cities in the world.

The only trouble with Brasilia is that it is a luxury which can be afforded only by a great surplus economy. Brazil doesn't have it. The cruzeiro has slipped to 1,600 to the dollar.

Yet the Brazilian government continues to drive to control and sometimes to take the whole stock ownership of corporations built by foreign investors. Purchase of the American and Foreign Power Company's assets, voted by the Brazilian congress on Oct. 6, will be financed, it is hoped, largely by American loans. Thus American taxpayers will help take Americans out of legitimate investments which previous Brazilian governments have welcomed and even sought.

There are no problems for foreign investors who lose their shirts in Latin American ventures, except, of course, for the loss itself. But it is dangerous to succeed. For then the halls of the congresses ring with charges that the foreigners are exploiting the people and a government takeover is demanded.

The tragic fact of Latin America is that democracy, meaning free elections, drives all political parties to make unsound promises that force the debasement of the currency and eventually the wreckage of the economy. Democracy shouldn't work that way, but it does where education is spotty and voters clamor for snake oil. It has even begun to do so in sophisticated Britain. And America is not immune.

The soundest economy in South America today, outside of oil-rich Venezuela, is that of Paraguay, a dictatorship. But because Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, the strong man, doesn't have to outpromise an opposition, Paraguayans understand that it takes a guarani's worth of work to earn a guarani. The currency has held a steady value during the past eight years. The country owes no foreign debt and exports have increased 64 percent in 12 months.

The quest for something for nothing — foreign investment without insurance against seizure, modern organization without modernized habit patterns, security without a surplus to provide it and luxuries without much labor — this is the tragedy of the cheerful, eager and, in many cases, natively-able Latin Americans.

The man who says, "For nothing you get nothing," has yet to be elected.

Local CEF Chairman Defends 'Fair Bus Bill'

To the Editor:

Reference is made to your editorial of Dec. 17 titled "Bus Issue Tough One." In the editorial you invited responsible comment on this issue and it is for this reason I send you this letter containing the position of Citizens for Educational Freedom, the organization sponsoring the Fair Bus Bill to be introduced next month to the Ohio General Assembly.

Ohio Attorney General Saxbe stated in his opinion of Sept. 10, 1963, that the U.S. Supreme Court "has already determined that activities such as here involved is an exercise of the public welfare powers for the benefit of the children concerned and does not violate the first or 14th amendments of the Constitution of the United States." He further stated, "I am therefore of the opinion that legislative action is necessary before private or parochial school pupils may be furnished transportation in public school system buses."

Fair bus transportation is therefore not unconstitutional according to the U.S. Constitution and several decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court but it is presently illegal in Ohio because existing Ohio law does not specifically permit it.

School buses exist for only one reason and that is for the health, safety and welfare of our children. Independent and parochial school children are complying with the compulsory school attendance laws of Ohio by attending state accredited schools equally with the public school children. Their parents pay an equal share of local and state taxes, a portion of which is used for police, fire, health services. Children certainly should not be denied the safety of bus transportation solely because they attend a particular accredited school or because they are of a particular religious faith. This is not an issue any more than it is in the area of police and fire protection.

We feel certain that the citizens of Ohio agree with those in 20 other states who already have passed fair bus laws that all of our children should be equally protected in matters of health and safety.

The Fair Bus Bill to be introduced in January to the Ohio General Assembly is the "legislative action" referred to by Attorney General Saxbe to equalize school bus transportation in Ohio. It will simply provide bus transportation to all of Ohio's children attending state accredited schools on exactly the same basis as is now provided only for public school children. The health, safety and welfare of all children will be treated equally. The responsibility for providing the equal bus transportation for all children on the same basis will rest with the local public school boards.

Endorsements for fair bus legislation in Ohio include the Ohio AFL/CIO, Ohio Democratic Platform Committee, public school boards of Hamilton County, Medina, Parma and Oak Hill, the "Cincinnati Enquirer," the "Toledo Blade," the "Celina Standard," and Radio-TV WSPD. Just last month the Ohio Education Association issued a policy position statement which said in part, "educational services should be available to all children in Ohio provided they are compatible with good practice and are within the limitations of the Ohio and U.S. Constitution."

'Old Sarge' Raps OSU Freeway Stand

To The Editor:

I gather from editorial comment from widely scattered sources that at long last a hard look is being taken at the part that students and universities are playing in local and national affairs.

From Chicago we heard a radio editorial that joined the critics who have been demanding a house-cleaning of agitators, reds, pinks and ultra-liberals at such schools.

He noted that students were responsible for riots all over the world, with wide destruction of property every time they were censured or crossed in their demands that they alone be permitted to lay down school policy, concerning what will, or will not be taught, who will and will not be permitted to address the student body.

Now on the local level we picked up the North Side Herald and found a student correcting one of his elders (as usual) and taking the editor to task for supporting the property owners in their demands that the Olentangy Freeway be built to follow the present route. He commented that this editor had committed the unpardonable sin of not conforming to the thinking of the (untouchables of the OSU). He totally disregarded the fact that if the taxpayers of Ohio were to withdraw their financial and congressional support, there would be no OSU and no (untouchables) there or anywhere in Ohio.

Many of these students come from foreign lands, as are some of the school and hospital staff. They pay no taxes and as a rule are not voting citizens. And, while they are welcome, they have no legal right to take any part in politics of the nation, or in local legislative affairs.

This young man asked the editor how long he had lived here. The reply was, "over 65 years." Here was an editor who no doubt had paid taxes for some half a century, being corrected and censured by a young man, who may or may not be of voting age who may or may not be a taxpayer, but who insists that taxpayers of Ohio have no right to say where this road will be built. He took the line used by this university in far too many cases — its public-be-damned attitude has bluffed public officials to cater to its every whim. Its students throw tantrums when jaywalking tickets are issued or they are corrected in any way. If they want to be treated as adults, its time for them to start acting like adults.

All Parents Pay Taxes

To the Editor:

I would like to ask those who oppose fair bus legislation to stop referring to "their taxes" as though the parents of private school children are tax exempt parasites.

Private school parents eat, sleep, breathe, pay taxes and appear as normal public school parents. They must not be quite as normal, though, since they have waited until 1965 to seek something to which they have always been entitled.

Christian Goal Is Union With God's Will

"Yet my brothers, I do not consider myself to have arrived, spiritually, nor do I consider myself already perfect. But I keep going on, grasping ever more firmly that purpose for which Christ Jesus grasped me. My brothers, I do not consider myself to have fully grasped it even now. But I do concentrate on this: I leave the past behind and with hands outstretched to whatever lies ahead I go straight for the goal—my reward the honor of my high calling by God in Christ Jesus." (The New Testament in Modern English by J. B. Phillips)

Rev. Blackburn

You will remember that Saul was a strict Jew before his conversion. Saul was well trained in the schools of his day. Saul was doing the work which he felt pleased God, that of putting the Believers in Christ in prison. Saul wanted his religion to continue, but when the Lord spoke to him on the Damascus road, Saul had a change of heart, mind and work.

As we face the New Year, we need change in many of our lives. If we are not active, working Believers in Christ, this is the first change needed. Christ forgives sins today! Christ gives the holy incentive in our daily living.

The New Birth brought a change of name to Saul; after his conversion he was known as Paul. Paul forgot that he had persecuted the Believers; now he goes to them to consider God's Word. The Lord gave him a commission, "To open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me." (Acts 26:18). Paul forgot his education and the national feeling of Jewish pride for the sake of the Gospel. All his efforts were used to introduce people to his Savior, Who had transformed his life.

Paul had founded the church at Philippi some 10 to 12 years before this letter was written. Even though Paul was imprisoned at this writing, he was encouraging the Believers at Philippi to keep their eyes on the goal and run the race successfully. There is no time in the Christian's life to look back and mourn over our sins or mistakes; we MUST reach ahead and continue to run the race with patience. Keeping his eyes on the goal was the secret of success in Paul's life. The will of Christ was Paul's motivating power.

In verse 15 of this chapter, Paul mentions, "Let us therefore, as many as be perfect." Here reference is made to the experience of sanctification in the Believer's life. The New Birth and Holiness are personal experiences for God's creation. Paul was living a perfect life; his will was yielded to God's completely. Yet, he was learning more of God's will for his life even through this prison experience.

May we as Christ's followers find His complete will for our lives this year as we keep yielded to His will and purpose.

Ralph W. Blackburn, pastor,
Sullivant Avenue Friends Church

A TIME OF HOPE

Always when we come to the end of an old year and the beginning of a new, we hope the new will be better than the old. We seek ways and reasons to justify that hope. But despite the essential optimism of most of us, sometimes we are hard put to find solid grounds for our belief.

For one thing, each of us is a year older. We should be intelligent enough to profit from another year's experience. But also we are all a year closer to that inevitable time when experience, properly valuable as it is, can no longer combine successfully with the will of mind and spirit to overcome the weakness of the flesh.

Well, why not pass experience on to the young whose strength is waxing while yours is waning? Why, indeed? Haven't you heard that the golden young, wonderful and good as they are, don't break down too many doors to listen to unasked advice?

The word "oldsters" may or may not be the best way to describe that group of people who have left more years behind than they will ever see again. This desk is one of them. We think we have a right always to equate experience with wisdom. But do we? If we relate the years with accomplishments, perhaps some of us have little to show for things done. Perhaps there is room here for the grace of compassion and forgiveness.

But what has all this to do with a new year? A new year is a time of hope for old and young, a time of dreams that have one more chance to come true.

It says here . . . . .

If we could only remember the "cup of kindness" for one whole year, it would be the greatest in all history.

Frosting on the Cake
BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

As this yet-free land goes into the final third of the craziest century in man's experience on this planet, it behooves every decent one of us to thank God he is a citizen of the only "green spot" left in the world.

Class, creed, or race has nothing to do with it. In this marvelous land every man has a chance to use his God-given talents to getting ahead in life, he had well better stop, look, and listen to all the madnesses of the moment in every other part of the world.

Lazy people, dishonest people, ignorant people—such will never know what the score is, anyway, until they get the blinders off their eyes and the nonsense out of their pattern of thinking. The man who believes that the world is "agin him" will never have anything "going for him," no matter how long he lives.

No schoolmaster can make brains out of custard pie in any skull. No form of government can force lazy, shiftless individuals to get it move on.

Rich men's sons are just as "off beat" in too many instances, as the so-called poor who sing a sad dirge all of their lives, sobbing that "they never had a chance." Millions of fine people in this land are somebody and have amounted to something no matter where they came from.

Roses still bloom in dunghills, and giants still come from the "wrong side of the tracks." Hustle is a better tool than sobbing in his beer for anyone who wishes to learn something and get somewhere in life except on "hereditary welfare" pauperism. This country has to find out fast that this professional parasitism can't go on.

Get this country back to God and back to work and dear old Uncle Sam will stay free. The sky is the limit for anyone who has the proper values in life.

HAWK DEFENDERS READY FOR CCL ACTION

WARRIOR 5 CHARTING STRATEGY

EASTMOOR'S CITY League stock soared this season as coach Bill Courtney welcomed back these five veteran starters, a unit that's led E-M to six straight wins so far this winter. The Warrior starters include (kneeling, from left) senior guard Ron Bollic, senior guard Jerry Groves and coach Bill Courtney; (standing) senior forward Doug Cromer, senior forward Gary Cochran and All-City center and leading scorer Steve Howell.

Hartley, Scots, E-M Fives Play Saturday

Bob Hart's East High Tigers purred past host Cuyahoga Falls Monday night, 59-53, for the Bengal's fourth straight win after a string-snapping loss to Linden McKinley earlier.

The Tigers trailed 32-29 at intermission but forward John Lewis gunned in 14 markers in the second half to aid the Bengal burst. Lewis bucketed three straight goals in the fading minutes to get East on top for good and break a 51-all deadlock.

CONSISTENT Gil Mathews whipped in 19 to accent Lewis while Tiger mates Vance Carr (14) and guard Galen Bias (eight) contributed key roles in East's fifth win against the lone setback.

Whitehall walked over Grandview by a 50-46 count last week after compiling a 22-21 edge at halftime and trailing 35-31 at the three-quarter pole.

Phil Allen's five got double-digit scoring from Mark Blackstone (14), Gary Beckley (12) and scramblin' Harvey Eader who added 11 to the winner's total that gave the Rams a 2-2 mark in the CBL and a 4-3 log overall.

SCRAPPY Bexley dropped a 64-54 nod to arch-rival Arlington late last week after assuming a brief 12-10 lead at the outset. The Bears poured through 25 big counters in the second stanza to get a cushion they never relinquished.

Gene Millard's squad was sparked in defeat by captain Bill Salt's 16 and Dave Johnston's 10. Salt's total gave him 54 markers in CBL warfare and left him only 21 2 the loop pace of 74.

Dick Geyer's St. Charles five floundered for two periods last week before the Cards caught fire and subdued Mifflin by a narrow 58-56 margin. After a 28-all halftime count, center Joe Van Balen's 18, Denny Craft's 17 and John Ryan's eight led the Carolians to a 3-4 season mark.

CONSISTENCY by Craft the past four games have lifted the Cards to a higher ranking in the Central Catholic standings.

Hartley's front-running Hawks (6-1) host North (5-2) and ace Bob Kanuth (19 ppg.) Saturday night while other games on the same evening send Walnut Ridge (6-6) to Salem, Eastmoor (6-0) to Akron North and Lorain St. Mary at Aquinas.

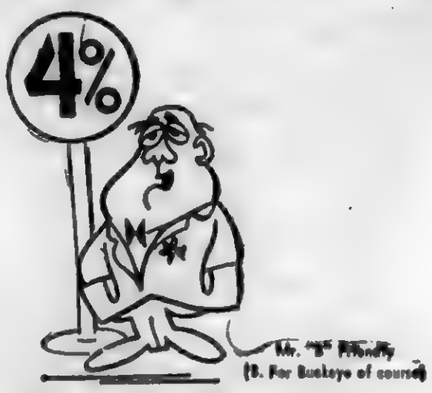
Dear Fearless:

Sorry, Fearless but you bungled this time. Take a closer look at that Reynoldsburg Holiday Tournament score. Those Cruisers pulled through for a mighty win.

So come on and guess a little better the next time and keep an eye on those fighting Groveport Cruisers.

Loyal Fans



Dear Fans:

Ok, ok, ok—I goofed! So sue me! Excuse me — but I get awfully irritated when I don't get a single Christmas card. I guess that's the penalty for being . . .

PS—The real tragedy is that I don't "guess." I really think I know what I'm doing.

Little Buckeye 11 Enjoying Key West Grid Excursion

The Little Buckeyes, reigning two-year champions of the Ohio Valley Football Conference, enjoyed a festive holiday vacation in balmy Key West, Fla., where the East-side eleven battled the local All-Stars in a gala bowl contest last night.

Coach Tom C. Krieger charted an enjoyable excursion to the Key West Naval Base earlier this week where the boys viewed several famous ships. Also tentatively scheduled was an evening beach party, deep sea fishing, and tours of the city's civic and historical sites.

TODAY'S homecoming plans were jumbled with two tentative plans available. Krieger and the Little Bucks may stay in Key West until Jan. 2 and leave for Miami to tour the city before the flight home or they might leave Key West today and watch the Orange Bowl parade and game.

If the Miami trips develops, the team and coaches will stay at the Coral Plaza Motel in Fort Lauderdale. The Bucks plan to leave Miami International Airport Jan. 2 at 11:40 p.m. so they will arrive in Cincinnati at 2:37 a.m. on Eastern Flight 158 YN. The Little Buckeyes should arrive via bus at Johnson Park parking lot between 7 and 7:30 a.m. on Jan. 3.

Challenge Stakes Deadline Jan. 15

Nominations to the Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes Number Four are now open with a closing date of Jan. 15, 1965.

The $30 nomination fee makes the nominee eligible to the two year-old division to be raced during the 1965 race meeting at Scioto Downs, the three year-old division to be raced in 1966, and the four year-old division to be raced in 1967.

The coveted Challenge Stakes, although open to the world was dominated by Ohio owned trotters and pacers in the 1964 edition which carried a total purse of $54,205. Four of the six divisions were won by Ohio owned standardbreds.

SCIOTO Downs will add $3,000 to each 2-year-old division for each gait, $4,000 to each 3 year-old division for each gait, and $5,000 to each 4 year-old division for each gait.

Also due on Jan. 15, 1965 is the $35. sustaining payment for the 3 year-old events in Challenge Stakes Number Three, and the $50. sustaining payment for 4 year-olds in Challenge Stakes Number Two.

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED
Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.
A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, without wires or cords, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

Walnut Ridge High School

Tartan Talk

By SANDY SANDERS

Nancy Becket was chairman of the committee to decorate the school Christmas trees. Working closely with her were Pat Beynon, Sharon Flint, Connie Dennis, Marie Biscuso, Pat Caudill and many others.

The Student Council, under the guidance of Jim Shipman, distributed Walnut Ridge pins in the home rooms.

Senior reception under the direction of Miss Robson was held Tuesday, Dec. 22. At this gathering students planning to attend college talked with students already in college.

On Wednesday, Dec. 23, the senior high held a music assembly. Mr. Jerome Maxwell and Mr. Alan Berry directed the program.

In a backward glance, due recognition is given to the Block "W" performed at football games. Mr. Glick was sponsor and Mike Hurwitz was president. Janice Greenberg was vice-president and Cynthia Kallos, secretary-treasurer.

Also performing at football games was the drill team under the supervision of Miss Hodjes. The girls also perform at half-time during basketball games. Officers are Linda Finn, captain; Peggie Gilbertson, co-captain, and Melinda Simonds, secretary.

Clubs which gave Christmas parties were German, French, Spanish, Senior Y-Teens, Junior Miss and Library.

The vocal and instrumental music departments presented a Christmas concert Wednesday, Dec. 23. The same program had been presented to the PTA parents on Thursday, Dec. 17.

The concert began with the traditional "Silent Night" processional by the senior choir. During the humming of "Silent Night," Glena Endsley narrated several passages in the Bible from Luke. Then, remaining in candlelight only, the senior choir sang two selections: "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head" and "Benedictus and Hosanna."

A brass ensemble presented "Lo, How A Rose E're Blooming."

The junior high choir followed with: "A Gallery Carol" and "What You Gonna Call Yo' Pretty Baby."

Then the junior ensemble offered "A La Nanita Nana."

The junior choir next sang "Do You Hear What I Hear." Students accompanying the performance of this song were: Greg Chalfant on the snare drum, Wayne Goodyear playing the finger cymbols and Sheri Vincent on the piano.

The brass ensemble followed with "I Saw Three Ships."

The senior boys' and girls' ensembles presented several selection. In an informal living room setting, the mixed ensemble first sang "Snow, Snow, Beautiful Snow." Then the girls' ensemble presented two selections: "Sweet Was the Song" and "Gloucestershire Wassail." The girls then joined the boys' ensemble for another mixed selection, "Christmas Eve." The boys' ensemble next offered two selections: "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "Deck the Hall." The mixed ensemble closed with a novelty selection called "'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

The brass ensemble was featured again with "While By My Sheep" and "From Heaven-High I Come to You."

The senior choir then presented two more selections: "Carol of the Drum" and "Gloria In Excelsis" with Kathi Westover as soloist in the latter song. Georgia Conway accompanied for the choir.

For the finale, all groups combined for "Carol of the Bells" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" with the orchestra.

The vocal selections were directed by Jerome Maxwell and student teacher, John Stewart. Instrumental selections were directed by Alan Berry.

WIT 'N' WISDOM

Can SSL Provide 'Salvation'? All-Leagues Parley Proposed

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Oddly enough, the four-member South Suburban League appears, at least on the surface, a possible salvation for the mass scrambling, the discontent and the worried waiting evident in many area schools.

Oddly enough, we say because the very first inhalations of the league were short and labored. Indeed, its very birth was questionable for a time.

Wittenmeier

The league, at its outset, had hoped for eight or 10 teams. When effort in this direction eventually led up a blind alley, the four charter members — Franklin Heights, Teays Valley, Pleasant View and Hamilton Township — decided to go it alone.

The salvation suggestion arises from the following facts: (1) the SSL is anxious to take in new members, (2) the school enrollments are near the 1000 mark, (3) growth potential exists in all four cases and (4) none is an unreasonable distance away from many of the "waiting" schools.

The feelings of some schools that the league is composed of discontented exports from other leagues melt away under the wave of discontent evident in several existing leagues.

It's likely that any future league will contain dissatisfied customers from other dissembled loops. This seems almost unavoidable.

A recent report on the CBL cleavage meeting added that SSL member Franklin Heights had submitted an application for membership to the remaining CBL block.

This application, according to one school official, was no more than a letter, expressing F-H's interest in what the CBL group decided to do.

In fact, the impression was left with this reporter that the interest expressed was more orientated toward luring some of the present CBL members into the SSL instead of vice versa.

It would appear, therefore, that SSL members can afford more watching and waiting than a number of other area schools, desiring a fruitful league linkup.

But exodus to the SSL is not as simple as might have been indicated above. A shifting of teams from one league to another is never a simple matter. Many things — most important, the future — must be taken into consideration.

Perhaps no solution is possible without a split of all existing leagues and starting all over from the beginning.

One thing is certain. About 98 percent of area teams want and need athletic leagues to function well financially. As mentioned before, scheduling outside a league is very difficult.

The establishment of natural rivalries is difficult without league affiliation. The thrill of the championship team is not available outside league participation.

One of the best resolutions for a solution we've heard comes from Whitehall Athletic Director Ray Schick who suggests a Central Ohio reorganization meeting.

The meeting would bring together all leagues and include administrative heads as well as athletic directors and coaches.

"Maybe, this way we could set up some leagues containing schools of comparative size," Schick says.

"I know most people like to stay in their present leagues. It's traditional. But it's not the league or its name that's important, it's the teams that are representatives of the league that make it what it is."

"The way things stand now, everybody's waiting to see what everybody else is going to do," Schick concluded.

Watching and waiting. And many can't wait much longer.

Under Buckeye Skies

The sands of '64 are running out — tonight at midnight the horns, laughter and confetti will mark the arrival of a brand new year, packed with promise.

Ken McCreary

The waning year of 1964 will go into the record book with many pleasant outdoor memories for this writer, and we hope for you, too.

AS WE LOOK back over our shoulder at the past 12 months, we'd like to make our list of nominations for Under Buckeye Skies Awards in the "outstanding" class—no plaques, money or free loot involved, of course!

Conservationist of the Year—State Representative Bob Holmes of Columbus. His steadfast devotion to preservation and expansion of our natural resources deserves more recognition.

Fishing Highlight of the Year — For me, fabulous white-bass success in the island area of Lake Erie. (I'm sure you can fill this category with your own memories).

Fishing Disappointment of the Year—The 'one that got away!

Hunting Highlight of the Year—Those days when everything went right—for me, the opening-day squirrel limit in two short hours, plus a couple of days when my beagle, Clipper, looked like a super-champion on the trail of cotton-tails.

Hunting Disappointment of the Year—The miserable two-day shotgun deer season, with the lack of ducks during the first section of the waterfowl season a close second.

Conservation Club of the Year—The Southeast Conservation Club of Hart-rd, Columbus, for its continued efforts in all phases of outdoor recreation.

Benefit to Sportsmen Award—The Ohio Division of Wildlife and its chief Dale Whitesell, for all-out efforts against pollution and poaching.

Special "Persistent Sportsmen" Award—This goes to a couple of my outdoorsmen friends, Bob Strohm and Don Thompson. Just before Christmas (unable to hold back their ice-fishing urge any longer) they commandeered a small boat, tied it to a tree, pushed themselves out on the inch-thick ice, and ice-angled from the craft—catching 25 fish.

"Tip - of - the - 'UBS' Hat" Award — To you, for your continued support of this column during 1964. I sincerely hope you'll continue to read UNDER BUCKEYE SKIES, and to pass along your comments.

Entering a new year without resolutions just isn't done. Among the six pages of promises I've made there's one in which I hope you'll join me—During 1965 I resolve to spend as many hours as possible under Buckeye skies, enjoying this valuable heritage and doing everything I can to preserve it for my children and the generations of the future.

SOMEONE MENTION 'LADY MARINE?'

Private First Class Shea Has Discipline, Devotion, Dedication

By JANET MICHAEL

When does a girl become a woman? What does it take for a person to stop doing for herself and start doing for others? How does it feel to be deeply dedicated to a cause?

For Mary Patricia Shea, it was when she enlisted in the Marines.

At 21, Pat was a typical young girl "fancy free" as she put it. "I was just having a good time and didn't think too much about the future."

After graduation from Our Lady of Victory in 1960, Pat attended Spalding College, Louisville, Ky., and Ohio State University for a total of one year. For the next three years she worked at Ohio Bell, Arlington Arms and radio station WVKO. While her work was interesting, Pat felt she was missing something.

Pat attributes the step she took in October to the dedication that was bred in her as a child. For it was then that she talked to a Marine recruiting officer.

"Respect was always given to the National Anthem and American Flag at home. Two of my five brothers are in the Navy and one is in the National Guard reserve."

In addition to this, Pat had a lot of idealistic ideas when she started boot camp at Parris Island, S. C. Before entering the service she didn't know what her potential was, but she wanted to do whatever she could as a tribute to the late President Kennedy and to serve her country.

THERE'S NO MISTAKING that smile on Pat Shea's face. After being named the "most outstanding girl" in her platoon at Marine boot camp, Parris Island, S.C., Pat's face reflected the same shiny and bright look that helped her win the award . . . the floors and walls she so diligently scrubbed!

"If I had known what they (the Marines) expected of me before I went in I would have shook my head and said 'no, I'm sorry. I haven't the stamina to do all that."

But Pat quickly learned that she could do all that was asked of her and as she put it: "You don't take it a day at a time . . . you take it a minute at a time. You do what you have to do now, even if you know you're going to be off duty in five minutes . . . there's still work to be done now."

The adjustment from civilian life to Marine life is tremendous and Pat thinks it's because civilians are so lax in supervision. Most girls are rebellious at first because of the orders snapped at them.

"You can be racked to the spirit and somehow still be able to say 'yes, ma'am' while scrubbing a barracks floor."

A lot of strange things happen to a person under pressure. Pat recommends the Marines to any girls only on the condition that she will be able to withstand negative feelings.

Perhaps the picture we have painted is pretty bleak, but Pat insists all the training and hardships are necessary to build character.

"You'll never know the feeling of pride and accomplishment unless you go through it," she beamed.

Just out of boot camp, Pat's eyes sparkle with enthusiasm and her soul speaks with dedication as she proudly displays the awards she received.

Out of 75 girls in her platoon, Pat received a certificate naming her the "most outstanding girl" and promoting her to private first class.

"To this day I can't recall one outstanding thing I did . . . I just did what I had to do as best I could," she said simply.

After passing the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Shea of 4125 Oxford-dr, Pat bid goodbye to her five brothers and two sisters and traveled to her new base at Camp Lejune, N.C.

Something she didn't have at 21 and has at 22 came in the form of dress blues, a snappy salute and a way of life.

COFFEE BREAK

Take Your Pick From Our Fruit Cake Stock

By ADELINE DALEY

I already know that I'm way behind schedule in baking fruit cakes for the holidays. Food pages in both newspapers and magazines have been flooded with nothing else but receipes and photographs of them for weeks.

The truth is that I never have had to struggle with baking fruit cakes because every Christmas we receive quite a few of them as gifts. They're considered ideal employer-to-employe gifts (in lieu of a yearly bonus) and perfect for the person who has everything.

We may not have everything, but we do have a shelf loaded with gaily wrapped tins of fruit cake from last year. And the year before.

Frankly, none of the kids or myself especially relish fruit cake. In fact, we hate it. My husband will eat it for awhile but about April even he finally tires of all that citrus peel.

I do feel ashamed of myself for not liking it. It's comparable to not appreciating Mt. Rushmore Memorial after all the work that went into creating it. And I would hate to wager which is more solid —a slice of fruit cake or a piece of granite from Mr. Rushmore.

I've often thought that for self-protection I should start baking fruit cakes myself, because once a word leaks out that you do not, someone is sure to present you with their very own special loaf, heavy enough to serve as a foundation for a log cabin. I get weary just hearing about the 24 ingredients, the two dozen eggs and the 24-hour cooling off period.

And does the fruit cake actually improve with age? I suspect that it gets stale like any other baked product. The myth probably began because nobody could consume all the fruit cake baked each holiday season. But will it come to pass that there will be "vintage" years for fruit cakes?

The most amazing aspect about the Fruit Cake Saga is the list of instructions their prideful owners provide you with. "Every few weeks dribble over the top a half-cup of good brandy," I am advised by one. "Soak a dish-towel with brandy and wrap it around the cake," suggests another.

If I had followed these suggestions, our fruit cakes would now be ready for Alcoholics Anonymous and we'd be buying brandy by the case.

And I might as well confess that I also cannot stand mince pie, egg nogs, mulled wine, plum pudding or dates sprinkled with shredded cocoanut. Just call me Mrs. Scrooge.

Dog Tags On Sale

Applications for 1965 dog licenses are now being accepted according to Arch J. Warren, Franklin County Auditor. Deadline for the purchase without subjection to fine is Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Auditor Warren emphasized to dog owners the convenience and expediency of using the mail-order application forms which appear in this paper on Dec. 31, 1964 and Jan. 7, 1965 to facilitate the purchase of licenses. The application form will include complete instructions for mail purchases.

For those who do not procure a form, the following information, together with a stamped, self-addressed envelope, is needed: the sex, age, color, breed, whether it is a long or short-haired dog and the owner's name and address. Licenses purchased on or before the Jan. 20 deadline are $2 each; thereafter, a $1 penalty is added. Kennel licenses are $10 each. Those purchasing tags by mail are urged to send no cash; they should remit only by money order or check.

Licenses will be on sale at the Court House License Division (Mound-st side of the Court House basement), Mound and High-sts, as well as at the Humane Society Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport-pk.

All dogs three months or older on Jan. 1, 1965 must be licensed to prevent impounding and their owners being subjected to a subsequent penalty.

Money derived from the sale of licenses is allocated, in part, to finance activities of the Humane Society.

County Auditor Arch J. Warren advises that his office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturdays.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: There seems to be some confusion around here in regard to the rights of a dog. Woofie seems to think whenever it gets a little chilly outside he should be allowed in the house. He sits at the door, shaking as if he will come unglued unless I let him in. My husband feels that the $45 he has invested in the doghouse (fully insulated throughout) is wasted unless Woofie uses it every night. Woofie can—and does—"get to" me, and my husband wants an outsider's opinion. Please? —B.B.

DEAR B.B.: That fully-insulated doghouse should be up off the ground to avoid ground moisture. Naturally, it should face away from prevailing winds. Size is an important factor: Oversize canine castles are a common problem and the thin-coated dog burns up a tremendous amount of calories trying to heat up the place.

Provision must be made for ventilation, or the dog's moisture-laden breath will soon make his bedroom uncomfortably damp. Now even if all these requirements are met, there are special occasions when a dog might be allowed inside.

Whether these "nights" are limited to the worst storms of the season or occur with much greater frequency should depend upon the dog's constitution—and will depend in part on his persuasive powers. (Woofie's effective technique is widely utilized.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Something we think quite unusual has happened at Liquid Lodge, our 15 gallon aquarium. This tank has been set up more than a year and the water has never been changed. Only a little added as needed.

Something — we never knew what — killed all the fish but one guppy late last summer. The guppy, Jennifer, was lonesome and our girls' girl friend had a lonesome guppy too. She gave us her lonely guppy which, unfortunately, was also a female. Her guppy, named Sister, was almost a year old when we got her.

Since then Jennifer has died of old age but Sister has started to grow again. She was a runt but has doubled her size! How can a fish grow again once it was an adult? Or was it ever? We are confused! —E.R.

DEAR E. R.: Fish are limited by heredity as to the maximum size they may attain. However, if factors are unfavorable for growth, they may mature in miniature. Sister has apparently found Liquid Lodge an ideal home site. The sudden growth spurt doesn't mean that she wasn't already mature, just that she is really blossoming now that conditions are favorable.

Fish retain the ability to grow throughout their life span, though growth becomes progressively slower with old age. Sister's spurt would indicate she still has a lot of living to do.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My cat, Sampson, acts completely ridiculous when I am wearing a certain brand of perfume. Is this behavior typical? —O.H.

DEAR O. H.: As far as male cats are concerned, it IS rather common to find they are attached to perfume. (You have undoubtedly already formed an opinion regarding the effect perfume has on other males.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: The pet in my life is a pet banty. Her name is Henny. Yesterday she ate part of an aspirin. Did it hurt her? Does she ever have a headache? She lays eggs and has chicks but not now. Is it too cold. And our rooster died. —G.B.

DEAR G.B.: Henny doesn't really need aspirin. She probably never has a headache. Very small amounts of aspirin are fed to chickens, sometimes, because they will lay more eggs. This wouldn't help Henny raise a family though. Not as long as the rooster died.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Scientists have found that a light-sensitive blue pigment is the heart of the mechanism that controls the way many plants respond to their environment.

FARM FORECAST

The year 1965 could be a big one for Ohio farmers if the natural elements cooperate and if pending legislation eradicates some export-import problems for American produce while leveling the margin of profit. With most experts predicting a banner year, we can only anticipate production and profit.

One of the nation's leading agronomists, Dr. Dale Stukenholtz, told those attending a recent Ohio Fertilizer and Lime Conference at the Ohio State University here that, as a result of fewer and larger farms, industry and extension services will be able to give more personal attention to growers.

One of the big problems of the future, noted Stukenholtz, will be to continue adjusting the fertilization programs upward to the needs and goals of the grower. Growers will have larger farms, greater capital investments, and will want to remove fertility as a limiting factor in yields.

At this writing your reporter plans to attend the annual meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association in Miami Beach, Jan. 24 through Jan. 28. More than 8,000 co-op members plan to attend. The association represents nearly 1,000 rural electric systems in 46 states.

We at The Spectator strive to bring you the most timely agricultural news, while centering our general attention on the Ohio scene. For all the staff this is Clay Eager saying "Enjoy the Holiday" and may 1965 bring to each of our readers a prosperous and healthy New Year!

"Electricity is wires on tall poles"

What is electricity? We asked 10 children and got 10 different answers. DeAnna summed it up to her satisfaction. However you think of it, electricity is still your biggest bargain . . .

More homes, business and industry, and new things not yet marketed will call for even more electric service. To satisfy these demands for efficient low cost electricity where ever and when ever needed, we must plan continuously, constructing new generation facilities and transmission and distribution lines.

Yes, electricity is still your biggest bargain. Costs less per kilowatt than it did just a few years ago. In spite of increasing demand, new techniques, and constantly improved methods in the generation of electricity will continue to reduce its costs.

CLUSTERED AROUND MRS. HUGH Flomenhoft are four members of Columbus Section, National Council of Jewish Women signing up for the second School of Community Action. By looking at their own attitudes and behavior, members will attempt to move "The Immovable Middle Class" into action. The three sessions will be held Jan. 5, 11 and 18 at the Jewish Center. Main topic of the three lectures and discussions will be centered around "sympathetic liberals" who take pride in their support of civil rights, but are puzzled, hurt or angered by increasing militancy of minority groups.

Second NCJW School Probes Middle Class

"Are we professing full support to civil rights, then squirming when we sit next to a person of another race in a movie?" asked a spokesman for Columbus Section for the National Council of Jewish Women.

The question is typical of the ones that Council will explore at the second annual School For Community Action.

Last year, Council held a series of seminars on "Equal Opportunity for Youth," and although it was successful, the members decided this year was the time to "look into our own feeling of prejudice rather than looking out into the community."

Termed "The Immovable Middle Class," the first of three soul-searching sessions will be held Jan. 5, noon to 3 p.m., at the Jewish Center.

Following the noon petite luncheon (served at each session) students will hear a lecture on "Poverty and Prejudice," concerning the difference in poverty experienced by those a generation ago and how today's society unwittingly keeps the poor isolated and walled off from our affluent society.

The second session (Jan. 11) entitled "Better Schools for Whom?" emphasizes that school integration difficulties must no longer be turned into excuses for inaction—that costly and imaginative educational programs must be mounted in order to improve the community's poorest schools.

The final session on Jan. 18 will deal with "The Neighborhood: Crucible of the Future," attempting to broaden deprived youngsters' horizons and extending housing opportunities to families of all races and income levels.

Last year's NCJW School for Community Action resulted in many Council service projects for youngsters, including job-finding centers, tutoring of elementary and high school pupils, follow-up of dropouts and educational programs for pre-school children.

Entering into this year's school asking questions such as: "Am I personally involved? Am I to blame and What can I do?" members will endeavor to have a similar success story next year.

Council members are asked to make reservations with Mrs. David Glickman, 91 S. Roosevelt-av.

the Neighborhood Youth Corps would fill.

The part-time (15 hour per week) for in school youth and full-time (32 hour per week) job schedules for dropouts, which the city hopes to encourage to return to classes, would have classified Civil Service status.

Meanwhile city school officials, who initiated a work-study program in February of 1962, which has since found part-time employment for 200 high school youth in private enterprise, remain hopeful the city program will be enacted.

Ward Barritt, 35, Worthington resident and the former football coach at Marion-Franklin High School, said that the city program would be especially beneficial for youth from Linden-McKinley, North, East, Central, West, South and Marion-Franklin High Schools, which have a larger percentage of potential school dropouts due to greater numbers of economically-distressed homes within their areas.

Barritt, a graduate of Ohio State University, with bachelor and master's degrees in education and counseling, was chosen to direct the Columbus school system's work study program two years ago, after it began on an unofficial, experimental basis in the fall of 1961 at South High School.

108 In Program

"I was given the job on a full-time basis to talk to youngsters whom high school principals and counselors said were in danger of dropping out," said Barritt, "and then find placement on a part-time schedule in private employment, in order to give the student some vocational training. I placed 113 youth the first year (some were carry-overs from the year before). During the present school year we have 108 in our work-study program. But we have had a real struggle to find enough jobs to take care of the large numbers needing work."

Barritt is now assisted in the Pupils Placement Program by two other teachers, Benny Banks and John Hackett.

In a two week period, before school opened last September, Barritt, Hackett, and teacher - counselors George DeLoche and Bob Nelson inaugurated a new program. The four visited the homes of the 1000 high school students in the city system believed to be most likely to dropout in the coming school year.

"We got to these youngsters, found out what their problems were, tried wherever possible to rearrange school schedules to make a return to classes attractive and arranged, where we could, for part-time, vocational work in small businesses.

"Obviously, if the city's Neighborhood Youth Corps program is approved many of this 1000, and others graduating into their ranks, may be employed fruitfully in city government to get vocational training, learn marketable work skills, while at the same time, finishing up their secondary education."

Barritt, Joseph Davis, assistant superintendent for special education, and Paul Hersey of the school administrative staff have worked with Thomas B. Fitzgerald, chief planner for the city Department of Urban Renewal in setting up the Youth Corps program, which will bring a half million dollars in federal money into the city. The program will be subject to review each five months to iron out the rough spots. Students given the $1.20 an hour work training jobs will have to keep good grades in class work to remain eligible.

little doubt that he will go after a second at-large term. He and fellow-Democrat Loren Y. Mason seem certain of solid support from both the Democratic leadership and rank and file party members.

Mason had served one council hitch prior to his election as councilman-at-large in 1963.

A name that also is in the hopper for the third at-large council seat is that of Lewis Oliver, who called the shots for the successful 1963 campaign when he was president of the Whitehall Democratic Club. Oliver also has been sounded out for return to the Democratic Club presidency when that group meets to elect 1965 officers in January.

It is considered probable that he will head the political organization and direct the 1965 campaign for those Democrats chosen at the May Primary. Oliver's idea of how to run a campaign is both simple and difficult. Basically it entails (on the part of each candidate) hard work, personal contact, hard work, financial support of the total campaign, and hard work.

Early in the 1963 campaign, one candidate was candid enough to tell Oliver that he wasn't sure he was going to like him, personally. "That's quite all right with me," Oliver reportedly replied, "I'm looking for candidates, not friends."

Potential primary candidates at the ward levels include:

First Ward: Hugh Parker, who lost to incumbent Republican Lester K. Ballenger in 1963, is expected to file for a possible rematch. There is also urging in the direction of Lewis Bower, an attorney and former candidate for mayor, to enter the race.

Second Ward: Still wide open for potential candidates, although at least one person has reportedly been contacted to challenge incumbent Republican Roger R. Stahley.

Third Ward: C. E. (Bill) Leeson is being touted as a potential successor to Toomey if the present councilman enters a race outside the ward boundary. He was a candidate in 1963 for an at-large seat on council.

Fourth Ward: Open pending O'Shaughnessy's choice of contest.

It is assumed that Walter Helber will go for re-election as city auditor. He was elected without opposition in 1963. Another 1963 candidate, John H. Ramsey, is a likely candidate for office. A former city treasurer, he lost a bid for that office to incumbent Republican Francis E. (Red) Shaeffer.

It is rumored that Shaeffer may draw opposition in the Republican Primary from the so-called Moling slate of candidates who will support the candidacy of former Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling. Moling is the only candidate in either party to have filed his petitions for office with the Franklin County Board of Elections.

Mayor William Holzhause, Moling's likely opponent in the Republican Primary, has not yet made his candidacy official. There are persistent whisperings that he would like to try again as an Independent.

Some look for a clue to Holzhause's decision when he gets a piece of legislation slated for passage (on a party line vote) at Tuesday's council meeting. The proposed ordinance would place the city's tax office back with the city auditor.

If Holzhause vetoes such an ordinance, it is said, this would indicate that he wants to solidify Republican support for the GOP Primary race. The same political wags would view approval of the measure by the mayor as an indication that he will shun a party label and bypass the primary to run as an Independent in November.

All in all, it would seem that the New Year in Whitehall will mark the moving of the "political kettle" from the "simmer" grate to the "front burner."

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrance O'Flaherty

"In whatever arena of life one may meet the challenge of courage, whatver may be the sacrifices he faces if he follows his conscience — the loss of his friends, his fortune, his contentment, even the esteem of his fellow men —each man must decide for himself the course he will follow.

"The stories of past courage can define that ingredient — they can teach, they can offer hope, they can provide inspiration. But they cannot supply courage itself. For this each man must look into his own soul."

These words are spoken at the conclusion of each program in the new Sunday evening television series "Profiles in Courage." The voice is John F. Kennedy's, as he reads from the final paragraph in his book, upon which the NBC series is based.

Fate Intervened

The sound track is scratchy and the pitch of his voice is different because it was taken from the tape of an "Omnibus" television program made when the book was published four years before he became President.

A new reading of it was to have been recorded on the week which followed his assassination. The lines were therefore deleted from the script, but at the last moment the producer recalled that Kennedy had read the passage on television in 1957. That reading is what you hear now.

The book, as well as the dramatic program, is composed of true stories of American heroism under pressure. They are dramas of political deeds peformed at great sacrifice by men—some famous, some little known — who were true to their conscience and their country.

The plans for the television series were completed before the assassination. Kennedy took a great interest in every detail, and the programs bear the imprint of his thoroughness.

Wanted Non-Partisan

He insisted that the series not be scheduled to begin until after the election in which he had planned to run, because he wanted the series to be judged on a non-partisan basis as history and not as the literary venture of a politician.

It is ironic that he probably will not get his wish. Everyone associated with the production became even more dedicated after the assassination, anxious to make the series a memorial to the vital and stylish young President.

No actor has refused a role in the series. "I would gladly have done the show for nothing," said Bradford Dillman, who stars in "The Edmund G. Ross Story," which deals with the attempted impeachment of President Andrew Jackson.

Political beliefs were also dismissed. The opening program co-starred actor Victor Jory, one of Richard Nixon's strongest supporters in 1960.

"Profiles in Courage" is produced by Robert Saudek Associates, whose television ventures such as "Omnibus" and "Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic" are among the most distinguished in the medium.

Scripts Waited

In 1963, Kennedy appointed his aide and writer Ted Sorensen to take charge of the Saudek project for him. The President authorized a plan whereby 13 of his stories were to be used on the TV series and an additional 13 added with his personal approval but written by others.

The first two scripts were on his desk at the White House awaiting his return from Texas on Nov. 22.

The spirit of the President's stipulations has been scrupulously followed, and all scripts are submitted to Sorensen and trustees of the Kennedy estate. One of the stipulations was that a network be assured before work progressed to eliminate the shopping around for sponsorship which plagued the Truman show.

"Kennedy had a lot of show business savvy," associate producer Michael Ritchie told me. "He insisted that the series be a regular would be accustomed to seeweekly show instead of occasional specials,' so viewers ing it at the same time on the same day."

Too Many Tourists Spoil Party In Paris

The anti-tourist campaign has never been stronger in Europe.

Natives, expatriates and even the visiting tourists themselves beg journalists to write travel articles that will discourage future vacationers from coming to the old continent.

"Too many tourists spoil the party," is the general cry. "It's your duty to stop the invasion if you can."

Prices rise as the number of visitors increases. Every place becomes too crowded for comfort and fun.

Long lines of giant sightseeing buses hog the pretty spaces outside famous monuments, and tour groups make noisy traffic jams inside museums and cathedrals.

"Paris isn't Paris any more," declare the latter-day Hemingways. "Tell the American public about it so they will leave this beautiful city to us in peace."

Well, the bearded but not-quite - budding Hemingways may be right. It is not difficult to find discouraging changes.

The circuses are going. Paris used to have several of them running all the time. Last year Medrano's gave up, and after the Christmas holiday, the Cirque d'Hiver and the Cirque de Montmartre will close, too. Owner Joseph Bouglione blames the lack of business on TV.

The Village Suisse, which ran second to the Flea Market as the great attraction for shoppers, has folded up its charming old shops to make way for a modern building project.

Wealthy antique dealers buy up everything at the Flea Market so fast that a visitor must get there before 8 a.m. to catch a single bargain.

The windmills on top of Montmartre have been condemned as unsafe. The charming old kiosks that served as newsstands are being replaced by coldly efficient glass structures.

The old-fashioned city buses with their open rear platforms will disappear completely by 1968. There will be no more riding in the open air, hanging over the edge of a 1932 vehicle.

The bridges over the Seine are in a bad way. The public swimming pools that sprout on the river every spring may go. Trees on the boulevards and quais are dying from the gas fumes of the cars. So are sidewalk cafes.

There is no room for automobiles to park on the narrow streets, so they now park on the sidewalks. Thus there is no room for pedestrians to walk on the sidewalks, so they stay indoors.

Streets are torn up for construction of new subways that are already six months behind in their building schedules. Sidewalks are jammed with scaffolding for the permanent campaign to clean th city's buildings. Shopkeepers report that business is off 25 percent because neither pedestrians nor drivers can get to the shops.

Inflation has reached a point in Paris restaurants that Minister of Finance Giscard d'Estaing has demanded that menu prices return to what they were last year. Restaurateurs have demanded that government taxes be lowered to what they were last year first.

Apartments rent for $600 a month, tiny studios without bathrooms, kichen or heat sell for $20,000 in crumbling buildings, and hotels take whatever the traffic will bear. With a big shortage of hotels, the traffic bears plenty.

So there is a quick, incomplete rundown of the discouraging picture of Paris. If it doesn't discourage you, there is only one thing to do:

Come to Paris, You'll love it.

Automates Loan Payment System

Beginning with the new year, Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association announces that their entire loan payment system will be totally automated.

The familiar passbook, long a symbol of the loan industry, will disappear as will much of the other paper. What will emerge will be quicker service for the customer's convenience. Instantaneous, up - to - the - minute information will be constantly available.

"We are looking forward to the day when the drudgery of all paper work may be turned over to the machines, thus allowing our experienced personnel more time to work with our customers," stated William S. Guthrie, president of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan.

"We take great pride in both the flawlessness of our service and the friendliness of our staff. This new system will enable us to advance both!"

Around the World With STAN DELAPLANE

"My husband and I will be spending six months in England starting in February. It is our first trip. Should we take along soap, coffee, tissues?"

No. Austerity and shortages are long past. You can buy everything you want in England.

"What kind of clothing do we need? Any suggestions for getting the most out of such a trip?"

Warm, warm clothing. England is cold until summer and they keep their houses at a temperature you could hang meat in — about 10 degrees cooler than we do. In turn, they dress more warmly indoors. Sweaters and coats. Central heating is a myth. I blooming well froze in a London house until I learned you dress inside there as we dress outside here.

At all times, but particularly in winter, you can have a wonderful time driving the snowy countryside from inn to inn. Take the older, coaching inns. There is a chain of them called "Trust Houses." Listed in the London phone book. Ask them for a list.

"We intend to take side trips such as Paris. We will rent a car but can we take it to France?"

Easy enough. Be sure your rental agency gives you a GREEN card that is your international insurance and the only card you need to move your car across borders. And see that they fix your car up with yellow headlights. France demands this. (England uses white lights.)

"If you have any suggestions on local customs . . ."

In England, you drive on the left. You NEVER jump across traffic making a right turn. Wait for no traffic or the light change. No bluffing. Windshields are never washed in service stations. People do their own. There are only two shoe shiners in all London—and they must be there as curiosities. The English polish their own.

"Any special foods we should ask for?"

Scottish beef is good in any way—though England is not gourmet country except in special restaurants. Smoked trout is a specialty. English cheeses are excellent. Try everything on the cheese board.

"And how about tips?"

A little less than here: 12 percent in London, 10 percent in the country for meals. A shilling (14 cents U.S.) can be used about like we use a quarter.

"We had made plans to be in Rio de Janeiro for the Carnival next February. Is there any special dress? We will be in a hotel at Capacabana Beach."

You can bring a costume —any kind of dress ball costume. But I would make it light and airy. Rio at Carnival is very hot and sticky.

"We read some of your Caribbean buried treasure stories and wonder how you go about such a vacation . . ."

In two days in a speed boat we found two unknown wrecks dating about the seventeenth century. Cannon and cannon balls spilled all over the bottom in water no deeper than a swimming pool. That's just surface stuff. Must be much more just under the sand.

For charter and information, you write Paul West, West End, Tortola, British Virgin Islands. Day charters are not expensive. Your only hotel here is a luxury resort: Little Dix Bay, Virgin Gorda, British Virgin Islands. You jet to Puerto Rico. Catch a small plane to Virgin Gorda.

This is almost unknown country with 41 islands. For sports fishermen, the biggest marlin in the Caribbean. For skin diving, you can see 30 feet down easily. And the water is loaded with more than a hundred unexplored wrecks.

"Can we get good gasoline on the highways to Mexico City?"

Yes, it's nearly always available — barring sudden labor troubles. Buy Gasolmex preferably. Super-mex is OK. Anything less makes your car sound like a broken banjo.

Ex-Ruler's Brother To Speak

Thubten Jigme Norbu, brother of the Dalai Lama, will appear in person at The Wagnalls Memorial Institute, Lithopolis, Sunday, Jan. 3, at 2:30 p.m.

He will lecture on the culture and customs of Tibet, the remote country now dominated by Red China. He will also present a film showing the actual escape of the Dalai Lama from Tibet.

As the brother of the supreme spiritual and temporal leader of Tibet, Norbu gives the first family account ever rendered in America of the solemn ceremonies and innermost sanctuaries of Tibet, including life in the Dalai Lama's palace.

At the age of eight, after childhood years passed in shepherd life in a remote Tibetal mountain area, Thubten Norbu was recognized as the reincarnation of the far-famed Tagster and was destined to become a high-ranking monk.

He was led to the great monastery of Kumbum, where he and his family were treated with honor and endowed with a sizeable inheritance. Then followed years of intensive study and training.

Norbu was 17 when, after a long and suspenseful search, his own brother was selected as the present Dalia Lama.

His autobiography, "Tibet Is My Country" published by E. P. Dutton, has been described by Lowell Thomas as a "fabulous story", and by the Christian Science Monitor as "the very volume which the communist powers would most like to see kept off the market."

If your reading hours are few, it's important to use those minutes of waiting time —at the laundromat or the hair-dresser's, on the bus, or at the dentist's. A book from the Columbus Public Library will pass pleasantly.

OPEN, NON-PARTISAN PRIMARY IS A CLOSED 'PARTY' AFFAIR IN '65

By FRANK RYAN

As the curtain rises, the local political bossman is addressing a small, select group. They can almost be identified through the haze of tobacco smoke.

"All right, then, it's settled," he says. You candidates will run in the Primary as a team.

He is interrupted by a phone call from a local reporter. "Sure," he says. "You're darn right it's going to be an open Primary. We're always in the market for qualified candidates to back in November, but the Primary is the people's election. I'm surprised you should ask if we're going to back any particular candidates to the exclusion of others of our party."

Fantasy?

Maybe.

But it's as good a way as any to explain just how "open" the 1965 Columbus election contests (particularly for council) will be. With Primary filing deadline less than a month away it appears that both political camps are saving their ammunition to fire at each other during the late summer and early fall.

The exception is that there may be an extra player or two in the Democratic councilman line-up for the May nominations. (So what else is new?) But, although Columbus elections are non-partisan, the election runoff this fall promises to be the most partisan affair in quite a few years.

The Democratic Sensenbrenner administration and personnel at Franklin County Democratic Headquarters have proclaimed unity and harmony between them. And the dove of peace has been winging between the two camps for some little time now with nary a hit from political "ack-ack."

Said one reliable source (and aren't they all?): "The Democrats will run as a team in support of the Sensenbrenner administration. There's no substitute for the enthusiasm which is evident and this means there will be a spirited campaign."

Actually, Democrats are talking hopefully of pulling off another "1957," when the three challenging Democrats knocked off as many incumbent Republicans on council to win legislative control. And Sensenbrenner was mayor then, too.

The Tuesday announcement by Councilman Robert T. Southwick that he will not seek re-election was a tonic for the Democrats.

Southwick was considered the toughest opponent of the three incumbents. His departure from the race — due to press of business — also dents the "team theme" he was to have sung with Council President William R. Fornof and Councilman Harvey H. Alston.

Southwick reportedly will resign his council seat shortly after the May Primary. This will afford Republicans the opportunity to appoint the third (as yet unnamed) team member to council, thus giving him the advantage of incumbency for the fall campaign.

Two additional Republican incumbents will also seek nomination for re-election. They are City Attorney John C. Young and City Auditor John H. Price. Neither is expected to draw any serious challenge in the Primary. And each rates a solid choice to be secure after the November ballots are counted.

In the case of Young's potential opponent, one "knowledgeable" Democrat answered the question by asking this reporter if he had a law degree. (And he didn't even ask my politics.) He then indicated that Democrats may follow the advice of "let their fingers do the walking" to the yellow pages of the telephone book —under "attorneys."

But Democrats have promised that they will field opponents for both Young and Price.

Mayor Sensenbrenner has said that he will support any and all qualified Democrats who seek office. Those who are adjudged to meet this criteria for the council race include the following: James L. Baumann, John T. Gordon, Robert M. Draper and Maurice D. Portman.

Baumann and Gordon impressed Democratic leaders with their energy and attitudes during unsuccessful bids for state office last year. Draper, a former Municipal Court judge, is probably the most desired of the potential candidates. He also appears to be the least likely to answer the call, but has not officially ruled himself out. Portman had served as the first finance director for Columbus under Sensenbrenner. He lost a council bid in 1963, when Republicans swept three of the four contested council seats.

Democratic battle plans call for concentrating the "big guns" on Fornof. As council president he has been in the forefront of every battle, political and otherwise. Democrats wax enthusiastic about the chances of dumping the outspoken South Sider. But Fornof is not without a following, and isn't known for ducking rough and tumble politics.

Alston, who was appointed to his seat on council, is supposedly the most likely Re-

Christmas Aftermath

Once upon a time, 17 years ago to be exact (but who needs to be exact in fairy tales) a little girl in Dundee, Scotland, wrote a letter to Santa, addressed "Rocky Mountains, Canada."

Iris wanted only one thing from life, a life that was rapidly slipping away because of a long illness, a doll to rock and to love.

Her second letter, asking Santa why, since she had left him six pennies on the mantel, he had failed to leave her the gift, reached a group of postmen in Vancouver.

These men set out on a belated shopping trip and sent the doll on to Iris in Scotland.

And, like all fairy tales, this true story has a happy ending. Today, Iris, in good health, has three dolls, the one that proved to her that there is really a Santa Claus to those who believe in him, and two little girls, all her own, to carry on the traditions of childhood believing.

Want To See 'Thanks' In Art? Visit Gallery Jan. 17 To Feb. 15

By Janet Michael

It's not wealth that makes Stelios Stelson happy.

At least not wealth in the dollar sense.

Nor is it a huge mansion with a servant for every room.

Stelson has no mansion—according to Webster's terminology.

But let's take another look at this unusual man. To say Stelson is an "open book" would be more truth than cliche.

For Stelson has opened literally thousands of books for people all over the world.

Born in 1909 at Smyrna, Asia Minor, Stelson first began to combat Communist propaganda while working as a civilian for the United States in Japan. He firmly believed that American textbooks in the hands of Japanese students would ward off Communist thinking . . . and he was right.

Now, 11 years, tons of textbooks and thousands of new friends later, Stelson invites the public to view the 11th International Children's Art exhibit at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts Jan. 17 through Feb. 15.

The paintings are a direct result and appreciation of Stelson's efforts in winning friends for America.

The one-man program isn't easy, but then most worthwhile things aren't.

Since 1954, Stelson has sent more than 10,000 American textbooks to schools and libraries in 23 countries. In addition, he arranged to have 140,000 books shipped by the Asian Foundation to students in Malaysia, Taiwan and the Philippines.

Stelson's "little black book" also has the names and addresses of 3000 students overseas who are eager to have American correspondents. Anyone may get a pen friend simply by writing Stelson and

New School Tax Levy Facing May Primaries

By FRANK RYAN

Columbus residents can expect a school operating tax levy on the Primary ballot in May. The amount of the tax increase has not been set, but past history indicates a levy of from three to five mills will be required.

The certainty of an operating levy was the "between-the-lines" message to the Columbus Board of Education, Monday, as Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of schools, gained approval of a $40.2 million 1965 operating budget.

Board members elected Paul R. Langdon to succeed Dr. Watson Walker as president of the board for 1965. It marked the third time Langdon has been named president. His previous terms were in 1958 and 1963. Edward N. Sloan was retained as vice-president.

The board also approved preliminary plans for a junior high school to be located just north of Shady Lane Elementary School. The building, expected to accommodate 700 students, will be constructed on a 16-acre tract at Livingston-av and Shady Lane-rd.

Fourth Year Without Increase

The record 1965 operating budget totaled $40,201,042.87, including $28.4 million for instruction — teachers' salaries, textbooks and other instructional materials. The current budget exceeds 1964 operating expenses by $1,230,159.

In presenting his budget message, Eibling reminded board members that the school system is entering the fourth year without an increase in the operating tax rate. The budget —which he said called for a "status quo" operation — does not anticipate any tax rate increase this year for operations.

Eibling said the static operating rate for a four-year period is particularly noteworthy in view of three major developments. He defined them as:

1. An accelerated enrollment, in excess of that anticipated when the last operating levy increase was voted in 1961.

2. A decrease in the per-pupil tax wealth, because enrollments have been increasing faster than the tax duplicate has been expanding, and

3. The inroads of inflation, despite a comparatively strong dollar during a continuing long upswing in the business cycle.

"Although I can vouch for the soundness of the educational program that this appropriation measure will support," Eibling told the board, "I must in all fairness tell you that it fails to provide certain minimum essentials."

He said there is no provision for enrollment growth beyond Dec. 31, 1965, nor for a "reasonable expansion of the program of compensatory education to which we committed ourselves in June, 1964."

Eibling said the appropriation measure does not provide for the improvement of salary structure, "which by now is one of the weakest among all of the large cities of the country with the exception of those in the South." He also said the budget might not even provide for holding the line on class size.

The new tax levy will be the third phase of recent actions by the school board to keep pace with enrollment growth which has exceeded estimates. In 1963 voters approved a 15-mill five-year renewal of previously voted operating levies.

Last year, voters authorized the $34,650,000 capital improvements bond issue for a five-year building program. This year's tax measure is deemed necessary to meet minimum requirements for operation of the expanding physical facilities.

Holding the line on class size is an area which demonstrates the magnitude of the operational costs. A reduction

COUNCILMEN CRY POLITICS

Holzhause Surprise: $134,000 'City Kitty'

The Tuesday night Whitehall council session was devoid of any open fireworks, but Mayor Bill Holzhause lit some wicks with his report on the city's financial condition after his first year in office.

And in the process, Holzhause left little doubt that he will oppose former Mayor Walter B. Moling in the Republican Primary next May. His report made several pointed references to "problems" inherited from the Moling administration.

He recalled Jan. 1, 1964, (the start of his term) as a time when the city was "confronted with about $20,000 to $30,000 carryover of old bills." He said the city faced "a $50,000 monthly operating budget with less than $20,000 in the General Fund.

"A short time later," he added, "we were confronted with the Hamilton-rd project, which to my thinking should have been handled by the old (Moling) administration and money set aside for this project."

The mayor capped his report with the news that Whitehall ended 1964 with a General Fund balance of $134,000 and that the city had retired "just short of $167,000 of bonds during 1964."

If Holzhause had told council that the city was flat broke he might have received a friendlier post meeting reaction to his "state of the city"

Republican members of council — all three of whom will back the Moling candidacy in the GOP Primary— termed the report a "fantasy," conceived for use as political fodder. Both Republican and Democratic members of council expressed disbelief that the city could spend 11 months of the year with no surplus funds in sight and end the year with a $134,000 balance.

Several of the council members indicated that they would press for further verification.

Now Look Who's Running City Hall!

Tom Shipe of Whitehall has been named mayor and Ray Straubaugh named as service director for the city Tuesday. They, and other new city officials, will assume their offices next Tuesday.

In a special, "behind the scenes" election held this week, a completely new slate of officials was picked to hold down all of the city's governmental, fire and civil positions.

The new officials, all Distributive Education students at Whitehall High School, were selected by Mayor William Holzhause to get a first-hand view of city government functions.

Mayor Holzhause spent Tuesday morning with the DE class making final preparations with the students in order that they may effectively take over the government next Tuesday.

The 24 students will assemble at City Hall at 7:30 a.m., at which time the mayor will give them their final assignments.

The mayor stressed that the purpose of this DE Day is to better acquaint the young future business leaders with the problems of running city government.

Other students who will be temporarily filling city posts are: Fred Hall, city solicitor; Dan McCarty, building inspector; Craig Otto, chief of police; Jim Stacy, police captain; Jim Hoffman and Dan Dearduff, police sergeants; Mike Schleppi, fire chief; John Hobensack, fire inspector; Larry Lowe and Bill Stein, fire lieutenants; Denny Aller, tax commissioner and Ron Shadrick, recreational director.

Nine girls are taking part in the one-day program, serving as clerks, secretaries and members of the emergency squad. Sharon Parrier, Phyllis Combs and Mary Hughes will serve as city clerks, while Pat Mackey, Barbara Taggart, Patti Strawser and Anita Roberson will act as secretaries. Beverly Fristoe and Cheryl Dague are the emergency squad members.

"If I Had One Call I Had A Hundred"

Marian Ranke, 2275 Holton-rd, exclaimed when telling us of reaction she got from a Want Ad for a player piano and rolls, "It was tremendous—I had calls even up 'till 11 p.m. Sunday. I had no idea I could get such results." You can expect results like these when you use Spectator Want Ads. Call BR. 4-1155 and ask the Want Ad girls to help you.

Scottwood Arranges Mental Health Talk

Dr. W. Hugh Missildine, a prominent figure in the field of mental health, will discuss the principles outlined in his current book, "Your Inner Child of the Past," at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd, Sunday, Jan. 10, 8 p.m.

Dr. Missildine began his medical career upon graduation from Iowa State University College of Medicine in 1939. After serving internship at St. Luke's Hospital, Duluth, Minn., he was a general practitioner at Eagle Grove, Iowa, until his entry into military service.

He came to Columbus in 1949 and founded the Children's Mental Health Center Child Guidance Clinic, which he directed for nine years. He also established the Columbus Children's Psychiatric Hospital and Residential Treatment Center in 1953 for emotionally disturbed children.

Dr. W. H. Missildine

In addition to his private practice, Dr. Missildine is associate professor of pediatrics and assistant professor of psychiatry at OSU College of Medicine.

Through his work with children, Dr. Missildine has observed emotional problems in the making, and finds that adults exhibit many of the same difficulties. In his talk he will consider various parental attitudes toward children, and how they affect the individual upon reaching adulthood. Such attitudes include perfectionism, over-coercion, over-indulgence, hypochondriasis, neglect and rejection. His aim is to help adults identify parental attitudes from their childhood which have caused them frustration and unhappiness.

The program is open to all without charge.

150 Jewish Women 'Search Souls' At School For Action

Columbus section of the National Council of Jewish Women urged members of the middle class to enable progress by the poor through greater readiness to "budge from our cocoons of middle-class privilege and status when our own neighborhoods and our own children's schools are involved."

Opening a series of three sessions on Jan. 5 at the Jewish Center on how middle class people are unwittingly forcing the perpetuation of poverty and segregation, and how they could be more helpful, lecturers at the second annual NCJW School for Community Action outlined features of "the new poverty," encompassing one-fourth to one-fifth of the U.S. population, which make it difficult to recognize and overcome.

The women's educational and service organization designed this series as a challenge to middle-class liberals, starting with its own members, to review and abandon attitudes which are barring economic, educational and cultural advancement by Negroes and other groups suffering from inherited poverty. The 150 women attending met in small seminars, following the lecture, to discuss what they themselves would and should do in typical situations crucially affecting segregation, and likely to be determined by the response of private citizens.

Mrs. Arthur Hersch, a lecturer, pointed out that the poor today are "invisible" because "even the hungriest and worst-housed look prosperous. Housing programs segregate them and squeeze more and more into slum areas you and I seldom pass through."

Several widely-held beliefs were labelled myths by Mrs. Melvin Schottenstein, another lecturer, among them the ideas that "the affluence of American society will seep down to everyone in time," and that "every needy family is on relief."

The second session of the NCJW School on "The Immovable Middle Class" will be held at the Jewish Center on Jan. 11 at noon and will highlight the relationship of the middle class to public education. The third session, on neighborhood segregation, will be held Jan. 18 at 11 a.m.

Powwow

The White Oaks District will hold a Cub Scout Powwow for all pack leaders on Sunday, Jan. 10 from 1 until 8:30 p.m. at St. Pius School, 1051 S. Waggoner-rd.

The powwow is an annual district get-together to train all Cub Scout leaders and prospective leaders. Each pack in the district will send a representative to participate in each of the five sections at the powwow. These five sections are pack administration, handicraft, ceremonies, games, and skits.

Registration will take place from 1:45 until 2:45 in the afternoon, followed immediately by the training sessions which will last until 6:30.

The day will be concluded with a Blue and Gold Banquet, starting at 7 p.m. Packs will bring basket lunches which will be served buffet-style at the dinner. A musical minstrel group will perform at the evening ceremonies.

Klondike Derby

An "old northern frontier reception" will greet East Side Boy Scouts on Saturday, Jan. 16, when they arrive at the White Oaks District's Klondike Derby being held at the Central Ohio Coon Hunters' Association, 12 miles south of Canal Winchester.

As the scouts arrive, they will be given compass courses to follow to their campsites. Since no roads lead from the highway to the camping area, all troops will have to pack their gear in by way of Eskimo Komitik sleds, which will be made by the troops in advance.

Various checkpoints will be established along the course to the campsite. The last one, at the Malamute Corral (the campground) will be manned by Bud Seymour, the saloon keeper and Bernard Kenney, who will play Marshal Dillin'.

If it snows, sledding and tobogganing will be the principal items on the agenda. A campfire will be held Saturday night, with Tom Currier serving as the evening campmaster.

A "Camp Busters" meeting will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday to explain the facilities for summer camp at the council-owned Lazarus and Greenhills summer camps. The Order of the Arrow has been asked to perform the closing ceremony at this session.

The derby will last until after lunch on Sunday.

Gil Powell, camping and activities chairman for the White Oaks district, is in charge of the camporee. Raymond Grayam will coordinate the checkpoints.

JAN 1965

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

True America Is Not Reflected By Literary 'Cesspool'

It's time somebody in America produced a good cornball play.

It is time we came up with a fine human drama composed of virile males and feminine females who have something in mind beside procreation.

It is time we were reminded that mankind's struggles in the hayloft do not represent the whole of his story, that he struggled for many things that had nothing to do with the tavern wench, and that he died for many dreams that transcended his animal appetites.

Jones

We've had enough Lolitas.

We've had enough "Tea and Sympathy."

We ought to be about caught up on Big Daddies.

The time has come when some of our gifted writers and dramatists should crawl out of their peep-shows and quit rehashing their lecture notes in abnormal psychology.

There's a lot about Man that is not disgusting and degrading, putrid and prurient. Otherwise he'd never have risen from the cave.

What has happened to the plays that inspire? What has happened to the shows you walked out of with your head held high and your feet a yard off the ground? What has happened to that great moment in the darkness when the final curtain had just been drawn and before the applause started, when you felt you had had a great experience?

One night way back in '29 a kid sat pop-eyed in a London theater watching Colin Clive in the last scene in "Journey's End." All evening tragedy had been fastening on the miserable dugout. The wounded had been carried in, the dead sadly borne away. And then the climactic battle, the creeping barrage, and you watched the hopes go and the dreams go in the tragedy of war. And finally the direct hit, the suddenly darkened stage, the sifting dust and then only the candle in the bottle, guttering for a moment and at last snuffed out. The audience sat in stunned silence for half a minute, I know. I was the kid.

Perhaps the greatest movie ever made was "Goodbye, Mr. Chips"—remember? It was about an English schoolmaster and the only sex in it was the death of his wife in childbirth. It had to do with the business of growing old, and how the pangs of age are blunted if a man has done his job well and with faith so that his work lives on in the lives of others.

That was all. No palace orgies. No amours on a golden barge. The chief trouble with the Burton-Taylor version of "Cleopatra" was that the asp checked in seven reels too late.

I have been reading "Show," which describes itself as a "Magazine of the Arts." The November issue has an article about "avant garde" movies which get around to these "intimate" playhouses in the big cities. I quote:

"Jack Smith's 'Flaming Creatures' is a stupefying orgy in drag. Nevertheless, Smith displays a conspicuous talent for pictorial composition and, all in all, 'Flaming Creatures' is like nothing you've ever seen before. Between 12 and 16 female impersonators and about a half-dozen authentic females affect all sorts of many actions and relationships. A blond transvestite evoking the shared myth of the late Jean Harlow and Marilyn Monroe rises from a coffin. A fantastically large breast is bared and fondled rhythmically."

Anyone else for the vomitorium?

Someone has recently remarked, "A lot of people think they are emancipated when they are only unbuttoned." As a result of recent "liberal" court decisions it is now harder to get raided in New York City than in Port Said. Most of the pornographic and deviant scribblers in America have flocked to this capital of our stage. New York has become the national headquarters of the unbuttoned America.

If these people displayed their garbage for what it is, it would be bad enough. But the lofty claim is made that it is "social criticism." It seems the playwright rushes around America until he can find a cesspool. Then he sits in the middle of it and says, "Gawd, how this country stinks!"

Well, America doesn't stink.

There are, of course, some things wrong with this great nation, including a mistaken interpretation of tolerance by which we have permitted the sleazy and the diseased to set the dramatic norm. We have let them downgrade us to the point where we accept the fact that the only clean literature and drama will be in costume and all contemporary life must be depicted as corrupt or degenerate.

Realism? Rubbish! The true fact is that America is full of decent people — men who go home to their wives, women who take an interest in their communities, kids who don't duck the cops. Yet in this normalcy there are struggle and tragedy, triumph and suspense, just as there were when Ibsen, Hauptmann and Tolstoy dramatized their own times.

Let's find some other stage set beside a boudoir and let's throw out the wilted pansies. The true drama of the American people can be depicted by neither.

It's time for a good cornball play.

Make NYC A Helping Hand — Not A 'Handout'

The Neighborhood Youth Corps program will be a wonderful adventure in progress if it achieves in practice what it promises in theory.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has requested a $500,000 federal grant to enroll Columbus in the project, a phase of the government's national anti-poverty program.

Basically, the NYC plan is to help potential high school dropouts to complete their secondary education, and to train past school dropouts to a point where they become employable and self-sustaining. Helped most would be children of indigent families.

The plan calls for selection of participants by school officials and the Ohio State Employment Service. Selection will be on the basis of professional counseling and determination of the capability of the youth to respond to training. Those selected would be hired as regular city employes and would work under supervision of city personnel.

The youth would serve in all 16 divisions of city government. Aptitude and potential would determine the work assignment. Some might be laboratory assistants in the Health Department, while others would work alongside inspectors on sewer and water line projects. Girls, particularly, might gain valuable training in filing, clerical and secretarial duties.

There would be jobs of maintenance, playground equipment design, construction and repair; groundskeeping, elementary training in heavy equipment mechanics and a myriad of other opportunities.

There is no valid reason to fear that such a program could be used to replace adults already holding jobs with the city. The training program will simply add personnel who, under any other circumstances, would not have been hired. It could, however, enable the city to progress more rapidly in many areas where financial limitations preclude the hiring of employes through normal channels.

The program, as proposed, must yet be approved by city council and the Columbus Civil Service Commission. City Attorney John C. Young has ruled that the NYC plan can be implemented within the framework of the City Charter. He has suggested means by which the Civil Service Commission may authorize the employment of the trainees.

The most clear-cut aspect of the program is its financing. Federal funds will pay 90 percent, with the city providing the remaining 10 percent. Columbus can contribute its share in the form of "work credits," thus avoiding any need for funding by cash appropriations. The city's Urban Renewal Department has already built up 500 hours of work time on the project. This will be converted into cash credit if and when the program secures final approval.

But much of the project operation will be a matter of policy-making. It is in this area that some firm decisions must be made by those within the city administration who will supervise the on-the-job training. It should be made clear at the outset that this program is not to begin as or develop into a "welfare handout" operation. Quite to the contrary, it should remain a means of keeping many potential welfare cases from entering the public dole.

It would be encouraging to assume that all of the regular city employes and supervisors would set a good example for the youthful trainees. But a similar end will be served if, as we suspect, the opposite proves to be true.

Day of Reckoning

A Transit Plan Is Vital

At 2 p.m. Monday, Jan. 11, Columbus City Council will conduct a public hearing on the merits of a City Charter amendment to establish a transit authority. It is imperative that this question be given serious thought.

A second hearing, at an evening hour better suited to the public, has been promised. But the Jan. 11 meeting should command wide representation from the groups comprising the Citizens Transit Study Committee. They should be on hand to see how council greets their recommendation for a transit authority, and should carry the message back to their organizations.

The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., owner of the Columbus Transit Co., has decided to withdraw from the bus business when the current franchise with the city expires June 30, 1966. The city has first call in buying the CTC, but company officials also have sought private sources as alternate buyers.

It appears that the most desirable form of private ownership — investors who are home-based here — just isn't available. Experience elsewhere indicates that "outside" ownership might concentrate on "profits" and let service sag.

It also appears that urban mass transportation is going the way of toll-road turnpikes, built with private capital. In either case, the problems to be met seem to call for public rather than private control.

Private investors actually cannot operate a transit system as economically as would a public transit authority — assuming there is sound management under either form of operation. This is due mainly to the tax-exempt status enjoyed by government-operated utilities. And a public transit authority would not be concerned with making a profit, although, hopefully, it would be self-sustaining.

Because it now seems clear that there will be no offer for purchase of the CTC by local interests, consideration of a public authority is the next logical step. But, creation of such a governmental unit is not without its share of pitfalls and traps. Fortunately for Columbus, others have done the pioneering in this area. We should study their successes and failures in molding any local public transit authority.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

No man in his right mind ever "negotiates" with a rattlesnake. Communism is the snake in the grass now and has been for 47 years. Peaceful "co-existence" is the phoniest thing at large in this world today.

Sixty years ago, when we first started to gravel the dirt roads up in Lenawee County, leading into Adrian, Mich., we dug whole nests of rattlers out of one gravel pit after another.

Every time we used two sticks of dynamite to open a new face in the pits, we discovered new nests of these varmints. We killed them all with shotgun blasts before driving the first team into the pit.

Kids around Adrian would go out at daylight and earn a dollar for shoveling a new load of two cubic yards. Then it took four horses in a double team hitch to drag the load out of the pit and onto the road. Rattlesnake meat was never eaten in those days, but the one prize was to get a set of rattles longer than any kid had ever found. The largest I ever found was 11 buttons.

So, all of this modern wishful thinking about being able to get along with the Reds under any name is just plain insanity. One of these days old Uncle Sam will get back his "ironbelly" and tell the Reds just what early settlers said of rattlesnakes of those days, "Don't Tread On Me."

If another man on horseback does come up out of China, with atomic or nuclear bombs, that will be the day and the free world had well better know about it beforehand.

If, on the other hand, the now-existing "dead center stymie" can be maintained for another quarter century, increasing educational progress in all of the enslaved countries may arrive at the point where they would rather be dead than Red. Then internal revolts will topple one slave camp after another from the inside.

Literate people cannot be enslaved forever.

Opposes Bus Bill

To The Editor:

I wish to take issue with some of Mr. Kegelmeyer's statements on this so-called fair bus bill. Mr. Saxbe's opinion of last year declared bus transportation (for non-public schools) unconstitutional in Ohio. Furthermore, Mr. Kegelmeyer's opinion on the United States constitution is just that—only an opinion! This bus issue has never been brought to the United States Supreme Court and the Everson case does not apply here.

I am against double taxation, as are many other people. This is what we would have under this bus bill. We would be taxed to support both the public schools and the parochial (church) schools teaching sectarian doctrine. The Seventh Day Adventist, Lutherans, etc. maintain parochial schools, are not asking and do not want the public tax money to support their schools. The majority of these parochial schools are Roman Catholic, who seem to be the ones who are asking for this support for their church schools. You cannot separate bus transportation costs as health, welfare and safety—they are part of the total costs of operation of a privately owned school.

This bus issue is the opening wedge to get public support for church schools. Next will come textbooks, buildings, etc., until full support of sectarian schools is acquired, which is against my constitutional rights.

Richard G. Sprang
Program Chairman Columbus Chapter
Protestants and Other Americans United for the Separation of Church and State.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Sprang's contention that Attorney General William Saxbe ruled bus transportation for non-public school children as "unconstitutional" is a misinterpretation of the ruling. A check with the Attorney General's office brought this comment from the chief counsel: "Our ruling was that there was no statutory authority for transportation of non-public school pupils. This has no bearing on the question of constitutionality.")

To the Editor:

I am in full accord with "The Old Sarge's" feelings as published in the editorial page of your Spectator dated Dec. 31.

More people should express themselves as he did regarding the special privileges some people enjoy at the cost of taxpayers.

There Is No Substitute For 'Right' Living

"Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right." Eph. 6:1.

The expression, "For this is right," tells us that in the sight of God there is still the right and the wrong. In His holy scriptures God has given us the standard, upholding the right and condemning the wrong. (II Tim. 3:16, 17) Jesus our savior gave up the example of righteousness. God said, "This is my Son; hear him." In fact, the New Testament of our Lord Jesus Christ is the law of right and wrong for us today.

Taylor

Yes, it is right that children obey their parents, but children need parents who seek the right and teach it to their children. How else can they know it is right to honor father and mother? And it is right that we count marriage a sacred tie to be held in honor "Until death do us part." The adulterous home-breaker stands condemned before God. (Heb. 13:4)

The way of salvation, provided by the Lord Jesus and proclaimed by his apostles as they were miraculously guided by the Holy Spirit, is the right way. On Pentecost day, when the message of the death, resurrection, and glorification of Jesus was proclaimed, honest souls were convinced by the message they heard.

Then the question came, "What shall we do?" The answer from the Holy Spirit rang out "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." About 3000 gladly obeyed. (Acts 2:36-41) It is right for preachers now to give the same answer, and wrong not to do so. It is right for people to gladly obey, and wrong not to do so.

God pleads with us to always do the right thing. Dedication to that which is right is the only road to true happiness and well-being. There is no substitute for right living. Satan is the enemy of everything that is right and good. Though his widespread influence leads many to glorify crime and ridicule virtue and purity, they are wrong, and it is still right to live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world. (Titus 2:11, 12) Punishment eternal is in store for those who persist in doing wrong. (Matt. 25:46)

Horace E. Taylor, evangelist
Sullivant Avenue Church of Christ

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

'DEAR MR. CONGRESSMAN . . .'

"The ancient kings did not write down their systems of punishment . . . But since all crimes cannot be prevented, they set up the barriers of righteousness . . . treated them (the people) with just usage . . . guarded them with good faith . . . A state has most laws when it is about to perish."

Here is a bit of Chinese Confucian wisdom written more than 2,500 years ago. Nearly two centuries ago our Thomas Jefferson meant virtually the same thing, especially about the numbers of laws, when he said the least government is the best government. Abraham Lincoln said the government should do for the people only those things that they could not do or could not do as well.

Big government, especially on the central or national level, is a salient feature of political life in this century all over the world, in both democratic and authoritarian states. And, for better or worse, it continues to grow.

So what do we do about it? About the only thing we can do is make our public servants, especially the legislators, know how we feel. How long has it been since you last wrote to your congressman?

Of course the cost of government goes up with its size, sometimes even proportionately faster. And who pays? Let's not be too naive. If you work five days a week it takes until about Tuesday noon to make enough to pay your taxes. That includes all taxes, open and hidden.

We wonder what would happen if a candidate should pledge to repeal laws, not to make them.

It says here . . .

Cost and size in government go together like ham and eggs, but are not as good to take.

After all the sound and fury it will be decided that clean-as-a-hound's-tooth Bobby Baker wasn't doin' nuttin', but just hangin' 'round the house.

"Currently, at the moment, the temperature is presently 32 degrees" — radio reporter. To find what the temperature is "at now" am I supposed to call the weather bureau?

The old-fashioned man who raised his son to be a banker at $1,200 a year, now has a son who is raising his son to be a state legislator at $8,000 a year.

"The weather will be 'salubrious' for the inauguration," is the prediction. But it'll very likely be a bit muggy the morning after the four inaugural balls, when D.C. will be declared a disaster area.

"I envision nothing ahead but disaster for our children," moans an envisioner. Just so mine don't have to live in a town where there's a statue of Hubert Humphrey on a horse in the public square.

Legislative action was highghted by a "party line" passge (4-3) of an ordinance to ransfer the tax commissionr's office from the treasurr's office to the auditor's ofice. It is expected that Holzause will veto the measure, nd that Republican members f council will sustain the eto. A related ordinance, to lace employes of the tax ofice under classified civil servce, was given unanimous approval. Holzhause is expected o sign the measure.

Council also gave a 7-0 approval vote to the long-debated Fairway Oaks housing deelopment proposed by Todd ibbals. The final ordinance ncluded an attached declaraion of restrictions relating o lot sizes, type of structures, umber of two-family houses nd other building and use mitations.

The appropriations budget or 1965 also gained a 7-0 ouncil vote.

Reportedly, he is in trouble with the Negro community for failure to accept an "invitation" last August to introduce a "Fair Housing" bill. He did seek the help of City Attorney Young in developing an ordinance. He has since recommended that the original backers now work through the city's newly appointed community relations director.

Alston was roundly criticized when Republican council members pulled a "quick-close" of a council session to prevent Utilities Director William H. Brooks from answering charges released to a newspaper by Fornof. But Alston apparently was not aware of the maneuver until the meeting was adjourned.

There is little doubt that Alston will pick up some votes through lack of a Negro candidate among Democrat council potentials. He has been one of the quieter members of council, but not the quietest. He has been in some tight spots, but has not made any serious blunders. All in all, he could be the surprise entry when the "Blue Chips" are counted.

Wednesday's The Day It Rains Christmas Trees In Sweden

By MIMI DEATON
(Bexley High Columnist)

It may rain cats and dogs in some places, but if you're in Sweden Jan. 6, 13 days after Christmas, watch it! It rains Christmas trees!

So says Olle Muhrbeck, American Field Service student from Sweden, now attending Bexley High School.

This is the date set aside for city dwellers, most of whom live in apartments, to wave good-bye to this year's tree as it is pitched from a window and plummes earthward to a waiting trash collector.

It is a long-established custom, and Olle vows that it has absolutely no connection with the fact that Sweden greets the New Year in much the same way as in this country.

"Although Christmas in Sweden is not as commercial as it is here, we manage to spread it out over a longer period of time," Olle said.

"We start the morning of Dec. 24 by going to church. After smorgasbord that evening, the father of the family dresses up as Santa Claus (we call him 'Jultomten') knocks on the front door and asks, 'Do any good children live here?'

"Strangely enough, everyone shouts 'YES' and he distributes the presents."

Twin in Cleveland

At home in Sweden, Olle lives in an apartment in Sodertalje with his parents, ten-month-old sister, and twin brother, Nisse, who is now spending the year as a student in Cleveland.

Here, in Bexley, Olle is living at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Silberstein, and has three American "brothers," Bruce, Frank and Jonathan, and a "sister," Roberta. Olle and Bruce are seniors at Bexley High School.

"Children in Sweden start elementary school when they are seven, and attend until they are 16," said Olle. "One out of three students continue in gymnasium (high school) for three years."

The highest grade in gymnasium is "Big A," second highest, "little A," then come AB, BA, BC and C. There is no such thing as "Big D," for BC which is a high flunking mark. If a student gets two or more BC or C's, he must repeat the year.

"This is the first year that Swedish students have had a five-day school week" commented Olle. "Previously we have attended from 8:30 until 5:30 on weekdays and three hours on Saturday morning.

Last year Olle took courses in geography, mathematics, Swedish, English, German, French, physics, European and Swedish history, biology, drawing, chemistry, and physical education. He hopes to become a surgeon or an aeronautical or atomic engineer.

No Extras in School

In Sweden, there aren't any extra curricular activities. Students usually "go home and do homework for two or three hours. Everyone tries to spend as little time in school as possible."

There are school dances every Saturday, but the girls and boys go separately and meet at the dances. Teens twist, but "mostly they have regular dances."

Sweden's most important sport is soccer, although ice hockey, tennis and basketball are very popular.

Olle likes to skin-dive, high-jump, ice skate, ski and to play basketball, football and tennis. He also plays the piano and enjoys popular music, rock and roll, and some classical music.

He is interested in photography and has his own darkroom.

At the age of 15, Swedish students are allowed to drive small motorbikes, usually with a 20 mph speed limitation. When they are 18 they apply for a regular driver's license. However, the standard modes of transportation are walking and bicycling.

Traveling is another of Olle's hobbies. He has been to France, Norway, Denmark, East and West Germany, Belgium, Switzerland and Italy.

"Once, Nisse and I had been to Paris for a week and were a little short of money going home. On the ferry between Sweden and Denmark, we were very hungry, but we had only $2 left. So I went to the smorgasbord and ate. Then I came out and gave Nisse my coat and he went around the table, ate, and paid the check. Sometimes it helps to be twins."

TEENAGE BOYS throughout the world share many of the same interests, the same taste in music and enjoyment of sports. Olle Muhrbeck, American Field Service student from Sweden, seated, finds a kindred spirit in his American "brother" Bruce Silberstein. Olle is spending his senior high school year in Bexley, studying with Bruce at Bexley High, and living in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Silberstein, 137 S. Merkle.

REUNION COMMITTEE, planning the annual Shepard youth event were, from left, standing, Steve McDowell, Terry Powell, Dan Balthaser and Carter Brown, and, seated, Carol Hoehn, Veneda Brown, chairman; Joyce Brown, Marsha Price and Lynn Balthaser.

of each class by one pupil is a one million dollar proposition. The overriding problem of enrollment growth, plus personnel salary structures and the need for expanding of special programs would seem to indicate a minimal tax increase need of about four mills.

Refinement of past experience and future projections may alter the final requested millage one percent either way.

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED

Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.

A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, without wires or cords, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

Rams Visit Jackets; E-M 5 Hosts Braves

All area quintets come out of partial holiday hibernation this weekend as a full slate of games dot the local high school cage slate.

Eastmoor, sharing the City League lead with West and Linden at 4-0, absorbed its initial loss of the current campaign at Akron North where the hosts walked off with a narrow 69-64 nod, the Warriors' first loss in seven starts.

STEVE HOWELL'S 11-point third period and 22-marker production went for naught as the winners outscored the Weyant-av five 21-12 in the final quarter to pull out the win. Jerry Grove's 12, Gary Cochran's 11, Ron Bollie's 10 and nine more by Doug Cromer were lost in the shuffle.

Tomorrow night, Bill Courtney's club entertains winless Whetstone (0-9) led by Jud Boley (19 ppg. in the City) and Dick Rahn (18.0).

Gene Millard saw hi Bexley Lions lunge past arch-rival Whitehall last week, 64-59, after each club ended the third period in a 43-all deadlock. Ten-point productions by Dave Frasch, Robin Wells and Dave Johnston accented captain Bill Salt's 15. The Rams' best came from Mark Blackstone (17) and Jim Dildine (11).

PHIL ALLEN'S group journeys to Mt. Vernon (4-3) tomorrow night for a go at the Knox Countians, led by Jim Byrd (15.2 ppg.), Greg Kundrat (13.0) and Randy Clements (11.0). A win would move the Rams (4-4) nearer third place in the helter-skelter CBL race, headed up by Urbana's 5-0 ticket.

Bexley, now 3-5 overall, hosts third-place Worthington (5-3) on Friday and visits cellar-dweller Delaware (2-5) on Saturday night. Rick and Phil Reed, averaging 12 and 10 respectively in the CBL, will be the Pacers to stop.

Geary Bradley, due for a Saturday night TV appearance on Coach's Corner, saw his Hartley Hawks drop their second verdict in eight starts last week as City League upstart North grabbed a 68-67 edge midway in the final period and an 82-70 win.

HARD-WORKING Tom Schlager accounted for 26, Doug Parker 21 and Frank Tafoya 11, but a 52-point barrage by Bob Kanuth and Jack Clifford of North was the biggest factor in the end.

The Hawks plunge deeper into Central Catholic warfare this Friday at Newark Catholic (3-3) where ace Jim Cooper (16.6) and company await the league-leaders.

Little Bucks Florida Kings; Schedule TV Show Jan. 16

The Little Buckeyes, scoring all their points in the final six minutes of play, rolled from behind to down the Key West Conchs, 13-6, last week in the Florida city's Holiday Bowl.

Despite holding their opposition to a minus one yard net gain in the first half, the Little Bucks went to the locker room at halftime on the short end of a 6-0 count — the result of a 40-yard TD pass in the final minute of the first half.

The local team then drove to the six but time ran out in the half.

The Little Bucks, tight and plagued with poor timing throughout the first half, got the spark they needed when anced scoring of four Tigers, won its fifth straight at the expense of Canton Lincoln, 63-59, as five periods of action were needed.

SENIOR GUARD Galen Bias hit on a driving layup and John Lewis potted a jumper to ice the nod for the Tigers (6-1). Lewis, besides doing a fine defensive job on Canton ace Rick Haverstock (four points), scored 18, followed by strong-boy Gil Mathew's 20, Luther Curry's 11 and 10 by Bias.

Coach Bob Hart, fresh from a TV appearance with assistant Paul Pennell, watched Aquinas (1-6) stampede Lorain St. Mary, 104-41, last Saturday, and the Terriers looked strong for tomorrow night's contest on the Aquinas rectangle.

Academy (4-3) divided two contests in the St. Mary Holiday Tourney, winning over West Jefferson, 62-44, for third place and bowing to the Rams, 49-41, in the opener.

THE OPENING loss resulted when St. Mary outscored the Vikings 17-10 in the last period to offset Terry Larrimer's 12 markers and George Fulford's 11.

The W-J win saw the Vikings mesh 25 of 68 shots (36 per cent) headed by the twin-figuring of Pete Bigelow (22), Fulford's 14, Dan Fouche's 12 and 11 by Larrimer.

The Nelson-rd club journeys to Canal Winchester (6-2) on Saturday night for an FCL encounter.

Walnut Ridge, now 0-8 following a dual setback last weekend, faces host Marion-Franklin (4-4) Friday and entertains Reynoldsburg (3-5) Saturday night.

THE SCOTS were snowed under by Portsmouth, 98-51, last Thursday as sparkling performances by Pat Beveridge (19) and burly Dennis Ecklon (11) were in vain. Salem, a two-pointer loser to East, escaped with a 59-58 win the last seconds of play, nullifying a yeoman effort by Beveridge who netted 24 counters, 14 more than junior Bob Wetzel.

Bucks—

John Ferrante rambled 73 yards to paydirt with time running out in the last period.

Alan Kletecka added the extra point to give the Little Bucks a 7-6 margin. With four minutes left, the localites scored again on Kletecka's five-yarder, set up by Kenny Levin's 52-yard burst.

The Little Bucks drove again in the final minutes of play with the ball on Key West's five when time ran out.

In the game, played before some 2800 fans, the locals outgained their opponents, 290-32.

Outstanding players for the Little Buckeyes were Ferrante, Kletecka, Levin and Billy Vest, who made a successful switch from quarterback to guard.

The Florida champs will be featured on a half-hour telecast on WLW-C (Channel 4), Saturday, Jan. 16, following the OSU [illegible].

Introduction of the players and films of the trip will highlight the [illegible].

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

How To Get Food Budgets Back In Line—

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Grapefruit, oranges, apples, bananas.

Vegetables — Carrots, broccoli, salad greens, dry onions, cabbage.

Meat and Poultry — Fryers, pork loins, picnics and hams, beef "specials."

January is the month when most of us struggle with food budgets that got out of line at Christmas time.

One way of catching up is to consider the more thrifty cuts of meat. There are numerous economy cuts that have the same good nutrition and flavor as the more expensive cuts.

Mrs. Franks

In beef, there are the chucks that can be cut several different ways for pot-roasting — or used as chuck steaks. Chuck roast is a favorite item for weekend "specials." You'll find it advertised at your grocery store once about every three weeks — and at about one-third less than regular price. Brisket, stew meat, short ribs (if lean) and ground beef are other economical cuts.

In pork, you'll find sausage meat, smoked picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, and often cuts from the loin are possible on budget menus. Wieners and franks are always featured in January and they combine so well with kraut or fresh green cabbage.

Only a can opener and a little imagination are needed to turn many of the canned meats into delectable dishes. And the economy of frozen fish is often overlooked.

You can depend on chicken, for the U.S. Department of Agriculture has put fryers on the list of plentiful foods for January. Broiler prices in the first half of 1965 are expected to average one cent a pound under January-June, 1964, when prices were low.

Red tart cherries won't belong to February this year, so plentiful is the supply. You can expect both frozen and canned cherries to be featured often. Canned figs and dried prunes are also on the plentiful list this month. There are more canned figs on hand than in any of the nine seasons for which figures are available; dried prune production is the largest in years.

The fresh vegetable picture is difficult to anticipate for any long period of time, but we have started the year with an adequate supply. New red potatoes from Florida will give menus a lift when they appear later in the month. Supplies of most processed vegetables are good, though somewhat less than for 1964.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Ouch . . .

This sportsman, like most males across this land, is just now recovering from a weariness that set in sometime during the p.m. hours of Jan. 1.

We, like thousands of other bleary-eyed fans, tried to visually soak up football's swan song — the bowl game parade.

But the weariness didn't come just from watching the TV set all day. Like most other males, we had to run interference with the opposite sex.

With apologies to the author, we submit the following account of New Year's Day, 1965:

'Twas the day after New Year's and all through the nest
Not a gridder was stirring, not even a vet.
The rosters were dumped in the waste can in order
Awaiting my wife — that sweet little porter.
The finals were posted; the collegians blown dead
So visions of pro bowl danced through my head.
But she, in disgust, and I, slightly weary
Could hardly forget through eyes somewhat bleary:
That day on the tube there arose such a chatter
She turned every channel but they wouldn't scatter
She sprang from her chair and searched high and wide
Looking for solace inside TV Guide
Then what to her wandering eyes did appear
But a full day of bowl games to kick off the year!
Myself — 'tooted' out and stuffed full of dressing
Knew in a moment it must be a blessing
So I settled back as onward they came
Announcers and sponsors called them by name:
On Sugar, on Orange, on 'Bama and Longhorn
On Cotton, on Rose, on Beavers till morn'
And then with a crash I heard in the kitchen
My evening meal on the end of a pitchin'
With Bromo in hand, I turned back around
When into the den she came with a bound
She was red-faced and burning from her head to her toes
And the dish that she threw just missed my nose
Her meek little voice seemed to be yelling
But with volume turned loud, 'twas no way of telling
I spoke not a word but she went straight to her work
Took hold of the plug and gave it a jerk.
And laying a fist right under my nose
She ended the show, three-quarters through Rose
I turned to the dog and let out a whistle
We shot to the door, like two guided missiles
But I heard her exclaim as we ran out of sight
"If you're goin' to Freds', you can just spend the night."

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Outlook . . .

With a full new calendar facing us, we can firmly state —1965 will be a banner, record-breaking year in the outdoors, seeing more Ohioans enjoying more hours under Buckeye skies than ever before.

Ken McCreary

Boating is one of our outdoor recreations expecting a bigger - than - ever - before '65. The Outboard Boating Club of America predicts that boating will continu its "unspectacular but solid, steady growth in 1965."

During this past year, some 38.5 million Americans enjoyed themselves afloat in 7.7 million watercraft. Of these boats, 550,000 were inboards, 4,425,000 were outboard-powered, 2,200,000 were rowboats, dingies, prams and the like.

Another 525-thousand were sailboats. And if you think boating isn't one of the All-American pastimes—two billion, 605 million dollars was spent in 1964 for boats, motors, trailers, fuel, assessories and other associated items!

Ohio rates sixth in the number of outboard motors in use with 333 thousand.

Another "seven-league-sized" advancement which we can crystal-ball for this year is the development of new outdoor recreation facilities, both immediate and long-range.

U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall recently outlined the requirements for states to qualify for funds under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act, which became law Jan. 1.

Ohio's Natural Resources director, Fred Moor, has already prepared extensive plans to gain as much federal money as possible for bolstering Ohio plans.

The federal boys are also hoping that county and local governments will climb on the bandwagon, but it appears that Franklin County hasn't made any concrete plans so far.

This seems a shame, since grants of up to 50% are available "for county acquisition and development projects."

Another apparent "step-in-the rightdirection" to watch for in the near future of 1965 —a bill to be submitted to the new legislature by Representative Chalmers P. Wylie of Columbus.

The proposal, according to the lawmakers, would "stimulate the construction of industrial water pollution control facilities by exempting them from state and local taxation."

An over-riding majority of water pollution cases which result in destruction of fish and aquatic life are caused by industrial plants.

Also expected to be considered by the General Assembly is a bill which would slap heavy fines on the deer poachers who have been slaughtering the animals in some parts of the state. Wildlife Boss Dale Whitesell wants a $100 to $500 fine, with the first C-note un-suspendable.

Last week, in making our "Under Buckeye Skies Awards of the Year" we missed one. The "Devoted Dog-Owner" tribute must go to 74-year-old William Blair of Cincinnati.

Blair has gone to court, seeking $5100 damages for being deprived of his hunting dog companion for over a year. Seems a neighbor borrowed Blair's beagle hound "Boy" last year and won't bring him back, despite repeated demands.

So, the elderly hunter is asking $100 for the value of the pooch, and $5000 punitive damages for being without the companionship of "Boy."

In our book, Mr. Blair had a "dog-gone" good case!

COFFEE BREAK

My Girls Speak Softly But Carry Big Purses

By ADELINE DALEY

Every time my two teenage daughters go shopping for clothes for themselves, they can never, but never, find anything under the price ceiling I set for them.

It isn't that they don't "try." Why, according to them, each shopping expedition is conducted with the thoroughness of a police dragnet. But they run into such poor luck that all of the coats which were on sale are sold by the time they arrive — five minutes after the store doors have opened.

Another favorite excuse of Kathy is that the dress shops just don't carry her size. In the less expensive clothes, that is. Apparently, none of them stock size ten, which I always thought was a typical size for a 17-year-old girl.

Elaine uses the additional explanation that she purchased an article not included in the budget "with her own money." Somehow it always appears on our statement, but then she will righteously maintain that since she paid for a pair of shoes four years ago, she is entitled to a pair of new stretch ski pants.

But how come when I ask these same girls to purchase an item of clothing apparel for me, suddenly it's "Bargain Day" everywhere? The racks are loaded with more cut-rate items than can be found in an Army surplus store. And that's what my closet is going to resemble if I keep sending them out to buy my clothes.

"Mom, you'll never guess what this cost," they will exclaim, brandishing a much marked-down rayon house coat for me to admire. I hate to disillusion them but if they paid a penny more than $1.98 they were robbed.

I suppose I'm a spoilsport, too, in not being especially thrilled by the aprons which were on sale and which they bought "on impulse."

Admittedly, the black cotton twill skirt, another of their purchases for me, is very durable and, indeed, is a bargain because it'll never wear out. Not with all that copper riveting. But it has all the chic of a uniform worn in a women's prison.

I'm afraid, too, that I'm going to have to purchase my own stockings from now on. Too many people have noticed my 49-cent nylons and then inquired if my legs were giving out because they thought I was wearing surgical hosiery.

My only hope is to send my kids and husband out shopping together. A compromise might be reached somewhere between the over-priced alligator purse my husband would likely be talked into buying for me, and the type the kids would select—one that would disintegrate at the first sign of inclement weather.

Egg quality is influenced largely by the amount of carbon dioxide lost from the egg. This loss can be retarded by keeping eggs cool, oiling the shells, or overlapping the carton with a plastic material.

Plain City Amish Lead Busy, Dedicated Lives

Influences Of Changing World Bear Heavily On 'The Plain Folk'

THE OLD METHOD OF SHOCKING — These hand stacked bundles of wheat puzzle a farm boy from Southern Madison County as he makes his first visit to an Amish farm in the northern part of the same county. A horse-drawn reaper was employed in this operation with the shocking being accomplished by hand stacking.

Since 1896 a unique feature of Madison County has been the Amish community near Plain City.

The community originally was founded at Gillivan and grew northward throughout Darby and Canaan Townships, spilling over into Union, Franklin and Champaign counties.

The first four families migrated to Gillivan from Holmes County, O., in 1896, and by 1903 the community apparently was well established because a second church was formed that year. The Amish usually establish a new church when total membership reaches 25 to 30 persons. In 1925 a third church was formed, indicating at least 75 families were living in the area at that time. In 1960 there were 284 families.

The original community was entirely Old Order Amish. Today there are three more progressive sects, Beachy Amish, Conservative Amish Mennonite and Mennonite. Each sect except the Mennonites has several congregations.

In 1960 the membership of the Old Order churches totaled 185, the Beachy churches had 144 members, the Conservative churches had 178 and the Mennonite churches counted 692 members.

The Amish and Mennonite churches grew out of the Anabaptist, an offshoot movement of Zwingli's reformation in Switzerland in 1525, during the Protestant Reformation.

Shun All Violence

They differ from other Protestant churches in their rejection of infant baptism, their non-conformity to the culture around them, and their doctrine of non-violence, even in self-defense.

In Europe, the Amish have been entirely absorbed into other churches and no longer exist.

In this country the Mennonites are the most progressive, but they are actually the oldest of the Amish-Mennonite sects. There were several earlier martyrs, but the church is named for Menno Simons, a Dutch Catholic monk, who was converted in 1536. A schism developed in the Mennonite Church in 1693 over the strict avoidance of members who were banned from the church for accepting the practices of the culture around them. The more conservative group was led by Jacob Amman and became known as the Amish.

In Europe the Anabaptists were persecuted wherever they went for several centuries, even by the Zwinglites, giving rise to a solid brotherhood and reinforcing the Christian principle of "help thy neighbor." Many were put to death or imprisoned. They were driven from the cities and practiced farming as the "good life." They were forced to be more efficient than their neighbors because of the economic sanctions imposed against them. Moving from place to place, searching for a haven, and learning the best agricultural practices of many countries as they went, they earned their reputation as excellent farmers.

The first Amish congregation in America was established in Berks County in Pennsylvania in 1736. A large community spilling over into adjacent counties, especially Lancaster county, soon developed. As the Western frontier opened and cheap land became available, some of them migrated to Holmes County, O., and Elkhart, Ind. The community in Holmes County became the largest in the United States, numbering about 6,314 baptized members in 1960, and extending into several neighboring counties.

Thirties Saw Changes

From its founding in 1896 to about 1930, the Plain City community maintained its Amish tradition with little change. Since 1926 however, the three more progressive churches came into existence. The Sharon Mennonite Church was officially organized in 1933, and their way of life differs very little from that of other Protestants.

In the Madison County community the Old Order Amish wear beards, plain colored clothing, and use horses and buggies except for farm work. They have gas ranges and refrigerators, but usually no electricity. German or Pennsylvania Dutch is used for church services and often spoken in the home. They do not build meeting houses but take turns having service at their homes.

The Plain City Beachy Amish, named for a Pennsylvania bishop, withdrew from the Old Order Church in 1938. They have accepted the automobile, telephone and a few electrical appliances, but retain the traditional mode of dress and German language. Beachy cars must be black, and the men still wear beards.

The Plain City Beachy Amish have meeting houses. In other communities they do not.

The Conservative Amish Mennonite Church at Plain City had its origins before the Beachy Church, but was not organized with a resident minister until 1944. The members of this church may drive any color car, including two-tone, have radios and other appliances, but not television. The men are clean shaven and wear ordinary clothes for every day, but never neckties. Dress suits have clerical collars. Women's dresses are usually shirt waist style, but may be any color or pattern. Women do not cut their hair and wear a white cap called "prayer veiling" during all waking hours as a symbol of their obedience to God. Amish tradition accords men the primary responsibility for the administration of church and home and the Conservative church retains this tradition.

Churches Compatible

Relations among all the churches in this county are friendly and most families have several members in each of them. The Old Order here do not enforce the strict ban against the members of the more progressive churches. A son or daughter with a car will do errands for horse and buggy parents, and Old Order Amish do not hesitate to use a neighbor's telephone when the need arises.

From their very beginning in Europe the Amish and Mennonites have had a policy of quickly adopting progressive innovations in farming techniques, while at the same time rejecting any change in their rural German tradition of family life, worship and social relationships.

The advent of the industrial revolution and the subsequent mechanization of farming brought these two practices into sharp conflict.

A minister of one of the more progressive churches points out, "The original goal, a pure Christian brotherhood, was nearly lost, and primary emphasis was placed upon the means (the old fashioned German culture.)"

This minister further writes, "The historical experiences of the Amish left a deep imprint of cultural negativism and resistance to change in their way of life. Their religious values were originally based upon a principle of restoration rather than reformation. Since that which was to be restored had to do with ancient religious practices (those of the early Christians which are described in the New Testament) this made its contribution to spirit resistant to change.

"These implicit norms were made explicit by Amman in the last decade of the 17th century in Switzerland. To him the Anabaptists were permitting many 'dangerous' changes to influence their way of life. They therefore had to activate their rules and discipline to establish a 'safe' pattern of culture. The strength of these convictions was demonstrated in their enduring quality."

Explains Adult Baptism

The practice of only baptizing adults is intended to exclude from church membership nominal Christians who have had no real religious experience. Members are baptized and "join church" at the same time. In 1960, 90 percent of the 20 to 30-year-old church members of all four Plain City sects had joined between the ages of 11 and 20. None were younger than 11.

The religious training of children begins at a very early age, and permeates their daily lives. The more conservative sects shield their children from the influences of the outside world as much as possible, and very little is allowed to distract their attention from becoming Amish church members.

The Amish have never been opposed to education as such, and freely cooperated in the rural one-room school. The large consolidated high school, however, is another matter.

MODERN ROAD — AGING BUGGY—The horse and buggy are common enough sights on the back roads that travel through the heart of the Plain City Amish settlement. Even these roads are of modern surface. Dairy trucks, fancy tourists and the less conservative orders compete with Ol' Dobbin. Area residents take the buggies in stride but the black horse-drawn vehicles still catch highway travelers by surprise. The accident rate is low — but so is the horse and buggy traffic on the main roads.

A former teacher in the Plain City schools recalls being required by law to teach a home economics class, composed entirely of Amish girls, interior decoration.

It is concluded by many conservative observers that the Old Order church members are probably right in thinking that the broadened experience of a large high school would lead their young people away from the Amish faith.

Operate Own School

On Dec. 7, 1947, the Amish in the Plain City School district opened their own parochial school, called the Christian Day School.

In 1963 between 125 and 130 children were enrolled in 10 grades. There are two teachers and the principal, who also teaches some classes. The children ride to school on a bus and carry their lunches from home. About 25 percent of the students go on to graduate from public high school.

Included in the curriculum are elementary English, reading, arithmetic, spelling, phonics, Bible courses, health, geography, history, high school English, business math, bookkeeping, algebra, general science, biology, civics, German, history of the Mennonites, geography of the Bible, Bible study and agriculture. The texts are the same as those used in public schools, except of course, for Bible study.

There are also two one-room schools of eight grades each, the Oak Grove and Darby View schools, under the direction of the Plain View Christian Day School principal. The purpose of all these schools is to give the children religious instruction as well as the usual public school curriculum.

As a group, the Amish have always voted in favor of school taxes, even though this means they must support their own schools by private subscription and pay property taxes on many acres of valuable farm land for public schools they may never use.

The Old Order Amish have a separate educational venture called the Vocational school. In this school children are trained at home, under the direction of their parents, keep a diary of their study, and meet with a teacher-supervisor for three hours a week.

An essay filed with the county superintendent of schools sets forth the purposes of this school in detail. Boys are to be reared to farm or assume related occupations, and girls to be housewives in the Amish tradition of the simple life lived close to nature with time to meditate on spiritual values. One of these spiritual values specifically pointed out is the subjection of material values to spiritual values. "Guard against the acquisition of things as the primary goal" in life.

Among the things to be taught are advanced agriculture, arithmetic, spelling, penmanship, German, religion and ethics, sanitation of home and farm, biology (anatomy, breeding, growth, butchering, feeding, types and breeds of animals), preparation of soil, planting times, seeds and plants, fertilization, conservation, control of insects and weeds, storage and canning, feeding and training animals, safety, livestock judging, market reports, financial records, manual training, home economics (cooking, nutrition) and good character (kind, considerate, helpful to all, self reliant, honest, truthful and just).

Begins Work at 16

When a youngster has successfully completed this course, he receives a certificate from the teacher-supervisor. At the age of 16 he or she is then eligible to receive a working permit from the county superintendent.

Many members of the Amish churches attend public school. Few of the present adult members of the Plain City churches have high school diplomas, though the younger members have more years of formal education than their elders. The community as a whole lags behind the rest of the rural population in years of formal training. Several persons from the community have achieved college degrees, however. Members of the Mennonite Church attend public school and have the most years of formal education.

Trends Studied

A sociological study of the Plain City community conducted as the subject for a master's thesis at Ohio State University in 1960 shows three trends among the members of all four churches: a definite shift in membership away from the Old Order, the adoption of some practices from the larger culture (even by the Old Order) and the same influences affecting the Amish and Mennonites as influence the rest of the rural Protestant population.

The study was conducted by interviewing two groups of family heads. One group was 50 to 60 years old and would have been 20 to 30 years old when the community was still almost entirely Old Order Amish. The other group was 20 to 30 years old when the study was made. Their responses were then compared statistically.

Those changes which were the same for the Amish as for the larger community included younger marriages, more years of formal education, less baking, sewing and butchering at home, larger farms, more farm machinery, more credit buying and more employment for wives. There is also some indication that families are becoming smaller, especially among the younger generation who more often have salaried jobs than farm, but this trend is much more pronounced in the rest of the population.

The most significant difference between the two groups interviewed, was their church affiliation. The percentages were, for the older group, 84, Old Order Amish; none, Beachy or Conservative; and, 16, Mennonite. The younger group's percentages were: 19 Old Order, 17 Beachy, 38 Conservative, and 26 Mennonite or other. Every person who had changed membership, or whose membership was different from his parents, had changed to a more progressive church.

Use German Less

The study also showed that the use of the German language is less frequent among the more progressive churches. The Old Order use English primarily for dealing with the outside world and speak German more than half the time. German is used for all Old Order and Beachy church services. English words have crept into the dialect, such as "chumpa" for jumping, "schpigot" for spigot, and "blendi" for plenty. Some of the Mennonites in the study used German very little.

All of the Old Order Amish were originally farmers, but the occupations of the younger generation in this study included besides farming, carpentry and factory work most often, and mechanics, bulldozer operation, service and installation men, X-ray technician, roofer, and painter and interior decorator.

Have 32 Surnames

Among the Plain City community's 284 families there are only 32 surnames. These are Beachy, Bontrager, Christner, Detweiler, Farmwald, Frey, Garvey, Gingerich, Graber, Headings, Helmuth, Hershberger, Hostetler, Kauffman, Kramer, Kuhns, Kurtz, Lapp, Miller, Mast, Mullet, Peachey, Plank, Schlabach (sometimes Slabaugh), Schrock, Sommers, Stutzman, Swartzentruber, Troyer, Whitmer, Yoder and Yutzy.

Perhaps the most surprising thing about the Amish is how much like the rest of us they are. Anyone with a rural Protestant background can feel very much at home among them.

Stopping along the roads through the Plain City area to ask directions, borrow a telephone, obtain permission to picnic in a shady grove, buy eggs, home baked bread, hand woven rugs or hand made quilts, an outsider is met with kindness and friendliness. Perhaps even more so than in a non-Amish area.

Generalities about the Amish are dangerous, as with any group, but they do seem to be good at hand-skills like carpentering and weaving. Their farmsteads are usually neater. The weeds are cut, the equipment is stored out of sight and the yards and gardens are neat as pins.

Amish housewives probably deserve their good reputation, but it is possible to catch them on a busy morning when the children have made a mess, just as with other people. Some of the Amish are quite rich, but some of them are also quite poor and some fall in between.

It is difficult to judge ages among the adults of the three more conservative sects. Surprisingly, it is harder among the women than the men. Men's features are camouflaged somewhat by their beards, but close up one can easily distinguish between generations at least.

Among the women, it is even difficult to tell a grandmother from her daughter. This is partly due to the uniformity of their dress, but clothes do not account for the fresh complexions, smooth skins and bright eyes of the older women.

Perhaps this is the most eloquent testimony that could be given in favor of the old-fashioned, highly moral life the Amish lead.

Story and Pictures
By BARBARA TOPE

THE FRIENDLY PEOPLE—The Amish are not only "plain" and resourceful, they are also willing hosts to surprise visitors. Here some plain and fancy children join in the usual childhood games and adventures with the same rapid ease all children have in getting acquainted. The Amish decline to permit having their pictures taken. A fast lens and no big fuss about posing resulted in this family portrait.

AMISH VEHICLES PARK IN BACK ALLEY — A special parking lot has been set aside for the horse-drawn buggies of the Amish people by merchants in Plain City. The buggies are equipped with battery-powered lights but the horse provides the rest. Narrow streets, increased parking problems and the amount of space required for one horse and buggy prohibit on-street parking in this northern Madison County village.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Several days after a cocktail party, Spook, our Poodle, became ill and refused to eat. I had to take her into the hospital and leave her and on the second day the docter decided to do an exploratory operation.

We were astounded when he called to say he had removed a toothpick that had formed an abscess. Spook is fine now but I wanted to write and tell all your good readers to watch out for toothpicks because they can be so dangerous.

—C.B.

COMMENT: Your point is well-taken. Toothpicks, whether partly encased in hors d'oeuvres or a soaked oddity, are very dangerous when swallowed. The toothpick is especially dangerous because an exploratory abdominal operation is the only way to find one in the victim. It is not detectable by X-ray.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Two weeks ago we moved into a new home near a wooded section. In that two weeks our Poodle, Snaps, has collected dozens of ticks. Is there some way we can protect her from getting them? —R.J.

DEAR R.J.: To keep the ticks from "latching on" in the first place, an effective repellent is your best bet. Unfortunately, effective tick repellents are as rare as ticks may be numerous. The veterinarian probably has a powder for this purpose, though to be effective it must be worked down to the skin and must be repeated every two or three days.

The doctor may also recommend a dipping that will kill any current tick crop, and repel others for 10 days or longer. In wet weather, any repellent may be washed out of the dog's coat very quickly.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have always liked cats and would like to get a Siamese at this time. My sister, living with me, doesn't mind a cat but "can't stand the yowling" of a Siamese. She doesn't want a Siamese in the house unless its vocal chords are cut first. I have never heard of this operation in a cat. Can it be done and is it successful?

—I.C.

DEAR I.C.: Devocalization can be performed on a Siamese. This surgery will render the cat voiceless, or at least the volume will be turned down considerably. But then, why get a Siamese in the first place? It really isn't fair to put the poor cat through all this. Instead, if you really want a cat, simply pick any other breed. Few are as loquacious as the Siamese. None is as vociferous.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have an aviary of mixed birds. Most are imported species. How hot do I have to keep this selection during the winter? I want to be sure to keep it warm enough so that even the tropical birds can't possibly chill. Still I don't want to waste heat either.—J.R.

DEAR J.R.: Assuming the winter quarters are draft free, even the most delicate of your birds should be able to handle temperatures down to 55 degrees. Even 50 should do no harm if they are reasonably well acclimated. A heat lamp or two provides the birds with a choice; those who need extra heat can perch within the radiant area.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We'd like to raise a colt from our part Arabian mare, Nancy. Is there any best time of year to breed her? She never has been.—O.L.

DEAR O. L.: In most parts of the country, the mare's heat cycles tend to be quite irregular until well into spring. As the days lengthen out and become warmer and rich green grass becomes plentiful, the heat cycles should become more nearly normal. Nancy's chances of conception are much better at this time than they would be if an attempt were made to breed her too early.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm writing about our boa constrictor, Rawhide. He's quite a big boy now, about five feet long last time we measured. He is very nervous around strangers. Except that he is quite relaxed around children. Is this a good sign?—A.M.

Dear A.M.: Yes. If Rawhide is going to be around children, he should, by all means, be relaxed. In fact, you should always be on hand to make sure he is.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of this newspaper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

WILL SPEAK

CHIEF Engineer George H. Eagle, Ohio Department of Health, will speak Sunday, Jan. 17, at the Eighth Annual National Swimming Pool Institute convention-exposition to be held at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel in Cleveland Jan. 16-19.

Parochial Schools Receiving Skin Tests

The Tuberculosis Society's tuberculin skin-testing program in the Columbus and Franklin County Parochial Schools began yesterday, Jan. 6. Tests are being offered to all first, seventh and 11th graders.

Total participation in the program is necessary for total protection agains contagious TB. All parents or guardians are urged to sign the request form which the child brings home prior to testing day in the school. Without this signed form the child cannot be tested.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in 1893, classified the tomato as a vegetable because of its common use in the main part of a meal.

FARM FORECAST

Today's column is a bit on the "corny side." In fact, I would like to discuss "which hybrids fit your farm.'

There can be an 18 to 20 bushel per acre difference between a hybrid adapted to your farm and one that worked rather well for a neighboring farmer. Insure a good portion of corn profits by a good choice of hybrids for your farm.

If seed salesmen can be charged with one thing, it's being guilty of selling what the customer wants. In many cases, what a farmer wants and what he should buy are miles apart in good planting practice.

Some hybrids just aren't suited to some soil and cropping systems, with rainfall averages much more a factor than previously believed.

Another common fault is planting a hybrid later-maturing variety than is adapted for a respective area. Without proper drying facilities this can be disastrous.

I would like to list several good guides to buying best hybrids as set forth by experts:

(1) Look for the tolerance to the major corn yield robbers—corn borers, leaf blight, stalk rot.

(2) Choose one that is bred to retain ears on stalks, that will take hot summer breezes.

(3) Select a hybrid with a maturity date that will let grain develop fully and dry on the stalk before frost and cold weather hit.

(4) Select one which will stand maximum planting rates in your fields without lodging and without producing smaller or fewer ears.

(5) Spread your harvest and risk by planting hybrids of three different maturities.

If you're well satisfied with your present hybrids, and are uneasy about switching large acreages to an "improved one," try just a few acres of a new variety next spring.

Prove the superiority of the new hybrid investment and then the following year . . . cash in.

Any new range bakes.

So why is electric baking preferred 2 to 1?

Good cooks know accurate control of pure electric heat means better baking!

1,011 women in The Electric Company service area recently compared ranges, feature for feature, in an independent study. One thing more of these homemakers prefer is being able to bake better electrically.

It's easy to see why!

Every good cook knows that dependable, accurate heat is vital to best baking results.

Flameless electric baking is naturally accurate because an electric oven is a precise, fine-tuned instrument. Set the dial for 350° and you're sure it will be 350° inside the oven as long as it's "on."

An electric oven is insulated on all six sides, so little of the heat escapes. (That means a cooler kitchen, too!)

It's the same with surface cooking. You've got perfect control of every cooking temperature merely by flicking a switch.

But better baking and surface cooking are only two of the features more and more women prefer about modern flameless electric ranges.

Electric ranges preferred 10 to 1 for keeping kitchens cleaner!

Women who recently purchased a flameless electric range are positively enthusiastic about the way their kitchens stay cleaner and cooler.

Most of them were in a position to compare — and said so! They've found there's less all-out kitchen cleaning to do, because walls, cabinets and curtains stay fresh-looking longer.

Electric ranges preferred 3 to 1 for cleaning ease!

Recent purchasers also expressed decided preferences for the easy way both electric ranges and ovens clean up, and other more modern features.

It doesn't take long to discover how much time and work electric ranges save all around. You see, electric heat is pure, radiant heat, exactly like a light bulb. And just as clean. Pots and pans stay "bright-as-new." You clean the surface unit of an electric range by turning it "on." Drips and spills burn away quickly. And an electric oven, glass-smooth inside, wipes clean in a jiffy. Some new models even clean themselves!

No wonder more women mention how clean electric cooking is.

More and more families plan to buy flameless electric ranges!

That's an indication why an increasing number of women said they plan to replace their present cooking appliance sometime this year with a flameless electric range.

We even found out from a group of women planning to buy new houses that 7 out of 10 preferred electric for their new range — and some of them wouldn't buy the house if it wasn't.

Today's younger homemakers revealed a definite preference for electric, too. The majority of recent range buyers were under 40, and they chose electric 3 times out of 5.

Women who cook electrically are convinced it's best!

In fact, more than 8 out of every 10 women who own an electric range said they wouldn't have any other kind. Right in their own family kitchens, they've proved flameless electric cooking is as easy, as fast and effortless as cooking can ever be!

Only owners of electric ranges are that convinced!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday you will want a new range for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

By all means, visit your appliance dealer's showroom. That's the best place to slam doors, turn knobs, feel finishes. Think about your choice of colors, too, and compare prices.

But remember that the important differences of flameless electric ranges don't show up until you get one home. And those are the benefits that count.

They're the features perferred by more and more women like yourself.

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric.

You'll prefer electric, too.

Even more when you get it home.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

It Won't Always Be Like This!

Some profound words were recently spoken by Dick Midden, secretary of the recently active Scioto Conservancy District. He said "Interest in flood control is at a peak during a flood and that interest goes down as the water recedes."

How true!

But one of these days we may have our enthusiasm for flood control jacked up again.

There is always that almost certain story . . . "And the rains came."

Local committees are at work on plans for keeping the matter of flood control and water supply a real live issue. But this is no job for just a committee. It is everybody's job and one that everyone in Central Ohio should be speaking out for.

Bexley Enacts Fence-Control Ordinance

HIGHLANDERS TO PRESENT CONCERT

ANNUAL WINTER CONCERT of the instrumental music department of Walnut Ridge High School, will be presented Sunday, Jan. 17, 2:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Walnut Ridge's Senior Concert Band and Senior Orchestra will be featured, with Alan S. Berry conducting. Participants include, from left, Elson Lefever, Dave Amstutz, Jim Shipman and Kevin Oberle. Tickets, at 75 cents for adults, will be sold at the door. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Bexley Council, concerned for months about high fences being built in the city that were not in character with Bexley and damaged the appearance of a neighborhood, passed legislation Tuesday night controlling the problem.

Unanimously approved as an emergency measure, the ordinance sets limits of height and placement in relation to property lines. Fences already installed will not be affected.

An appropriation measure for 1965 that was $6,805 under last year's operating budget, was also passed with an expression of approval that appropriations were pared from last year's $882,176 to $875,371.

Councilwoman Mrs. Ruth Mann pointed out that "in times when everything seems to cost more, it is remarkable that appropriations could be lowered, and the mayor and his administration should be complimented."

The new fence ordinance, applying to residences in single or two family districts, sets a 42-inch limit on fences constructed along a side lot if it borders a street, unless it is constructed on the side-yard setback.

Fences may be constructed from the front building line to the street, and those between properties or along an alley may not exceed six feet in height.

Restrictions were also placed on fences topped with barbed wire, spikes or points, or those electrically charged.

A representative from Bexley High School Student Council appeared before council with a suggestion to relieve the morning traffic congestion around the schools on Cassingham, caused by parents dropping off students.

His plan, illustrated with a map of the area, was to eliminate parking on the north of Fair-av, from Remington to Cassingham, between 7 and 9 a.m.

The resulting two lanes of westbound traffic would permit a right-turn-only lane along the curb, and move cars quickly.

The safety-conscious council promised to consider the plan, and commended the student group for citizenship.

Holzhause Takes Himself Out Of Three 'Riot' Court Cases

By FRANK RYAN

Whitehall Mayor William H. Holzhause reported on Tuesday that he would disqualify himself from judging three of the six court cases arising from the Jan. 8 melee in front of the Stop Forty Restaurant, 4350 E. Main-st. Holzhause told The Spectator he was withdrawing because he could not hear the cases "without prejudice."

It was also announced on Tuesday by Whitehall Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher that all defendants will be given their choice of court jurisdiction between Whitehall mayor's court and Columbus Municipal Court. The latter has county-wide jurisdiction.

If all defendants choose to have their cases heard in Whitehall, a mayor will be assigned by the Franklin County Common Pleas Court to hear the cases from which Holzhause has withdrawn, Haytcher said.

The late Friday night near-riot stemmed from a traffic accident and fist fight between two men. They were identified by police as James Scholl, 25, Whitehall, and James Griffith, 42, 3750 E. Main-st. Scholl was charged by Whitehall police with misconduct.

The reported fight was said to have begun after a car driven by Griffith struck Scholl and a companion as they were walking from the restaurant and bar. Police reports show that the Griffith car was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Rev. Donald Bowens, 561 Southwood-av. The police report said that Griffith failed to yield the right of way. There was no citation issued.

Whitehall police responded to the initial call with all available men because it was assumed that the incident was the beginning of a rumored "gang fight." Whitehall Detective K. M. Swanson, assigned to the area to watch for the expected fight between "gangs" from the Columbus West Side and East Side areas, signaled that trouble had started.

By pre-arrangement, police personnel and equipment from Columbus, Bexley and the Franklin County Sheriff's Department also converged on the scene when notified of trouble by Whitehall police. Busy Route 40 (Main-st) traffic was tied up for about 45 minutes, and the disturbance drew a crowd estimated by police at between 400 and 500 persons.

A pumper from the Whitehall Fire Department was called in by Whitehall police after the crowd had gathered. The crowd did not respond to police orders to clear the area and police were compelled to order firemen to spray the spectators with water from high pressure hoses to disperse them. Police said that the crowd became unruly and hurled "insults and epithets" at policemen.

Whitehall Police Lt. R. A. Wells and City Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher reported that Whitehall police had been "tipped" that a gang fight was to take place. "We had a rumble that there was going to be some trouble, but this wasn't it," Wells said. Haytcher and Police Chief Ralph K. Walker also said that the incident apparently had no connection with the trouble they were expecting.

Others arrested by Whitehall and charges filed by police include:

Douglas Oliver, 22, 906 S. Yearling-rd, interfering with, resisting and assault on a police officer; Lao Minkos, 25, 159 Woodcliff-dr, misconduct, resisting and assault on an officer; Richard DeVore, 25, 4244 E. Main-st, distrubing the peace and William Oliver, Whitehall, profane language, resisting and escape from custody.

A second warrant against Douglas Oliver was served on him more than 48 hours after the Friday night incident. It charged assault and battery against Whitehall police officer Irvin Reichgott. According to information furnished by Police Chief Walker and City Solicitor Haytcher, they were not notified prior to the serving of the second warrant.

It was apparently filed Sunday in Columbus under state code and will be scheduled in Columbus municipal court. Both Walker and Haytcher said that, as a matter of policy, the city attorney is consulted before determining if such cases are to be filed in mayor's court or in Columbus.

In another apparent deviation from normal policy, there was no attempt made to serve the warrant at Oliver's residence. Three Whitehall policemen served the warrant to Oliver at a Whitehall drive-in restaurant less than 15 minutes after he had left his home.

Douglas Oliver is defendent in one of the three cases from which Mayor Holzhause announced he would withdraw himself as "judge." The other two defendants involved are William Oliver and Scholl.

'Riot' Headgear Now 'Out' With Whitehall Police

"Riot" helmets — once "in" with Whitehall policemen — proved later to be "out" almost before they were put "on."

This information came to light when Police Chief Ralph K. Walker was asked why Whitehall officers were not wearing the safety helmets during the Jan. 8 disturbance in front of the Stop Forty Restaurant on E. Main-st. Walker explained that the policemen complained that the headgear was too heavy to wear at all times.

Chief Walker also said that the helmets would be damaged if carried "loose" in cruisers. Result? They are not being used at all.

Purchase of the helmets (at about $300) was authorized last summer. Anyone in the market for some "just like new" safety headgear?

Youth Injured In Tower Fall

An 18-year-old New Albany youth plunged 130 feet to the ground Sunday as an antenna tower on which he was working toppled from a new building at 1066 Country Club-rd.

John Morrison of 7301 New Albany-rd, was in serious condition in St. Anthony Hospital Tuesday. He suffered a fractured right leg and neck injuries.

Ensley Out Of Hospital

Methodist Bishop F. Gerald Ensley was released from Riverside Methodist Hospital at noon Jan. 10. His condition was described as fair.

He will continue recuperation from his Dec. 5 auto accident at his home, 31 Meadow Park-av, physicians said.

Council Okays Transit Study

Possible Columbus City Charter changes to allow formation of a city transit authority will be considered by a 13-member study committee to be appointed by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, subject to approval of council.

City council unanimously okayed the measure at Monday night's session after discussing it at an afternoon public hearing.

The study committee will be composed of representatives of the city administration and council as well as staff members from the offices of City Attorney John C. Young and City Auditor John H. Price. Its purpose will be to investigate plans by which a transit authority could purchase and operate the Columbus Transit Co.

The CTC owner, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., has notified the city that it will divest itself of the transit company when its current franchise expires in June of 1966. Efforts to secure local, private ownership operation have proved fruitless, according to CTC officials.

Formation of the committee to consider charter changes was recommended by the Citizens Transit Study Committee, representing 32 business and civic organizations througout the Columbus area. The citizens group favors a transit authority operation.

Monday afternoon, Columbus Utilities Director William H. Brooks told council that the study committee goal would be to present a plan for a transit authority with "sufficient autonomy to remain out of politics and sufficient power to operate."

The group will have a tentative Feb. 15 deadline for reporting to council its recommendations for presenting City Charter changes (through council) to Columbus voters. Under questioning from Council President William R. Fornof, Brooks agreed that such a study may not be completed in time to make the May 4 Primary.

Councilman Robert T. Southwick asked Brooks about financing of a potential transit authority and system and was told that a combination of bond financing and federal aid could be used. Brooks said that experience in Cleveland—where a transit authority has existed for almost 20 years — indicates that a publicly-owned transit system can be self-sustaining.

Whitehall Council To Consider New Left-Turn Lanes

An ordinance that would provide left-turn storage lanes at five intersections on E. Main-st and three on Yearling-rd will be introduced at Whitehall Council meeting next Tuesday evening.

The measure will ask for left-turn lanes going east and west on Main-st at Maplewood, Collingwood, Robinwood, Beechwood and Country Club-rd. Intersections on Yearling are both ways at Etna, going south at Langley, and north at Doney.

Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, chairman of the safety committee, said the storage lanes could be painted on the streets and illuminated signs installed.

The ordinance is jointly sponsored by the service and safety committees.

Germany Status Topic Of Next Public Forum

"Currents and Trends in Germany—20 years Later," will be the topic for a special session of the Jewish Center Public Affairs Forum, Thursday, Jan. 21, 8:30 p.m. in the Adult Lounge at the center, 1125 College-av.

The public is invited.

How reliable is Germany as a Western Ally, should the Nazi trials continue, and is Germany the key to Europe, will be the focus of an analysis of German affairs—20 years later.

Gerhart H. Seger, consultant, German Information Center, New York City, will be the speaker.

He worked as a newspaperman in Germany, and as foreign correspondent in most European capitals. In 1933, while a member of the German Reichstag, he was arrested by the Nazis as an old political opponent of Hitler's.

He was imprisoned and sent to the first Nazi concentration camp at Oranienburg for six months, and then escaped into Czechoslovakia. Seger has been back to Germany several times since the war, and is the author of a number of books, including "Diary of a Refugee."

In vitw of the pivotal position which German affairs are assuming today in the world, this discussion program assumes timely importance.

Two other panelists will be featured.

Peace Corps Volunteeers Seek Cap Recruits

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

A couple of the Peace Corps' "quality kind" visited Capital University Monday seeking new recruits with a soft-sell technique likened to an independently wealthy Avon lady.

According to University officials, the pair's visit was arranged by Peace Corps in Washington in efforts to beef up the rapidly growing program.

[illegible] selectivity seems to be the key in Peace Corps recruiting and the sales "pitch" was carried out by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAndrews with a refreshing air of sophistication.

The McAndrews' (he's 25, Suellen is 26) served with the Corps in Liberia, West Africa, were married there and returned to the Washington office to take part in the recruiting phase.

Peace Corps Washington has 10 such couples out in the field for what they call "small college recruiting." The McAndrews are also visiting Otterbein and Ohio Wesleyan this week.

The biggest area of concern for the recruiters is the destruction of certain misconceptions of the Corps — misconceptions which, the couple agreed, are causing would-be Corps members to "select themselves" out of the program.

Number one on their list of image-changes is the idea that a college degree is essential to volunteering. "Nothing is further from the truth," they claimed during lectures to Capital students.

Bob also pointed out that many persons feel that there are tremendous physical demands during Peace Corps "boot camp" training.

"Everyone thinks we get up and run three miles before breakfast," he smiled. "Not really . . . in fact, the physical training is little more than a high school physical education class."

Some of Capital's male students also thought they would be draft-exempt should they serve the two-year period with the Corps.

According to Suellen, there is currently no legislation that insures this, although she did add that a very small percentage of volunteers are called in the draft.

These are the major misbeliefs that the McAndrews' are hacking away at during their tour.

Nevertheless, the Corps is more than a little selective. They're rejecting applicants at the rate of one out of every 10. And, if anything, the rate will get higher.

But the recruiting goes on. Perhaps the law-of-averages theory has something to do with it. The Corps is determined to get the type of people it wants and chances are it will do so.

The McAndrews' did add that Peace Corps life isn't all roses. It seems to be tough work if you can get it. If you'd like to try, tests will be given at all Columbus post offices Saturday, Feb. 13.

Pupil-Teacher Ratio In Slums Is Reported At School For Action

A plea to start correcting the "massive gross inefficiency" of public schools in deprived areas, and to enable children to break through the walls of inherited poverty was issued Jan. 11, at the second session of the Columbus Section of the National Council of Jewish Women's School for Community Action on "The Immovable Middle Class," held at the Jewish Center.

Mrs. J. Maynard Kaplan, lecturer, urged an immediate reversal of the cost-per-pupil and staff-per-student ratios that now exist between schools in slum neighborhoods and those in affluent areas. "In practical terms, this means pouring in all the money we can channel — from city coffers, voluntary agencies, the federal and state governments, our own pockets — to get the very best teachers into the worst schools," she stated, "and train them in new techniques to raise the achievements of neglected youngsters."

In the opening lecture, the idea that the American system of free public education is "the great equalizer of the conditions of men" was labeled a myth as Mrs. Arthur Hersch and Mrs. Melvin Schoenstein cited figures showing that wealthy suburban schools spend as much as $1,000 a year per pupil and are staffed by as many as 70 professionals for every 1,000 pupils, whereas the typical slum school spends less than half that amount, and has 40 or fewer professionals for the same 1,000 pupils.

Deploring the notion that barriers to learning can only be dealt with outside the schools, because the root of the trouble is in the early influence of slum homes, Mrs. Kaplan declared that "from our vantage point, the early-home-damage theory is a good Freudian idea — and what is more, it conveniently takes teachers, principals, supervisors and boards of education off the hook." She noted, however, that most of the damage to the children takes place while they are at school, rather than before they enter school, with the sharpest decline between the third and sixth grades.

The NCJW for Community Action, conducted in many of the Council's 329 affiliated local units throughout the country, teaches women about issues affecting freedom and human welfare today, highlighting the involvement of the private individual and how she can act effectively on them. Last year's subject was "Equal Opportunity for Youth."

The third session of the NCJW School on "The Immovable Middle Class" will be held at the Jewish Center on Jan. 18, 11 a.m. Rabbi Jerome D. Folkman will present a summary of the three-day school and give the conclusions.

As the Eiffel Tower rose above the Paris skyline in 1887, prominent Parisians petitioned against the "monstrous and useless" thing.

SPRING SPEAKS SOFTLY . . .

BUT WIELDS A BOLD PRINT

By Marianne Tomlinson

New York — Don't expect spring to be "bustin' out all over" this year . . . It's coming in softly. Spring clothes are filled with subtle refinements and a new 1965 girl-woman allure.

According to Eleanor Lambert, director of the American Designers series, "As of 1965" spring will be "soft, serene, slim, short, sheer and seductive."

This spring we'll see the influence of softness, in the manner of Boticelli's Primavera, in the softened look of fabric and color . . . in the softened lingerie trim of the one-piece dress . . . the softened hair and makeup. We'll also see abstract art influences in prints, bold and daring in color.

The most daring and imaginative collection was, oddly enough, shown by John Moore, designer of the First Lady's inaugural ball gown. Moore has been designing since 1950, but after this showing, he was quizzed by seasoned reporters who tried to trap him into revealing the secret of the "very special dress."

He dodged the question but did say that he "is not at liberty to tell the color but it is long and classically simple." He also said Mrs. Johnson is a "perfect size 10" and fittings and discussions went well.

The First Lady's inaugural ball gown should be a work of art that combines her good taste and his ability to interpret it in fabric.

During the American Designers' Series (Jan. 8-12) fashion editors saw collections of fashions from head to toe and from skin out. Hats are imaginative and downright fancy to compliment the basic black and subtle shades of dresses. Shoes are open and have rounder toes.

Mollie Parnis, designer of another First Lady's fashions (Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower), said it is smarter to wear bone (beige) shoes with spring's vibrant or soft colors rather than matching them.

A beige tone, appropriately called "Flesh," was shown by Warner's Slimwear-Lingerie in several little unmentionables. One called "The Body" was an all-in-one lycra garment that weighed just a few ounces and was prescribed as just the right amount of control under spring's new softly shaped dresses.

There are three new silhouettes in dresses—the narrow column, seamed or flared . . . the Oriental wrapped look . . . and the long torso, flip skirt outline.

Coats are slim and simple relying on fabric and color for interest.

For after-five, some designers show floor-length extravaganzas, some the new demi-length (eight inches from the floor) and Luis Estevez showed a "Spanish Longeur," length as high as the knees in front and almost hitting the ankle in the back.

In any fashion season there is a new look for every lady. In spring 1965, you won't find it screaming "Ye ye" from the departments but it's there and when you find it, I think you'll like it.

DON'T BE SILLY!
Lately I've come in contact with an unusual number of nonsense ideas that have somehow become widely accepted as truths. I can't explain why otherwise intelligent people fall a prey to these tales. Perhaps you can tell me. For instance, it is said that it is dangerous to color your hair because in time the coloring soaks into your brain and you go crazy. Another version is that the coloring gives you brain tumors. Both these are pure nonsense. Another is that eye strain causes eyelashes to fall out. Yet another that strong house-cleaning soap is best to use as a shampoo. And perhaps the silliest of all — that women who protect their skins all their lives with creams and cosmetics age faster than a woman who uses nothing at all but soap and water.
LOVELY EYELASHES
Since eye makeup has been so popular lately a great deal of attention has been focused on eyelashes. So far as I know there is no way to cause them to grow thicker or longer. All we can do is to use all the artifices available to make them seem that way. The new mascara containing the tiny particles of a fuzzlike stuff is very successful. This gives the lashes a coating which does not come off with soap or cleansers. Each additional time it is applied a little more sticks fast thus making the lash appear both thicker and longer. So far as it can be determined this does not cause lashes to fall out any sooner than they would otherwise, nor does it have any beneficial effect on the new growth.
DID YOU KNOW . . . .
For you people who like statistics here's another for your collection! In 1915 there were estimated to be 2,000 Beauty "Parlors" (as they were then known.) They were dark dingy places where smelling salts was part of the standard equipment. Today at latest count we have approximately 137,000 Beauty Salons in the United States. Most of them exquisitely decorated and designed. A complete switch from the dungeons of yesterday.

East Kiwanis Honors New, Past Presidents

Kiwanis Club of Eastern Columbus honored its new president, Ernest E. Emswiler, and retiring president, Harold F. Marsh at its annual presidents' party Jan. 13 at the Desert Inn.

Special guests were Harold Harmon, 10E Division lieutenant governor; Donald Williams, governor Ohio District, and Kenneth Weeks, Ohio District secretary and their wives.

James E. Leonard, past president of Eastern Kiwanis, was in charge of arrangements.

Emswiler, the new president, has a distinguished record of service to his club during the seven years he has been a member.

He received the distinguished service award in 1961, and in 1962, the year Eastern was awarded the international and interclub awards, Emswiler received the outstanding member award.

He was new club chairman in 1961 when Eastern formed Reynoldsburg Kiwanis, and in 1963 when the club organized Whitehall Kiwanis. Emswiler served as secretary in 1959 and as first vice-president last year.

An accountant, he is associated with Retail Credit Co. and Rustling Brook Farms, Inc., and also conducts a tax business.

89,696 Whitehall Residents Take Part In Programs

The cooperation of Whitehall's school and civic officials has been credited by John LaCorte, city recreation director, for the year's successful recreation progam.

Total number of participants in all programs, including church softball leagues, bantam football, Whitehall Boys' Baseball Association, and civic groups using facilities at the Municipal Building throughout the year was 89,696.

Highlights of 1964 were city-wide tournaments in softball, tetherball, horseshoe, ping pong and basketball, for men as well as junior and senior high boys.

At the close of summer, a city-wide play pageant was held.

Whitehall Recreation Department will conduct a survey in the near future to determine how much interest there is in the community for a recreation center with facilities that would make an enlarged program possible.

LaCorte also comments that the fine conduct of the youth at the junior and senior high dances, and other activities contributed to the success of the 1964 program.

'After Four' Program At Cap Offers Education For Adults

Adults interested in furthering, or catching up, on their education can do so in Capital University's "After Four" program.

Registration deadlines in community education, evening school and the management training program is Thursday, Jan. 21.

Courses for non-credit offered in community education are conducted in an informal manner. Students of art and music will find outlets in oil painting and private music lessons. Secretaries and others can review their skills in shorthand refresher courses. For elementary teachers there is a "modern mathematics" seminar.

The Evening School selections carry full college credit and are conducted in a professional manner. Courses are available in chemistry, education, English, fine arts, geography, history, physical education, political science, psychology, religion, sociology and speech.

The management training program has courses in personnel administration, advertising, marketing, industrial economics, business law and data processing, among others. The program is endorsed nationally and offered in cooperation with the U. S. Small Business Administration. A certificate of management is awarded each successful candidate.

Information concerning the "After Four" schedules may be obtained by contacting John B. Stevenson, director of special services.

W-R EYES STRING

E-M, East Matched; Hawks Host Eagles

The Spectator SPORTS

Eastmoor's breathing room atop the City League basketball heap shrank considerably last weekend although the streaking Warriors won their seventh verdict against a single setback, a 91-68 nod over winless Whetstone.

After a fast-breaking first quarter that left E-M on the long end of a 27-12 count, Bill Courtney's crew coasted home and remained atop the loop scrap with West, each with 5-0 marks after Linden (4-1) fell for the first time to South's Bulldogs.

STEVE HOWELL hit everything imaginable for 35 game-high points while assist-leader Jerry Groves gunned in 22 and Doug Cromer added 10.

Tomorrow night E-M will get the starch test at East (7-1) where the string-riding Bengals hope to spring the big upset. On Saturday the Warriors entertain neighborhood rival Whitehall (4-5) in a rivalry-packed non-leaguer.

East cranked up for tomorrow's big contest with E-M by ravaging Aquinas, 70-54, behind a 34-point fourth quarter and a fantastic 25 for 35 night at the charity stripe.

JUNIOR Gil Mathews, averaging just over 22 per game in the loop, potted 17 while Vance Carr canned 13 and guard Galen Bias chipped in 12 for Bob Hart's five, now 4-1 in the circuit after bowing to Linden earlier.

Hartley's Geary Bradley was a happy fella after his Hawks tripped Newark Catholic in a low-scoring affair, 48-35. The Hawks remained tied for the Central Catholic lead wtih Watterson (4-0) as their pressing tactics worked to precision. Frank Tafoya's 18 fired the win while Dave Thomas' 14 and Tom Schlager's 13 helped.

The Eagles and the Hawks will match their 4-0 tickets tomorrow night at Hartley as Tom Crites (14.0), Mike Morris (16.0) and Tom Kelly (12.0) move in for the CCL's headliner showdown.

GENE MILLARD'S Bexley quintet split two sets over the weekend, winning over Delaware Hayes by a 42-36 margin and bowing to Worthington 38-34.

The Cardinal loss, a low-scoring affair, was spearheaded by Mac Albin's 12 markers and 11 more by improving Robin Wells. The Hayes verdict came behind the scoring of captain Bill Salt and Wells who each hit for 16, seven more than Dave Frasch.

The Lion's 2-5 in CBL play and 4-6 overall, visit Mt. Vernon (5-3) tomorrow evening for a test with Jim Byrd (14.0) and Craig Kundrat (12.4).

WALNUT RIDGE finally hit the win column against Reynoldsburg, 62-53, after the Jackie Moore five fell to Marion-Franklin, 71-44.

All-City candidate Pat Beveridge bombed in 18 in the M-F setback and came right back with 24 on Saturday (12 in the last period) and outplayed Craig Shade of the Raiders off the boards. Rick Houchen's 13 aided the Scots, now 1-9 on the season.

The Scotties will try to "stretch" their string tomorrow night at home when 6'5" Bob Kanuth (16.0) and Jack Clifford (13.2) bring in their North mates (6-4).

WHITEHALL (4-5) dropped a singleton last week, a 70-63 decision at Mt. Vernon where the Rams trailed the entire distance. Gary Beckley's bountiful 25-point showing went for naught as did 11 more by scrappy John McQuaid.

Phil Allen, still optimistic about a winning campaign after heavy grad losses, will watch his young charges entertain Delaware (3-6) and Rick Reed (15.3) on Friday and visit Eastmoor on Saturday.

Academy (5-3 and improving) upset Canal Winchester 76-66 Saturday as Pete Bigelow's 22, Terry Larrimer's 21 and George Fulford's 12 sparkled. The Vikings journey to Universtiy (5-4) tomorrow night in a big FCL fray.

ST. CHARLES slipped to a 3-6 log after a twin setback last week. A narrow 54-52 loss to DeSales dispelled a brilliant 28-point effort by 6'5 Joe Van Balen. A 66-51 setback at the hands of Aquinas nullified fine performances by Van Balen (19) and John Ryan (12). Dick Geyer's squad travels to Ready (3-6) tomorrow night for a test with Mike Horgan (13.2) and company.

Little Bucks Made Lasting Impression

The Little Buckeyes, winners over the Key West All-Stars in the Florida Holiday Bowl Game, returned home Jan. 3 with coach Tom C. Krieger after a successful and enjoyable trip.

The Buckeyes, still experiencing traveling kinks from their long plane trip, didn't get "unwound" until after intermission in the big 13-6 victory. In just six minutes late in the second half, the Little Buck gridders reeled off more than 200 yards of real estate for two touchdowns and were on the eight-yard line when time finally ran out.

"THE BIG VICTORY was just icing on the cake for this gentlemanly group who really impressed everyone with their behavior and appearances," beamed Krieger.

"Everywhere we visited the people complimented about the manners, behavior and the appearance of the Little Buckeyes . . . as far as I'm concerned these youngsters are number one, not just as a team, but as true sportsmen and good will ambassadors from Ohio," concluded the Little Buckeye mentor.

Crusaders Host Hiram Five Saturday Without DeBerry

A scrappy Cap brigade of basketballteers that hasn't seen the home court since Dec. 15 takes on a tough Ohio Conference foe this week in the friendly confines of Alumni Gym as the Crusaders meet Hiram on Saturday.

Coach Whitey Regan received the bad news last week that ace performer and all-conference selection Jim DeBerry has officially been declared "out" for the season with a bad knee injury.

DeBERRY, from Hilliard, was the team's leading scorer and rebounder last season, his sophomore year, as a forward. For the first three games this year he had been shifted to center, when his injury took the uppermost hand.

Regan has been alternating Grove City freshman Tom Koehler, 6-3, and Jackson Center sophomore Don Ware, 6-4, in the pivot since DeBerry's removal. Both have responded well, but need game experience.

Cap played on an even keel in two encounters during the week, losing a close game to Wooster 77-73, then bopping winless Heidelberg 80-64. The incomparable Dave Veenendaal, 6-2 senior forward from Harper Woods, Mich., was the leading rebounder and scorer in both contests. He chalked up 21 and 29 points and 14 and 16 rebounds, respectively, in the games.

Thus far, Veen is averaging 19.4 points a game, 11.6 RBs, is hitting from the field at a 47 percent clip and from the foul stripe at a 76.5 percent rate.

Hiram is still contending for the loop title, but hasn't fared to well at Alumni Gym. Hiram has yet to win in five appearances at Cap.

TO THE VICTOR belongs the smile and the trophy and Whitehall's Steve Beery (right) collects the latter Saturday after taking the finals in the 120 class with a 10-1 decision over Pleasant View's Rick Erbe at Whitehall's Invitational. TIGERS FILLING BASKET:

East Invitational Is Next Plum On Wrestling's Prestige Tree

East High offers the top arena for high school mat action this week as the Tigers play host to an Invitational which bring in some of the area's top school boy grappling talent.

The East Invitational is set for Saturday with prelims getting under way at 10 a.m., semi-finals carded for 1 p.m. and finals beginning at 4 p.m.

Host East, winner of the Whitehall Invite last weekend, takes the early favorite nod but seven other squads should provide discouragement to this forecast.

Slated to vie with the Tigers for tourney laurels are Hartley, Walnut Ridge, Central Groveport, Westerville, Whitehall and Eastmoor.

The Tigers picked up one of the season's top plums at Whitehall Saturday but not before upstart DeSales battled Jim Porter's crew to the wire.

Heavyweight Grady Bobo broke a 1-1 standoff to decision the Stallions' Perry Evans in the finals to assure East's victory.

The Tigers outdistanced DeSales, 66-62. Others finishers included: Pleasant View, 55; Whitehall, 48; West, 46; Arlington, 36; Grandview, 26 and Hilliard, 6.

Here's a rundown of the top four individuals: 103 — Hartman (UA) dec., Ivory (E), Decker (Wh), Fenney (DeS);

112 — Arnold (DeS) dec. Dreisbach (PV), Neidz (UA), Beard (G);

120 — Beery (Wh) dec. Erbe (PV), Hood (E), DeWitt (UA);

127 — Holloway (E) pinned Hartman (UA), Mahoney (DeS), Thompson (PV);

133 — O'Keefe (G) pinned Catalina (Wh), Bauer (PV);

138 — Wes Seymour (Wh) dec. Kauder (DeS), Clark (W), Reed (E);

145 — Hiles (DeS) dec. Thomas (W), Saunders (UA), Block (G);

154 — King (W) dec. Rispress (E), Meade (PV), Fleming (H);

165 — Reibel (PV) pinned Herb Seymour (Wh), DeAscentis (DeS), Rogers (W);

175 — Martin (E) dec. Smith (W), Jones (G), Bauer (PV);

Twt — BoBo (E) dec Evans (DeS), Radeuge (W), Goodman (PV).

Tim Wolf's (120) pin helped spark Groveport to a 30-10 verdict over Circleville.

Bill Marshall won via forfeit while John Jordan (127), Mike Sparks (133), Steve Montgomery (138), Bill Nelle (145), Jim Dill (154), and Brian White (165), took decisions.

Pins by Hood, Holloway, Rispress and Hardgrow helped East even Eastmoor's mat mark at 1-1 as the Tigers earned a 29-14 verdict over the Warriors.

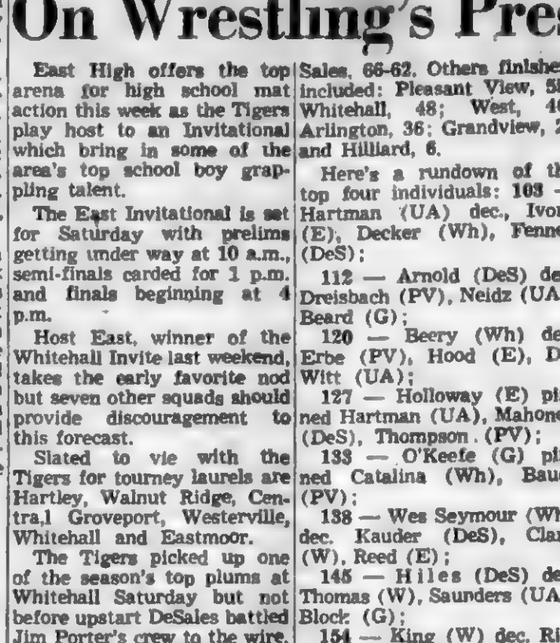
Decision wins by Jim Kelley (138), Jim Schottenstein (145) and Rick Doty (154) plus a pin by Dennis Walker (hwt) weren't enough to prevent Grandview from downing Bexley, 29-14.

Hartley came from behind to win five of the final six events and down Walnut Ridge, 25-20.

Mike Newton (138) and Paul Burkey (145) started the Hawk push with back-to-back decisions. Then Pat Burkey (154), Jim Carpenter (165) and John Bayly (hwt) nabbed five - pointers, the former pair on pins.

Steve Roberts (127) and John Cruse (175) got pins for the Scotties.

Walnut Ridge (1-2) zipped through the first four events without loss but found wins scarce thereafter, bowing to Jonathan Alder, 26-19.

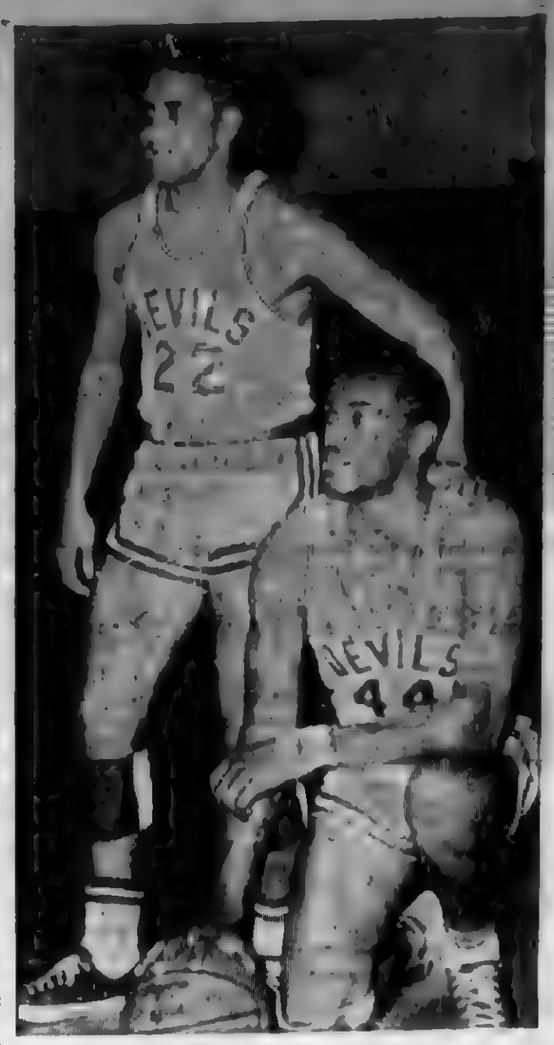


Tex Rife (120) and John Cruse (175) nabbed pins for the Scotties while Gary Britton (112), Terry (103) and Steve Roberts (127) gained decisions.

Pins by Pete Johnson (140) and Steve Gutridge (hwt), plus decision victories by Roy Leonard (114) and Mike Sullivan (147) couldn't prevent Eastmoor from taking it on the chin from Brookhaven, 27-16.

North handed South its second straight setback, 27-18, despite pins wins by the Bulldogs' Eddie Anderson (103) and Jim Kelley (155).

Louis Robinson (165) won for South via decision while Roger Caldwell picked up five points on a forfeit.



Central closed with seven straight wins to bury North, 35-6.

THE CLINCHER — and that it was in more ways than one Saturday at the Whitehall Invitational for East and the Tigers' heavyweight champ, Brady Bobo, Bobo, with a firm grasp on DeSales' Perry Evans, clinched the Invite title for the Tigers with a decision win, providing East with a four-point cushion.

MAT LESSON—For those novice wrestling fans who don't understand the meaning of the term "predicament," this photo by Tom Shipe at Saturday's Whitehall Invitational should bring home the point. Action came in the 175-lb. prelims and we'll let you decide whose predicament is worse—Grandview's Ted Jones (facing camera) or East's Roland Martin.

A BRILLIANT three-year athletic tenure will come to a close next spring when the Jacksons depart from the Marion-Franklin High School scene, via graduation. Steve (left) and John, although no relation whatsoever, have played two major sports side by side for the past three years for the Red Devils.

Jackson Combo Shares Name, Game And Fame

By LARRY O'HARRA

More than one student has been confused by the Jackson lads of history — Stonewall and Old Hickory — and the Jackson boys at Marion-Franklin have posed the same problem to opposing coaches and scouts in the Central Ohio area the past three years.

They're at both flanks on the football line, they're both three -year veterans on the Red Devil five, they're both seniors with near-identical two-point academic averages and they both collect athletic records for the Kobel-rd school.

JOHN, although no relation to his namesake Steve, is a rangy 6' 5 196-pounder who has lettered three years each in football, basketball and track. Steve, a 6' 175-pounder, will have earned eight M-F varsity monograms in football, basketball and baseball before his career ends next June at graduation.

John paced the Red Devil pass receivers this past season as M-F finished its finest-ever football season with a 7-2 slate. From his flanking position, John snared 41 passes for 618 yards and scored 48 points and received honorable mention status on the City League All-Star eleven, just missing the first team. Coach Jim Harper claims, "John was our most dependable receiver on the big first down play, the opposition knew it was coming but they just couldn't stop him."

Steve's prowess on the gridiron earned him an All-City and All-District first team berth at tight end this fall and also gained the versatile Red Devil honorable mention All-State (Associated Press) status. He hauled in 28 passes for 579 yards and topped the 'Devil scorers this fall with 72 points. Besides his sticky-fingered receiving, Steve pilfered eight enemy passes and ranked third in City League-scoring. "He has the best pair of hands I've ever coached," credits Harper, "I had to move him from a second-team halfback to tight end because of his outstanding receiving abilities."

ON THE hardwood, both boys have been regulars for coach Bob Holderle for three seasons at center and guard respectively. Last year John set a new M-F single-game school record of 31 rebounds against Brookhaven and led the 'Devil pointmakers with 194 points, an even 13.0 average per game. He also owns the one-season carom mark for M-F with 244 rebounds or exactly 50 over the old record.

Steve isn't a slouch on the rectangle either and the records bear out the facts. Primarily a playmaker, Steve had 33 'ferds' or assists to teammates last season, tallied 128 points in 14 games for a 9.1 per game average and led the team in free throw percentage.

Coach Holderle claims that Steve is "an excellent shooter anywhere on the floor, he consistenty hits in the 41-42 percent bracket."

THE JACKSONS split up in the springtime to compete in two different sports. John, with his tremendous leg spring, is a 6'1 high jumper on the Red Devil cinder squad while Steve turns in his sneakers for a pair of spikes and chases stray horsehides from his centerfield post on the M-F baseball diamond.

When next September rolls around, Marion - Franklin's coaching staff will have quite an unusual problem on their hands since it may take six boys to fill the vacancies left by the graduation of the versatile Jackson tandem. As one opposing coach put it "It may be confusing to the scorekeepers but they can play on my teams anytime."

New Golf Course Under Way

First earth was turned Monday morning for the new Hamilton-rd Municipal Golf Course in ground-breaking ceremonies with the start of actual construction following immediately.

All necessary work will be completed in time for seeding in August or September and the 18-hole course will be ready for play by spring, 1966.

Present at Monday morning's groundbreaking were Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, Councilmen William Fornof and Robert Southwick, Recreation Commission President Harry Richter and commission member Maj. Robert McCoy, and Nick Barack, superintendent of the Columbus Recreation Department.

The new municipal course will cover about 125 acres and, although not as large as Raymond Memorial, will have a number of challenging holes, to make the course interesting to golfers.

Southern boundary of the Hamilton-rd course will be just north of Fifth-av, and the clubhouse will be located in the northern section.

Paul J. Lynch

Catholic Men Name Lynch Man Of Year

Paul J. Lynch, a member of St. Mary's parish, Groveport, was named Catholic Man of the Year at the Jan. 8 Catholic Men's luncheon at the Seneca Hotel.

Lynch is employed as director of guidance at Bishop Hartley High School and owns the Kacey Supply Company, 511 S. High-st. Long active in the Democratic Party, he was elected in 1958 for a two-year term to the Ohio General Assembly as representative from Franklin County.

He is a past officer of numerous professional, cultural and welfare boards both on the state and local levels.

He is a past president of the Serra Club, past Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus, Council 400 and former administrative assistant for the Knights in the State of Ohio.

As a charter member of the Columbus Catholic Interracial Council, he received the St. Martin DePorres Award in 1963.

He is presently Southeast Community Council's president and a member of the board of directors of the Ohio State Human Relations Institute.

In 1956, he was the prime factor in creating the annual award for the Catholic Man of the Year.

John Bishop Files Petition Of Candidacy

John A. Bishop, 4482 Chandler-dr, has filed with the Franklin County Board of Elections as a candidate in the Republican Primary for Whitehall council, Third Ward. Bishop, the Republican nominee in 1963, lost to incumbent Democrat James M. Toomey by 13 votes.

Bishop said that the strong support he got in 1963 prompted him to again seek the council spot. Expressing a belief in an "open" Primary, Bishop said he will welcome any Third Ward Republicans who file for the council nomination.

Bishop has been chairman of the Whitehall Recreation Board for the past four years and has served two previous years in the city's Recreation Department.

Should Bishop win in the Republican Primary, he may face someone other than Toomey in the November runoff. Toomey is being urged to file as a democratic nominee in the solicitor's race. If he files for council, it is expected that he will seek an at-large spot.

C. E. "Bill" Leeson is rumored to be a likely candidate for the Democratic Third Ward nomination.

In the decade from 1953 to 1963 the population of the United States increased by 30 million. This increase is equal to the entire net growth, in the area now comprising the United States, from 1620 to 1865.

Nixed By Holzhause Tax Office Transfer

Whitehall city council Democrats have apparently failed in their attempt to transfer the city's tax division back to the City Auditor's office from whence it was taken by Republican council members in 1963. Mayor William H. Holzhause told the Spectator on Tuesday that he would veto the transfer ordinance passed (4-3) at the last council session.

While Holzhause has been hoping that present Tax Commissioner Irvin E. Beck would stay on the job, Beck said that his resignation notice is "final and irrevocable." He said he will not serve beyond Feb. 28, and that he will move to retirement in Florida.

Notified that Beck's resignation would stand, Holzhause said his veto would still stand. "As far as I'm concerned this office has done a fine job under (Treasurer) Red Shaeffer and I would like to see it stay there," Holzhause said.

Council is expected to sustain the mayor's veto.

An earlier announcement by Holzhause that he would allow the Fairway Oaks development ordinance become law without his signature drew heavy fire from Councilman-At-Large Marvin H. Levine.

'No Apartments' Pledge

Holzhause had said that he would not sign the ordinance because the development was to include construction of twin-single dwellings. He said that he could not sign the ordinance because twin-single units come under the same zoning classificiation as apartments. Holzhause had campaigned on a "no apartments" pledge.

He said he would allow the ordinance to become law because he could not deprive the city of an anticipated $2.5 million to the city's tax duplicate.

Levine termed the mayor's announced intention "hypocritical," saying it was "not consistent with his action last May 12 when he voted for four-family apartment buildings when the original plan was brought to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

"He votes 'yes' on four-family apartments, and now he can't sign this law because it has twin singles," Levine said.

A Democrat and chairman of council's finance committee, Levine also took Republican Councilman Ray Shipley to task for allegedly saying that the minority Republicans could not get anything through council.

"The only thing I can remember that they (Republicans) ever presented was the Sunday closing resolution," Levine said, "and that passed, but hasn't changed the situation one iota. It can be compared to a tiger without teeth or claws.'

He concluded by saying:

"If they (Republicans) present anything that is constructive and for the betterment of Whitehall, there isn't a Democrat on council who won't support them."

JAN 1965

IT'S A HAVEN, but not a home. This was the reaction among the canine and feline guests of the Columbus Humane Society's Animal Shelter when they were interviewed recently to learn what they thought about their diggings after it had undergone a $30,000 face-lifting. Obviously leery of being misquoted, each stressed he was not complaining, but still, a sanitized cage isn't as cozy as a favorite chair, it's more fun to romp under the noonday sun than a germicidal light and even ground sirloin doesn't taste as good as a tidbit slipped under the table. In short, they all wanted a home of their very own. At left is a young character in the clinic with the shelter manager, Cecil Crosby. The stainless steel examination table, the sterilizing equipment and even the dog bath did not impress him in the least. "I'm an aristocrat," he barked, "and have seen better days than this." To emphasize his point, the lad then sat up, forepaws tucked under his chin and put on a "please take me with you" act that came within a tail's wag of working with the photographer. In the middle are two six-week-old jet black kittens which forgot their loneliness for a few minutes in the excitement of rolling around a burned-out flash bulb. You see, the cages don't come equipped with toys, and it was the first plaything they had ever had except their tails. At right, Mrs. Albert Dennison, 873 Grant-at, listens as her six-month-old son, Carl Allen, heard his first shaggy dog story. And this one was from "dog's mouth." It was the same old tail waggin' tale, "Show me the way, show me the way to go home." The Dennison family was interested, although the story was old, because only a few weeks ago the family Collie had disappeared, leaving four-year-old Randy disconsolate.

Animal Shelter — The Place Where Love's For Sale

By JANE ROBINSON

Beatles may top the Hit Parade in London town.

But down on Groveport-pk Beagles are top-dog.

More than 4,000 pets were adopted from the Columbus Humane Society Animal Shelter last year, and Beagles won the daily popularity contest, paws down.

Mrs. Ruth Everhart, administrative assistant of the society explained that this is because they are kind, gentle with children, usually adaptable as hunting dogs and make a hit with housewives because of their short hair.

This came out when the Spectator, hearing a complete remodeling job had just been completed at the Shelter, went down to see what was going on.

It was quickly learned that animal business is big business.

A fleet of vehicles, a staff of 15, tons of food and a budget close to $100,000 annually are involved in the combination hotel, orphanage, hospital and jail catering strictly to the animal world.

Seven ambulances roam the county along with a trailer (literally big enough for a horse) bringing to the shelter an average of 75 animals a day.

Some just come as boarders while their folks are away.

Suspicious Characters

But most are strays, lost or injured animals or pets their owners have classified as "excess baggage." A few are suspicious characters who have bitten someone (often the hand that fed) and are under a 10-day rabies observation period.

Cecil Crosby, Shelter manager, who has spent 15 years trying to take a little of the "dog-gone" out of a "dog's life," explained the routine when an apparently homeless dog or cat is admitted.

He is placed under observation to see whether general health and disposition indicate "adoptability."

Here he remains for five days to give a previous owner plenty of time to claim him. (It is difficult to explain why only 43 owners bothered to locate their pets last year.)

12 Vets on Call

After the waiting period is over, the animal is readied for the veterinary clinic. Here, twice a week one of the twelve tip-top vets of the county who donate their services to the society, check the animals, giving pups distemper shots and older dogs rabies immunization.

The dog (or cat, or hamster, or sometimes even a monkey) which is given a clean bill of health, is placed in the adoption ward. Those who fail the physical are humanely destroyed by exposure to carbon monoxide.

More than 30 dogs were adopted in a single day last week, and the real "dog days" come during the Christmas holidays when the shelter does a land office business.

The officials are particular where their charges go. For example, they refuse to place a large dog except in the country where exercise poses no problem, and a delicate lap dog doesn't belong with a family who thinks a pooch's place is in the doghouse.

The price on kittens has been hiked from a quarter a few years ago to $3. This was necessary to fight the inhumanity of hunters who bought them by the dozen and used them to train hunting dogs.

Abundance of Kittens

Although the tag now on kittens has resulted in a surplus officials feel euthanasia a more desirable end than met at the jaws of a hound.

Few pets have been heard to howl about the food. Most admit they've never "had it so good."

The freezer in the immaculate kitchen is often stocked with rib roast. T-bones, sirloins and choice liver, as well as plain old hamburger. The fancier cuts of meat which animal lovers donate when it's freezer cleaning time, are ground and added to the regular diet of meal and beef. (This is for the dogs. Cats are served canned milk and prepared cat food.)

But deluxe housing (many kennels have their own patios or runways), a medicare system and a fine cuisine don't make a dog heaven.

They are not cold, nor hungry, nor subject to abuse.

But neither do they belong.

There isn't one who would not trade his life of leisure to become a playmate to a child, a companion to someone who is lonely, or a servant to a good master.

What kind of a dog do you like?

A faithful Collie? A dignified Dane? A saucy Peke? A watchful Shepherd? A cheerful Terrier? A sad-eyed Dachshund? A shrewd 57-variety?

Each can be found at the Shelter, and each wants to adopt a family.

The sooner the better is the word at 2770 Groveport-pk.

Most are living on borrowed time, and they seem to sense it.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Bexleyite Protests Council's Decision

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF BEXLEY

Dear Fellow Citizens:

For the past four to five months I have been harassed, degraded, chastised and otherwise condemned by the Bexley City Council. Why? Simply because I made a genuine effort to improve the real aesthetic value of my home.

About a year ago my wife and I decided to add a patio to our home. We wanted something that would offer us the convenience and privacy we desired but would also improve the aesthetic value of our home and neighborhood. We had seen all too many patios built in Bexley which solved the privacy problem, but not the aesthetic one. Redwood or something similar would, of course, be cheapest; but we didn't feel it was fair to our neighbors or commuity to solve a privacy problem at the expense of degrading the aesthetic value of the whole neighborhood. We, therefore, decided to take the expensive route; a solid brick wall.

We carefully removed the existing privet hedge and built the outside wall of our patio in a manner in which it would be in a straight line with the remaining privet hedge and our existing chain link backyard fence. The hedge removal was again more costly, but we felt it was the "right way." We had planned to plant a clinging ivy on the outstide of the wall so that in a few years, it would blend right in with the overall architecture of the neighborhood.

On the day that the outside walls were finished, I had a visit from Mr. Ray Vannoy, the building inspector in the City of Bexley. Mr. Vannoy stated that my wall was very pretty, and it was a shame that I was going to have to tear the outside wall down. When I asked Mr. Vannoy what the problem was, he stated that my privet hedge, the outside portion of the patio wall, my concrete steps, as well as my chain link fence were all on city property.

Apparently some forty years ago when this portion of Bexley was being constructed, the city had taken an unusually wide "right of way" to insure that if they ever wanted to widen Dawson Avenue, they could do it without acquiring any additional land. This widening is, of course, now out of the question since the trees lining Dawson Avenue have become so beautiful that any widening of the street would necessitate their removal.

I explained to Mr. Vannoy that the privet hedge and the chain link fence had been there for years, and his reply was still the same. I also explained to Mr. Vannoy that I could not understand the inconsistency of ordering the outside portion of the patio wall torn down without also requiring the removal of all my privet hedges, my chain link fence, and my concrete steps which had also been on city propery for many years. His indignant reply to this was that if I did not quietly remove the wall that they may ask us to remove the fence, the steps, the wall, and the hedges.

Well, fellow citizens, you can imagine at this point both my wife and I were rather upset. My next step was to go over to see Mayor Schneider. I asked the mayor if there had been any formal complaints about our patio wall, and he said there had been none. A police cruiser had been driving by and saw we were constructing a brick wall and had informed the city building inspector as to the possibility that this wall might be on city property. The Mayor stated that only a special ordinance by the City Council could solve my problem. At this point, I would like to interject that slight infringements of this type have been existent in the City of Bexley for many years by many, many property owners. A good example of such infringements can be found on my own property where the hedges and fence had been on city property for many years, due to the unusually wide easement which Dawson Avenue has always had. The city, however, has never required removal of these infringements so long as these infringements were inadvertent and did not infringe upon public safety, etc.

My next step was to circulate a petition amongst all my neighbors which stated that in their opinion, my patio wall represented an increase in both the real and aesthetic value of our neighborhood and requested to the Bexley City Council that they find some equitable solution which would allow the patio to remain. Eleven of my neighbors felt strongly about this situation to appear with me physically at the City Council meeting during which the petition was presented to the council.

There were several solutions to the problem. The amount of land in question, which is approximately 10 foot long and 18 inches wide, could be vacated to me by the city, which in no way would impair the operation of the city since the widening of Dawson Avenue is out of the question. The city could sell me the property, or they could grant me a long term easement for a token fee of $1 a year.

After literally months of consideration, the Safety Comimttee of the Bexley City Council made the following proposition to me: "We will allow you to keep your wall on a year to year lease for a fee of $50 per year." This was in effect telling me, we don't want to tell you to tear your wall down, but we want to tear it down. We are, therefore, offering you a lease arrangement, the conditions of which are so unreasonable that should you ever want to sell your house, the conditions of this lease may well be the deciding factor in the mind of a prospective buyer.

This recommendation of $50 on a year to year lease was passed by the city council. However, when I explained to the council that the conditions of this lease could not be acceptable to me for the afore mentioned reasons, they reversed themselves in the next meeting and defeated the measure. (See editor's note). This was done because if the City Council had passed the ordinance, they would be in effect saying, "Sure, we agree with you." "There is no reason why your wall should have to be torn down." "The city doesn't need this property." If then we could not agree on a reasonable remuneration, it would put the city in an embarrassing position as they would still tell me to tear the wall down after, in effect, admitting that the land serves no useful purpose to the city.

Well, folks, the city has given me thirty days in which to tear down my patio wall. If at the end of that time. I have not torn it down, they say they will come and tear it down. Its beauty certainly enhances the neighborhood, but the pile of rubble which will be left by its demolition will be a blight on the neighborhood. Since I cannot financially afford to rebuild the wall at the present time, this ugly blight will have to remain there at least until after the next election.

If after reading my sad tale you agree with me, that even though I am legally 100 percent wrong, I am morally 100 percent right, please do me this favor. Write a letter to the Bexley City Council protesting this action and requesting a solution that is compatible and acceptable to all concerned.

Sincerely,
Barry Zacks
2412 Brentwood Road
Bexley, Ohio

(Editor's note: In regular council procedure, Bexley heard the measure read at three meetings before taking action. The measure was not approved, only heard, until the third reading when council defeated it by a 4-2 vote).

IT'S A HAVEN, but not a home. This was the reaction among the canine and feline guests of the Columbus Humane Society's Animal Shelter when they were interviewed recently to learn what they thought about their diggings after it had undergone a $30,000 face-lifting. Obviously leery of being misquoted, each stressed he was not complaining, but still, a sanitized cage isn't as cozy as a favorite chair, it's more fun to romp under the noonday sun than a germicidal light and even ground sirloin doesn't taste as good as a tidbit slipped under the table. In short, they all wanted a home of their very own. At left is a young character in the clinic with the shelter manager, Cecil Crosby. The stainless steel examination table, the sterilizing equipment and even the dog bath did not impress him in the least. "I'm an aristocrat," he barked, "and have seen better days than this." To emphasize his point, the lad then sat up, forepaws tucked under his chin and put on a "please take me with you" act that came within a tail's wag of working with the photographer. In the middle are two six-week-old jet black kittens which forgot their loneliness for a few minutes in the excitement of rolling around a burned-out flash bulb. You see, the cages don't come equipped with toys, and it was the first plaything they had ever had except their tails. At right, Mrs. Albert Dennison, 573 Grant-st, listens as her six-month-old son, Carl Allen, heard his first shaggy dog story. And this one was from "dog's mouth." It was the same old tail waggin' tale, "Show me the way, show me the way to go home." The Dennison family was interested, although the story was old, because only a few weeks ago the family Collie had disappeared, leaving four-year-old Randy disconsolate.

But down on Groveport-pk Beagles are top-dog.

More than 4,000 pets were adopted from the Columbus Humane Society Animal Shelter last year, and Beagles won the daily popularity contest, paws down.

Mrs. Ruth Everhart, administrative assistant of the society explained that this is because they are kind, gentle with children, usually adaptable as hunting dogs and make a hit with housewives because of their short hair.

This came out when the Spectator, hearing a complete remodeling job had just been completed at the Shelter, went down to see what was going on.

It was quickly learned that animal business is big business.

A fleet of vehicles, a staff of 15, tons of food and a budget close to $100,000 annually are involved in the combination hotel, orphanage, hospital and jail catering strictly to the animal world.

Seven ambulances roam the county along with a trailer (literally big enough for a horse) bringing to the shelter an average of 75 animals a day.

Some just come as boarders while their folks are away.

Suspicious Characters

But most are strays, lost or injured animals or pets their owners have classified as "excess baggage." A few are suspicious characters who have bitten someone (often the hand that fed) and are under a 10-day rabies observation period.

Cecil Crosby, Shelter manager, who has spent 15 years trying to take a little of the "dog-gone" out of a "dog's life," explained the routine when an apparently homeless dog or cat is admitted.

He is placed under observation to see whether general health and disposition indicate "adoptability."

Here he remains for five days to give a previous owner plenty of time to claim him. (It is difficult to explain why only 43 owners bothered to locate their pets last year.)

12 Vets on Call

After the waiting period is over, the animal is readied for the veterinary clinic. Here, twice a week one of the twelve tip-top vets of the county who donate their services to the society, check the animals, giving pups distemper shots and older dogs rabies immunization.

The dog (or cat, or hamster, or sometimes even a monkey) which is given a clean bill of health, is placed in the adoption ward. Those who fail the physical are humanely destroyed by exposure to carbon monoxide.

More than 30 dogs were adopted in a single day last week, and the real "dog days" come during the Christmas holidays when the shelter does a land office business.

The officials are particular where their charges go. For example, they refuse to place a large dog except in the country where exercise poses no problem, and a delicate lap dog doesn't belong with a family who thinks a pooch's place is in the doghouse.

The price on kittens has been hiked from a quarter a few years ago to $3. This was necessary to fight the inhumanity of hunters who bought them by the dozen and used them to train hunting dogs.

Abundance of Kittens

Although the tag now on kittens has resulted in a surplus officials feel euthanasia a more desirable end than met at the jaws of a hound.

Few pets have been heard to howl about the food. Most admit they've never "had it so good."

The freezer in the immaculate kitchen is often stocked with rib roast, T-bones, sirloins and choice liver, as well as plain old hamburger. The fancier cuts of meat which animal lovers donate when it's freezer cleaning time, are ground and added to the regular diet of meal and beef. (This is for the dogs. Cats are served canned milk and prepared cat food.)

But deluxe housing (many kennels have their own patios or runways), a medicare system and a fine cuisine don't make a dog heaven.

They are not cold, nor hungry, nor subject to abuse.

But neither do they belong.

There isn't one who would not trade his life of leisure to become a playmate to a child, a companion to someone who is lonely, or a servant to a good master.

What kind of a dog do you like?

A faithful Collie? A dignified Dane? A saucy Peke? A watchful Shepherd? A cheerful Terrier? A sad-eyed Dachshund? A shrewd 57-variety?

Each can be found at the Shelter, and each wants to adopt a family.

The sooner the better is the word at 2770 Groveport-pk.

Most are living on borrowed time, and they seem to sense it.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Bexleyite Protests Council's Decision

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF BEXLEY

Dear Fellow Citizens:

For the past four to five months I have been harassed, degraded, chastised and otherwise condemned by the Bexley City Council. Why? Simply because I made a genuine effort to improve the real aesthetic value of my home.

About a year ago my wife and I decided to add a patio to our home. We wanted something that would offer us the convenience and privacy we desired but would also improve the aesthetic value of our home and neighborhood. We had seen all too many patios built in Bexley which solved the privacy problem, but not the aesthetic one. Redwood or something similar would, of course, be cheapest; but we didn't feel it was fair to our neighbors or commuity to solve a privacy problem at the expense of degrading the aesthetic value of the whole neighborhood. We, therefore, decided to take the expensive route; a solid brick wall.

We carefully removed the existing privet hedge and built the outside wall of our patio in a manner in which it would be in a straight line with the remaining privet hedge and our existing chain link backyard fence. The hedge removal was again more costly, but we felt it was the "right way." We had planned to plant a clinging ivy on the outstide of the wall so that in a few years, it would blend right in with the overall architecture of the neighborhood.

On the day that the outside walls were finished. I had a visit from Mr. Ray Vannoy, the building inspector in the City of Bexley. Mr. Vannoy stated that my wall was very pretty, and it was a shame that I was going to have to tear the outside wall down. When I asked Mr. Vannoy what the problem was, he stated that my privet hedge, the outside portion of the patio wall, my concrete steps, as well as my chain link fence were all on city property.

Apparently some forty years ago when this portion of Bexley was being constructed, the city had taken an unusually wide "right of way" to insure that if they ever wanted to widen Dawson Avenue, they could do it without acquiring any additional land. This widening is, of course, now out of the question since the trees lining Dawson Avenue have become so beautiful that any widening of the street would necessitate their removal.

I explained to Mr. Vannoy that the privet hedge and the chain link fence had been there for years, and his reply was still the same. I also explained to Mr. Vannoy that I could not understand the inconsistency of ordering the outside portion of the patio wall torn down without also requiring the removal of all my privet hedges, my chain link fence, and my concrete steps which had also been on city propery for many years. His indignant reply to this was that if I did not quietly remove the wall that they may ask us to remove the fence, the steps, the wall, and the hedges.

Well, fellow citizens, you can imagine at this point both my wife and I were rather upset. My next step was to go over to see Mayor Schneider. I asked the mayor if there had been any formal complaints about our patio wall, and he said there had been none. A police cruiser had been driving by and saw we were constructing a brick wall and had informed the city building inspector as to the possibility that this wall might be on city property. The Mayor stated that only a special ordinance by the City Council could solve my problem. At this point, I would like to interject that slight infringements of this type have been existent in the City of Bexley for many years by many, many property owners. A good example of such infringements can be found on my own property where the hedges and fence had been on city property for many years, due to the unusually wide easement which Dawson Avenue has always had. The city, however, has never required removal of these infringements so long as these infringements were inadvertent and did not infringe upon public safety, etc.

My next step was to circulate a petition amongst all my neighbors which stated that in their opinion, my patio wall represented an increase in both the real and aesthetic value of our neighborhood and requested to the Bexley City Council that they find some equitable solution which would allow the patio to remain. Eleven of my neighbors felt strongly about this situation to appear with me physically at the City Council meeting during which the petition was presented to the council.

There were several solutions to the problem. The amount of land in question, which is approximately 10 foot long and 18 inches wide, could be vacated to me by the city, which in no way would impair the operation of the city since the widening of Dawson Avenue is out of the question. The city could sell me the property, or they could grant me a long term easement for a token fee of $1 a year.

After literally months of consideration, the Safety Comimttee of the Bexley City Council made the following proposition to me: "We will allow you to keep your wall on a year to year lease for a fee of $50 per year." This was in effect telling me, we don't want to tell you to tear your wall down, but we want to tear it down. We are, therefore, offering you a lease arrangement, the conditions of which are so unreasonable that should you ever want to sell your house, the conditions of this lease may well be the deciding factor in the mind of a prospective buyer.

This recommendation of $50 on a year to year lease was passed by the city council. However, when I explained to the council that the conditions of this lease could not be acceptable to me for the afore mentioned reasons, they reversed themselves in the next meeting and defeated the measure. (See editor's note). This was done because if the City Council had passed the ordinance, they would be in effect saying, "Sure, we agree with you." "There is no reason why your wall should have to be torn down." "The city doesn't need this property." If then we could not agree on a reasonable remuneration, it would put the city in an embarrassing position as they would still tell me to tear the wall down after, in effect, admitting that the land serves no useful purpose to the city.

Well, folks, the city has given me thirty days in which to tear down my patio wall. If at the end of that time. I have not torn it down, they say they will come and tear it down. Its beauty certainly enhances the neighborhood, but the pile of rubble which will be left by its demolition will be a blight on the neighborhood. Since I cannot financially afford to rebuild the wall at the present time, this ugly blight will have to remain there at least until after the next election.

If after reading my sad tale you agree with me, that even though I am legally 100 percent wrong, I am morally 100 percent right, please do me this favor. Write a letter to the Bexley City Council protesting this action and requesting a solution that is compatible and acceptable to all concerned.

Sincerely,
Barry Zacks
2412 Brentwood Road
Bexley, Ohio

(Editor's note: In regular council procedure, Bexley heard the measure read at three meetings before taking action. The measure was not approved, only heard, until the third reading when council defeated it by a 4-2 vote).

Columbus Israel Bond Drive soared to an all-time high in 1964, with a cash balance figure of $193,150, the city's most successful campaign, according to Samuel L. Oppenheimer, chairman.

Oppenheimer attributed the success to the confidence that the Jewish community has in the economic and industrial future of the State of Israel.

He expressed confidence that investments will continue to be made by various banks and foundations, and added that pension and welfare funds have indicated a "keen interest" in Israel Bonds.

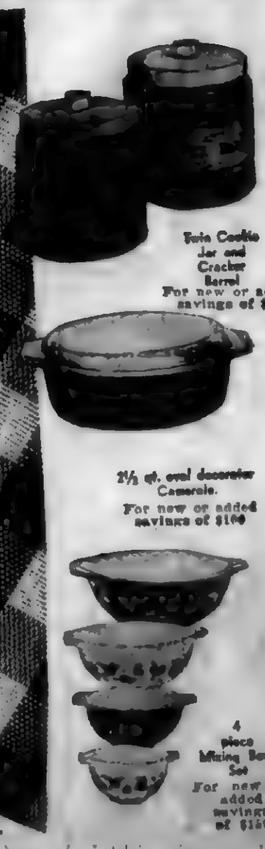
Temple Israel Plans Service

"Light from Dark Chapters" will be the title of the sermon by Dr. Jerome D. Folkman at the service for the Sabbath of Song (Shabbas Shirah) Friday, Jan. 15, 8 p.m., at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st.



The sermon will be based upon the Scriptural text, I Kings: 17-19, which will be presented musically by Ohio State University Symphonic Choir under the direction of Prof. Louis H. Diercks, accompanied by Dale Sparlin, organist, and Ronald Borror, trombonist.

This musical selection, "Look Toward the Sea," was composed by Alan Hovhaness, head of the School of Music, University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y. This performance of the cantata will be the first in Ohio.

The Saturday morning service will begin at 11. Rabbi Stephen A. Arnold will preach.

Public school youngsters consumed 2.8 billion lunches during 1962, an increase of 40 percent over 1957, according to a report on the National School Lunch Program by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: A while back, you mentioned how difficult a monkey can be to keep. We would like to tell you about our squirrel monkey, Poo Poo. We have had her 12 years. She is the only one of three that has lived over three years.

She sleeps every night in a doggie bed about four feet off the floor, covered up. I bathe her (barehanded) in the morning before her breakfast of fruit juice, toast dipped in soft-boiled egg yolk, some beacon and also oatmeal.

After the fourth year, she quieted down and was easier to handle. In the last four years she has helped us raise two pups and it is cute to watch our little monkey push those big dogs around.

She has traveled across the country with us several times. As you say, they need lots of attention. We would never give her up, but I don't know if we would ever get another. —F.L.

COMMENT: Probably the first four years are the hardest. By that time, either the monkey is half-trained—or you are.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our Siamese, Twin, has ear mites. She gets them all the time. There are no other cats around we know. Sport, our Springer, never is bothered by them. Don't dogs get mites and why does Twin have so much trouble with them do you suppose? —E.R.

DEAR E. R.: Cats are more susceptible to ear mite infestation than dogs. These mites lurk in the hair around the ears, or may even spread out further. Treating the ears alone may allow another in surrounding territory to cause new trouble. The mites often block the ear canal completely with wax and debris.

In this case, home treatment is seldom effective because medication cannot get by this barrier. Probably the veterinarian should check Sport, too, as he may be harboring a few mites that don't bother him. If so, he could unwittingly be carrying new crops of mites to Twin.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This dog, Jamie, is driving herself, and all of us, wild. She is digging and scratching herself until we are exhausted watching her. She has always been high-strung, but never had anything really wrong with her before we moved into this apartment in town.

The doctors have tested her for allergies and worms and everything. She has never had any fleas and her skin is always clean. She only stops when the doctor gave her cortisone tablets. As soon as she doesn't [illegible] them, she starts all over.

The doctor has suggested moving back to the country and we are just about ready to. Can you suggest anything simpler? —T.W.

DEAR T.W.: An animal's physical and emotional health are intertwined. Physical disturbances will cause emotional upset, though more frequently the emotional upheaval comes first. The more intelligent the species, the greater the percentage of its physical consequences. Skin conditions are very common in dogs. They are especially prevalent and hard to treat—in nervous dogs.

Very probably, Jamie's itch was triggered by her inability to adjust to city life; if so, the move back should be an excellent remedy.

In lieu of this, an adjustment with the aid of long-term tranquilization plus gradually increasing physical activity of various forms, may be the answer. Changing her attitude by making life more enjoyable should help her ditch the itch.

Promotion Announced

The promotion of Frederick C. Tingley of Columbus to Midwest Director of Ambassador's of Friendship, Inc., has been announced by the association's president, Frank Dunbaugh. Tingley, who has previously served as Ohio Director, will direct the work of the association with Junior and Senior High Schools throughout the Midwest.

In his first campaign, Tingley will personally contact all Junior and Senior High Schools in Ohio and Indiana.

Fluoridation Is Topic

"Fluoridation: What Are the Facts?" will be the topic question on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, Jan. 17, 4 to 5 p.m. on WBNS-TV.

A tape of the program will be rebroadcast over WBNS Radio at 9:10 p.m. the same evening.

'65 Dog License Deadline Jan. 20

The deadline for purchase of a 1965 dog license is Jan. 20.

Ohio law stipulates that anyone "who owns, keeps or harbors a dog more than three months of age" must have application for registration filed by that date. A $1 penalty will be assessed after that date.

Applications for licenses are being taken at the Humane Society's Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport-pk, or may be purchased at the County Auditor's office in the Courthouse.

Applications by mail (County Auditor) must include dog description (age, sex, bred, color, long or short hair), a self-addressed, stamped return envelope plus a fee of $2 for male, spayed female or female or $10 for a kennel license.

FARM FORECAST

Several farm-bloc lawmakers have indicated they feel President Johnson's State Of The Union Message points to less government aid in the future for commercial farmers. But, in the same breath, they expressed convictions that the true meaning cannot be expected before his tentative Farm Message to Congress in February.

New legislation on wheat, feed grains and cotton is anticipated as the current price support programs on all these commodities are due to expire with the 1965 crop seasons.

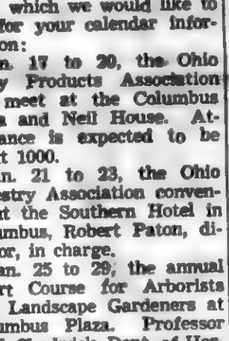
John Schnittker, USDA Director of Economics, said the feed grain and wheat programs are now costing two-and-one-half billion dollars a year, and must be reduced.

January and February are big months for some important meetings and conventions which we would like to list for your calendar information:

Jan. 17 to 20, the Ohio Dairy Products Association will meet at the Columbus Plaza and Neil House. Attendance is expected to be about 1000.

Jan. 21 to 23, the Ohio Forestry Association convenes at the Southern Hotel in Columbus, Robert Paton, director, in charge.

Jan. 25 to 29, the annual Short Course for Arborists and Landscape Gardeners at Columbus Plaza. Professor L. C. Chadwick, Dept. of Horticulture, OSU, presiding.



Jan. 27 to 29, the Ohio Nurserymen's Association at the Columbus Plaza, Prof. Ken Reisch, OSU, in charge.

Jan. 27 to 29, the Ohio Seed Growers School, to be held at the Ohio Exposition Grounds. Contact Roy Becker at 1001 W. Lane-av for information.

See Clay Eager's Farm Forecast TV program, 6:30-7 a.m. weekdays on TV-4.

Ask 3 dryer owners which kind lasts longer.

2 will say electric.

Electric sets pace as 1,011 women tell why and how they pick and choose dryers

Over 1,000 homemakers in The Electric Company service area recently took part in an independent study of why and what they preferred about certain appliances.

Naturally, automatic clothes dryers were included and compared.

This big cross-section of "experts" left no question about the overwhelming preference in this area for flameless electric dryers.

Area homemakers offer you buying hints for dryers

In fact, if you've never owned an automatic clothes dryer, here's a buying hint for you: 8 out of 10 local women who begin enjoying all the time-and-work-saving convenience of automatic clothes drying start with a flameless electric dryer.

One of the reasons more women prefer electric dryers is their longer life — a built-in feature of electric! Because an electric clothes dryer has fewer moving parts to wear out, it lasts longer, gives you more use over the years — and stretches your investment farther!

And with electric, your investment is lowest from the start!

Flameless electric dryers preferred 9 to 1 for low initial cost!

It's a fact: electric clothes dryers cost less to buy. And most women like that, too!

Nine times out of 10, women surveyed mentioned this money-saving advantage of flameless electric dryers. (There was very little doubt — even among owners of all types of dryers — that electric dryers, feature for feature, cost less to buy).

Prove it to yourself. Visit your favorite appliance dealer and compare dryers. You'll find electric dryers do cost less to buy.

Significantly so.

Women prefer more features of flameless electric dryers

While you're looking, there are some things you won't see — and these unseen features are more of what makes electric dryers most preferred by homemakers in the Columbus and Southern Ohio area.

You see, far more than the low price of an electric dryer appeals to women.

Once you get it home, you continue to save with electric.

Here's why:

There's only one connection to make. Electricity runs the dryer and dries the clothes. Pure radiant electric heat gently dries everything from your daintiest lingerie to Dad's work clothes; and because flameless electric heat is so clean, it protects clothes as it dries them fluffier, brighter and fresher.

You save time and steps because you can put your electric dryer wherever it's most convenient for you — upstairs, downstairs, in the kitchen, even in the garage. Put it any place you can run a wire!

It's easy to see why, in homes that have automatic dryers, you find 7 out of 10 dryers are flameless electric!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday, you will want a new automatic dryer for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

Before you buy, shop around. Compare closely. Check the prices. Then remember that the important advantages of flameless electric dryers don't show up until you get one home.

Those are the benefits that count.

And they're the ones preferred by more homemakers like yourself.

You'll prefer a flameless electric dryer, too.

Even more when you get it home.

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

It's hard to realize, but hunting is just about over until next autumn for most Buckeye country marksmen. Cottontail rabbit season closes Jan. 30, leaving just 14 more days, including three precious Saturdays to go after the furry speedsters. A few rugged gunners will continue to tromp the hill counties for ruffed grouse until that season ends Feb. 27, while the ardent 'coon and 'possum fans will chase their favorites until Feb. 15. But for the vast majority of us, the coming of February will mean a final oiling and polishing of the scattergun before returning it to the rack 'til next September.

Ken McCreary

Generally speaking the hunting seasons just passing don't rate prolonged memories of outstanding success. About the only real bright spots were the seasons for squirrels and rabbits — the rest generally rated from only fair to downright grim. As we've mentioned before, weather conditions get the bulk of the blame. Pheasant gunning was 'way down over most of the state due to (the experts say) several years of cold, wet winters and dry, hot summers. The two-day deer season in early December was rainy, foggy and/or snowless in most areas. Both parts of the split waterfowl season were great for bluebirds, but miserable for ducks — the warm temperatures, even in the five-day season at year's end, spelled pure frustration for most waterfowl gunners.

Some sportsmen won't buy the weather as the cause of bad hunting, and variously blast the wildlife people, the onslaught of civilization into rural areas and even the effects of pesticides. Take your choice—and don't forget that old baseball philosophy . . . "Just wait 'til next year!"

Duck hunters won't have to wait until then to get their gripes off their chests; the League of Ohio Sportsmen is sponsoring its second waterfowl conference this Saturday at the Neil House in downtown Columbus. Both federal and state experts will explore the complicated problem of how and when to set waterfowl seasons, and will give the hunters a chance to sound off on how they feel and what they want. Because of the lack of success this past season, plus some well-deserved publicity, you can bet your bottom peso that this symposium will be both vocally colorful and well-attended.

Elsewhere on the outdoors scene this past week, a very heartening development — the announcement of a six-year, 100-million dollar "master plan" to update, streamline and develop recreational, park and conservation facilities across the state. The money involved in the Department of Natural Resources plan has already made headlines, the bulk of it coming from bond issues (one confirmed and one to be voted on), plus several million of federal matching funds which we noted here last week. The projects will include many new fishing, hunting, camping, boating and hiking facilities, plus many new cabins, and such plush pluses as vacation lodges.

To me, the true significance of the master plan is that this is the first time that long-range planning has been completely coordinated to take full advantage of "multiple use" projects which are vital. Let's just hope the legislators won't "pork-barrel" the plan to death when various appropriation measures go to the legislature.

Speaking of things to come, our spies report that July is the target set for the unveiling of a new ammunition which will revolutionize shooting. Developed by a noted rocket genius, it's a new "case-less" cartridge — when it's fired, everything but the slug burns, leaving no residue and no expended case. The firm which has the closed - guarded world-shaker in hand will remain nameless, but is primarily famous tfor air guns and fishing gear. Care to make a flowery guess?

One final note—remember a few columns back when we reported that a Columbus hunter, Howard Specht, spotted what he firmly believed were mountain lion or wildcat tracks while deer hunting in Southeastern Ohio. Well, Howard passed along the pictures he took — we showed them to a "tracking' specialist of the state wildlife division and came up with — disappointment. They're firmly identified as a big dog, probably one of these monster-sized coonhounds. Well, that's life, Howard!

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

'Goal Line' . . .

The strangest sidelight to this country's march toward prosperity is that it seems just about everybody has to have a little extra going for himself on the side.

Two examples which come immediately to mind are Jerry Lucas, who has exceptional abilities on the basketball court and the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., which asserts it can do just about everything else with its Scotch Tape.

ALTHOUGH THE abilities of these merchants to satisfy the consumer are at odds, they do have one thing in [illegible]. They both are peddling parlor games for kids and adults these days.

Sports editors, never known for daily trips to City National, usually find it necessary to have something extra going for them also.

We've developed a game which we intend to put on the market in the spring. It's called "Goal Line" and it's unique, basically because it's cleverly stolen the best aspects of several well-established games.

"GOAL LINE" comes complete with one board and a set of 45 pieces and 25 cards.

Here's a rundown of the pieces and their abilities:

Head Coach (one) — can move only forward and backward on sideline column of board marked 'wins and losses'. (This piece is generally vulnerable and falls off the board if it advances too far backward).

250-lb. Tackles (four — cannot move, used to block all other pieces on board.

Breakaway Halfback (four) — may move in only one direction (toward the Goal Line).

Alumni (one) — most valuable piece because it always jumps up and down.

..Athletic Director (one) — always flanked by Alumni piece, seldom moves without it.

Press (one) — must move behind all other pieces at all times. (Often last piece left on board since most other pieces refuse to jump it.)

B Deck (behind posts) Fans (24 pieces) — these pieces would like to move anywhere but seldom are given the opportunity.

Scalpers (six) — can be jumped and taken only when surrounded on all sides by B Deck Fan pieces.

English Professor (two)—cumbersome, bulky pieces often difficult to move at all.

University President — most agile piece on board since it can go sideways, forward and backward and is always moving. (Falls only when jumped collectively by Alumni and Press pieces).

The 25 cards involved include such as:

"Shake dice to determine odds on throwing pass on next play," "Do not pass Goal Line, do not collect grant-in-aid," "The home team just lost the conference title to its hated rival. Knock the 'Coach' off the board."

THREE OTHER cards include: "Your quarterback just flunked his English 405 final. Let 'Coach' jump 'English professor'," "The University needs a new science lab, cough up a buck more for that bleacher seat," and "You are poor but you run the 100 in :4.2, kick 55-yd. field goals and throw 60-yd. passes. Take a ride on the Alumni Gravy Train."

The figures used in the game are simple except for the head coach piece which can be dressed and undressed.

Everyone starts out with $50,000 and three student activity passes in C-deck.

WE DON'T have space to explain all the rules but the game is over when the Alumni piece tears down the goal posts. This happens about once every four years of playing time.

We must caution you, however, that the game has a patent pending and anyone found guilty of lifting its ingenious format will be assigned seats in B Deck (behind the posts) for the next ten years.

Should Debate City Tax Now

The agenda for the Jan. 6 meeting of the Franklin County Mayors' Council called for discussion of the effect of existing city income tax laws on suburban communities. Except for brief general remarks by Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford, the subject never got off the ground.

Apparently the income tax item, added to an already tight agenda at Twyford's request, lost its chance of a full hearing for lack of time. But the apparent decision of Mayors' Council officers to postpone the issue beyond the group's March meeting may present another "time" problem.

The mayors may decide in April, or later, that they desire a change in existing laws governing the collection of municipal income taxes. And they may discover there is not sufficient time to present the problem to state legislators before the 106th General Assembly adjourns.

While neither advocating nor opposing Mayor Twyford's views on the city income tax, we believe the Mayors' Council owes him the courtesy of either telling him they are not interested, or of hearing him out at the earliest practical time.

It's Kiwanis' Golden Year

Kiwanis International celebrates its Golden Anniversary year during 1965, starting with a number of special events on Jan. 21 marking the 1915 founding date.

Operating under the motto "We Build", Kiwanians render voluntary service to youth, community and nation. There are 5,400 clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Western Europe and the Bahamas with a total membership of 265,000.

Membership comes from the business and professional ranks, and the achievements of Kiwanis International would fill many volumes. Activities have ranged from projects in the fields of agriculture and conservation, work with boys and girls and formation of high school and college clubs for boys, to activity in public and business affairs, vocational guidance and international relations.

Growth of Kiwanis in our area has been so rapid in recent years that the 10th Division (Central Ohio) was split into two divisions. Such growth in clubs and membership can be achieved only by high quality of services rendered to the community. And since the reorganization, each division has ranked at or near the top in statewide activity ratings.

To the 1,846 members of the 29 Kiwanis groups in Central Ohio we extend our congratulations on an important milestone in Kiwanis International progress. But more important, we say a big thanks for what this progress has meant in making our community a better place in which to live.

Guest Pulpit . . .

"You shall not make yourself a graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth." (Exodus 20:4).

If the average man were asked what part of God's Law he breaks least, he might answer "the part about making graven images." He probably breaks it most often. Though he may not make "graven images" literally, he is prone to worship what he conceives with his own mind or makes with his own hands.

Pastor Rismiller

The great question every man faces is, "Shall he worship the God who made him or the gods he makes?" A man's god is that to which he gives supreme devotion, chief of which is to worship what he sees in his own mirror — self. The question directed to men is, "Shall they be God's, or gods?"

The former brings salvation and life as a child of God, the latter disaster. In the light of this the GOSPEL is a dramatic Word that in Christ God has told us what He knows about the disaster facing life and has done something about it. He sent His Son, Jesus Christ.

Christ did not bring condemnation to the world, He disclosed what already existed. He became the line of battle against which the forces of evil charged. His victory is the victory of every heart which believes, turns from graven images and self to trusting his life to His keeping.

Pastor Arthur Rismiller,
Staff, Lutheran Welfare League

Right Answer Not True!

What is it that makes a citizen qualified to file as a candidate for nomination in the Primary elections?

Is it the amount of past service he has rendered to a political organization? Or is it the quality of service he is capable of rendering as an elected public official?

And wouldn't it be nice if the "right" answer were also the true answer?

'THE GRIST'
Ground Out by Dusty Miller

AFTER MANY YEARS . . . Margaret Skinner Primrose of Hilltonia-av sent me a years'-yellowed clipping from a "Grist" of a half century ago. The tale was about her father, "Jimmy" Skinner, railroad passenger train conductor on the C&MV, from Zanesville, via Lancaster, Circleville, Washington C. H. and Wilmington, to Cincinnati.

School time, supper time and "sun" time on the farmers' clocks were tuned to the moanin'-low whistles of the Brooks-built, tinker-toy engine that towed the three-car Gay-Nineties' model train the 160 miles, daily except Sunday.

Dusty

"Brother" Skinner remembered the Sabbath Day to keep it holy. He taught the world-famous (and its largest) Men's Bible Class in the Lancaster Methodist Church. At times its attendance ran into the thousands.

Gentlemanly "Jimmy" Skinner welcomed platformsful of people aboard, boosting their ego by calling them by name.

Mrs. Primrose remembers her father laughing about my story of a disconsolate attorney complaining that he had no clients. "Well, no wonder," exclaimed a friend. "Your sign reads 'A. Skinner.' Who'd patronize a lawyer with a name like that? Why don't you use your first name?" The lawyer sighed: "That'd only make it worse —my first name is 'Adam.'"

In church one day a Hand touched his, and a still, small Voice said: "I've always gone with thee, now thou shalt go with Me." After the manner of trainmen, they glanced at the board. "Clear block," said the Voice. "Clear block," repeated "Jimmy" Skinner.

The daughter has happy recollections of riding with her father on the red-plush seats in the tidy, tiny train. So do I.

She wonders if any tale ever became twice-told after 50 years. So do I.

DICTATORS

The story of the world's dictators is an interesting one even though the pattern of their rise and fall is so regular that it's almost monotonous.

Mankind's chief political scoundrels have all ridden high for a time. Then came a day of reckoning. You'd think they would learn that people will be pushed only so far, then they do some pushing of their own.

Among the early tyrants was Alexander of Macedon, commonly called the Great. After conniving to have his own father sworded down, he waded a bloody path to the throne. After destroying Grecian Thebes he took his spearmen into Asia all the way to India. He intended to put Europe under his heel, too, but in Babylon one of his queens laced his wine with poison. And that was the end of Alexander.

Julius Caeser led his legions as far as Anglia, Gallia, and Germania, then back to Rome. But all that didn't keep friend (?) Brutus from introducing a cold piece of steel between a couple of Caesar's ribs. Then someone had a job mopping up his blood from the flood of the Senate.

Napoleon spent his last years eating out his lonely heart on Elba.

Kaiser Wilhelm got out while the getting was still good and died an exile in Holland.

Corporal Hitler got trapped in a Berlin bunker and didn't live to tell the tale.

"That blackhearted blaggard," Benito Mussolini was gunned down by his own countrymen and was strung up by his heels.

You'd think dictators should be out of style. But there are a few left here and there. One of the more obnoxious ones is in Russia. There's another in China. A few more minor ones are scattered about in places such as Portugal, Spain, Yugoslavia, East Germany, and Cuba. Will they ever learn?

It says here . . . . . .

A dictator is a weed in the garden of democracy.

STRICTLY FRESH

It is said that some adolescents are persons who when not treated like adults, act like infants.

Progress is the continuing effort to make things we eat, drink and wear as good as they used to be.

Some girls not only keep the figures they had in school, they double them.

If debtors' memories were as good as creditors', there would be little need for collection agencies.

It is said a man may be green and recover, but there is very little hope for one who is yellow.

Most girls' ambitions are to make some man a good husband.

Nothing can change some men's minds quicker than spading up a fishing worm while digging in the garden.

Even if one can patch a reputation, it will still show.

Frosting on the Cake
BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Like millions of other loyal and patriotic citizens of this marvelous country, I have a profound respect for the office of President. It is the most powerful, and at the same time, the most burdensome office in this world.

Monday evening, Jan. 4, President Johnson had the greatest single exposure to more people than ever before accorded to a great personality. As I listened most carefully to his State Of The Union message, my entire thought process was completely dominated by his performance. It was the very essence of dignity and good humor, good manners, and partly-good sense.

He recognized that time and distance mean nothing anymore in a world that has become the largest neighborhood of human beings ever. He announced desire to visit Europe and South America and extend a sincere and courteous invitation for other heads of state to do likewise, is in keeping with these times. Adequate and utterly honest communication of universal scope is still a worthy hope but far from being a reality.

Ignorance, primitive jungle social orders still abound in too many places. However, the literate world is now advanced to the point in communications that henceforth all problems CAN BE submitted to more light and less heat and chicanery. Exploiters of hate and ignorance and cupidity of backward peoples is still the modus operandi of far too many gifted and educated charlatans all over the world.

There are three rays of hope on the world horizon. It takes much shorter time than ever before for enlightened peoples to learn the truth about foul balls anywhere in the world. Secondly, every literate nation now knows that man has progressed to a point and place where massive war madness is psychologically inhibited as never before. Thirdly, the world's productive capacity is now known to every alert mind.

So, with utter respect for the greatness of his office, and the tremendous impact of President Johnson's personality, let's take a look at the meaning of his Great Society. Last Monday evening, we looked at and listened to the most sublime, subtle, and seductive presentation of State Socialism ever witnessed by this old timer. It is still the Hopkins label on the same old bottle of everything for FREE.

Medicare will make a political football of the oldest and most revered sacred relations known to man, the sacrosanct privacy of physician and patient. The physchological hazards are screamingly obvious.

Promising to educate everybody, regardless of the native potential, or almost total lack thereof, is wishful thinking. President Johnson's gravest error is "being in too terrible a hurry".

Letters to the Editor on topics of public interest are always welcome. They should be written or typed legibly on one side of the paper only, and limited to 300 words. 'Catholics Double-Taxed'

To The Editor:

I just read Mr. Sprang's letter in The Spectator on why he is opposed to the Fair Bus Bill. I, too, am against double taxation, but most Catholic parents have just that.

The welfare and safety of any child to and from school, regardless of his religion, should be of concern to any citizen. I have always voted for public school levies, even though my children do not attend them. To do otherwise would be selfish.

I would like to see Mr. Sprang's tax bill if every Catholic child in Ohio were suddenly placed in the public school system.

Bravo! Hooray! Amen! It's time for filth to be replaced with clean entertainment.

Alarmed At Theater Fare

To The Editor:

As usual Jenkin Lloyd Jones' message ("Cesspool") was excellent. I look forward to reading his articles each week in your excellent publication.

I always wonder, when reading the marquees on our drive-in's, just how many young lives are damaged beyond repair as a result of being exposed to the filth, regularly presented?

Just this evening I observed "Young and Willing" advertised as one of the features — no doubt a substantial contribution toward the betterment of youth.

Nevertheless, criticism of this cancer by parents, clergymen and/or so-called civic leaders is as rare as is the decent, clean and respectable play.

Wouldn't it be refreshing to see a group of citizens assembled in front of these "electric-heated" filth arenas carrying posters which state "The Latest Filth Presented Here Nightly."

But then, that would be "extreme", wouldn't it??

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

World Stumbles Over Guessers, Hopers

Recently the Santa Fe Railway gave second graders at a Wilmette, Ill., school a tour of its Chicago yards. The students responded with thank-you notes. One young man wrote as follows:

"I like the Sata Fe Suppr Chef. I hope I spiled Chef and spiled right. I liked. No wait. I hope I spiled hope and suppr right too. Well anyway I liked evrey thing. good-bye. sincerely David."

Now, David is a very normal human being, or perhaps, the better word is average. There is a dictionary available even in second grade. A few minutes with the dictionary would have turned David's hopes to certainties. But he preferred to hope.

Jones

Most people prefer hopes to fact-finding. They bounce through life from blunder to boo-boo, always hoping they have guessed right.

You see them failing in business because they incompletely surveyed the market or didn't study cost-control or were simply sloppy merchandisers. You see them running from lender to lender, digging new holes to fill up old ones, unaware of the truism that if you spend your life using other people's money you will pay more and get less. You see them clustered around the roulette wheels in Monte Carlo and the crap tables of Las Vegas hoping that the odds against them will somehow vanish.

Some eminently successful men have simply stumbled over a lucky chance, an oil pool beneath a cotton farm, an inspired invention, a brilliant advertising slogan that catches fire.

But most of the people who do well against heavy competition are fact-finders.

John D. Rockefeller, in the early days of Standard Oil, stood watching an assembly line of kerosene cans.

"How many drops of solder do you use to seal the cap?" he asked a workman.

"Forty" was the reply.

"Try 38," said John D.

Thirty-eight drops were tried. A few of the cans leaked a little.

"Try 39."

The seals held, and Standard Oil, already making a million a year, made a few hundred dollars more.

When Standard Oil became an octopus, everybody cussed John D. for being a pirate. Well, he was a pirate, but in an age when a high degree of piracy was not only legal but customary.

He found that he could shave refinery costs by making his own barrels and that he could make cheaper barrels by owning his own stave forests. The lower his costs the more money he made and the faster he expanded his refinery. The more oil he used the greater rebates he could command from the railroads, which put his competitors at a disadvantage.

And, knowing that panics were periodic and inevitable, he amassed cash so that when business staggered he cut prices, ruined his rivals and bought them out for 10 cents on the dollar.

All this, naturally, caused much tongue-clucking. Ida Tarbell, whose father was wiped out by Standard Oil, was John D.'s most furious biographer. There was a lot of muck to rake. But what was generally overlooked by the moralists was that Mr. Rockefeller's ruthlessness couldn't explain his success. Many of his flattened competitors would have been as ruthless. John D. just had more facts. He was not a hoper.

The bane of the newspaper business is the reporter who goes forth to get a story, insufficiently armed with background. Top reporters are students who know how to use the clip files, the encyclopedia and even Who's Who.

One day, some 30 years ago, The Tulsa Tribune's city editor, finding no reporters available, rushed the oil editor over to the hotel to interview Rachmaninoff. After some minutes of rather vague and aimless questions the oil writer retreated toward the door, then paused as with an afterthought.

"By the way, Mr. Rachmaninoff," he said, "who will accompany you this evening?"

The chief authors of grief in this world are not the cussed or even the stupid, but the guessers and the hopers.

Politicians make absolutely zany promises in their quest for votes, often honestly hoping that by some miracle they may be able to deliver on their promises.

All over the world people are burning their fields in direct defiance of all laws of agronomy and conservation, hoping that this easy way of clearing land will not hurt next year's crop. Millions of unlettered natives plow, plant and harvest as unscientifically as their ancestors and spend much time at village dances. But they hope for automobiles, refrigerators, early retirement and big pensions. And when these are not forthcoming they riot in hope that revolution will bring the goodies.

Little David up in Wilmette has a lot of company. Almost nobody reaches for the book.

COFFEE BREAK

Bake Me Apple Pie Like Ma Defrosted

By ADELINE DALEY

As the mother of six daughters; I really should furnish them with at least one "secret family recipe" which can be handed down from generation to generation.

But is it my fault that my kids happen to prefer packaged cakes and also canned soups, pre-cooked spaghetti sauces and frozen TV dinners? How am I going to originate anything when Campbell's and Swanson's and Betty Crocker have already covered all the bases?

Much as I regret it, I know that my son will be obliged to ask his future wife, "Why don't you bake an apple pie like Mom used to defrost?"

It isn't that I haven't tried to become famous for a particular delicacy. Take dill pickles. I'd be very happy if you would, because nobody else will.

There has been no mad rush, either, by friends wanting to know my "secret" formula for "my very own homemade bread." Except for my brother who asked for a couple of loaves because he was running out of bricks for his patio.

The biggest obstacle in making bread, in my opinion, is what to do when you are kneading the dough and the telephone rings or someone is at the door or a child needs his nose blown. Besides losing half of the dough on a hand towel, I found smidgens of dough on the phone, door knobs and kids for days afterwards.

But as much as I admire women who are famous for their own specialties, I don't think that using canned and frozen food is always the easy way out. Let me tell you that not too long ago I dropped a package of frozen lima beans on my left foot and I limped for a week.

And think of the strength needed in working with a dull can opener, particularly on cans which have lids as thick as man-hole covers?

It is no simple task, either, trying to determine how long it will take a certain frozen preparation to defrost. It's comparable to trying to guess when the ice of Lake Superior will break for the spring thaw. Sometimes it takes minutes, others hours, even days —if you happen not to like you turkey lukewarm.

Eventually, I know that I will concoct a recipe for which I will become famous. And Heaven forbid, one for which I will be lauded, not blamed. Why, just the other night, my husband, who unlike the kids, happens to prefer the food I cook, remarked, "This chili is absolutely delicious! I bet you could make a fortune if it were frozen and sold in super-markets from coast to coast."

I didn't have the heart to tell him that it would cost us a fortune first.

The greatest seasonal snowfall on record, more than 83 feet, acumulated at Paradise Ranger Station, Mt. Rainier National Park, Washington, which also has the highest average annual snowfall, 575 inches.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

New Foods And Processes . . . In Brief

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—Rome and Winesap apples, bananas, grapefruit, oranges.

Vegetables—carrots, cabbage, lettuce, rutabagas.

Meat, Poultry—broiler-fryers, beef "specials," sausage rolls, bacon, picnics, large eggs.

Other—dried prunes, cottage cheese, ice cream.

It's always a pleasure to tell you about new convenience products. There are many on the way to market for 1965 . . . In fact, this may be a record breaking year for them. Here are a few to watch for:

Mrs. Franks

• Instant Omelet Mixes will soon have national distribution. Four varieties will be available — ham, cheese, mushroom and western. No refrigeration is necessary. Each package serves three people and contains two envelopes, one of dehydrated eggs and the other a freeze-dried ingredient mix.

• Instant Applesauce is not on the market yet but promises to be of interest due to its light weight, good keeping qualities and small storage size. The product is made by grinding explosion puffed, dehydrated apple pieces. It is easily converted to applesauce by the addition of hot water.

• Cracker-Size Cheese Slices are reaching market in a number of states in nine-ounce packages. These packages containing 48 cracker-size slices of pasteurized process cheese will retail for about 39 cents.

• High-flavored Instant Berry Powders—strawberry raspberry, blackberry and boysenberry — have been developed by U.S.D.A. The powders dissolve instantly in cold water to make puree or liquid, and show excellent retention of fresh berry flavor and aroma, and offer substantial savings in shipping and storage costs.

• Four Frozen Dinners — with special appeal to youngsters 13 years of age or younger will soon be introduced nationally. All the dinners will contain Tater Tots, an entree, vegetable and apple brown Betty dessert.

• Boil in-the-Bag Frozen Vegetables—a new fancy frozen line includes broccoli spears, baby limas, cut corn, green beans. Another frozen item available now is Hush Uuppies made from an "old Southern recipe."

• Fried Apple Slices called Snapples, a snack of dried apples which have been deep-fried with cinnamon and sugar and packaged in foil bags, are being test marketed in California.

• Bacon will come in cans from at least three big packers. It is partially fried and needs no refrigeration. Aluminum packaged individual servings of pre-cooked bacon will soon be test marketed. It can be heated quickly in a toaster.

GIVE THEM A FAITH TO LIVE BY . . .

Our times may be unique — both in the fears we and our children must face, and the conflicting distractions around us. Is religious faith enough to cope with our troubled world? The answer is this: if you care, the same place where your faith is built can be made a rallying point for the kind of realistic human involvement that can produce a stirring change—for the better—in your community, in the world, in your heart. Show the way. Give them a Faith to live by. This week, go to worship—and put your Faith to work, all week long.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

By Terrence O'Flaherty

At the continued insistence of that middle-aged imp, Jack Paar, his recent guest, Judy Garland, delivered some surprisingly unprofessional remarks about Marlene Dietrich, who had just opened in London.

Neither one of these living legends needs the publicity of a feud, but if the lady Ernest Hemingway, nicknamed "The Kraut," so chooses, she could tear Little Miss Rainbow to shreds. Actually the one who needs the publicity is Paar, whose show is Number 82 this year.

Miss Garland's main criticisms were: "Miss Dietrich isn't one of our better singers" and "there's too much applause from her audience."

It seems curious that both of these aggravations apply to the speaker as well. Miss Garland's voice is deteriorating and is dangerously close to becoming a caricature of itself. Miss Dietrich never had one, but both performers are more successful in lighting up a song than any popular stars of our time.

I suspect Miss Garland's glass house is too vulnerable to attack for her to throw the first stone in any direction, including up. There are no people like show people — and sometimes I wish there weren't.

All Applause

Her comments on Miss Dietrich's entrance to a party clutching a huge record were quite another matter and very charming. "She had this big recording — far bigger than a 12-inch record — and she asked us if we wanted to hear it and we said sure. Do you know what it was? All applause! No singing, no music, just applause. Applause in Berlin, Paris, Moscow and everywhere.

"When it was over, Noel Coward said to me, 'My God, you don't suppose it has two sides, do you?' And my gosh it DID!"

The slowest covered wagon in the history of the West may reach the end of the trail at last if the rumors are true about the demise of "Wagon Train," a series that outlived one of its stars (Ward Bond) and once was the top-rated television show on the air.

When Bond was alive the feuds between his old-school acting and his co-star Robert Horton's "method" acting almost brought the show to an end equal to that of the Donner party. Any show that could survive that may be too tough to die.

Ups and Downs

"The Entertainers" has been having its ups and downs and there are rumors that it may be overhauled. It was originally going to be called "The Carol Burnett Show" but she preferred to share the title. Everyone knows it's her show anyway — even when she's off, which has been a lot recently due to her injury.

Regular Caterina Valente and Bob Newhart are relieved by guest stars, which helps, but one of the minus qualities on "The Entertainers" is Art Buchwald, a fine humorist on paper, but an embarrassing dead-weight in person who relies on the teleprompter to tell even the simplest of stories.

Gladys Cooper, the 75-year-old actress who plays the role of the mother in "The Rogues," was reminiscing for the press recently about the days when she was starring in London in her 20s:

"Performing was easier in those days. There was almost no competition. Movies and television hadn't been invented. Neither had radio. A star could have stood on the stage and read the telephone directory and the customers would have lined up at the box office just to listen. But these are better days and I enjoy keeping busy."

Around the World With STAN DELAPLANE

"I have some silver dollars and some Kennedy half dollars. Would these be an advantage in tipping in Europe?"

No. They're a curiosity. But coins don't exchange from one country to another generally. So if you don't unload before leaving a country, you've got souvenirs.

You mentioned recently that freighters do not serve dinner after six. However, on our French Line freighters, dinner is served up to 8 p.m."

I mean on American freighters I have been on. It's a matter of union time on and off.

"Is it possible to drive to La Paz in Lower California?"

I know people who've done it—but on most primitive roads. No accommodations. You have to be able to make roadside repairs yourself. However, there is a new car ferry from Mazatlan. Reported to be absolutely excellent.

• • •

"We are planning to stay in England for a while. And if our money runs out, we will work . . ."

Not likely. Your passport will be stamped by British immigration — "not permitted to enter any employment, paid or unpaid."

• • •

"We will be staying at Waikiki and wonder if we should plan on renting a car."

No. Take the sightseeing bus for trips around the island. You can walk everywhere in Waikiki. Or take a taxi. A car just makes a parking problem for you.

"We would like to send a present to an American couple in Rome. I understand there is some way we can send them to a good restaurant for dinner. Can you tell us and recommend the restaurant?"

This buy-the-dinner service is called "Be My Guest." Get it through any American Express Office. I'd say at this time of year, George's if you want it elegant and quiet. Or Hostaria dell 'Orso which is the "21" of Rome. (For summer, try Tre Scalini.)

Everybody gets whipped up about the wine and mushrooms and pasta in Rome. Not many people find a real sleeper — the ice cream. The best in Europe. Maybe the best in the whole world. And the best place for it is the ice cream place right alongside Tre Scalini in Piazza Navona. Maybe it's part of Tre Scalini, but it is a separate place.

Japanese Produce; But Who Will Buy?

By ROYCE BRIER

A Hong Kong report says the Red Chinese are annoyed with the new Japanese Premier Sato because he is too friendly with the West.

A Peking mission in Tokyo to buy industrial goods was told to suspend negotiations. But when the Japanese said they wouldn't negotiate later, the Chinese bought the $12 million in steel anyway.

The Japanese industrial machine, now third largest in world production, has plenty of market area, but naturally would like more. It would like to be the dominant supplier of mainland China and southeast Asia, and it has ample potential, taking into account production and distribution costs, to achieve the goal. But the goal is presently latent, a market exceedingly thin, and lacking in cash or exchange.

For consider the going-on 700 million Chinese, and one-seventh as many Japanese.

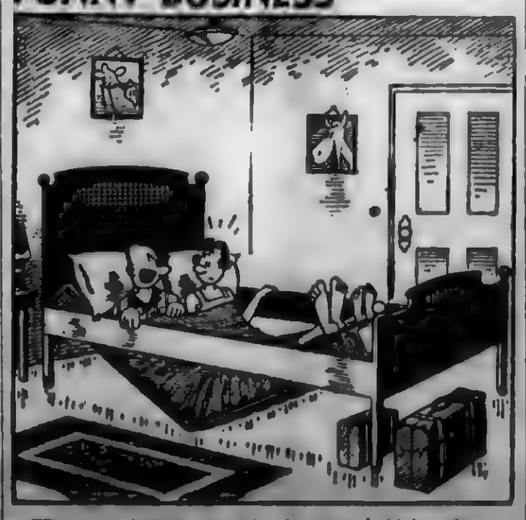
In Japan every farmer has a small television set, a tractor and at least a motorcycle, and the city proletariat is similarly equipped. All have transistors and cameras, and many have electricity and washing machines.

Automobile population grows rapidly, and new highways. Petrochemicals and electronic goods flood the country. There is heavy construction of buildings and in industry to meet expanding trade, foreign and domestic. There is initial research, betterment of products, and accretion of technical men in all work forces.

But the Chinese peasant, say 500 million, and the proletariat, say 150 million, have virtually none of this, for his income is $60-$100 a year. The artifacts in his house differ little from those 50 years ago. For communication he has a village or district radio, a political necessity.

So the Chinese peasant trudges his dirt roads and tills his soil about as he always did, not because his rulers want it, but because mass progress is difficult. Technical production of consumer goods is minimal and business and industrial consumption of heavy goods is minimal.

What [illegible] for production, goes for import. Why ship 10,000 small TV sets to Red China when there are only 50 buyers? Why ship a steel or chemical plant, when distribution facilities are negligible, and technicians to man the plant are lacking?



This is the Japanese dilemma in the so-called East Asia market, which looks so inviting because it comprises one billion people. Yet few of the billion can afford a fountain pen, let alone an automobile. Technology being irrepressible, this may work itself out, but hardly in the lifetime of ambitious Japanese traders looking for new worlds to conquer.

Post Office Seeks Lost TB Mail

The Columbus Post Office Department is investigating complaints that about 30 of some 212,000 Franklin County Christmas seal money envelopes never reached their intended destination.

Persons who have paid for their Christmas seals and who are still getting "reminders" should check first with the TB Society, file a "tracer" (Form 1510 at any postal branch), then notify their banks to stop payment, inspectors said. Postal tracers must know the point of mailing, time and date.

Officials said a few instances of tampering with the mail usually accompany heavy health campaign mailings. Rarely, they said, are any intercepted checks cashed — the pilferers are looking for cash. And if caught, they are subject to a "stretch in the pen."

He said:

"The Jewish Center is indeed fortunate in obtaining an Assistant Secretary of State of Lisle's caliber. Everyone in the community is invited to attend and take advantage of the unusual opportunity in learning from our highest government level the policies and a current review of the government in the conduct of its foreign affairs."

Lisle and his panel will discuss U.S. foreign affairs and the government official will brief the panel on critical problem areas throughout the world.

A Birthday Letter To Myself

Dear Friend Carlton: (Now that we know each other better, we use first names). This year on your birthday you stand, by all calculations, with at least three fourths of your life behind you and the number of years ahead are an unknown factor.

Life has brought you many blessings, an opportunity to do the work you enjoy and be associated with people you love. Material possessions have been sufficient and you have received the same number of hours each day as every other man receives.

You are fortunate to have had a healthy body and a mind that has been awake. Life has brought you children whose eyes light up when they call you the greatest title you have received, "Dad."

The springtime of your life was filled with blossoms of good education from teachers who are still remembered fondly, with a father who tossed you large sticks of gum from his passing train when you lived along the railroad down on the Ohio River, and a mother who is reverently remembered for everything she did for you even down to making your special homemade catsup.

Finding of a lifetime work that could bring a new challenge each day came early in life. Since that time you have been encouraged to do your best by those associated with you.

The summer years have been pleasant ones even though they were so often 12 hours long and followed by committee meetings. This period taught you much about people, some who would fulfill all your dreams and some who would disappoint. But each new morning brought a new and refreshing outlook.

If the period you have been going through could be classified as early autumn you have had the pleasure of its wonderful colors and the harvest, but the knowledge that there is still work to be done. This has been a time to evaluate and decide that quality is important in relationships and not just time spent along the way.

Today you have learned that there is more joy in accepting a bag of bird seed from your Wee One as a birthday gift than in reviewing a profit and loss statement . . . even the ones that showed profit.

It is wisdom to know that every day was meant to be lived to its fullest, that there was meant to be laughter and love and learning.

Today you find yourself in a season that might be termed Indian Summer . . . a plateau where you can look back at summer but forward too.

You are now at a place where you must realize that life is fleeting and takes on a new radiance. Each morning seems like a special gift from God and a good day's work is your way of saying, "Thank You."

Yes, a birthday is a good time to reflect!

Pay Hikes Looming In Whitehall

Reddy's Willing and Able

2000 RUNS LAST YEAR

Whitehall's Fire Department Image In Blaze Of Glory

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

We average Joes can try to get by without shaving for a Saturday and run around in our old painting clothes. We end up being as popular as a January heat wave at a ski resort.

There's no substitute for a good appearance — and that goes for fire departments, too. Just ask Irish Arthur Reddy who has made the Whitehall Fire Department image as bright and shiny as a fire-proofed Christmas tree.

It wasn't always that way for Chief Reddy. Like the day a decade-and-a-half ago when he decided he had just about had it delivering mail and starting a fire department in Whitehall seemed like a good outlet for him.

That was in 1951 when Whitehall was trying harder to make an old town to have a hot time in rather than thinking up ways to put out hot fires.

Today, the 59-year-old Chief talks proudly about his "image." About the fact that his staff includes 18 full-time firefighters, 30 volunteers and seven vehicles from emergency squads to aerial pumpers.

He smiles when he says documentarily that the Whitehall Fire Department can be at the scene of a fire anywhere in Whitehall and be pumping water in no more than 3½-minutes.

It's no small time operation either. Recapping 1964, the Chief says that his department answered 2000 calls — ranging from 324 fire runs to 1673 emergency runs.

There were 157 so-called "public service" runs last year, too. The Chief takes a great deal of pride in these.

They range from getting cats out of trees to unsticking a stuck thermostat — the type of calls which the Chief feels strongly about. He calls them an "obligation" which all fire departments dedicated to service, should handle.

Last year was a big one for the Chief and his men. But Whitehall's first and only Fire Chief doesn't mind. "I've always thought about retiring," he said. But I'm not going to think about it seriously for a long, long time."

That's good news for Whitehall residents. Almost as good as knowing that their Fire Chief doesn't smoke.

Will End 3 City Positions

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Whitehall law-makers took initial steps Tuesday night to re-construct city employe salary structures — including a $2,500 pay hike for the mayor.

All of Whitehall's seven councilmen introduced the ordinance for first reading. Referred to Councilman Marvin Levine's Finance Committee, the ordinance calls for:

- Boosting the pay of the mayor from $8,000 to $10,500.
- City Solicitor post to be made full-time job at $12,500 per pear, rather than the present $8,500. It also knocks out the job of assistant solicitor (a $3,600 position) and restricts the solicitor from outside legal activities.
- City Auditor's job would be made a full-time post at $10,000 and he would assume positions of deputy auditor and tax commissioner. Councilmen say the change will save the city some $6,000 annually.
- Treasurer's job will remain a part-time one but the salary will be hiked from $1,800 to $2,400, and
- Yearly fee for councilmen and council president would be fixed at their present $1,200.

Passage is expected in late February. If approved, the measure will go into effect January, 1966.

In other action, council:

DEFEATED a re-zoning ordinance from Your Host of East Columbus, Inc., for a change in the zoning on a Truro Estates Subdivision (Dimson-dr South) from residential to commercial. A handful of area residents appeared protesting the issue.

PASSED a resolution pushed by Service Committee Chairman Loren Mason creating a council committee on industry and commerce in efforts to "attract, entice, promote, foster and develop" new industry in the city.

REFERRED to safety committee a measure to purchase overhead traffic marker signs at the intersections of Main and Collingwood, Robinwood, Maplewood, Beechwood, Country Club and Yearling-rd at Doney, Seigman, Rickenbacker and Langley.

- RAISED the hourly rate of the city's plumbing inspector from $2 to $3 per hour.
- PASSED an ordinance prohibiting parking "over, on or across" sidewalks.
- AUTHORIZED payments totalling $1,613 to Whitehall firefighters Donald Marcum and A. Thomas Reddy, Jr., for errors made in their pay scale following promotions.

FUTURE LEADERS

Students See A Need For Jail, Indoor Pool

Whitehall's future community leaders took a close-up look at the city's government recently and their report showed that they are, for the most part, satisfied.

However, members of Whitehall High School's Distributive Education class did cite a few changes they'd make after running City Hall for a day Jan. 12.

The biggest change that most of the class agreed on was the possibility of building a jail for the city's police department. Craig Otto, who served as Chief of Police, said he saw a "definite need for a jail" and added that "a couple of new police cars would help, too."

Jim Hoffman, a member of Otto's "police department for a day" said something should be done to discourage juvenile delinquency and several of his classmates said increased recreational activities are the answer.

Most agreed that more equipment was needed in the Recreation Department and an indoor swimming pool topped the list.

It's not unusual for a Whitehall High group to run the city for a day — they do it every year. It was a little different this year, however, since it was the first time a single class handled the chore.

According to the group's instructor, William B. Ruth, the change was made to enable the students to fulfill a major part of their four-point program: civic consciousness.

Since distributive education students work in the community while attending classes, it is believed that a fuller understanding of community affairs is desirable.

The class is, right now, shooting to be named the top distributive education group in the state — a distinction held by a Cincinnati high school for some years now.

They need 379 points for the honor — they received 10 for taking over Whitehall's government.

But, as Ruth pointed out, the students got a close-up look at the entire community picture and a little insight into possible improvements — improvements, Ruth says, that they'll eventually help bring about.

Assault Fine May Be Upped

Whitehall Patrolman J. H. Ebright suffered a broken nose Sunday night investigating a domestic disturbance on N. Hamilton-rd and now city council is taking steps to discourage such incidents.

The law-makers gave initial reading Tuesday night to a measure which would hike the assault and battery fine "not to exceed" $300 or 60-days, instead of the present $50 maximum penalty.

Solicitor Paul Haytcher pressed the issue, claiming he'a heard some reports from residents who say it's "worth $50 to take a poke at a policeman."

HIATT IS RETURNING FOR ANOTHER TRY

Linn L. Hiatt, 47-year-old Whitehall Republican, filed Tuesday with the Board of Elections to become a candidate for that city's council.

Hiatt, 4204 Chandler-dr, served on council in 1962-63, filling the unexpired term of the late Orton L. Davis. He was defeated in his bid for re-election in November, 1963.

A former member of Whitehall's Recreation Board, Hiatt said he hopes to renew efforts toward completion of the Orton L. Davis Memorial Park on Kae-av, if elected.

Final Session Reveals 'One-Class' Problem At School For Action

EAST CHURCH .... rw

The Columbus section of the National Council of Jewish Women called on members of the middle class to strive for the breaking up of racial ghettos.

At the Jan. 18 (final) session of the NCJW School for Community Action on "The Immovable Middle Class," Mrs. J. Maynard Kaplan, a lecturer, predicted that "no real progress can be made in extending the lifelines of schooling and jobs to those entrapped in poverty while our cities and towns are divided into [illegible] communities."

The women's educational and service organization is a challenge to middle class liberals, starting with its own members, to review and abandon attitudes which are barring advancement by Negroes and other victims of inherited poverty.

Mrs. Kaplan warned that the limitations of one-class, one-color suburbs are damaging the sense of values and social balance of youngsters growing up in them.

"Many of us are shocked, from time to time, to see how ill-prepared our children are to meet unfamiliar people," she asserted. "The very old are a curiosity, the foreign born are strange and laughable, the types one takes for granted in the city — the artist, the drunk, the beggar, the beatnik — are overly frightening or fascinating to many boys and girls brought up in sheltered communities where everyone is all of a kind."

At small seminars following the lecture at the Jewish Center, the 150 women attending discussed their own responses to commonplace situations vitally affecting neighborhood segregation.

Leaders at the seminars emphasized the need "to make it easier for Negroes to be treated as equals when they go out to rent or buy a home in our neighborhoods." They also asserted that "if we want anti-bias laws to work, we have got to get out and help make them work, by setting up fair housing in our communities, rallying support and encouraging Negro families to move in."

Rabbi Jerome Folkman summed up the thoughts expressed during the three sessions and discussed the question of the relationship of the Jewish tradition to the "Immovable Middle Class."

Rabbi Asks: 'Should We Fear God'

Rabbi Stephen A. Arnold will deliver the sermon at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st Friday, Jan. 22, at 8 p.m.

He has chosen to discuss: "Should We Fear God?" explaining "frequently, modern people question whether 'fear' is a word or an emotion which ought to be in their religious vocabulary or experience. Phrases in the Prayer Book such as 'a God-fearing people' are perplexing to many and do not seem to be expressive of the current relationship between God and man."

Dr. Jerome D. Folkman will preach at the 11 a.m. Saturday service on "Are the Ten Commandments Still Valid?"

Parochial School Children To Get TB Skin Tests

Free TB skin tests will be offered to approximately 200 first, seventh and 11th graders this week in the East area during the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County's school tuberculin testing program in the Columbus and Franklin County Parochial Schools.

Total participation in the program is necessary for total protection against contagious TB.

All parents or guardians are urged to sign the request form which the child will bring home. Without this signed form, the child cannot be tested.

The testing schedule is as follows: Monday, Jan. 25, Holy Rosary, Seymour-av and E. Mound-st; Tuesday, Jan. 26, St. Catharine, 2865 Fair-av.

Roses must be protected, not only against low winter temperatures, but against fluctuating temperatures. Immediately after the first killing frost, while the soil can still be worked easily, pile soil eight to 10 inches high around the canes.
